GIBSON'S CONVEYANCING

N UP-TO-DATE WORK FOR STUDENTS AND PRACTITIONERS

THOROUGHLY REVISED,

The CONVEYANCING ACT, 1911, being fully dealt with.

By ALBERT GIBSON.

"Accurate, full, and not overburdened with detail, sums up the leading characteristics of this book we can well understand that it has earned the distinction of reaching its tenth edition. The authors—titor—have grasped the proper treatment of the conveyancing statutes to which they refer. Where the words of an enactment ought to be reproduced, the section or the material words are reprinted; where a mary is sufficient, the effect is accurately stated."—Law Quarterly Review, October, 1913.

"The new edition is characterised by the fullness, accuracy, and lucidity which have long rendered the most useful to practitioners as well as to students."—Law Journal, June 28, 1913.

PREFACE.

THE general scheme and arrangement of the book have not been altered.

No fresh jurisdiction has been conferred on the County Courts, with the exception of still further Emergency Legislation, chief of which is the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917.

The new County Court Rules of 1917 (dated March, 1917) have been incorporated in the existing Rules, which it is believed are now complete.

It should be noted that the County Courts have no longer jurisdiction under section 5 (2) of the Trading with the Enemy (Amendment) Act, 1914; also that section 2 of the Finance Act, 1912, is repealed as to these Courts (see Finance (No. 2) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V. c. 89, s. 18)).

The special subjects of "Costs," "Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation," and "Admiralty," are fully and carefully dealt with by the respective editors of these parts of the book.

Mr. W. H. Whitelock and Mr. Arthur L. Lowe, Registrars of the Birmingham County Court have again undertaken the chapter on Costs, Mr. H. H. Sanderson, of Hull, that on Admiralty and Merchant Shipping, and Mr. Gilbert Stone, barrister, of the Northern Circuit, has brought the whole of the important and difficult subject of Workmen's Compensation fully up to date.

Attention is called to the Workmen's Compensation (War Addition) Act, 1917 (p. 1459), by which the amount of compensation payable during total incapacity during the war is increased by twenty-five per cent.

A new and enlarged index has been made.

The Editor-in-Chief desires again to thank the subscribers, members of both branches of the profession, for kindly criticism and valuable suggestions made to him during the past year with the view of increasing the efficiency of the book.

THE PRACTICE

OF THE

COUNTY COURTS.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

THE COUNTY COURTS ACT, 1888.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43.

An Act to Consolidate and Amend the County Courts Acts.

(Aug. 13, 1888.)

Whereas it is desirable to consolidate and amend the County Courts Acts:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be cited as the County Courts Act, 1888. Short title.

The County Court, or sciremote, was instituted by Alfred the Great (Blackst. Comm. vol. iv. p. 411. For an account of the ancient county court, see also Reeves' History of English Law, vol. i. p. 7, and Bacon's Abridgement, tit. County Court, also Holdsworth's History of English Law, vol. i. pp. 38—42).

Its jurisdiction extended to both ecclesiastical and civil matters; the bishop and the earl or sheriff sitting in the same county court with equal jurisdiction, until the reign of William the Conqueror, when its ecclesiastical jurisdiction was taken away.

The county court was held once in every four weeks, and was presided over by the earl, or in his absence by the sheriff; the suitors, that is, the freemen or landholders, were the judges, and the sheriff sat only in a ministerial character, to pronounce the judgment of the suitors, and execute it (Jones v. Jones, (1839) 5 M. & W. 523). It continued the principal court for the civil business of the kingdom until in the reign of Henry II. justices of assize were appointed to visit annually the different counties, whereby the trial of issues was brought within each county, and the people were ensured the trial of their rights by the judges to whom were entrusted the highest questions of law.

Section 1 Notes.

From that time the county court, so far as its judicial functions were concerned, gradually fell into disuse.

The old county court was not a court of record; the process was by summons, attachment and distress. Pleas were held by plaint in debt, detinue or other personal actions (not being for injuries done vi et armis) under the value of 40*s*. By a writ of justicies, which was in the nature of a commission to the sheriff, but which did not alter the nature of the proceedings, he, together with the suitors of the court, might hold plea of certain real and personal actions, although for claims above 40*s*., or for injuries done vi et armis. The court had also jurisdiction in cases of replevin to any amount (2 Inst. 139, 312; Gilbert, Distr. 85); this action might be commenced either by writ, which was in the nature of a writ of justicies, or by plaint. A plaint in the county court might in all cases be moved into the Court of Queen's Bench by a writ of recordari facias loquelam. If the action was commenced by justicies, or where replevin was commenced by writ, the proper writ by which to remove it was a pone.

The proceedings in the county court being found expensive and dilatory, courts of request, in which parties might be examined and judgment awarded in a summary manner, were established. The first was created in the city of London by the 3 Jac. I. c. 15. From that period Parliament was from time to time applied to for Acts to establish local courts. In the year 1841 the local courts numbered 106, the jurisdiction of which varied from 40*s*. to 15*l*.

Statutes.

From 1842 to 1846 a measure for the establishment of local courts throughout the kingdom was considered from time to time by Parliament, and in 1845 the 8 & 9 Vict. c. 127, was passed. By sect. 9 of this Act the Queen in Council was enabled to extend the jurisdiction of certain courts of request and other courts to demands ex contractu not exceeding 20*l*., and to regulate their districts. Difficulties having arisen in dealing with the numerous petitions presented under this Act, the County Courts Act, 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, was passed in 1846; and by Orders in Council on March 9th, 1847, county courts were established throughout the kingdom, except in the city of London. (Under the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), sects. 185 and 186 a county court may be now said to exist for the city of London.) Provision for the surrender of manorial and other courts is made by the present Act (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 6.)

The statute 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, was amended by numerous Acts, by one of which, the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, the expense of maintaining the county courts, which was before borne wholly by the suitors, was, with the exception of the salaries of the ministerial officers, to be defrayed by an annual vote. The whole of the provisions of these Acts are consolidated by the Act of 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), and the jurisdiction has been extended by 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, which came into operation on January 1st, 1905, and is to be construed as one Act with the Act of 1888 (3 Edw. VII. c. 42, ss. 2, 8). By various other Acts, jurisdiction has been given to the county courts.

Courts are courts of record.

County courts are courts of record (see sect. 5). All summonses and other process must be under seal of the court (see sect. 180). The seal is judicially noticed (Taylor on Evidence, sect. 6), and all documents purporting to be sealed are admissible in evidence in England without further proof (see sect. 180).

The expression "county court" when used in an Act of Parliament, or Order in Council, means as respects England and Wales a court under the County Courts Act, 1888. See Interpretation Act, 1869 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 6).

Commencement of Act.

2. This Act, save as in this Act otherwise expressly provided, shall come into operation on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, which day is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

PART I.

COURTS.

3. This Act shall be in force throughout all those parts of England in which county courts have been established; and, subject to alterations made in pursuance of this Act, the county court districts existing at the commencement of this Act shall continue, and the county courts for such districts shall continue to be held at the places fixed at the commencement of this Act.

Districts.]—By 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 2, power was given to the Queen, with the advice of her Privy Council, from time to time to order that the Act should be put in force in such counties as to her Majesty might seem fit; and also to divide the whole or part of any county, etc., into districts, and to order that the county court should be holden in each of such districts.

By Orders in Council of March 9th, 1847, the whole of England, with the exception of the city of London, was divided into 491 districts, and by subsequent orders various alterations were from time to time made, and additional courts established.

In the original division of the country the districts of the superintendent registrars of births, etc., were taken as the basis upon which to form the districts of the courts. In many cases, however, two or more registrars' districts were comprised in the district of one court, and in others a registrar's district was divided between two or more courts. The districts are described in the Order in Council by the name of the registrar's district, and this description, though convenient for some purposes, gave no information to those who were not acquainted with such districts and the parishes comprised therein. For the convenience of any person resident in one part of the kingdom desirous of suing another resident in some other part, an alphabetical index showing the name of every parish, township or place in the kingdom, and the court in the district of which it is situate, has been supplied by the Treasury to the different courts. The index is published by the Stationery Office, and can be obtained through any bookseller. Moreover every information as to the parishes and places comprised within the several districts can be obtained at the registrar's office.

The distribution of districts as they existed at the date of the commencement of the County Courts Act, 1888 (January 1st, 1889), is expressly confirmed by this section, and courts are directed to be held at the places fixed for them at such date.

4. It shall be lawful for her Majesty by Order in Council from time to time to alter the number and boundaries of the districts and the place of holding any court, and to order the discontinuance of the holding of any court, and the consolidation of any two or more districts, and the division of any district, and to order by what name and in what towns and places a court shall be held in such district.

Power to alter districts. 9 & 10 Vict c. 95, s. 2.

Any such order of her Majesty in Council may declare that a part of any county, liberty, city, borough, or district shall be within the jurisdiction of the court held under this Act for any adjoining county or district in like manner as if such part were a part of such adjoining county or district.

Section 4 Note.

Any Order in Council made for the purposes of the Act must be published in the London Gazette (see sect. 174).

Courts to have all jurisdiction of county courts, and to be courts of record. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 3.

5. Every court held under this Act shall have all the jurisdiction and powers at any time prior to the coming into operation of the County Courts Act, 1846, belonging to any court for the recovery of debts and demands as altered by this Act throughout the whole district for which it is held, and there shall be a judge for each district under this Act, and the court may be held simultaneously in all or any of such districts ; and every court held under this Act shall be a court of record.

By sect. 13 the Lord Chancellor has power to re-distribute the districts among the judges.

Lords of manors, &c., may surrender courts. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 14.

6. It shall be lawful for the lord of any hundred, or of any honor, manor, or liberty having any court in right thereof in which debts or demands may be recovered, to surrender to her Majesty the right of holding such court for any such purpose (with the consent of any steward or other officer, if any, having a freehold office in such court, or upon the next vacancy in any such freehold office) ; and from and after such surrender such court shall be discontinued, and the right of holding such court shall cease, and all proceedings commenced in such court may thereafter be continued, and shall be enforced and executed as if they were commenced under the authority of this Act in a court held for the district in which the cause of action arose ; but no person shall be entitled to claim any compensation under this Act by reason of any such surrender : Provided always, that the surrender of the right of holding any such court for the recovery of debts and demands shall not be deemed to infer the surrender or loss of any other franchise incident to the lordship of such hundred, honor, manor, or liberty, and that the court thereof may be held for all other purposes, if any, incident thereto, as now by law it may.

Power to exclude jurisdiction of court of local jurisdiction from that of county court in concurrent causes. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 7.

7. If the council of any city or borough, or a majority of the ratepayers of any parish, within the limits of which a court of local jurisdiction, other than a county court, is established, or into the limits of which city, borough, or parish the jurisdiction of such court of local jurisdiction shall extend, shall petition her Majesty in Council that the jurisdiction of such court of local jurisdiction may be excluded in any causes whereof the county court has cognizance, and if notice of such petition shall be given two months before it is presented by public advertisement in such city, borough, or parish, and in some newspaper therein circulated, her Majesty, by Order in Council, may declare the exclusion of the jurisdiction of such court of local jurisdiction throughout the whole or any part of the district assigned or which may hereafter be assigned to such county court, if no petition against declaring the exclusion is presented, and no caveat entered at the council office; and if any counter-petition is presented, or any caveat entered, then her Majesty may refer such petition and counter-petition to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, upon whose report her Majesty may make such Order in Council as she shall be advised touching the matter of the said petitions in respect of excluding the jurisdiction of such court of local jurisdiction, and may award compensation to any persons entitled to appoint officers of such court, or to any officers thereof appointed before the passing of this Act, to be given by the Treasury, who are hereby empowered to pay the same. Section 7.

In 1853, the town council of Birmingham, after much opposition, obtained the exclusion of the mayor's court in that borough from cognizance of all matters that could be heard in the county court, the petition and a counter-petition having been argued for and against before the judicial committee during two days. See order in Gazette of January 3rd, 1854. Subsequently similar orders were made respecting the Ipswich Court of Small Pleas, and the Court of Record of the town of Nottingham, and the Court of Pleas of the city of Worcester, in all matters where the amount claimed does not exceed 20*l.*, and in all actions of ejectment where the rent does not exceed 50*l.*; and excepting Oldham from the Salford Hundred Court.

The principal inferior courts, other than county courts, are certain courts of record attached to cities and boroughs, which have power by ancient charters to exercise jurisdiction in certain suits. Of these the chief are:

The Mayor's Court of London,
The Liverpool Court of Passage,
The Salford Hundred Court,
The Oxford University Chancellor's Court.

The Mayor's Court has a special Act, 20 & 21 Vict. c. clvii. The Liverpool Court of Passage has several special Acts. The Salford Hundred Court has special Acts. The Oxford University Chancellor's Court has a special Act, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 26.

Other inferior courts of record which have no special Acts governing their procedure, are the Bristol Tolzey and Pie Poudre Court,

Derby Court of Record,
Exeter Provost Court,
Kingston-upon-Hull Court,
Newark Court of Record,
Northampton Borough Court,
Norwich Guildhall Court,
Peterborough Court of Common Pleas,
Preston Court of Pleas,
Romsey Court of Pleas,
Southwark Court of Record.

PART II.

Judges and Officers.

8. The Lord Chancellor shall from time to time appoint as many fit persons, not exceeding sixty, as are needed to be judges Appointment and qualification of judges.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 16. 21 & 22 Vict. c. 74, s. 3. 25 & 26 Vict. c. 99, s. 4.

of the courts under this Act, each of whom shall be a barrister at-law of at least seven years' standing: Provided that where the whole of a district is within the Duchy of Lancaster the appointment of the judge for such district shall be made by the Chancellor of the said duchy. No judge shall during his continuance in the office of judge be capable of being elected or of sitting as a member of the House of Commons.

Owing to the abolition of certain circuits, or to their absorption in adjoining circuits, there are at present (excluding the judges of the City of London Court) only fifty-five county court judges.

Judge, Appointment and Removal.]—The necessary qualification of the judge of a county court is that he shall be a barrister of at least seven years' standing. The judge is appointed by the Lord Chancellor, except where the whole of the district of the court is within the Duchy of Lancaster, in which case he is appointed by the Chancellor of the Duchy. The Lord Chancellor may remove a judge from any district, and appoint him to any other district, or appoint him to additional districts, or direct that he shall sit as additional judge in any district (see sect. 13).

The Lord Chancellor or Chancellor of the Duchy respectively may remove a judge for inability or misbehaviour (see sect. 15). The order to remove a judge, when questionable at all, may be questioned by quo warranto to his successor. But if an inquiry has been held, and the judge has had full opportunity of being heard, and of calling witnesses, the court will not enter into the question whether on the mere balance of the evidence the charge of inability or misbehaviour has been made out (Ex parte Ramshay, (1852) 18 Q. B. 173; 21 L. J. Q. B. 238; 88 R. R. 563).

A judge cannot sit as a member of Parliament (supra) nor can he practise at the bar, or as a special pleader, or equity draftsman, or be directly or indirectly concerned as a conveyancer, notary public, or solicitor, nor may he act as arbitrator or referee for remuneration to himself (see sect. 14).

Title.

A judge is entitled to be addressed as "your honour" in court. He is also, in all places, entitled to be called and addressed as "His Honour Judge ——." He ranks in the table of precedence next after knights bachelors. (The words of the Royal Warrant, dated August 4th, 1884, are as follows:—"We do hereby declare our Royal will and pleasure that, in all times hereafter, the Judges of County Courts in England and Wales shall be called, known, and addressed by the style and title of 'His Honour' prefixed to the word 'Judge' before their respective names, and shall have rank and precedence next after Knights Bachelors.")

May be judge of assize, &c.

His name may be included in any commission of assize, oyer and terminer, or gaol delivery (see sect. 16). He may be appointed a justice of the peace for any borough, city, county, riding, or division of the county in which he holds a court, although he may not have the necessary qualification required for other persons (see sect. 17).

For what districts.

For what Districts.]—A judge is appointed for each district (see sect. 5). The Lord Chancellor may direct that there shall be two judges of a district (see sect. 12). After districts were created by Order in Council, the Lord Chancellor appointed sixty judges to the courts, and the number of districts to which they were respectively appointed varied from one to twelve. In some instances one judge was appointed to hold the courts in several districts. This mode of appointing is legal, and the same person may, at the discretion of the Lord Chancellor, be a judge of two different county court circuits (R. v. Parham, (1849); 18 L. J. Q. B. 281).

Jurisdiction of judge within or without his districts.

9. A judge shall, whether within the district of any of his courts or not, have jurisdiction to make any order, or exercise on an ex parte application any authority or jurisdiction in any action or proceeding pending in any of the courts of which he is judge, which, if the same related to an action or proceeding pending in the High Court, might be given, made, or exercised by a judge of the High Court in chambers, and, with the consent of both parties to an action or proceeding, to hear and decide any matter at any place, either within or without any such district.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 4.

Derivation of power to make interlocutory order.

The County Courts Act, 1888, contains comparatively few provisions expressly relating to the making of interlocutory orders. It provides, however, at the end of sect. 164, that in cases not provided for by Act or rules the general principles of the High Court practice may be adopted. Similar provisions under the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 78, were held to empower the judge to allow a pauper to sue in formâ pauperis (Chinn v. Bullen, (1849) 8 C. B. 447; 19 L. J. C. P. 42; 79 R. R. 566). See now Perry v. London General Omnibus Co., (1916) 2 K. B. 335; 85 L. J. K. B. 1609, judgment of Phillimore, L.J). Presumably, therefore, where necessary, great power might be derived from the section. Sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, however, enables the courts in any action or matter to give the same relief and remedies as could have been obtained in the High Court, if the action or matter had been pending there; and probably gives power to the courts to make many interlocutory orders which formerly could not have been made in a county court (see Richards v. Cullerne (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 623; Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491; 48 L. J. Q. B. 677). Moreover sub-s. 8 of sect. 25 of the same Act expressly confers power to grant a mandamus or an injunction, and to appoint a receiver on an interlocutory application.

The original County Courts Act conferred few powers of a judicial kind on registrars. They were, generally speaking, mere ministerial officers, judicial powers were reserved for the judges. The functions of registrars were by degrees greatly altered, and under sects. 74, 75, 86, 88, 89, 90, 92, 105, 118, and 157 of the County Courts Act, 1888, registrars now enjoy judicial, or quasi-judicial powers. Nevertheless, the power to order anything to be done in the course of an action is, by the Act, generally conferred on the judge (although by the use of the word "court" (see sect. 186), judge or registrar would have been meant), e.g., amendment, sect. 87; order for trial by jury, sect. 101; for assessors, sect. 103; extension of time and adjournment, sect. 106. The Act, moreover, contains in this section, a special provision enabling the judge, in any action or proceeding, to make any order, or to exercise, on an ex parte application, any jurisdiction, which, if the action or proceeding had been in the High Court, might have been made or exercised by a judge at chambers. No similar provision is made in favour of the registrar, and the Act, moreover, contains no express power enabling the judge, or the rule committee, by rules of practice, to delegate to registrars interlocutory matters of any kind.

The powers of sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, are conferred on every "inferior court." Sect. 187 of the County Courts Act, 1888 provides that any reference to an "inferior court" in the Judicature Acts must be construed as referring to "courts" under the County Courts Act, 1888, whilst sect. 186 provides that "court" in the Act shall include and mean the judge or registrar. Possibly, therefore, by this means the powers given by sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, to the courts may be construed to be given to "judge or registrar." If not so given, a registrar can have no power to make an interlocutory order (except in the cases expressly provided for by the County Courts Act, 1888), unless the power to frame rules of practice (see sect. 164) gives power to delegate matters which are beyond doubt within the judge's functions to the registrars.

The rules have been framed upon this principle, as many interlocutory matters not mentioned in the Act are delegated to the "judge or registrar," whilst in many cases the rules confer on registrars power given by the Act to the judge alone; e.g., as to juries, sect. 101, and Order XXII. r. 3: orders for adjournment, sect. 106, and Order XII. rr. 12, 14, 15; extension of time for taking step, sect. 106, and Order LIV. r. 12. On the other hand, if the powers conferred by the Judicature Acts are conferred on judge and registrar, the rules in many cases take away the registrar's power, e.g., Order XII. r. 6, as to injunctions.

Power to Stay Action as Frivolous and Vexatious.]—A judge of county courts has power to dismiss or stay an action as being frivolous and vexatious (Norman v. Matthews, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 857. And see remarks of Lord Selborne, L.C., in case of Metropolitan Bank v. Pooley, (1885) 10 A. C. 214; 54 L. J. K. B. 451.

Powers of Registrars.]—A sweeping provision in favour of registrars is made by Order XV., which seems to provide that the judge or the registrar may, under a notice for directions, make any interlocutory order prior to the trial. Whether so intended or not it is submitted that it alone cannot have such an effect, for it is directly opposed to many other rules which have expressly directed application to be made to the judge. Thus Order XII. r. 6, provides a special practice for orders for injunctions, for receivers, and for taking accounts, and provides for their being made by the judge. So under Order IV. r. 7, Order III. r. 34, Order VIII. rr. 1, 2, Order XI. r. 4, and many others, application must be made to the judge. There are other cases, too, where the County Courts Act has provided for the order being made by the judge, and where no particular rule of practice specially applicable to it has conferred or purported to confer power on the registrar, e.g., sects. 62, 87, 94, 103, 104, 109, 112. In all these cases, it is believed that the registrar can have no power to make an order. There are other powers which the judge is entitled to exercise by virtue of sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, or some other Act, and as to which no rules are framed, e.g., order for mandamus, inspection of bankers' books under 42 Vict. c. 11, s. 10. It is believed that in these cases the registrar can make no order, unless, as regards the Judicature Acts, the construction before mentioned be the true one.

To complete the discussion of the question of power or jurisdiction, it may be pointed out that Order XII. r. 11, confers no jurisdiction on registrars. It merely provides a practice for interlocutory applications authorised by some other rule to be made to them.

General practice. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 9. Ex parte orders by judge.

The general practice on interlocutory applications is governed by sect. 9 of the County Courts Act, 1888, by Order XII. r. 11, and by Order XV. Sect. 9 enables the judge, whether within his district or not, to make any order, or to exercise on an ex parte application any jurisdiction which, if the action or proceeding had been in the High Court, could have been exercised by a judge at chambers. This practically enables the judge to make any interlocutory order ex parte, and it is believed that no rule of practice can take away his power.

The practice to be followed on an ex parte application, whether the power of the judge or the registrar to make the order be derived from the County Courts Act, or from any other statute, or from any other rule, is now prescribed by Order XII. r. 11. The rule also supplements the practice when a statute or another rule has only partially prescribed it. In such a case the statute and the rule or the two rules must be read together, and those parts (if any) of Order XII. r. 11, which are inconsistent with the statute or the particular rule must give way before it. The result is that nearly every interlocutory order may be obtained ex parte, and that very few cases exist in which Order XII. r. 11, is so entirely inconsistent with the prescribed practice as to be inapplicable.

There are many cases, however, in which no judge, even though he have the power to do it, will make the order without hearing the other side; and parties have therefore the option, under Order XII. r. 11, of applying on notice to the other party. Discretion should be used; trivial and pressing matters should be dealt with ex parte, but where the other side ought fairly to be heard the application should be on notice if possible.

Section 9 Notes.

An attempt has been made in the table contained in Appendix B. to indicate, on the lines expressed in the preceding pages, to whom and how the various applications, prior to the trial, may be made, and to it the reader is referred (post, p. 877).

The right of appeal to the High Court against interlocutory orders generally, for error of law, is now fully established, and appeals have been granted against some of the minor interlocutory orders made during the progress of an action.

See notes to sect. 120.

10. The judge of each district shall attend and hold the court at each place where her Majesty shall have ordered that the court shall be held within the district, at such times as he shall appoint for that purpose, so that a court shall be held at every such place once at least in every month, or such other interval as the Lord Chancellor shall in each case order; and notice of the days on which the court will be held shall be put up in some conspicuous place in the court-house and in the office of the registrar of the court, and no other notice thereof shall be needed; and whenever any day so appointed for holding the court shall be altered, notice of such intended alteration, and of the time when it will take effect, shall be put up in some conspicuous place in the court-house and in the registrar's office. Where, by reason of death or unavoidable absence, a judge at the sitting of a court is not present the registrar, after exercising his powers where the defendant does not appear or admits the debt, or in his unavoidable absence the high bailiff shall adjourn the court to such day as he may deem convenient, and enter in the minute book the cause of such adjournment.

Times of sittings.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 56. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 7. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 19.

Sittings.]—Many of the smaller courts in the agricultural districts are held less frequently than once a month by order.

In order that the suitors may know, a convenient time beforehand, when the courts will be held, the rules of practice require the judges to appoint the days and hours for holding each of their courts. A notice of such appointment must, three calendar months before the holding of such courts, be affixed in some conspicuous place in the court-house and in the office of the registrar. Whenever any day or hour so appointed is altered, notice of the alteration must be immediately affixed in the same way. The judge may, however, from time to time hold additional and adjourned courts (see Order I. r. 1).

No two courts may be held before the same judge on the same day, unless by consent of the Lord Chancellor, but an additional or adjourned court may be held on the same day as another court. The rule does not apply to the city of London Court (see Order I, r. 2).

By consent of the parties a judge may hear and decide any matter at any place either within or without his district.

Courts need not be held in the month of September, unless the Lord Chancellor otherwise orders, and with his sanction the judge, if he holds courts in September, need not hold them during some other month in the year. The office must, however, always be open for the receipt and payment of money in and out of court pursuant to the rules, or for any proceedings before the registrar (see sect. 11).

Closing court for one month. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 14.

11. No judge shall be obliged to hold any courts during the month of September in any year, unless he shall be ordered by the Lord Chancellor so to do; and if any judge shall be desirous of holding courts in the said month of September, and of being relieved from the obligation to do so at some other period of the year, it shall be lawful for such judge, with the sanction of the Lord Chancellor, to close the courts upon his circuit for any periods of time of which the Lord Chancellor shall approve, not exceeding in the whole four weeks in any one year: Provided nevertheless, that the office of every court shall always be open for the receipt and payment out of money due under any order of the court, pursuant to the rules and orders in force for the time being or for any proceedings before the registrar.

Two judges of one district. 21 & 22 Vict. c. 74, s. 2.

12. The Lord Chancellor may from time to time direct that there shall be two judges of a district or districts, and may make such regulations as to their respective sittings, or otherwise as to the division of their duties, as he may think right, and each of the judges when acting shall have all such powers and authorities as if he had been sole judge of such district or districts.

Power to re-distribute districts among judges. 21 & 22 Vict. c. 74, s. 1.

13. It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time to alter the distribution of the districts among the judges, and for that purpose to remove any judge from all or any of the districts of which he is the judge, for the purpose of appointing him to any other district or districts, or to appoint any such judge to be the judge of any district or districts in addition to the district or districts of which he is the judge, or to direct that any judge shall sit as an additional judge in any district or districts.

Judges not to practise. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 16.

14. No judge shall practise at the bar, or as a special pleader or equity draftsman, or be directly or indirectly concerned as a conveyancer, notary public, or solicitor, or act as arbitrator or referee for any remuneration to himself.

Judges removable. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 18.

15. It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, or the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (as the case may be), if he shall think fit, to remove for inability or misbehaviour any judge already appointed or hereafter to be appointed by them respectively.

The order to remove a judge, when questionable at all, may be questioned by quo warranto to his successor. But if an inquiry has been held, and the judge has had full opportunity of being heard, and of calling witnesses, the court will not enter into the question whether on the mere balance of the evidence the charge of inability or misbehaviour has been made out (Ex parte Ramshay, (1852) 18 Q. B. 173; 21 L. J. Q. B. 238; 88 R. R. 563).

Judges may be named for assizes. 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 7.

16. Her Majesty may, if her Majesty shall so please, include in any commission of assize, oyer and terminer, or gaol delivery the name of any judge.

It is believed this has only been done on one occasion.

Judges in commission of the peace. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 21.

17. Her Majesty may include in any commission of the peace for any borough, city, county, riding, or division of a county where a court is holden, the judge of such court for the time being, and he may and shall act in the execution of the office of justice of the peace for the said borough, city, county, riding, or division, [although he may not be qualified in such manner as is required by law in the case of other persons being justices of the peace.]

Words in brackets repealed by 6 Edw. VII. c. 16, which Act abolished the property qualification for justices of the peace for counties.

Appointment of deputy judge. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 20. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 6. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 20.

18. In case of the illness or unavoidable absence of any judge it shall be lawful for such judge to appoint a barrister-at-law of at least seven years' standing to act as his deputy during such illness or unavoidable absence; provided that whenever any deputy is appointed, the fact of the appointment and the name of the deputy shall be forthwith communicated to the Lord Chancellor, and no deputy so appointed shall be entitled to act for more than fourteen days at any time, unless with the approval of the Lord Chancellor; provided also that, in the case of the judge's inability to make such appointment, the Lord Chancellor or the Chancellor of the Duchy (as the case may be) may make the same: and it shall also be lawful for any judge, with the approval of the Lord Chancellor or Chancellor of the Duchy (as the case may be), to appoint a barrister-at-law of at least seven years' standing to act as his deputy for any time or times not exceeding in the whole two months in any consecutive period of twelve months. Every deputy appointed under this section, during the time for which he shall be so appointed, shall have all the powers and privileges and perform all the duties of the judge for whom he shall have been so appointed.

It is a condition precedent to the appointment of a deputy judge that he should be a barrister-at-law of at least seven years' standing; a judge cannot, therefore, where the claim exceeds 2*l.*, appoint his registrar as his deputy, unless he has that qualification (McInally v. Blackledge, (1911) 2 K. B. 432; 80 L. J. K. B. 882).

The judge may appoint a deputy for a particular court in his district, without appointing him for the whole district; and he may appoint two deputies to act for the same period, provided they are to act for different courts (R. v. Lloyd, (1906) 1 K. B. 22; 75 L. J. K. B. 126; (C. A.), (1906) 1 K. B. 552; 75 L. J. K. B. 406).

Judgment of Deputy.]—Where a deputy presides at the trial, and after consideration prepares judgment, which is actually read and pronounced by the judge, the judgment of the deputy is the judgment of the court (Rathbone v. Munn, (1868) 9 B. & S. 708). It is conceived that a deputy becomes functus officio on the appointment of a new judge, and that neither he nor the new judge has power to deliver a reserved judgment. It seems that the new judge should rehear the case (Hoey v. M'Farlane, (1858) 4 C. B. N. S. 718; 114 R. R. 913).

Judges may act for one another.

19. Any judge shall be capable of acting for any other judge within or without the districts presided over by such other judge,

Section 19.

Substitute for deputy judge.

and where, in the absence of a judge, a deputy of such judge shall, from illness or otherwise, be incapable of performing his duties as such deputy, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to appoint another person duly qualified, to be the deputy of such judge.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 20.

This probably enables one judge to act for another without express appointment, simply on request, and in other cases than those of illness or unavoidable absence. When he signs any order or document, the memorandum in Form 4 must be made by the registrar at the foot (see Order II. r. 15).

Deputy judge not to practise in district.

13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 3.

20. No deputy judge, save and except of the Westminster county court of Middlesex, shall, during the time he acts or is entitled to act as such deputy, practise as a barrister in any court within the district for which he acts or is entitled to act as such deputy.

Deputy judge to act during vacancy. Remuneration.

21. The appointment of a deputy of a judge, whether such deputy shall have been appointed by the judge, or by the Lord Chancellor, or by the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, shall not be vacated by the death or resignation of the judge, but the acts of the deputy done after such death or resignation shall be as valid as if the judge had not died or resigned, and he shall continue to act in all the courts to which he was appointed until the Lord Chancellor or the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (as the case may be) shall otherwise order, or a successor to such judge shall be appointed; and such deputy shall receive as remuneration for the period that he may act as deputy, after the death or resignation of the judge, a rateable proportion of the salary and travelling allowances attached to the office so vacant during any vacancy. If no such deputy shall have been appointed, the Lord Chancellor may appoint a deputy with the like powers and remuneration for any period not exceeding three months, if the office shall so long remain vacant.

This section was originally passed after the decision in Hocy v. M'Farlane, (1858) (4 C. B. N. S. 718; 114 R. R. 913), where it was held that a deputy's functions entirely ceased on the death of the judge, and that neither he nor the new judge had power to deliver, after the death, judgment in a case which the deputy had heard before, and that the proper course was for the new judge to rehear the case. The section, however, merely enables the deputy to act until a new judge is appointed, and it is conceived that the same difficulty would then arise in regard to judgments not delivered at the date of the appointment.

Court where judge can sue and be sued,

9 & 20 Vict. 108, s. 19.

22. A judge proposing to sue any person dwelling or carrying on business in any district of which he is the judge may bring his action in the court of any adjoining district of which he is not the judge; and any person proposing to sue a judge may bring his action in any court of a district adjoining the district of which the defendant is judge.

Section 22 Notes.

It seems that by virtue of this section the plaintiff has a right to choose any adjoining district, even if in another county (Partridge v. Elkington, (1870) L. R. 6 Q. B. 82 ; 40 L. J. Q. B. 49).

The section applies to proceedings in equity (Linford v. Gudgeon, (1870) L. R. 6 Ch. 359 ; 40 L. J. Ch. 514).

Salaries and allowances of judges. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 40. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, ss. 80, 81. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 13.

23. The salary to be received by a judge shall be one thousand five hundred pounds a year : Provided that it shall be lawful for the Treasury to allow to a judge such sum as the Treasury shall in each case, with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor, deem reasonable to defray his travelling expenses, with reference to the size and circumstances of the district for which he is judge, or in which, under the provisions of this Act, he is directed to sit. The salaries of the judges shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund, and the Treasury shall pay the same accordingly ; and the sums which may be allowed to them for travelling expenses shall be paid out of money provided by Parliament.

Pension of judges. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 15.

24. It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time, on a petition presented to him for that purpose, to recommend to the Treasury that there shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund to any judge who shall be afflicted with some permanent infirmity disabling him from the due execution of his office, and who shall be desirous of resigning the same, an annuity or clear yearly sum of money for the term of his life, not exceeding two-thirds of the yearly salary which such judge shall be entitled to as a judge at the time of presenting his petition ; and such annuity or sum shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund, quarterly or otherwise, as the Treasury may direct.

The pension is liable to sequestration for a judgment debt (Willcock v. Terrell, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 323).

Appointment of registrars. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 24. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 3. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, ss. 8, 9.

25. For every court there shall be a registrar who shall be a solicitor of the Supreme Court of at least five years' standing, and whom the judge shall be empowered to appoint, subject to the approval of the Lord Chancellor. No person shall be appointed registrar of more than one court ; and every registrar shall reside within the district of his court. In the case of any court where the number of plaints for the preceding year has exceeded eight thousand, the Lord Chancellor may in the case of any future appointment make it a condition of the appointment that the registrar shall not practise as a solicitor or notary, but nothing in this section shall be deemed to disqualify a registrar from holding any other public appointment.

On any vacancy occurring notice must be given at once by the judge to the Lord Chancellor, and no new appointment must be made without the consent of the Lord Chancellor, for one month after the date of the notice (see post, sect. 31). No particular form of appointment is necessary.

Formerly one person might be registrar to several courts. Now no registrar can be appointed to more than one court. Each registrar appointed after August 14th, 1850, must reside in the district for which he is appointed. See sect. 25, supra.

Duties of registrars. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 27.

26. The registrar of each court, with such clerks as may be required, shall issue all summonses, warrants, precepts, and writs of execution, and register all orders and judgments of the said court, and keep an account of all proceedings of the court and shall take charge of and keep an account of all court fees and fines payable or paid into court, and of all monies paid into and out of court, and shall enter an account of all such fees, fines, and monies in a book belonging to the court, to be kept by him for that purpose; and shall from time to time, as may be directed, submit his accounts to be audited or settled.

A registrar may, and must if appointed after April 23rd, 1866, on a vacancy in the office of high bailiff, exercise its powers and duties, unless the Lord Chancellor otherwise determines (see post, sect. 37).

In populous districts the Lord Chancellor may direct that two registrars shall be appointed to execute the office jointly (see post, sect. 29). On the death, removal or resignation of one of them, the remaining registrar will be sole registrar unless the Lord Chancellor otherwise orders (see post, sect. 30).

Consolidation of districts.

Where districts are consolidated, the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the Treasury, may make such provision for the duties of the registrar and otherwise as he may think fit (see 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 6 (1)).

The registrar must keep open an office except on certain specified days (see Order I. rr. 3, 4).

His duties generally are set out in Order II. rr. 2—16.

He has power to appoint a deputy (see sect. 31); to try undefended cases (see sect. 90); and, by leave of the judge, to try disputed claims not exceeding 2*l.* (see sect. 92).

As to his salary, see sects. 44, 45.

He is forbidden to act as solicitor in the court of which he is registrar (see sect. 41).

Removal of registrars. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 4

27. It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, or the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (as the case may be), when such Lord Chancellor or Chancellor of the Duchy shall in his discretion think fit, to remove the registrar of any court from his office, and from time to time to make orders as to the attendance of any registrar during the sitting of the court or otherwise.

The Lord Chancellor has absolute discretion in the matter of the removal of a registrar from office.

See R. v. Owen, (1850) 15 Q. B. 476; 19 L. J. Q. B. 490, as to the original power to remove.

Minutes of proceedings to be kept. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 111.

28. The registrar of every court shall cause a note of all plaints and summonses, and of all orders, and of all judgments and executions and returns thereto, and of all fines, and of all other proceedings of the court, to be fairly entered from time to time in a book belonging to the court, which shall be kept at the office of the court; and such entries in the said book, or a copy thereof bearing the seal of the court and purporting to be signed and certified as a true copy by the registrar of the court, shall at all times be admitted in all courts and places whatsoever as evidence of such entries, and of the proceeding referred to by such entry or entries, and of the regularity of such proceeding, without any further proof. Section 28.

See Buckley, L.J., in Rex v. Snagge, (1909) 1 K. B. 644; 78 L. J. K. B. 562.
In merely signing and issuing an order of commitment, the registrar is acting ministerially and is not responsible for the error of the judge in making the order (Dews v. Ryley, (1851) 11 C. B. 434; 20 L. J. C. P. 264; 87 R. R. 718).
It is believed that a minute of any leave granted by the judge for the issue of a judgment summons ought, under this section, to be taken by the registrar and duly recorded.
A certified copy of minutes expressed to be of proceedings before the deputy of a county court judge was held to be sufficient evidence of the regularity of his appointment on an indictment for perjury (R. v. Roberts, (1878) 38 L. T. 690).

29. It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, in populous districts in which it shall appear to him to be expedient, to direct that two persons shall be appointed to execute jointly the office of registrar, under such regulations as to the division of the duties and emoluments of the said office as shall be from time to time made by order of court in case of difference between them, each of such persons being qualified as is hereinbefore provided in the case of a single registrar. Appointment of joint registrars. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 25.

30. Upon the death, resignation, or removal of any person being joint registrar with another, no other person shall be appointed to such office of registrar jointly or otherwise, until both the persons holding the joint office shall have died, been removed, or resigned, unless the Lord Chancellor shall otherwise order. On death of joint registrar survivor to be sole registrar. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 23.

For the practice prior to 1867, see R. v. Wake, (1857) 8 E. & B. 384; 27 L. J. Q. B. 11; 112 R. R. 612.

31. It shall be lawful for the registrar of any court, with the approval of the judge, or in case of the inability of the registrar to make such appointment, for the judge, to appoint from time to time a deputy, qualified to be appointed registrar, to act for the registrar of the said court at any time when he shall be prevented by illness or unavoidable absence from acting in such office, and to remove such deputy at his pleasure; and such deputy while acting under such appointment shall have the like powers and privileges, and be subject to the like provisions, duties, and penalties for misbehaviour as if he were the registrar of the said court for the time being. The appointment of a deputy of a registrar shall not be vacated by the death or removal of the registrar, but his acts done after such death or removal shall be as valid as if the registrar had not died or been removed, and he shall Deputy registrar. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 26. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 12.

continue to act until a successor to such registrar shall be appointed; and he shall receive as remuneration for his services during the period he may so act after the death or removal of the registrar, a rateable proportion of the salary attached to the office of registrar. Provided that notice of any vacancy in the office of registrar shall be forthwith given by the judge having the appointment, and no appointment shall be made to fill the vacancy within the period of one month after the date of the notice without the assent of the Lord Chancellor.

[This proviso relates to the matter dealt with by sect. 25.—Ed.]

As to the appointment by the judge of a deputy to act on behalf of the registrar when he or his deputy is absent, see Order II. r. 1. As to what constitutes such absence, see Wetherfield v. Nelson, (1869) L. R. 4 C. P. 571; 38 L. J. C. P. 220.

As to the provisional appointment by the judge of a registrar for a period not exceeding three months on the death or removal of a registrar who has not appointed a deputy, see post, sect. 32.

Where the registrar is also district registrar of the High Court, he may, with the Lord Chancellor's consent, appoint a deputy to perform such duties. See Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876, s. 22.

Deputy registrar provisionally appointed. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 13.

32. On the death or removal of a registrar who shall not have appointed a deputy, the judge may, for a period not exceeding three months, provisionally appoint a person qualified to be a registrar to discharge the duties of registrar; and such person shall act as and have all the rights and liabilities of a registrar until a permanent successor shall be appointed, and shall receive as remuneration for his services during the period he may so act a rateable proportion of the salary attached to the office of registrar.

Appointment of bailiffs. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 31. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 4. 29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, s. 13. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 22.

33. For every court there shall, unless otherwise provided by this Act, be one or more high bailiffs, whom the judge shall be empowered to appoint, and whom the Lord Chancellor or the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (as the case may be), may, if he shall think fit, remove from his office; provided that no person shall be appointed high bailiff of more than one court, and every person discharging the duties of high bailiff shall be empowered, subject to the restrictions hereinafter contained, by any writing under his hand, to appoint a sufficient number of able and fit persons, not exceeding such number as shall be from time to time allowed by the judge, to be bailiffs to assist him, and at his pleasure to dismiss all or any of them, and to appoint others in their stead; and every bailiff so appointed may be suspended or dismissed by the judge. Every bailiff duly appointed may serve or execute any process which by any act passed or to be passed is directed to be served or executed by a high bailiff, unless otherwise specially provided against therein.

In most cases, the office of high bailiff is now combined with that of registrar. See sect. 37.

No special qualification is necessary for the office of high bailiff.

On his death or removal, his bailiffs are to act until dismissed by his successor, or by the judge (see post, sect. 34); and the judge may appoint a person provisionally to discharge the duties of high bailiff for not more than three months (see post, sect. 36).

Section 33 Notes.

Office.]—In courts where the plaints entered in a year exceed six thousand, the high bailiff must keep his office open during such times as the registrar's office is open (see Order II. r. 20).

The duties of a high bailiff are set out in sect. 35, and in Order II.rr. 17—41.

Execution on Wrong Person.]—The high bailiff is responsible where process is served or executed upon a wrong person, resulting in an arrest or other trespass; but such person must not by his conduct contribute to the mistake, or cause the officer to continue the execution of process against him, or he will not be allowed to recover damages (Kelly v. Lawrence, (1864) 3 H. & C. 1; 35 L. J. Ex. 197; Davies v. Jenkins, (1843) 11 M. & W. 745; 63 R. R. 744; Walley v. M'Connell, (1849) 13 Q. B. 903, 911; 19 L. J. Q. B. 162; 78 R. R. 552); as where he failed to give notice to the officer of the mistake, and was afterwards arrested (see per Cockburn, C.J., in De Mesnil v. Dakin, (1867) L. R. 3 Q. B. 18; 37 L. J. Q. B. 42), or, all the process having been by mistake served upon him, he neglected to appear and to deny his liability (see Davies v. Jenkins, Walley v. M'Connell, supra). If, however, before execution, he did deny his liability, the high bailiff would be responsible, though judgment had been suffered by default (Kelly v. Lawrence, supra). If process were executed upon the wrong person through his representation that he was the person named in the order or warrant, the high bailiff would not be responsible (Price v. Harwood, (1811) 3 Camp. 108; Dunston v. Paterson, (1857) 2 C. B. N. S. 495; 26 L. J. C. P. 267; 109 R. R. 771); but he would be responsible if, after notice of the misrepresentation, he refused to withdraw or discharge the person from custody (Dunston v. Paterson, supra).

If a person sued by a wrong name, but, being the right person served with process, omits to take his objection as required by law, he acquiesces in the process and cannot retract it (Fisher v. Magnay, (1843) 5 M. & G. 778; 12 L. J. C. P. 276). Where a debtor paid a judgment debt to the plaintiff instead of paying it into court, and through ignorance of the payment a warrant was executed against the judgment debtor, the officers of the court were held not to be responsible (Davies v. Fletcher, (1853) 2 E. & B. 271; 22 L. J. Q. B. 429; 95 R. R. 538).

Bailiffs during vacancy of high bailiff. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 14.

34. The appointment of the bailiffs who are appointed to assist the high bailiff shall not be vacated by the death or removal of the high bailiff, but their acts done after such death or removal shall be as valid as if the high bailiff had not died or been removed, and had authorised such acts, and they shall continue to act until they shall be dismissed by the successor of the high bailiff or by the judge; and they shall be paid for their services during the period they shall so act after the death or removal of the high bailiff the same wages as they were receiving at the date of such death or removal, and such wages shall be paid out of the salary and allowances attached to the office of high bailiff.

Duties of high bailiffs, &c.

35. The high bailiff shall attend every sitting of the court for such time as shall be required by the judge, unless when his absence shall be allowed for reasonable cause by the judge, and shall, by himself or by the bailiffs appointed to assist him as aforesaid, serve all summonses and orders, and execute all the warrants, precepts, and writs issued out of the court, except as hereinafter provided; and the said high bailiff and bailiffs shall in the execution of their duties conform to all such general rules as shall be from time to time made for regulating the proceedings of the court as hereinafter provided, and, subject thereunto, to the order and direction of the judge; and every such high bailiff shall be responsible for all the acts and defaults of himself and of the bailiffs appointed to assist him in like manner as the sheriff of any county in England is responsible for the acts and defaults of himself and his officers.

Section 35.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 33.

See Order II. rr. 17—41, as to the duties of a high bailiff. As to penalties for assaulting him in the execution of his duty, see post, sect. 48.

As to remedies against him for misconduct, see post, sects. 49, 50.

As to his liability for escapes and neglects, see post, sect. 49.

As to service, endorsement, and affidavit of service, and notice of service or non-service, and proof of service, see Order II. rr. 5, 21—26, 31; and as to the penalty for neglecting to serve the summons of another county court, see Order II. rr. 27, 28, 29. As to delivering a list of the particulars of service or non-service of summonses before each court, see Order II. r. 30; and as to his duties as to warrants of execution, see Order II. r. 33; and as to non-execution in a foreign district, see Order II. r. 37; and as to paying over money received, see Order II. r. 34.

The high bailiff must at all reasonable times give information to suitors as to the execution or non-execution of warrants or orders (see Order II. r. 33).

A high bailiff is liable, to the same extent as a sheriff, for the wrongful acts of a person employed by one of his bailiffs to whom a warrant has been delivered for execution (Burton v. Le Gros, (1865) 34 L. J. Q. B. 91; and see Smith v. Pritchard, (1849) 8 C. B. 565; 19 L. J. C. P. 53; 79 R. R. 631).

On death, &c., of high bailiff, judge to appoint provisionally a deputy.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 109, s. 16.

36. On the death or removal of a high bailiff the judge may, for a period not exceeding three months, provisionally appoint a person to discharge the duties of high bailiff; and such person shall act as and have all the rights and liabilities of a high bailiff until a permanent successor shall be appointed, and shall receive as remuneration for his services during the period he shall so act a rateable proportion of the salary and allowances attached to the office of high bailiff.

When registrar shall perform duties of high bailiff.

Remuneration.

29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, ss. 11, 12.

37. Upon the happening of any vacancy in the office of high bailiff of any court, if the registrar of the court in which the vacancy shall occur shall have been appointed such registrar after the twenty-third day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, or having been appointed before that day, shall be willing to perform the duties of the office of high bailiff of such court, no successor to such high bailiff shall, unless the Lord Chancellor with the consent of the Treasury shall otherwise determine, be appointed, but in either of such cases the registrar shall perform the duties of the high bailiff of such court, and shall have all the powers and authorities vested by this Act or any other Act in a high bailiff, and shall be responsible for the acts and defaults of himself and his officers in like manner as the high bailiff is by law responsible for the acts and defaults of himself and his officers. Every registrar so invested with the powers and authorities of high bailiff shall receive, in addition to his net salary as registrar, a sum equal to one-fifth part of such salary, together with such sum or allowances for service and execution of process as the Treasury may determine; and such additional salary and allowances shall be paid out of the produce of the fees payable under the provisions of this Act. The appointment of a high bailiff as registrar shall vacate the office of high bailiff held by such appointee.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 21. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 9.

38. Whenever a treasurer of a court shall die, resign, or be removed, the vacancy caused by the death, resignation, or removal of such person shall not be filled up; and the accounts of the registrar and other officers of the court of which the person who shall have died, resigned, or been removed was the treasurer, shall be examined by such person or persons, at such time or times, and under the supervision of such person, as the Treasury shall think fit.

Vacancies in office of treasurer and examination of accounts of officers.

29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, ss. 1, 2.

Treasurer.]—The treasurer was appointed by the commissioners of the Treasury, and was removable at their pleasure. No special qualification was necessary. The number of these officers originally appointed was twenty-three, to each of whom a certain number of courts was assigned. It will be seen below that no new appointments may be made. The expression "treasurer" as used in the Rules includes any person appointed by the Treasury to perform the functions of treasurer.

In Burridge v. Nicholetts, (1861) 6 H. & N. 383; 30 L. J. Ex. 145; 123 R. R. 582, it was held, that where a registrar, to whom notice of the treasurer's intention to audit the books had been given, locked up his office and left at the time for closing appointed by the then 6th Rule of Practice, the treasurer was justified in breaking open the office to get at the books.

Duties.]—The duties of the treasurer, where there is one, consist in auditing and settling the accounts of the registrar and other officers of the court; in receiving the balances of the various moneys to be paid over to him (see post, sect. 171); and in accounting for and disposing of the balances and other sums in his hands, as directed by rules made by the Treasury for the control of all officers (see post, sect. 172). The books of the court, including the bankers' book and cash book, must be at all times open to his inspection (see Order II. r. 12).

Salary.]—The salary of the treasurer is determined by the Treasury. It was originally charged on the Consolidated Fund, but is now voted annually (see 17 & 18 Vict. c. 94). It varies from 700*l.* to 850*l.* Besides his salary, he receives the expenses he is out of pocket in travelling. He is also allowed for a clerk, but is bound to provide an office out of his salary.

39. Where it shall appear to the Treasury that greater efficiency and economy will be effected by permitting the retirement of a treasurer of a court, it shall be lawful for the Treasury to grant to any such treasurer, out of moneys to be provided for the purpose by Parliament, such superannuation allowance as the Treasury may determine, not exceeding such amount as might be granted under the Superannuation Act, 1859, to a civil servant retiring upon medical certificate.

Treasurer's superannuation.

22 Vict. c. 26.

Registrar and high bailiffs to give security.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 36.

40. The treasurer, registrar, and high bailiff of every court who may receive any moneys in the execution of his duty, shall give security for such sum and in such manner and form as the Treasury from time to time shall order for the due performance of their several offices, and for the due accounting for and payment of all moneys received by them under this Act, or which they may become liable to pay for any misbehaviour in their office.

The Treasury is generally willing to accept a guaranty bond for the security required issued by an approved guaranty society.

Officers not to act as solicitors in the court.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, ss. 29, 30.

41. No registrar, treasurer, high bailiff, or other officer of any court shall, either by himself or his partner, be directly or indirectly engaged as solicitor or agent for any party in any proceeding in the said court. And every registrar, treasurer, high bailiff, or other officer of any court who shall be, by himself or his partner, or in any way, directly or indirectly, concerned as solicitor or agent for any party in any proceeding in the said court, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds to any person who shall sue for the same by action of debt.

A registrar, who is a solicitor, may defend himself in person in an action brought against him in his own court, and may recover from the plaintiff such costs as a solicitor defendant is entitled to on taxation; in such a case he must, under sect. 118 of the Act, necessarily tax his own bill of costs (Tolputt & Co. v. Mole (C. A.), (1911) 1 K. B. 836; 80 L. J. K. B. 686). The application by a high bailiff for and the obtaining and issuing a warrant to arrest an absconding debtor under the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 52, was held not to be a proceeding in the county court within the above provision. The court said, however, that a high bailiff who had so acted, had acted very improperly (Warden v. Stone, (1857) 7 E. & B. 603; 26 L. J. Q. B. 200; 110 R. R. 750; see also Longstaffe v. Woodrow, (1894) 38 S. J. 275). An assistant registrar is within the section (Ackroyd v. Gill, (1856) 5 E. & B. 808; 25 L. J. Q. B. 111; 103 R. R. 757).

If officer plaintiff in his own court, defendant may remove action to an adjoining district.
19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 20.

42. If an action be brought by an officer in the court of which he is an officer, except as official receiver, the judge shall, at the request of the defendant, order that the venue be changed, and that the action be sent for trial to the court of some convenient district of which he is not the judge; and the registrar of the first-mentioned court shall forthwith transmit by post to the registrar of such last-mentioned court a certified copy of the plaint as entered in the plaint book, the duplicate copy of the summons and particulars served on the defendant, and a certified copy of the order for changing the venue as entered in the minute-book; and the judge of such last-mentioned court shall appoint a day for the trial, notice whereof shall be sent by post or otherwise by the registrar of such last-mentioned court to both parties.

As to the court in which the judge can sue or be sued, see ante, sect. 22.
As to actions to which any of the parties are officers of the court, see Order XXII. r. 23.

Where officer of county court may be sued.

43. If an action be brought against an officer of a county court, the summons may issue in the district of which he is an officer, or in any adjoining district, the judge of which is not the judge of a court of which the defendant is an officer.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 158, s. 21.

Provision for salaries.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 84.

44. The salaries and remuneration of the registrars and high bailiffs shall be paid out of the produce of the fees payable under the provisions of this Act; and whenever the amount of such fees shall not be sufficient to pay the salaries and remuneration, the deficiency shall be made good out of any moneys to be provided by Parliament for that purpose; and the surplus which from time to time shall remain after payment of the salaries and remuneration shall be paid over to the credit of the Consolidated Fund.

Salaries of registrars.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 12.
29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, s. 14.
50 & 51 Vict. c. 3, s. 2.

45. A registrar shall be paid by salary, and the principle upon which the said salary shall be regulated shall be, that if the plaints entered in the court of which he is registrar do not exceed in the year from the first day of January to the thirty-first day of December inclusive the number of two hundred, the salary shall be one hundred pounds for that year; and if the plaints so entered shall exceed two hundred, then such salary shall be increased by sums of four pounds for every twenty-five additional plaints up to six thousand inclusive; and such salaries shall be inclusive of all salaries to the clerks employed by the registrars in the business of their respective courts, and of all emoluments whatsoever, except as by this Act otherwise provided and except those that may be receivable, in respect of special duties under any Act of Parliament and in any court in which the plaints shall have at any time exceeded six thousand the amount of salary shall be fixed from time to time by the Treasury with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor, but in no case shall the net salary, exclusive of clerks' salaries and office expenses to be allowed, exceed seven hundred pounds a year. In the case of any court where by reason of the amount of business therein, or of the union of the registrar's office with that of the district registrar of the High Court, or the district probate registrar, or any other public office, the Lord Chancellor shall at any time be of opinion that the whole time of the registrar ought to be given to the public service, the Lord Chancellor may by order to be laid before Parliament, direct that the registrar shall not practise as a solicitor; and thereupon the Treasury shall assign to the registrar such salary in respect of his public offices as they may think fit, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, but no such salary shall exceed fourteen hundred pounds a year; and every registrar to whom any such order shall apply shall, for all purposes, be deemed to be an officer of the Supreme Court within the meaning of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Officers) Act, 1879: Provided that no such order shall be made with respect to any registrar appointed before the passing of this Act without the consent of such registrar.

42 & 43 Vict. c. 78.

Where such an order is made by the Lord Chancellor, the registrar must account for and pay over to the Exchequer all fees whatsoever received by him after the date of the order in such manner as the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the Treasury, may direct (see 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 6 (2)).

By 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 6, "(1) Where two or more districts are consolidated, notwithstanding anything in sect. 45 of the County Courts Act, 1888, contained, the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the Treasury, may make such provision for the duties of the registrar and otherwise as he may think fit."

High bailiffs' salaries and fees.

46. The high bailiffs of the courts shall be paid by salaries to be fixed and regulated from time to time by the Treasury, with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor, and shall, in addition to such salaries, receive, for their own use, besides any additional remuneration as hereinafter mentioned, the fees appointed for keeping possession of goods under executions, and such salaries shall include all payments made by the high bailiffs to their under bailiffs, or, with the like consent, the high bailiffs may be paid partly by salaries and partly by allowances for the execution of warrants, and for mileage on the service or execution of any process.

18 & 19 Vict. c. 108, s. 83. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 12. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 30.

Remuneration of officers.

47. The Treasury with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor shall direct whether and what additional or other remuneration shall be allowed to any person performing any duties under this Act or under any Act passed or to be passed where by such Act no remuneration is or shall be given for the performance of duties by officers of the courts; and such remuneration shall be paid out of the fees which the Treasury, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, is empowered to order to be taken on proceedings authorised to be taken in the courts. This section shall not apply to the city of London court.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 12. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 30. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 7.

For these fees, see Part II. "Costs and Court Fees" (Schedule B), Part I.

By 35 & 36 Vict. c. 86, s. 8, the same fees are always to be taken in the city of London Court as are for the time being taken in the county courts.

Penalty for assaulting bailiffs, or rescuing goods taken in execution. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 114.

48. If any officer or bailiff of any court shall be assaulted while in the execution of his duty, or if any rescue shall be made or attempted to be made of any goods levied under process of the court, the person so offending shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds, to be recovered by order of the judge, or on summary conviction in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts; and it shall be lawful for the bailiff of the court, in any such case, to take the offender into custody (with or without warrant), and bring him before such judge accordingly.

An order imposing a fine under this section is not subject to appeal (Lewis v. Owen, (1894) 1 Q. B. 102; 63 L. J. Q. B. 233).

The provision that the bailiff may take the offender into custody is a power given to the individual officer, and a wrongful exercise of it does not render the high bailiff responsible (Smith v. Pritchard, (1849) 8 C. B. 565; 19 L. J. C. P. 53; 79 R. R. 631).

It seems that the person committing the assault is liable to an action by the person assaulted as well as to a fine (Box v. Green, (1854) 9 Ex. 503; 23 L. J. Ex. 219).

A person assaulting a bailiff may be indicted for the assault instead of being proceeded against under these provisions (R. v. Davies, (1861) 8 Cox, C. C. 486; 30 L. J. M. C. 159).

The fine may be recovered in the same manner as a judgment debt, or a sum ordered to be paid on summary conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43; 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49 (see post, sect. 167).

Bailiffs made answerable for escapes and neglect to levy execution. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 115.

49. In case any bailiff of any court who shall be employed to levy any execution against goods and chattels shall, by neglect or connivance or omission, lose the opportunity of levying any such execution, then upon complaint of the party aggrieved by reason of such neglect, connivance, or omission (and the fact alleged being proved to the satisfaction of the court on the oath of any credible witness), the judge shall order such bailiff to pay such damages as it shall appear that the plaintiff has sustained thereby, not exceeding in any case the sum of money for which the said execution issued, and the bailiff shall be liable thereto; and upon demand made thereof, and on his refusal so to pay and satisfy the same, payment thereof shall be enforced by such ways and means as are herein provided for enforcing a judgment recovered in the court.

For form of order, see Form 362.

See also Order LII.

Where a warrant is sent for execution to a foreign court, jurisdiction under this section can be exercised by the judge of the foreign court only (R. v. Shropshire County Court, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 242; 57 L. J. Q. B. 143).

A party aggrieved is not deprived by this section of his common law remedy (Watson v. White, (1896) 2 Q. B. 9; 65 L. J. Q. B. 492).

Remedies against and penalties)

50. If any registrar, bailiff, or officer of any court, acting under colour or pretence of the process of the said court, shall be charged bailiffs and other officers for misconduct. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 116.

with extortion or misconduct, or with not duly paying or accounting for any money levied by him under the authority of this Act, it shall be lawful for the judge to inquire into such matter in a summary way, and for that purpose to summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary parties in like manner as the attendance of witnesses in any case may be enforced, and to make such order thereupon for the repayment of any money extorted or for the due payment of any money so levied as aforesaid, and for the payment of such damages and costs as he shall think just, and also, if he shall think fit, to impose such fine upon the registrar, bailiff, or officer, not exceeding ten pounds for each offence, as he shall deem adequate; and in default of payment of any money so ordered to be paid, payment of the same may be enforced by such ways and means as are herein provided for enforcing a judgment recovered in the said court.

For form of order, see Form 364.
A mere error of judgment in levying is not "misconduct," as where a bailiff by mistake sold protected implements of trade (Moore v. H. B. of Brompton, (1893) 62 L. J. Q. B. 498).

Penalty on officers taking fees besides those allowed. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 117.

51. Every treasurer, registrar, bailiff, or other officer employed in putting this Act or any of the powers thereof in execution, who shall wilfully and corruptly exact, take, or accept any fee or reward whatsoever, other than and except such fees as are or shall be appointed and allowed respectively for or on account of anything done or to be done by virtue of this Act, or on any account whatsoever relative to putting this Act into execution, shall, upon proof thereof before the judge of the court, and in the case of a treasurer, registrar, or high bailiff, on allowance of the finding of the judge by the Lord Chancellor, be for ever incapable of serving or being employed under this Act in any office of profit or emolument, and shall also be liable for damages as in this Act before provided.

No officer shall be deemed a trespasser by reason of irregularity. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 60.

52. No officer of any court in executing any warrant of a court, and no person at whose instance any such warrant shall be executed, shall be deemed a trespasser by reason of any irregularity or informality in any proceeding on the validity of which such warrant depends, or in the form of such warrant, or in the mode of executing it, but the party aggrieved may bring an action for any special damage which he may have sustained by reason of such irregularity or informality against the party guilty thereof, and in such action he shall recover no costs, unless the damage awarded shall exceed forty shillings.

Where the irregularity or informality is in the judgment or in the proceedings prior to it, according to the rule of the common law, no action will lie for acts regularly done under it, until the judgment has been set aside (Riddell v. Pakeman, (1835) 2 C. M. & R. 30; Blanchenay v. Burt, (1843) 4 Q. B. 707; 12 L. J. Q. B. 291); and on any application to set it aside, the judge may make it a term that no action shall be brought, if the applicant asks for costs, but not otherwise (Rhodes v. Hull, (1857) 26 L. J. Ex. 265; Bartlett v. Stinton, (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 483; 35 L. J. C. P. 238).

54. No action shall be commenced against any bailiff, or against any person acting by the order and in aid of any bailiff, for anything done in obedience to any warrant under the hand of the registrar and the seal of the court, until demand has been made or left at the office of such bailiff by the party intending to bring such action, or by his solicitor or agent, in writing, signed by the party demanding the same, of the perusal and copy of such warrant, and the same has been refused or neglected for the space of six days after such demand; and in case after such demand and compliance therewith, by showing the said warrant to and permitting a copy to be taken thereof by the party demanding the same, any action shall be brought against such bailiff, or other person acting in his aid for any such cause as aforesaid, without making the registrar who signed or sealed the said warrant defendant, on producing or proving such warrant at the trial of such action, a verdict shall be given for the defendant, notwithstanding any defect of jurisdiction or other irregularity in the said warrant; and if such action be brought jointly against such registrar, and also against such bailiff, or person acting in his aid as aforesaid, then on proof of such warrant the finding shall be for such bailiff, and for such person so acting as aforesaid; notwithstanding such defect or irregularity as aforesaid; and if the verdict shall be given against the said registrar, the plaintiff shall recover his costs against him, to be taxed in such manner by the proper officer as to include such costs as such plaintiff is liable to pay to such defendant for whom such verdict shall be found as aforesaid.

No action to be brought against bailiff, &c., acting under order of the court without notice; and registrar to be made defendant in the action. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 19.

Ministerial acts.

It is a rule of the common law that no action will lie against a ministerial officer for acts done ministerially, without negligence (Countess of Rutland's Case, (1606) 6 Rep. 54a; Drury's Case, (1611) 8 Rep. 142a; The Marshalsea Case, (1613) 10 Rep. 76a; Groenvelt v. Burwell, (1699) 1 Ld. Raym. 471); and under the County Courts Acts it has been held that, in merely signing and issuing an order of commitment in compliance with the order of the judge, the registrar was acting ministerially, and was not responsible for the error of the judge in making the order (Dews v. Ryley, (1851) 11 C. B. 434; 20 L. J. C. P. 264; 87 R. R. 718). So, both at common law and under the County Courts Acts, the bailiff acting under the warrant of the court is acting ministerially, and is irresponsible for error in the judgment or order in pursuance of which it is issued (Gold v. Strode, (1690) 3 Mod. 324; Parsons v. Lloyd, (1773) 2 W. Bl. 845; Andrews v. Marris, (1841) 1 Q. B. 3; 10 L. J. Q. B. 225; 55 R. R. 174; Aspey v. Jones, (1884) 54 L. J. Q. B. 98). It does not appear quite clear whether this rule applied at common law, where the error of the judge was the exercise of jurisdiction in a cause over which the court had none, and the officer was ignorant of it (see 10 Rep. 76; Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 263; 36 L. J. Ex. 225, per Willes, J.; Houlden v. Smith, (1850) 14 Q. B. 841; 19 L. J. Q. B. 170; 80 R. R. 415). But apparently sect. 55, above-mentioned, especially when read in connection with 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 54, takes away all responsibility of registrar and bailiff (Aspey v. Jones, supra). It was held at common law that the rule did not protect if the warrant was erroneous on the face of it (Grant v. Bagge, (1802) 3 East, 128; 6 R. R. 569; King v. Harrison, (1812) 15 East, 615c; Carratt v. Morley, (1841) 1 Q. B. 18; 10 L. J. Q. B. 259; 55 R. R. 183); but the court overruled the point when made under the County Courts Acts (Aspey v. Jones, supra).

Section 54 Notes.

Plaintiff not responsible for trespass.

If the plaintiff, or his solicitor, merely institutes proceedings which he is entitled to commence, he does not become a trespasser, even if the officer of the court in execution of the process commit a trespass (see Kinning v. Buchanan, (1849) 8 C. B. 271; 18 L. J. C. P. 332; 79 R. R. 490; Abley v. Dale, (1851) 20 L. J. C. P. 253; 11 C. B. 378; 87 R. R. 697; The Marshalsea Case, (1613) 10 Rep. 68b, 76a); for the high bailiff or other officer is not the agent of the plaintiff so long as he does not personally interfere (Wilson v. Tumman, (1843) 6 M. & G. 236; 12 L. J. C. P. 306; 64 R. R. 770; Whitmore v. Greene, (1844) 13 M. & W. 104; Woollen v. Wright, (1862) 1 H. & C. 554; 31 L. J. Ex. 513; 130 R. R. 658); but if he does interfere, as by accompanying the officer, and pointing out the person to be arrested, who proves to be the wrong one, he becomes personally liable (Walley v. M'Connell, (1849) 13 Q. B. 903, 911; 19 L. J. Q. B. 162; 78 R. R. 552). A judgment creditor wrote to a high bailiff: "The plaintiff in this action has some reason to believe in the possibility of a third person claiming the goods at the address given on the back of the execution. He will, however, contest any claim that may be made, and he desires that the high bailiff at Liverpool should be so informed, that the officer who levies may not in any way be deterred from putting the warrant in force by reason of any party setting up a claim." The officer having seized the goods of a wrong person, as well as those of the judgment debtor, an action was brought against the writer of the letter. It was, however, held merely to amount to a direction to the officer to do his duty, and not such an interference as to render the writer personally liable for the trespass (Cronshaw v. Chapman, (1862) 31 L. J. Ex. 277). Where there has been no personal interference by the judgment creditor, his adoption and ratification of the officer's acts after a trespass has been committed will not render him liable for it (Wilson v. Tumman, Woollen v. Wright, supra).

It is not within the implied authority of a solicitor to direct the seizure of particular goods; if he do so without express authority, he will be personally liable for the consequences (Smith v. Keal (C. A.), (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 340; 51 L. J. Q. B. 487).

Procedure in Actions against Public Officers.]—The Public Authorities Protection Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 61), s. 1, enacts, where any action, prosecution or other proceeding is commenced, against any person for any act done in pursuance, or execution, or intended execution of any Act of Parliament, public duty or authority, or in respect of any alleged neglect or default in the execution of any such Act, duty, or authority, that:—(A) The action, prosecution or proceeding may not lie or be instituted unless commenced within six months, or in case of a continuance of injury or damage within six months next after the ceasing thereof: (B) If judgment is obtained by the defendant it will carry costs as between solicitor and client: (C) Where the proceeding is an action for damages, tender of amends before action may in lieu of or in addition to any other plea be pleaded. If the action was commenced after tender or is proceeded with after payment into court in satisfaction and the plaintiff does not recover more than the sum tendered or paid, he cannot recover costs incurred after the tender or payment, and the defendant is entitled to costs as between solicitor and client, as from the tender or payment; but this does not affect costs on any injunction in the action: (D) If, in the opinion of the court, the plaintiff has not given the defendant a sufficient opportunity of tendering amends before the proceedings, the court may award the defendant costs as between solicitor and client. This section does not affect proceedings by a department of the Government against a local authority or officer of a local authority. Action includes all proceedings in the Chancery Division, but not appeals or interlocutory applications (Harrop v. Mayor of Ossett, (1898) 1 Ch. 525; 67 L. J. Ch. 347; Fielden v. Mayor of Morley (C. A.), (1899) 1 Ch. 1; 67 L. J. Ch. 611; affd. H. of L., (1900) A. C. 133; 69 L. J. Ch. 314).

This limitation applies though a longer period be allowed by the Act creating the liability (Markey v. Tolworth Hospital Board, (1900) 2 Q. B. 454; 69 L. J. Q. B. 738), but see British Columbia Electric Rail. v. Gentile, (1914) A. C. 1034; 83 L. J. P. C. 353, where this case was expressly disapproved by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. As to the date from which the period of limitation begins to run, see Polley v. Fordham, (1904) 2 K. B. 345; 73 L. J. K. B. 687; Turley v. Daw, (1906) 94 L. T. 216.

An order by consent dismissing an action is a judgment within the meaning of the section (Shaw v. Herts County Council, (1899) 2 Q. B. 282; 68 L. J. Q. B. 857; 81 L. T. 208). So is an order dismissing an action for want of prosecution (Gilbert v. Gosport and Alverstoke Urban Council, (1917) 86 L. J. Ch. 54. Aliter where an action is discontinued after a payment into court with denial of liability (Smith v. Northleach Rural District Council, (1902) 1 Ch. 197; 71 L. J. Ch. 8).

The provision in sect. 1 imposing the six months' limit is a "statute of limitations" within the meaning of Form 85, and a plea in general terms that the action is barred by "a statute of limitations" is good (Gregory v. Torquay Corporation, (1912) 1 K. B. 442; 80 L. J. K. B. 981). The Acts have no application to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act (Fry v. Cheltenham Corporation, (1911) 81 L. J. K. B. 41).

Costs.

Sect. 2 repeals sect. 53 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and so much of any public general Act as contains a provision that notice of action shall be given.

This Act not only protects the public authority, but also subordinates carrying out their mandates (Greenwell v. Howell, (1900) 1 Q. B. 535; 69 L. J. Q. B. 461). The term "public authority" is not confined to municipal authorities (The Johannesburg, (1907) P. 65; (1906) 76 L. J. P. 67).

Notwithstanding sect. 1, the discretionary power given to a High Court judge to deprive defendants of their costs for good cause is not taken away (Bostock v. Ramsey Urban Council (C. A.), (1900) 2 Q. B. 616; 69 L. J. Q. B. 945), and under sect. 113 of the County Courts Act, 1888, presumably there is the same power No special direction or taxation is necessary (North Metropolitan Trams. Co. v. London County Council, (1898) 2 Ch. 145; 67 L. J. Ch. 447; Chamberlain and Hookham, Ltd. v. Bradford Corporation, (1900) 83 L. T. 518).

A company incorporated for the purpose of earning profits is not entitled to protection (Attorney-General v. Margate Pier Co., (1900) 1 Ch. 749; 69 L. J. Ch. 331). A local authority, having power to carry on a business, is so entitled (Parker v. London County Council, (1904) 2 K. B. 501; 73 L. J. K. B. 561; approved by C. A. in Lyles v. Southend Corporation, (1905) 2 K. B. 1; 74 L. J. K. B. 484; and see The Ydun, (1899) P. 236; 68 L. J. P. 101), but an independent contractor, doing the work which a public body is authorized to do, is not (Tilling v. Dick, Kerr & Co., (1905) 1 K. B. 562; 74 L. J. K. B. 484). Where there is no statutory or public duty to do the act in question, the protection does not avail. Where the servant of a public authority acting negligently in the course of a duty on which they sent him, viz., the delivery of a ton of coke bought from the public authority, but which such public authority was not bound to supply or deliver either in the execution of any Act of Parliament or in the discharge of any public duty or authority, it was held that the protection given by the Act did not apply (Bradford Corporation v. Myers, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. (H. L.) 146). As to the meaning of the words public duty or authority, see judgment of Lord Shaw (ib.).

When protection of Act applies.

With respect to the words "done in pursuance of this Act," it has been held, upon like clauses in other Acts, that persons are within the protection, although their act be not legally justifiable under the statute, provided they act under an honest belief, whether reasonable or not, in the existence of a state of facts which, if it had existed, would have justified them in acting under the statute (Herman v. Seneschal, (1862) 13 C. B. N. S. 392; 32 L. J. C. P. 43; 134 R. R. 569; Chamberlain v. King, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 474), or with an honest intent to discharge their statutory duties and believe that they are discharging them, but have erred through a mistake of law (Selmes v. Judge, (1871) L. R. 6 Q. B. 724). Thus, the bailiff of a county court, if acting bonâ fide, is within this protection, although by mistake he has seized the goods of one person under an execution against another (Burling v. Harley, (1857) 3 H. & N. 271; 27 L. J. Ex. 258; 117 R. R. 684); nor is his right affected by the fact that he is indemnified in so doing by the party interested (White v. Morris, (1852) 11 C. B. 1015; 21 L. J. C. P. 185; 87 R. R. 854). A plaintiff obtaining judgment for want of appearance and execution thereon is within this protection (Gayton v. Bayman, (1859) 1 F. & F. 675).

Where an action was brought against the judge of a county court, for making an order for commitment after having been served with a prohibition, it was held that if the judge acted under a bonâ fide belief that his duty required him to make the order, it was an act "done in pursuance of the Act" (Booth v. Clive, (1851) 10 C. B. 827; 20 L. J. C. P. 151; 84 R. R. 795).

Where, however, a public authority employed a motor car for the purpose of carrying their officials, and a person was injured through the negligent driving of the chauffeur, it was held that the six months' limitation imposed by the statute did not apply (Clarke v. St. Helen's Borough Council, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 17; and see Bradford Corporation v. Myers, supra).

An action against a police authority to recover compensation under the Riot (Damages) Act, 1886, is not within the six months' limitation (Kauffmann Brothers v. Liverpool Corporation, (1916) 1 K. B. 860; 85 L. J. K. B. 1127.

Protection to officers. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 6.

55. In any action commenced against any person for anything done in pursuance of this Act, the production of the warrant under the seal of the court shall be deemed sufficient proof of the authority of the court previous to the issuing of such warrant; and in case the plaintiff shall have a verdict or judgment pass against him, be nonsuit, or discontinue, the defendant shall in any such case be allowed full costs as between solicitor and client.

See Aspey v. Jones, (1884) 54 L. J. Q. B. 98, where it was held that this section affords protection from liability to be sued to any party who acts under a warrant signed by the registrar and under the seal of the court, although the judge had no jurisdiction to make the order upon which the warrant was founded.

PART III.

Jurisdiction and Law.

Ordinary jurisdiction of the court.

56. All personal actions, where the debt, demand, or damage claimed is not more than one hundred (a) pounds, whether on balance of account or otherwise, may be commenced in the court, and all such actions shall be heard and determined in a summary way according to the provisions of this Act: Provided always that except as in this Act provided, the court shall not have cognizance of any action of ejectment, or in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, or to any toll, fair, market, or franchise, shall be in question, or for any libel or slander, or for seduction, or for breach of promise of marriage. Section 56. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 58. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 1.

The statutory county court, established by the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, is a court of record, and has all the jurisdiction and powers of the old county court for the recovery of debts and demands, as altered by that Act, throughout the district for which it is held (see ante, sect. 5). It has also by a series of statutes jurisdiction in many cases in which the old county court had no jurisdiction.

Right of Alien Enemy to Sue.]—An alien enemy in this country who has complied with the Aliens Restriction Order and registered himself thereunder, may enter into lawful contracts in this country and resort to the courts of this country for the purpose of enforcing his rights either under a contract made after the commencement of the war, or under a contract made before the commencement of the war (Thurn and Taxis (Princess) v. Moffatt, (1915) 84 L. J. Ch. 220; Porter v. Freudenberg, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1001. If he is interned as a civilian prisoner of war he is still under protection and entitled to enforce any civil rights he may have. (Schaffenius v. Goldberg, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 374; see also Halsey v. Lowenfeld; Leigh, Third Party, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1498). As to right of a limited liability company registered in England, but composed practically entirely of alien enemies abroad, suing in the English courts, see Daimler Co., Ltd. v. Continental Tyre and Rubber Co., Ltd., (1916) 2 A. C. 307; also Muhesa Rubber Plantations, Ltd., In re (1917), 1 K. B. 48.

Effect of the Judicature Acts.]—The Judicature Acts, although they do not extend the number of heads of jurisdiction, affect the powers of the judge in exercising it in a very important manner.

The County Courts Act, 1888, prescribes the different kinds of common law and equity actions, and matters of which he may take cognizance; but the Judicature Act, 1873, has an overriding influence upon his treatment of them. Sect. 25 of that Act provided that in the High Court where law and equity were in conflict, the rules of equity should prevail; and sect. 24 also made provision for the due combination of legal and equitable remedies and defences "so that, as far as possible, all matters so in controversy between the said parties respectively may be completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of such matters avoided."

Sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, compels the judge of a county court to grant in every proceeding, i.e., action or suit (Pryor v. City Offices Co., (1883) 52 L. J. Q. B. 362; 10 Q. B. D. 504), before him the same relief and remedy and combination of remedies, and to give effect to the same defences, equitable and legal, as if the action were in the High Court itself.

Relief to plaintiff.

It was thought that if the judge had once seisin of a claim, he could deal with it in the same manner as if the action were in the High Court. This view has been somewhat modified by a recent decision. A defendant entered into possession of a house, the value of which exceeded 500*l.*, under an agreement for a lease for three years to commence at a future date. He afterwards gave notice to quit, and quitted at the end of the first year. The landlord, treating him still as his tenant, sued in the county court for the quarter's rent accruing after he had quitted; but the Court o

Section 56 Notes.

Appeal held that although, in the High Court, the plaintiff would by reason of the Judicature Acts have been able to maintain the action, he could not do so in the county court, because the judge had no jurisdiction to decree specific performance of the agreement, the value of the property exceeding 500*l.* (Foster v. Reeves (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 255; 61 L. J. Q. B. 763; and see Angel v. Jay, (1911) 1 K. B. 866; 80 L. J. K. B. 458). Unfortunately, the sections of the Judicature Act above mentioned do not appear to have been cited.

Relief to defendant.

Whatever the nature of the plaintiff's claim, the county court must give the same effect to every ground of defence, equitable or legal, as the High Court can do (see 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 89).

If the defendant, besides defeating the plaintiff's claim, wishes to establish a counterclaim, he will not be able to do so, unless the court has by statute jurisdiction over the subject-matter of it (Davis v. Flagstaff Co. (C. A.), (1878) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. C. P. 503), if the plaintiff gives notice of objection to the jurisdiction of the court to try the counterclaim, or if the action be removed into the High Court (see 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, ss. 89, 90; 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18).

See as to the effect of the Judicature Acts in the administration of law and equity, per Lord Blackburn, in Kendall v. Hamilton, (1879) 4 App. Cas. 504; 48 L. J. Q. B. 705.

Actions for Debt or Damages.]—Subject to the exceptions following, the court, under the provisions of the County Courts Act, 1887, as extended by the County Courts Act, 1903, has jurisdiction generally in personal actions where the debt, demand or damage claimed is not more than 100*l.*, whether on balance of account or otherwise.

Personal actions are such whereby a man claims a debt or personal duty, or damages in lieu thereof; and likewise where a man claims satisfaction in damages for some injury done to his person or property (3 Blackst. Comm. 117; and see Com. Dig. "Action," D. 3; Bac. Abr. "Actions in General," A.).

Malicious prosecution and actions in which the validity of any devise, bequest, or limitation under any will or settlement may be disputed, are no longer excepted from the jurisdiction.

Title.]—Besides the limit as to amount, in actions in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments comes in question, or where an easement or licence is claimed, a further limit is imposed as to the yearly rent or value of the hereditaments: it must not exceed 100*l.* (see post, sect. 60; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). The courts have no jurisdiction to try actions for breach of promise of marriage, libel, slander, or seduction, or in which the title to any toll, fair, market, or franchise is in question. A patent is a "franchise"; hence the courts have no jurisdiction over an action for the infringement of a patent (R. v. Halifax County Court (C. A.), (1891) 2 Q. B. 263; 60 L. J. Q. B. 550). A registered trade mark is not a "franchise," but there is no jurisdiction to try an action for its infringement, it not being a personal action within the meaning of sect. 56 of the Act of 1888 (Bow v. Hart (C. A.), (1905) 1 K. B. 592; 74 L. J. K. B. 341).

The above provisions are subject to the powers enabling parties to give jurisdiction by consent, to the powers of defendants to object to a trial in a county court, to the powers of removal into the High Court, to the powers given to the High Court to send actions for trial to the county courts, and to the power to provide by Order in Council that the actions in which the plaintiff claims more than 50*l.* shall be tried in special courts of the district (3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 5; see post, pp. 217—222).

Personal actions.

The effect of the Act of 1846 was to give limited jurisdiction in every personal action then existing other than those above mentioned, even where the Act creating the obligation provided that actions in respect of it should be brought in the superior courts at Westminster (Stuart v. Jones, (1852) 1 E. & B. 22; 22 L. J. Q. B. 1; 93 R. R. 9). But the principle of this case was not followed by the C. A. in R. v. Halifax County Court, supra. The reasoning of the court in this case would seem to show that, treating the Consolidation Act as a new departure, the county courts have now jurisdiction over all personal actions (other than those above expressly excepted) which could be brought in any court at the date of the Act. So the courts will have jurisdiction, it is believed, over any new form of personal action arising under any new statute, e.g., Pickering v. James, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 489; 42 L. J. C. P. 217, under the Ballot Act, 1872; Mills v. Scott, (1873) L. R. 8 Q. B. 496; 42 L. J. Q. B. 234, under the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, provided no provision be made in it which expressly or impliedly exempts the jurisdiction; or gives exclusive jurisdiction to another tribunal (Crystal Palace Gas Co. v. Idris, (1900) 82 L. T. 200).

Illegal Contract.]—An illegal agreement cannot be enforced. The test whether a claim connected with an illegal agreement is enforceable, is whether the plaintiff requires any aid from the illegal agreement to establish his case (Farmers' Mart, Ltd. v. Milne, (1915) A. C. 106; 84 L. J. P. C. 33).

Cause of Action arising out of a Felony.]—If in any case it appears that the cause of action arises out of an illegal act amounting to a felony, and that no prosecution for the felony has taken place, it is the duty of the court to stay the action until, either the defendant has been prosecuted, or reasonable excuse has been shown why a prosecution has not been instituted (Smith and Another v. Selwyn, (1914) 3 K. B. 98; 83 L. J. K. B. 1339).

Personal actions include actions of contract and of tort. The following are instances of claims recoverable in county courts in personal actions. Money collected by a curate for the purposes of a Sunday school and claimed by its managers (Christie v. Sandberg, (1880) W. N. 159); paving rates assessed under an Act of Parliament (Baddeley v. Denton, [1849) 4 Ex. 508; 19 L. J. Ex. 44); freight due under a charter-party (R. v. Southend, (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 142; 53 L. J. Q. B. 423); damages for collision between barges on the Thames (Scovell v. Bevan, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 428; 56 L. J. Q. B. 604); an action against a bailiff who has distrained for poor rate to recover so much of his charge as is unreasonable (R. v. Philbrick, (1905) 2 K. B. 108; 74 L. J. K. B. 464). It is believed that an action against a married woman under the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, in respect of a contract made during marriage, is a "personal" action, although execution can only be levied against her separate property (see the judgments in Holtby v. Hodgson (C. A.), (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 103; 59 L. J. Q. B. 46; but see Scott v. Morley (C. A.), (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 120; 57 L. J. Q. B. 43; Re Gardiner, (1887) 57 L. J. Q. B. 149; 20 Q. B. D. 249).

Detinue. Detinue is a personal action (Taylor v. Addyman, (1853) 13 C. B. 309; 22 L. J. C. P. 94; 93 R. R. 547), the limit of jurisdiction being determined by the value of the goods detained: it must not exceed 100*l.* (Leader v. Rhys, (1861) 10 C. B. N. S. 369; 30 L. J. C. P. 345; 128 R. R. 749). In cases of breach of contract to deliver specific goods, specific delivery of the goods may be ordered in lieu of damages for the breach (57 & 58 Vict. c. 56, repealing 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97). The value of an instrument which is not negotiable, e.g., a deposit note, is, for this purpose, the cost of proof of title, not the amount of which it is evidence (Clegg v. Baretta, (1887) 65 L. T. 775).

Special Acts.]—Under the Public Health Act, 1875, demands below 50*l.*, which may be recovered in county courts as if they "were debts within the cognizance of such courts" (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55, s. 261); the six months' limitation applies. Similar provisions for demands not exceeding 50*l.* are made by the Public Health (London) Act, 1891 (54 & 55 Vict. c. 76, s. 117). Under the Private Street Works Act, 1892, claims for expenses of works not exceeding 50*l.* may be recovered as simple contract debts (55 & 56 Vict. c. 57, s. 14). Under the Act for regulating the qualifications of pharmaceutical chemists, the penalty of 5*l.* imposed on non-registered persons for using the title "pharmaceutical chemist" is similarly recoverable (15 & 16 Vict. c. 56, s. 12); also under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, in actions to recover the penalty of 50*l.* for wrongfully acting as attorney or solicitor. Fines under the Alkali Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 37, s. 22), and the Hosiery Manufacture (Wages) Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 48, s. 3), are also similarly recoverable. And under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, moneys payable by members to cattle assurance societies, and some other societies, are deemed to be debts, and are recoverable as such (59 & 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 31 (2)), as are moneys payable by members of Industrial and Provident Societies under the Act of 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 39, s. 23).

No action is maintainable for money alleged to be due in respect of the sale of ale, porter, beer, cider, or perry consumed on the premises where sold or supplied, or in respect of money or goods lent or supplied, or of any security given for, in, or towards the obtaining of any such liquors (see post, sect. 182). The 24 Geo. II. c. 40, s. 12, as amended by 25 & 26 Vict. c. 38, prevents the recovery of sums under 20*s.* for spirituous liquors, unless delivered at the purchaser's residence in reputed quart bottles.

No action may be commenced in a county court on a judgment of the High Court (see post, s. 63), though committals on such judgments may be obtained; nor in the High Court upon an order of the county court for payment of costs (Furber v. Taylor (C. A.), (1900) 2 Q. B. 719; 69 L. J. Q. B. 898). Where the county court is exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy an action may be brought to enforce the order (Savill v. Dalton, (1915) 3 K. B. 174; 84 L. J. Q. B. 1583).

Where claim reduced by set-off to 100*l.* court to have jurisdiction. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 24.

57. Where in any action the debt or demand claimed consists of a balance not exceeding one hundred (a) pounds, after an admitted set-off of any debt or demand claimed or recoverable by the defendant from the plaintiff, the court shall have jurisdiction to try such action.

NOTE.—(a) Jurisdiction increased from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of County Courts Act of 1903).

Balance of Account.]—The words "balance of account" mean, "after payment of part, or after the allowance of a set-off as an item in account with the agreement of the parties, which is equivalent to the payment of part, and not when the plaintiff claims more than 50*l.* [now 100*l.*] and seeks to reduce it by giving the defendant credit for a simple set-off" (per Pollock, C.B., in Avards v. Rhodes, (1853) 8 Ex. 312, 316; 22 L. J. Ex. 106; see also Turner v. Berry, (1850) 5 Ex. 858; 1 L. M. & P. 744; 14 Jur. 1099; see also per Maule, J., in Woodhams v. Newman, (1849) 7 C. B. 654; 18 L. J. C. P. 213).

Set-off.]—Where a plaintiff's claim exceeded 50*l.* [now 100*l.*] and he offered to reduce it by admitting a set-off, never agreed to by the parties, so as to amount to a part payment, the court was held to have no jurisdiction, even if the plaintiff gave credit for the set-off in his particulars, or offered to assent to it after action (see Avards v. Rhodes, supra; Woodhams v. Newman, supra; Beswick v. Capper, (1849) 7 C. B. 669; 18 L. J. C. P. 216). It was nevertheless held that the judge had jurisdiction to inquire whether the defendant had consented to the claim being so reduced before action; and that if he so found, the court had jurisdiction, although the original claim exceeded 50*l.* [now 100*l.*] (Kimpton v. Willey, (1850) 9 C. B. 719; 19 L. J. C. P. 269; 82 R. R. 515; and see Beswick v. Capper, supra). Sect. 57 was apparently intended to extend the jurisdiction, but it is now clear that it does not, and that the set-off must still be admitted before action Walesby v. Goulston, (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 567; 35 L. J. C. P. 302; Hubbard v. Goodley, (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 156; 59 L. J. Q. B. 285). A set-off admitted on the writ by the plaintiff, and adopted and acquiesced in by the defendant, justifies the conclusion that it was an admitted set-off within sect. 57 (Lovejoy v. Cole, (1894) 2 Q. B. 861; 64 L. J. Q. B. 120).

Section 57 Notes.

58. The jurisdiction of the court shall extend to the recovery of any demand, not exceeding the sum of one hundred (a) pounds, which is the whole or part of the unliquidated balance of a partnership account, or the amount or part of the amount of a distributive share under an intestacy, or of any legacy under a will.

Cases of partnership and intestacy. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 65. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 1.

NOTE.—(a) Jurisdiction increased from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of County Courts Act of 1903).

59. All actions of ejectment, where neither the value of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, shall exceed the sum of one hundred (a) pounds by the year, may be brought and prosecuted in the court of the district in which the lands, tenements, or hereditaments are situate; provided that the defendant in any such action of ejectment, or his landlord, may within one month from the day of service of the summons, apply to a judge of the High Court at chambers for a summons to the plaintiff to show cause why such action should not be tried in the High Court on the ground that the title to lands or hereditaments of greater annual value than one hundred (a) pounds would be affected by the decision in such action; and on the hearing of such summons, the judge of the High Court, if satisfied that the title to other lands would be so affected, may order such action to be tried in the High Court, and thereupon all proceedings in the court in such action shall be discontinued.

Ejectment where neither value nor rent exceeds 100*l.* 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, ss. 11, 12.

NOTE.—(a) Jurisdiction increased from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of County Courts Act of 1903). See "Emergency Legislation" especially, "Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915," 5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 97, as amended by the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917 (7 & 8 Geo. 5, c. 5).

Rent and Value.]—The rent payable means the rent payable as between the litigant parties, and not any rent that might be paid by a sub-lessee; and the latter rent, if above 100*l.*, though strong evidence of value, is not conclusive against the jurisdiction of the county court (Brown v. Cocking, (1867) L. R. 3 Q. B. 672; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250). The value of the tenements means the actual marketable value, and the rent which would be paid by the tenant in occupation is the best criterion of that value (per Cockburn, C.J., Elston v. Rose, (1868) L. R. 4 Q. B. 4; 38 L. J. Q. B. 6). The deduction of a yearly ground-rent payable by the landlord from the rent of the tenant, thereby bringing it within the prescribed limits, was, in the case last cited, held to be wrong.

Where the judge decided on the facts that the value of the premises did not exceed the limit of the jurisdiction, the Court of Queen's Bench held that it could not review the decision by prohibition (Brown v. Cocking, supra); but where the judge decided as to the value on a wrong assumption of a point of law, the court ordered a prohibition (Elston v. Rose, supra).

Where an application for a prohibition is made before the trial, on the ground that the annual value exceeds 50*l.* [now 100*l.*], and is refused, the defendant cannot at the trial impeach the jurisdiction, by evidence to show that the yearly value exceeds 50*l.* [now 100*l.*] (Symons v. Rees, (1875) 1 Ex. D. 416).

Procedure.]—The practice and procedure in an action for the recovery of land are in general the same as in other actions. There are, however, some variations, which will be pointed out in the following pages. Where an action of ejectment is brought, but in the opinion of the judge an action should have been brought for the recovery of possession, the plaintiff is not entitled to any further relief or to any further costs than he would have been in an action for recovery of possession (Order V. r. 3).

The action must be commenced in the district in which the land, tenement, or hereditament sought to be recovered is situate (sect. 59). The action is commenced by plaint, as in ordinary actions (Order V. r. 1), and all persons in whom title is alleged should be made plaintiffs, and the persons alleged to be in possession, or apparent possession, of the property sought to be recovered defendants.

Except by leave of the court (see Order XII. r. 11), no cause of action may be joined with it, except claims for mesne profits, or arrears of rent, or double value in respect of the premises claimed or some part of them, or damages for breach of any contract, under which the same or any part of them are held, or for any wrong or injury to the premises claimed (Order IV. r. 1). But in an action for foreclosure or redemption a plaintiff may join a claim for delivery to him of the mortgaged property on or after the order absolute for foreclosure or redemption, and such an action is not to be deemed an action of ejectment within the meaning of these rules. And if a mortgage security is foreclosed by reason of the default to redeem by a plaintiff in a redemption action, the defendant who has obtained an order of foreclosure may obtain from the judge an order for delivery of possession (Order IV. r. 1). The plaintiff, at the time of the entry of the plaint, must file particulars in writing (Form 6, Appendix A) containing a full description of the property sought to be recovered, and of the annual value thereof, and of the rent, if there be any fixed or paid, in respect thereof (Order VI. rr. 1, 3), and as many copies of the particulars must be filed as there are defendants (Order LIV. r. 13).

The summons must contain the names, addresses, and descriptions of all the plaintiffs and defendants; and have annexed to it a copy of the statement of the property sought to be recovered, sealed with the seal of the court. The summons should, in order to insure its service, be delivered to the bailiff forty clear days at least before the return-day (Order VII. r. 8; Order II. r. 8; Form 252. The rule avoids the point raised in Barker v. Palmer, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 9).

Service must be made in the same manner as in other cases, except that the summons must be served thirty-five clear days before the return-day thereof (Order VII. r. 8); and, further, that in case of vacant possession, if it cannot otherwise be effected, service may be made by posting a copy of the summons on the door of the dwelling-house or other conspicuous part of the property (Order VII. r. 24). This rule does not render Order VII. r. 40 inapplicable to these actions.

Proceedings by Defendant after Service.]—The defendant or his landlord, within one month from the day of the service of the summons, may apply to a judge of the High Court at chambers for a summons calling on the plaintiff to show cause why the action should not be tried in the High Court, on the ground that title to lands or hereditaments of greater annual value than 100*l.* would be affected by the decision; and the judge may, if satisfied that title would be so affected, order the action to be tried in the High Court, and thereupon all proceedings in the county court must be discontinued (see sect. 59; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3).

It is believed that such an order as the above puts an end to the proceedings entirely, and obliges the plaintiff to commence de novo in the High Court.

Any person not named as defendant may, by leave of the court, be allowed to appear and defend, on filing an affidavit, showing that he is in possession, either by himself or his tenant, of the property or some part thereof, describing such part with reasonable certainty. The affidavit must be filed in cases where neither the value nor the rent exceeds 50*l.* a year twelve clear days, and in cases under the extended jurisdiction up to 100*l.* twenty clear days, before the return-day, together with a copy for each plaintiff and defendant (Order X. r. 4; Order XXIIA. r. 11; Form 254).

Upon leave being given, the registrar must enter the name, address, and description of the person filing the affidavit in the plaint book as defendant, in addition to the names of the original defendants, and must in the former class of case ten clear days, and in cases under the extended jurisdiction eighteen clear days, before the return-day give notice by post or otherwise to the plaintiffs and the original defendants of the filing of the affidavit, and that such person will appear and defend at the trial. A copy of the affidavit must be annexed to the notice. In all subsequent proceedings the person filing the affidavit must be named as a defendant (Order X. r. 4; Order XXIIA. r. 11; Form 254).

Limiting Defence.]—Where a defendant desires to limit his defence to a part of the property sought to be recovered, he must file a notice in writing (Form 255) with the registrar in cases under the old jurisdiction twelve, and in cases under the extended jurisdiction twenty clear days at least before the return-day, describing the part with reasonable certainty. He must also deliver to the registrar as many copies of the notice as there are plaintiffs, and an additional copy. The registrar must send one sealed with the seal of the court in the former class of case ten, and in the latter eighteen, clear days before the return-day to each of the plaintiffs (Order X. r. 5; Order XXIIA. r. 11; Order LIV. rr. 13, 14).

Confession by Defendant.]—Any defendant may at any time before the return-day confess the action as to the whole or any part of the land by signing in the presence of the registrar, or of one of his clerks, or of a solicitor, and attested by the person in whose presence it is signed, an admission of the title of the plaintiff, and of his right to possession (Forms 256, 274). The registrar, on receipt of such admission, must forthwith give notice by post to the plaintiff, and the judge or registrar may on the return-day, upon proof of the signature of the defendant by affidavit or otherwise, if not attested by the registrar or his clerk, and without any proof of the plaintiff's title (if no defendant other than such defendant defends), give judgment for the plaintiff for the recovery of possession and for costs. If the plaintiff receives the notice before the return-day he will not be entitled to any costs incurred subsequently to the receipt of the notice, except the costs of attending court, unless the judge or registrar otherwise orders. Where the admission is not signed by all the defendants, the trial will proceed against those who have not signed (Order IX. r. 7; Form 275).

Plaintiff not Proceeding as to Part or Whole.]—If a plaintiff desires to discontinue proceedings as to the whole or any portion of the property, he may discontinue in the mode prescribed by Order IX. r. 1 (Form 253).

Mortgagors.]—In actions by mortgagees against mortgagors, money may be paid into court pursuant to 15 & 16 Vict. c. 76, s. 219. See forms of orders and notice to mortgagee, Forms 276—278.

Evidence.]—The evidence necessary where a landlord is seeking to obtain possession of premises against a tenant who holds over is applicable to cases of ejectment between landlord and tenant. In all other cases the plaintiff in ejectment must recover upon the strength of his own title and not on the weakness of the defendant's (per Lee, C.J., Martin v. Strachan, (1743) 5 T. R. 107, 110 (note)), and he must prove either a title by estoppel or a right to actual possession. The right to possession must be proved to have existed on or before the date of the summons. If, therefore, any notice or demand be necessary to give the plaintiff a right as against the defendant to actual possession, it must be shown that it was served before the date of the summons.

If a landlord seeks to recover possession from a tenant pursuant to a right of re-entry or forfeiture under any proviso or stipulation in a lease for breach of covenant or condition, his right of action is materially affected by the Conveyancing Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41). The Act does not apply to cases of non-payment of rent, nor to breaches of covenant or condition against assigning, underletting or parting with the possession or disposing of the land leased, nor to forfeiture on bankruptcy, or on the taking in execution of the lessee's interest (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41, s. 14 (6), (8); 55 & 56 Vict. c. 13, s. 2): in all other cases (excepting under certain conditions in mining leases) the lessor must, before commencing his action of ejectment, serve notice on the lessee specifying the particular breach complained of, and if the breach is capable of remedy, requiring the lessee to remedy the breach, and in any case requiring the lessee to make compensation in money for the breach. As to what is sufficient notice of breach of covenant to repair, see Fox v. Jolly, (1916) A. C. 1. If the lessee fails within a reasonable time after notice to remedy the breach, if it is capable of remedy, and to make reasonable compensation in money to the satisfaction of the lessor for the breach (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41, s. 14 (1); 55 & 56 Vict. c. 13, s. 4), the lessor is then at liberty to bring his action. The court may, however, on terms relieve against the forfeiture whilst the action is pending (see Quilter v. Mapleson (C. A.), (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 672, 678; 52 L. J. Q. B. 44, for terms imposed); but not after judgment and execution completed by re-entry (Rogers v. Rice (C. A.), (1892) 2 Ch. 170; 61 L. J. Ch. 573). It seems, however, that this relief can be granted only by the High Court (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41, s. 2 (18)).

The above provisions do not apply to mere agreements for leases, nor to tenancies from year to year without actual lease (Swain v. Ayres (C. A.), (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 289; 57 L. J. Q. B. 428). The law as settled by this case has received some modification from 55 & 56 Vict. c. 13, s. 5; it would be unsafe to say what.

Hearing.]—The action of ejectment is tried in the same manner as ordinary actions in the county courts are tried, and either party may require a jury (Order XXII. r. 3).

Where any defendant appears, and the plaintiff does not, the case will be struck out, and the defendant appearing will (at the discretion of the court) have judgment for his costs (Order XXII. r. 6; Form 149). If the plaintiff appears, and no defendant appears, the plaintiff, on proof of service of the summons and of his title, will be entitled to judgment for the recovery of possession.

Where the title of the plaintiff appears to have existed as alleged in the summons, at the time of the entry of the plaint, but to have expired before the return-day, the plaintiff will be entitled to judgment according to the fact that he was so entitled, and for his costs of the action, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXIII. r. 16; Form 260).

Execution.]—Where judgment is given for the plaintiff, execution may issue upon a day to be named in the judgment; and if no day be named, then it may issue after the expiration of fourteen clear days from the day on which judgment shall have been given (Order XXV. r. 65; Forms 264, 265). The judgment is enforced by warrant of possession.

If costs have also been awarded to the plaintiff, there may be either one warrant or separate warrants of execution for the recovery of possession, and for the costs, at the election of the plaintiff (Order XXV. r. 66).

Where judgment is for the defendants or any of them, with costs, execution may issue for the costs upon a day named in the judgment; and if no day be named, then after the expiration of fourteen clear days from the day on which judgment was given (Order XXV. r. 67). Section 59 Notes.

Death of Parties.]—The ordinary practice, in case of death before judgment, applies. For forms of orders to continue proceedings in case of death before judgment, see Forms 268, 269, 272; and for forms of judgment, Forms 270, 271. The practice in cases of death after judgment is governed by Order XXV. r. 14 (see Form 265).

Appeal.]—An appeal lies to the High Court, in all actions of ejectment, in the same manner and subject to the same provisions as described under sect. 120. The appeal lies as of right, irrespective of the value or rental of the premises sought to be recovered (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120; Millett v. Ballard (C. A.), (1904) 2 K. B. 593; 73 L. J. K. B. 989, overruling Earl Shrewsbury v. Garfield, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 765).

Costs.]—The provisions of Order LIII. rr. 8, 10, and 11 as to costs apply to actions of ejectment.

60. A judge shall have jurisdiction to try any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments shall come in question where neither the value of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments in dispute, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, shall exceed the sum of one hundred (a) pounds by the year, or in case of an easement or licence, where neither the value nor reserved rent of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments in respect of which the easement or licence is claimed, or on, through, over, or under which such easement or licence is claimed, shall exceed the sum of one hundred (a) pounds by the year. Title where neither value nor rent exceeds 100*l.* 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 12.

NOTE.—(a) Jurisdiction increased from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of County Courts Act of 1903).

Provisions of County Courts Act.]—The Acts of 1888 and 1903 extend the jurisdiction in actions in which title is in question; but, except as provided by the Act of 1888, county courts have no jurisdiction in actions in which "the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, or to any toll, fair, market, or franchise," is in question (see ante, s. 56). The Act, however, provides that, by consent of the parties, any action assigned to the King's Bench Division of the High Court may be brought in a county court (see post, s. 64); and that when "the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, or to any toll, fair, market, or franchise," incidentally comes in question in any action, the judge shall have power to decide the claim, if both parties consent in writing at the trial (see post, s. 61); this consent is apparently necessary even where the action has been remitted from the High Court (Toon v. Stanbury Eardley, (1906) 22 Times L. R. 536). It is also provided by sect. 60, as amended by sect. 3 of the Act of 1903, that county courts shall have jurisdiction to try any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments shall come in question, where neither the value of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments in dispute, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, shall exceed the sum of 100*l.* by the year, or in case of an easement or licence, where neither the value nor reserved rent of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, in respect of which the easement or licence is claimed, or on, through, over or under which such easement or licence is claimed, shall exceed the sum of 100*l.* by the year. It thus follows that, except by consent of the parties, the courts have still no jurisdiction in an action in which the title to any toll, fair, market, or franchise comes in question (R. v. Halifax C C. (C. A.), (1891) 2 Q. B. 263; 60 L. J. Q. B. 550).

Where county courts have exclusive jurisdiction over any particular matter, or where they have a distinct and unlimited jurisdiction in a kind of action not comprised in the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 56, above mentioned, the jurisdiction is available without regard to the fact of title being in question (R. v. Harden, (1852) 2 E. & B. 188; 22 L. J. Q. B. 299; 95 R. R. 495; Hertford Union v. Kimpton, (1855) 11 Ex. 295; Fordham v. Akers, (1864) 33 L. J. Q. B. 67)—e.g., in replevin.

When the Question Arises.]—Where county courts have not thus complete jurisdiction irrespective of any question of title, two questions have to be decided to ascertain whether the court has jurisdiction or not—first, is title in question? second, does the yearly rent or value exceed 100*l.*? The same questions have to be decided if the action be one for injury to the reversion (Howorth v. Sutcliffe (C. A.), (1895) 2 Q. B. 358; 64 L. J. Q. B. 729). At whatever stage of the suit these two questions can be answered in the affirmative, the jurisdiction of the court ceases. The duty of the judge is then to strike out the cause, unless the defendant expressly consents to the jurisdiction, or unless the defect in the jurisdiction be cured, if it can be so cured, by acquiescence and waiver. The remedy by prohibition is at all times open to the defendant.

Where the particulars so far disclose the nature of the action, a prohibition may be granted before the hearing (Sewell v. Jones, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 525; 19 L. J. Q. B. 372; 90 R. R. 946) (see Symons v. Rees, (1875) 1 Ex. D. 416). At the trial the judge must of necessity inquire into and determine both points for the time, as on them depends the question whether or not he hears the case on the merits (see per Patteson, J., Thompson v. Ingham, (1850) 14 Q. B. 710; 19 L. J. Q. B. 189; 80 R. R. 376). His erroneous decision against the defendant may be reviewed by prohibition, or against the plaintiff, by striking out the cause, by order in the nature of a mandamus. The decision of a judge upon a question of fact going to jurisdiction will not be reviewed in the High Court, at any rate except upon very strong grounds (Brown v. Cocking, (1867) L. R. 3 Q. B. 672; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250; Elston v. Rose, (1868) L. R. 4 Q. B. 4; 38 L. J. Q. B. 6). And where the question of fact upon which the jurisdiction depends is the very question at issue in the cause, the reluctance to interfere will be still stronger (Joseph v. Henry, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 369; Milner v. Rhoden, (1851) 15 Jur. 1037).

When Title is in Question.]—To raise a question of title which will oust the jurisdiction, there must be something more than a mere suggestion or assertion of right; the facts or the evidence must show that title is bonâ fide in dispute (Howorth v. Sutcliffe, (1895) 2 Q. B. 358; 64 L. J. Q. B. 729; Lilley v. Harvey, (1848) 5 D. & L. 648; 17 L. J. Q. B. 357; Mountnoy v. Collier, (1852) 1 E. & B. 630; 22 L. J. Q. B. 124; 93 R. R. 317; Emery v. Barnett, (1858) 4 C. B. N. S. 423; 27 L. J. C. P. 216; 114 R. R. 793; Wickham v. Lee, (1848) 12 Q. B. 521; 18 L. J. Q. B. 21; 76 R. R. 334). Still, if there is a real dispute, the jurisdiction ceases, even if the judge is satisfied that the evidence supporting the claim is insufficient or not entirely bonâ fide (Marsh v. Dewes, (1853) 17 Jur. 558; 95 R. R. 956); but if plaintiff proves possession for fourteen years, which defendant does not dispute, title is not in question (Hawkins v. Rutter, (1892) 1 Q. B. 668; 61 L. J. Q. B. 146). The claim or right set up must be one which, if proved, would be valid in point of law (Hargreaves v. Diddams, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 582; 44 L. J. M. C. 178; Reece v. Miller, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 626; 51 L. J. M. C. 64; Lloyd v. Jones, (1848) 6 C. B. 81; 17 L. J. C. P. 206; 77 R. R. 278).

In Lilley v. Harvey, supra, the claim was for rent, and the defendant said he was the owner of the premises, but he produced no evidence whatever to establish the fact; and the claim was a mere pretence to avoid the jurisdiction. See also Marsh v. Dewes.

The court has jurisdiction in an action to recover arrears of rent-charge, though the value of the land out of which the rent-charge issues exceeds 100*l.* per annum, as the title to land is not in dispute, but only the title to the rent-charge (Bassano v. Bradley, (1896) 1 Q. B. 645; 65 L. J. Q. B. 479).

In trespass for breaking the doors of rooms of a cottage, the point bonâ fide in dispute was whether the plaintiff had let the whole house to the defendant, or had reserved the rooms; title was held to be in question (Chew v. Holroyd, (1852) 8 Ex. 249; 22 L. J. Ex. 95; 91 R. R. 473). If a tenant, sued for use and occupation, relies on the fact that his landlord's title expired during his tenancy, evidence of it will cause title to be in question (Mountnoy v. Collier, (1852) 1 E. & B. 630; 22 L. J. Q. B. 124; 93 R. R. 317).

Leaseholds are hereditaments within the meaning of these provisions (Chew v. Holroyd, (1852) 8 Ex. 249; Tomkins v. Jones (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 599; 58 L. J. Q. B. 222).

Paving or other rates levied under the authority of an Act of Parliament are not hereditaments (Baddeley v. Denton, (1849) 4 Ex. 508; 19 L. J. Ex. 44; Gwynne v. Knight, (1847) 1 Ex. 802; 17 L. J. Ex. 168). So where paving rates were sued for, and the right to levy, and the liability to pay, were both disputed (Baddeley v. Denton, supra); and where a tenant paid rates towards building a church, and then, pursuant to the Act, sued his landlord for a moiety, and he objected that the Act did not apply (Gwynne v. Knight, supra), title was held not to be in question. If, however, the dispute as to liability turns on the question whether the defendant is owner of the land in respect of which the rate is claimed, title will be in question (R. v. Harden, (1852) 2 E. & B. 188; 22 L. J. Q. B. 299; 95 R. R. 495). A custom is not a hereditament, and the mere fact that a custom is set up and disputed, will not raise a question of title (Lloyd v. Jones, (1848) 6 C. B. 81; 17 L. J. C. P. 206; 77 R. R. 278; Davis v. Walton, (1852) 8 Ex. 153; 22 L. J. Ex. 25; 91 R. R. 405); as where the dispute was whether by custom the occupiers of a wharf had a right to overlap an adjoining wharf with their vessels when loading (Davis v. Walton, supra); and as where the defendant set up a custom for the inhabitants of B. to enter the plaintiff's land for the purpose of fishing there (Lloyd v. Jones, supra).

An office held for life is a hereditament; and where the parish clerk of a chapelry sought to recover a customary sum of 4*d.* from a householder, and his title to the office was disputed, title was held to be in question (Stephenson v. Raine, (1853) 2 E. & B. 744; 23 L. J. Q. B. 62; 95 R. R. 775).

Yearly Rent or Value.]—Where A. was tenant of premises, which included a wall, at a rent of 56*l.* per annum, and B. denied A.'s title to the wall, it was held in an action by A. against B. for trespass to the wall, that title to the wall only was in question, and that its annual value was under 20*l.* (Stolworthy v. Powell, (1886) 55 L. J. Q. B. 228; 54 L. T. 795). The cases hereafter referred to afford an indication of the manner in which the rent or value will be estimated, and show that the decision of the judge upon the facts as to the rent or value cannot be reviewed by prohibition, but that when based upon an erroneous conception of the law, it may be so (Brown v. Cocking, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 672; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250; Elston v. Rose, (1868) L. R. 4 Q. B. 4; Crowley v. Vitty, (1852) 7 Ex. 319; 21 L. J. Ex. 135; 86 R. R. 664).

Toll, Fair, Market, or Franchise.]—It has been already stated that the county courts have not, except by consent of the parties, jurisdiction over any action in which the title to any toll, fair, market, or franchise comes in question. Toll, fair, &c.

In such cases, therefore, the question of yearly rent or value would be immaterial, and the jurisdiction would be ousted on showing that such title was in question. A railway company were entitled to charge toll on carriages passing on their line. A coal-owner requested them to carry some trucks of coal; the company refused, without pre-payment. The coal-owner sued the company for refusing to carry the coals. On the trial, the plaintiff contended that the company were not entitled to claim the toll in advance, and that coal-trucks were not carriages within the Act: held, that title to take toll was not in question, and that the judge had jurisdiction to determine whether the company were justified in making the particular charge, and whether a coal-truck fell under a denomination in respect of which toll was payable (Hunt v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1851) 10 C. B. 900; 20 L. J. Q. B. 349; 84 R. R. 840). When the existence or right to the toll is disputed, it is otherwise. The Ramsgate Harbour Act imposed certain rates on vessels passing the harbour. A vessel passed the harbour on her outward and homeward voyage, and a claim for two payments was made and paid under protest: held, in an action to recover back the last payment, that the rates were tolls, and that title to a toll was in question (Adey v. Trinity House, (1853) 22 L. J. Q. B. 3; S. C. nom. R. v. Everett, 1 E. & B 273; 22 L. J. Q. B. 3; 93 R. R. 133).

In an action for infringement of patent, in which the validity of the patent was in question, it was held that title to a "franchise" was in question (R. v. Halifax C. C., (1891) 2 Q. B. 263; 60 L. J. Q. B. 550). A registered trade mark is not a "franchise," but there is no jurisdiction to try an action for its infringement, for such an action is not a personal action within sect. 56 of the County Courts Act, 1887 (Bow v. Hart (C. A.), (1905) 1 K. B. 592; 74 L. J. K. B. 341).

Practice.

Practice.]—When actions under the jurisdiction under consideration are brought in county courts, whatever the amount of damages claimed may be, the plaintiff must, at the time of entry of the plaint, file a concise statement in writing (see Form 279) of his cause of action, and of the particulars thereof, together with as many copies as there are defendants, and one for the judge. A copy of the statement, sealed with the seal of the court, must be annexed to the summons, and the statement will be deemed part of the summons (Order VI. r. 4; Order II. r. 8).

Injunction

An injunction may be obtained against the repetition or continuance of a wrongful act in the cases to which the remedy is applicable. The application may be made, (a) before the trial or hearing, when it must be made under Order XII. r. 6; (b) at or immediately after the trial or hearing, when the order (if any) must be included in the judgment; or (c) subsequently to judgment, when it is made under Order XII. r. 11, on notice supported by affidavit (Order XXII. r. 16).

Jury

Either party may require a jury; and the action will then be tried in the same manner as other actions tried by jury (Order XXII. r. 3).

Judgment.

When the parties at the trial give jurisdiction to the judge to decide questions of title incidentally arising, the judgment will not be evidence of title between the parties or their privies in any other action in the same or any other court (see post, sect. 61).

Appeal.]—An appeal is allowed in these cases, and the appeal lies in all cases as of right, irrespective of the amount claimed (see post, sect. 120). The consent to allow the judge to decide upon a question of title incidentally arising does not prejudice the right of appeal (see post, sect. 61); but the parties may expressly renounce the right of appeal (see post, sect. 123).

Costs.]—Prior to 1867 the judge had no power to give costs where a cause was struck out for want of jurisdiction (Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 26 L. J. Ex. 147; 1 H. & N. 621; 108 R. R. 749); but now he can award costs in the same manner, to the same extent, and recoverable in the same manner, as if the court had jurisdiction, and the plaintiff had not appeared, or had appeared and failed to prove his demand (see post, sect. 114); he may award them even against a defendant (Watson v. Pitts (No. 2), (1899) 1 Q. B. 430; 68 L. J. Q. B. 249).

The judge may, in his discretion, order the costs to be taxed under columns A, B, or C in the scales; if he makes no order they will be taxed under column B (see Order LIII. r. 11).

Jurisdiction by consent in cases of title. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 25.

61. In any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, or to any toll, fair, market, or franchise, shall incidentally come in question, the judge shall have power to decide the claim which it is the immediate object of the action to enforce, if both parties at the hearing shall consent in any writing signed by them or their solicitors to the judge having such power; but the judgment of the court shall not be evidence of title between the parties or their privies in any other action or matter in that court, or in any other court; and such consent shall not prejudice or affect any right of appeal of either of the parties to such first-mentioned action.

It would appear that, where the action has been remitted from the High Court, the county court judge has no jurisdiction to entertain it in the absence of the written consent of the parties or their solicitors (Toon v. Stanbury Eardley, (1906) 22 Times L. R. 536).

Cases where defendant may object to action being tried in the court. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 39.

62. If in any action of contract the plaintiff shall claim a sum exceeding twenty pounds, or, if in any action of tort the plaintiff shall claim a sum exceeding ten pounds, and the defendant shall give notice that he objects to the action being tried in the court, and shall give security, to be approved of by the registrar, for the amount claimed and the costs of trial in the High Court, not exceeding in the whole the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds, and the judge shall certify that in his opinion some important question of law or fact is likely to arise, all proceedings in the court in any such action shall be stayed; but if in any such action the defendant do not object to the same being tried by the court, or shall fail to give the security aforesaid, the court shall dispose of the action in the usual way; and the entry of the plaint in such action shall be a sufficient commencement of the action to prevent the operation of any statute of limitations applicable to the claim; provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent the removal of any action from the court by writ of certiorari in the cases and subject to the conditions in this Act provided.

In these cases the county courts have jurisdiction, unless the defendant determines it by objection in the proper manner.

Objection by Defendant to Jurisdiction.]—Where a defendant intends to avail himself of the above power, he must give notice in writing (see Form 79) of such intention to the registrar and to the plaintiff five clear days (but ten clear days in actions brought under the Act of 1903) at least before the return-day of the summons, and name therein the parties whom he proposes to be his sureties, or state his willingness to deposit money in lieu of giving security, otherwise he will not be entitled to object to a trial in the county court (see Order X. r. 6; Order XXIIA. r. 12. For form of bond, see Form 82).

After giving the notice the defendant must apply ex parte (see Order XII. r. 11) to the judge on affidavit (see Form 80) for his certificate to the effect above mentioned, and if granted, notice must be sent to the plaintiff by the registrar by post or otherwise (see Form 81). The affidavit must specify the important questions of law or fact likely to arise; and as regards questions of law must also specify the facts which are relied on as likely to raise them. If after the grant of the certificate the defendant fails to give security, or to make the deposit, before the return-day, he will not be entitled to object to the action being tried in the county court (see Order X. r. 6; Order XXIIA. r. 12).

When notice of objection, certificate, and due security have been given, the proceedings in the county court are at an end, and the plaintiff must begin de novo by issuing a writ in the High Court, the pleadings in the action being the same as in ordinary actions (see Flitters v. Allfrey, (1874) L. R. 10 C. P. 29; 44 L. J. C. P. 10, n.). No provision limits the time in which the action is to be brought. Where money has been deposited, and no action brought, say for three months, it is conceived that the defendant ought to be entitled to a return of the money. To obtain this result he should apply ex parte or on notice under Order XII. r. 11.

Where a new trial was granted by a county court judge on the application of the defendant, it was held that he could not afterwards object to the new trial being had in the county court (see Campbell v. Fairlie, (1880) 49 L. J. Q. B. 445); and it would appear from the case just cited that the rule is the same whether the new trial be granted by the county court judge or by the High Court, and whether on the application of plaintiff or defendant. Nor can the defendant object, under these provisions, in cases where the county courts have exclusive original jurisdiction—e.g., under the Employers Liability Act (R. v. City of London Court (1) (C. A.), (1885) 14 Q. B. D. 905; 54 L. J. Q. B. 330).

The above provisions as to objecting to the jurisdiction differ from prohibition. It is only by means of the notice and security given by the defendant and the certificate of the judge that the cause, if within the ordinary jurisdiction, becomes one over which it has no jurisdiction. Prohibition would only lie if, after such notice, certificate, and security, the court entertained the cause.

It seems clear that the county court judge making an order under sect. 62 has no power to give the plaintiff costs of the proceedings properly instituted by him in the county court; and as upon an order being made the county court proceedings are ipso facto at an end and a new action has to be brought in the High Court, it seems equally clear that the High Court has no power over the costs in the county court action. There seems to be no remedy but legislation for this unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Objection by Justices.]—If an action be brought in a county court against a justice of the peace (by virtue of the general jurisdiction as to personal actions) for anything done by him in the execution of his office, he may, within six days after service of the summons, himself, or by his solicitor or agent, give notice in writing to the plaintiff that he objects to being sued in the county court for such cause of action. All subsequent proceedings in the county court will then be null and void (see 11 & 12 Vict. c. 44, s. 10). After giving notice of objection, the justice is not entitled to remove the plaint by certiorari into the High Court (Weston v. Sneyd, (1857) 1 H. & N. 703; 26 L. J. Ex. 161; 108 R. R. 787). The above provisions appear to be general, and to apply to all actions against justices for anything done by them as justices. See McVittie v. Marsden, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 653.

Default Summons.]—Where a defendant has been served with a default summons he may also object to the jurisdiction.

No action on judgment. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 27.

63. No action shall be brought in the court on any judgment of the High Court.

But committals may be obtained on High Court judgments. No action may be commenced in the High Court upon an order of the county court for payment of costs (Furber v. Taylor (C. A.), (1900) 2 Q. B. 719; 69 L. J. Q. B. 898).

A county court judgment is a bar to an action on the original consideration in the High Court or any other court (Austin v. Mills, (1854) 9 Ex. 288; 23 L. J. Ex. 40; 96 R. R. 717; Berkeley v. Elderkin, (1853) 1 E. & B. 805; 22 L. J. Q. B. 281; 93 R. R. 405). Contra, when the county court is exercising its bankruptcy jurisdiction (Savill v. Dalton, (1915) 3 K. B. 174; 84 L. J. K. B. 1583).

64. With respect to all actions assigned to the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court, if both parties shall agree by a memorandum signed by them or their respective solicitors that the judge of any court named in such memorandum shall have power to try such action, such judge shall have jurisdiction to try the same therein.

Jurisdiction by agreement. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 23.

Extension of Jurisdiction by Agreement.]—This provision is confined to actions assigned to the King's Bench Division, and will not be available to give jurisdiction in cases of partnership and intestacy.

The proceedings are by plaint and summons, and are in all respects the same as in ordinary cases (Order V. r. 2; Form 13). Where consent is given costs are to be allowed, according to the higher scale (column C), unless the judge otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 14).

Plaint and costs.

By sect. 114, post, whenever an action or matter is commenced which the court has no jurisdiction to try, the judge must order it to be struck out unless the parties consent to the jurisdiction. The consent is not required to be in writing, and the court before granting prohibition in such a case would doubtless inquire whether from the statements and conduct of the parties consent must be inferred (see per Watson, B., in Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 26 L. J. Ex. 148).

Where an action has been commenced in the High Court, and the parties agree under this section to try it in the county court, the action must be recommenced in the county court (Pearce v. Winkworth, (1873) 28 L. T. 710).

65. Where in any action of contract brought in the High Court the claim indorsed on the writ does not exceed one hundred pounds, or where such claim, though it originally exceeded one hundred pounds, is reduced by payment, an admitted set-off, or otherwise to a sum not exceeding one hundred pounds, it shall be lawful for either party to the action, at any time, if the whole or part of the demand of the plaintiff be contested, to apply to a judge of the High Court at chambers, to order such action to be tried in any court in which the action might have been commenced, or in any court convenient thereto; and on the hearing of the application the judge shall, unless there is good cause to the contrary, order such action to be tried accordingly; and thereupon the plaintiff shall lodge the original writ and the order with the registrar of the court mentioned in the order, who shall appoint a day for the trial of the action, notice whereof shall be sent by post or otherwise by the registrar to both parties or their solicitors, and the action and all proceedings therein shall be tried and taken in such court as if the action had been originally commenced therein: and the costs of the parties in respect of proceedings subsequent to the order of the judge of the High Court shall be allowed according to the scale of costs for the time being in use in the county courts, and the costs of the order and all proceedings previously thereto shall be allowed according to the scale of costs for the time being in use in the Supreme Court.

Court in which the Action might have been commenced.]—I.e., if the court had had jurisdiction (Curtis v. Stovin (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 513; 58 L. J. Q. B. 174).

The action may be sent for trial either to the court in which it might have been commenced as of right (see Curtis v. Stovin, supra), or with leave (Burkill v. Thomas (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 312; 61 L. J. Q. B. 322), or to any court which the judge at chambers may deem to be convenient thereto (Burkill v. Thomas, supra). See post, p. 45.

Where the registrar of the court to which any action is transferred, or his partner or clerk, has acted as solicitor for any party to such action, the county court judge may order that the action be transferred to some other court under sect. 85 of the Act (Order XXXIII. r. 19).

Summons and Order.]—The application will be by summons, and the order may be made by a master or district registrar (see R. S. C., Order LIV. r. 12; Order XXXV. r. 6. For order, see R. S. C., Form K, 44); and will be subject to review by the court, in the same mode as orders under sect. 66, post. Where there is an honest intention to apply for judgment under Order XIV., the application to remit should be adjourned until the other application has been disposed of (Smith v. Hurley, (1884) W. N. 99).

The order may be refused if a difficult question of law is expected to arise on the trial (Ginner v. King, (1886) 34 S. J. 294).

Amendment of Particulars.]—The county court judge has jurisdiction, in a remitted action of contract, to amend the particulars by adding a claim in tort (Spring v. Fernandez, (1912) 1 K. B. 294; 81 L. J. K. B. 201).

Payment and Set-off.]—The words "payment, admitted set-off, or otherwise," in the section are exactly the same as were contained in the 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 7, and do not include the words "payment into court," which were in the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 26. The presence of the latter words was held to contemplate something done after action brought to reduce the sum in dispute, and to constitute a difference between the sections (Gray v. Hopper (C. A.), (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 246; 57 L. J. Q. B. 505). The decisions under sect. 7 may therefore be followed in interpreting the section. Hence the order cannot be made unless the payment relied on to reduce the claim be made before action (Hodgson v. Bell (C. A.), (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 525; 59 L. J. Q. B. 231). But if the plaintiff admit a set-off on the writ and so reduce the balance, the order can be made on the application of the defendant, although the set-off was not agreed to before action (Percival v. Pedley, (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 635; Lovejoy v. Cole, (1894) 2 Q. B. 861; 64 L. J. Q. B. 120. See, however, Foster v. Usherwood (C. A.), (1878) 3 Ex. D. 1; 47 L. J. Ex. 30). It was held under sect. 26 that if the plaintiff by his reply, or on an application for an order, admitted a set-off pleaded by the defendant reducing the balance in dispute within the limit, an order could be made (Lewis v. Lewis, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 56; 57 L. J. Q. B. 38), but from the reasoning in Gray v. Hopper it must be inferred that such an order could not now be made.

Counterclaim.]—The words of sect. 65 are to be taken according to their ordinary grammatical construction; a judge at chambers has jurisdiction to order an action of contract in which the claim indorsed on the writ does not exceed 100*l.* to be tried in the county court, although a counterclaim for unliquidated damages, even to the extent of 1,000*l.*, be set up. The jurisdiction, however, ought not to be exercised if it be thought that a counterclaim of any such magnitude is likely to prove substantial (Guilford v. Lambeth, (1894) 2 Q. B. 832; (C. A.), (1895) 1 Q. B. 92; 64 L. J. Q. B. 95). The order cannot be made if the plaintiff has discontinued his action, although the defendant has counterclaimed (R. v. City of London Court (4), (1891) 2 Q. B. 71; 60 L. J. Q. B. 575).

Amount of Claim.]—The order cannot be made if 100*l.* and interest be claimed (Insley v. Jones, (1879) 4 Ex. D. 16; 48 L. J. Ex. 222); nor except by consent if more than 100*l.* is claimed by the writ and excess subsequently abandoned (aliter if excess is abandoned and writ reduced to 100*l.*) (Dierken v. Philpot, (1901) 2 K. B. 380; 70 L. J. K. B. 675); but the objection should be taken by appealing against the master's order, and is too late if taken in the county court on the trial (Dierken v. Philpot, supra); nor if the claim be for unliquidated damages (Knight v. Abbott, (1883) 10 Q. B. D. 11; 52 L. J. Q. B. 131; Bassett v. Tong, (1894) 2 Q. B. 332; 63 L. J. Q. B. 653). But it may be made where, although the writ was originally indorsed for more than 100*l.*, it has been amended by leave and the claim reduced to 24*l.* (Sneade v. Wotherton Barytes Co., (1904) 1 K. B. 295; 73 L. J. K. B. 170). There is no power, on refusing an order, to impose a term that if only a certain sum be recovered, the plaintiff shall be entitled to county court costs, unless the judge at the trial otherwise orders (Insley v. Jones, supra).

In any Court convenient thereto.]—These words mean in any county court which the judge at chambers may deem to be convenient to the parties.

Order.]—The county court judge has no right to inquire into what circumstances were taken into account when the order was made. His duty is to obey the order and try the action. If a county court judge is of opinion that an order of the High Court is invalid for want of jurisdiction, it is his duty to give a judgment on the point, giving his reasons fully for arriving at the conclusion that the order was made without jurisdiction. He should then adjourn the hearing to enable either party to raise the question of jurisdiction in the High Court. This is the course which must now be followed (Rex v. Mellor, (1914) 2 K. B. 588; 83 L. J. K. B. 996; Blades v. Lawrence, (1874) L. R. 9 Q. B. 374; 47 L. J. Q. B. 133). A mere irregularity in the order or the mode of obtaining it would no doubt be waived by appearance in the county court (see Tomkins v. Beard, (1868) 18 L. T. 363; 16 W. R. 729).

Proceedings after Order.]—After the making of the order the plaintiff must lodge with the registrar of the county court the original writ together with pleadings, affidavits, etc., already filed, or copies thereof, and also the order, or a duplicate, and copies of any affidavits on which the order was made, and also a statement of the names and addresses of the several parties to the action, and their solicitors, if any, and if no statement of claim has been delivered in the High Court a concise statement of his particulars, such as would be required on entering a plaint (see Form 280), and as many copies as there are defendants, and an additional copy for the judge (Order LIV. r. 13. (The cost of these copies will now be allowed; see Items 44, 56)). The registrar must then appoint a day for the trial, and indorse on the order or certificate the date of the lodgment, and file it (Order XXXIII. rr. 1, 2). Notice must be given to the parties (see Form 281), by post or otherwise, by the registrar, ten clear days before the day of trial; and he must send to each defendant a sealed copy of the particulars, annexed to the notice (Order XXXIII. r. 1; Order II. r. 8). When any action or matter is remitted in which an infant is suing by next friend the plaintiff must lodge with the registrar the written authority for the use of the name of the next friend filed in the High Court or a copy thereof, and such authority shall be deemed an undertaking to pay costs. See Order V. r. 16.

Money paid into High Court.]—If money has been paid into the High Court before the action was remitted or transferred, the county court registrar must, on the request of any party to the action, apply to the paymaster-general, or, if the money has been paid into a district registry, to the district registrar, to transmit it to him; and when transmitted the money will be subject to the order of the county court as though it had originally been paid into that court (Order XXXIII. r. 3a, Form 283A; and see R. S. C., Order XXII. r. 13a).

Transfer of Money paid into High Court.]—Where any money has been lodged in the High Court in a cause or matter which has been remitted or transferred, the paymaster, on receipt of the requisition (see Supreme Court Funds Rules, 1905, Form 18) from the registrar of the court to which the action has been remitted or transferred, must send to him by post a direction for the payment of the amount named therein. The requisition will be sufficiently authenticated by the seal and signature of the registrar of the court, and will be sufficient evidence of the order remitting or transferring the cause or matter (see Supreme Court Funds Rules, 1905, r. 44).

Proceedings in County Court.]—After the transfer, the action must proceed in the county court, as if it had been originally commenced there (Order XXXIII. rr. 1, 2); and no order, except on appeal, can be made in it by the High Court (Harris v. Judge (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 565; 61 L. J. Q. B. 577; Duke v. Davis (C. A.), (1893) 2 Q. B. 260; 62 L. J. Q. B. 549; Buckley & Beade v. National Electric Theatres, (1913) 2 K. B. 277; 82 L. J. K. B. 739). The action remains in the High Court until the writ and order are lodged with the registrar (D'Errico v. Samuel (C. A.), (1896) 1 Q. B. 163; 65 L. J. Q. B. 197). Unless defence has already been delivered, the defendant must, if he relies on any of the special defences of which notice is required, give notice in the ordinary way (Order XXXIII. r. 3). The judge at the trial may amend or add parties (R. v. Clerkenwell C. C., (1890) 7 T. L. R. 40). In an action for demurrage at a specified rate he may even amend the particulars by substituting a claim for unliquidated damages (Spencer, Whatley & Co. v. Forster & Co., (1905) 1 K. B. 434; 74 L. J. K. B. 288).

Times for Interlocutory Proceedings where Writ indorsed for Sum exceeding £50 or for Damages where no Amount specified.]—Where the amount claimed on the writ exceeds 50*l.*, or where damages are claimed but the amount of the claim is not specified, the notice of trial required by Order XXXIII. r. 1, must be given twenty clear days at least before the day appointed for the trial, and the provisions of Order XXIIA. rr. 6—11, 13, 14, and 16—19, as the times within which proceedings are to be taken, apply. In the application of those rules the day appointed for the trial is to be deemed to be the return day (Order XXXIII. r. 3b).

Order and Service where Defendant added or substituted.]—Where a defendant is added or substituted in an action or matter remitted or transferred to a county court, except where a defendant is substituted under Order XIV. r. 4, an order must be drawn up; and such order, together with a copy of the writ or other proceeding, and of the pleadings, affidavits, and other documents filed in the High Court, and of the statement and particulars filed in the county court pursuant to Order XXXIII. r. 1, and a notice according to the form in the Appendix as to the day upon which he is to attend at the court must be served on the added or substituted defendant according to the rules applicable to the service of default summonses (Forms 94, 95), and the proceedings as against such party will be deemed to have begun only on the service of such notice (Order XXXIII. r. 3c).

High Court Costs.]—The right to the costs incurred in the High Court, of and prior to the order of transfer, is governed by the express words of sect. 65, controlled, as mentioned below, by sect. 116, as extended by sect. 3 of the Act of 1903. A judge of the High Court, after the trial, has no power to make any order as to them (Harris v. Judge (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 565; 61 L. J. Q. B. 577); nor can the county court judge, or the master, by any order, prevent the application of the rules contained in sect. 116 (White v. Cohen (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 580; 62 L. J. Q. B. 274; Dun v. Appleton, (1898) 1 Q. B. 564; 67 L. J. Q. B. 428; overruling Armitage v. Fison, (1890) 67 L. T. 415).

Costs of Application in High Court under Order XIV. in remitted Action.]—The effect of those rules is as follows: If, before the order to remit, the plaintiff recovers judgment under Order XIV. for 20*l.* or more, his costs of and prior to the order must be taxed on the High Court scale, if he recovers anything at all in the county court (see sect. 116, post, and 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). If he recovers no judgment at all under Order XIV., or one for less than 20*l.*, but recovers in all as much as 20*l.*, but less than 100*l.*, his costs will be taxed on the county court scale (Wilson v. Statham, (1891) 2 Q. B. 261; 60 L. J. Q. B. 725; Millington v. Harwood (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 166; 61 L. J. Q. B. 582). If he recovers in all less than 20*l.*, he will be entitled to no costs whatever (White v. Cohen, supra; see sect. 116, post, and 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3).

Recovery, Meaning of.]—Plaintiff claimed 104*l.*, the defendant under an order paid 90*l.*, and by an order the action was remitted to and lodged in the county court; before the return day the defendant paid into court the balance of the claim; the plaintiff was held to have "recovered" 104*l.* and to be entitled to High Court costs prior to, and of, the order to remit, and costs in the county court on C scale (Keeble v. Bennett, (1894) 2 Q. B. 329; 63 L. J. Q. B. 694; approved of in White v. Headlands Patent Electric Storage Battery Co., Ltd. (C. A.), (1899) 1 Q. B. 507; 68 L. J. Q. B. 354; overruling Bailey v. Watson, (1898) 2 Q. B. 270; 67 L. J. Q. B. 802). Where an action was brought for 27*l.* and the defendant paid 8*l.* without any order, the action was subsequently remitted to the county court and particulars claiming 19*l.* delivered, and the plaintiff obtained judgment for 19*l.* Held that plaintiff had in substance "recovered" a sum not less than 20*l.* (Pearce v. Bolton, (1902) 2 K. B. 111; 71 L. J. K. B. 558).

Costs of Successful Defendant.]—The right to costs of a defendant who is successful in the county court depends upon the same principle. In an action for 71*l.*, 23*l.* was paid into court under an order under Order XIV., and the action sent to the county court as to the residue of 48*l.*; the defendant consented to judgment for the 23*l.*; in the county court there was judgment for the defendant in respect of the residue; the defendant was held entitled to costs on C scale from the date of his consent to judgment for the 23*l.*, the subject-matter exceeding 50*l.* (Aston Tube Works v. Dumbell, (1904) 1 K. B. 535; 73 L. J. K. B. 208).

County Court Costs in remitted Actions.]—In remitted actions costs generally follow the event and the rules as to scale apply (see post, sect. 113); in such an action, which could have been commenced in the county court, if the plaintiff in all recovers less than 20*l.* he gets no costs (White v. Cohen (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 580; 62 L. J. Q. B. 274; overruling Armitage v. Fison (1890) 67 L. T. 415); but if he recovers anything, either in the High Court by means of Order XIV. or in the county court by verdict, failing an order as to costs by the county court judge, the defendant gets no costs (Wright v. Bull, (1900) 2 Q. B. 124; 69 L. J. Q. B. 529). The provision in sect. 65 that the costs of proceedings subsequent to the order of remittal are to be allowed according to the scale in use in the county court does not take away the general discretionary power of the judge over costs under sect. 113 (Everall v. Brown, (1905) 2 K. B. 196; 74 L. J. K. B. 708; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 884; 75 L. J. K. B. 960; and see M'Eachen v. Sallyco Mineral Water Co., (1903) 19 T. L. R. 208).

An action in the High Court to recover 46*l.* was remitted; the defendant paid 16*l.* into court without a denial of liability, which the plaintiff refused to accept; the judge found that 16*l.* only was due, and gave judgment for the defendant with costs; held, that the defendant was entitled to the costs of the High Court proceedings, which, having been incurred prior to the payment into court, were not governed by sect. 107, but were under sect. 116 in the judge's discretion (Bennett v. Drake, (1907) 97 L. T. 132). And where 3*l.* was recovered by the plaintiffs in proceedings under Order XIV. and the action was remitted to the county court, where judgment was entered for the defendant with costs on the higher scale, it was held that the county court judge had a discretion under sect. 113 to order the plaintiffs to pay the costs of the proceedings under Order XIV., notwithstanding that the plaintiffs had by those proceedings succeeded in obtaining satisfaction for a portion of their claim (Mentors, Ltd. v. Evans (C. A.), (1912) 3 K. B. 174; 81 L. J. K. B. 1111; 107 L. T. 82).

Where two defendants are represented by the same solicitor, and judgment with costs is given for one and against the other, the successful defendant is entitled to recover from the plaintiff half the costs of the defence (Beaumont v. Senior, (1903) 1 K. B. 282; 72 L. J. K. B. 141).

Although the county court judge cannot interfere with the operation of sect. 116 upon the costs, he is probably able, as the action is to be treated as if commenced in his court, by an order refusing costs generally, to deprive a successful party of costs to which he would otherwise be entitled.

Special Costs.]—The judge may in these actions, by special order, where a solicitor appears without counsel, allow the special items of costs mentioned in the scales, viz., items 31 and 70; and may where the court town (if more than twenty-five miles from Charing Cross) has no local bar within twenty miles of it, and counsel is instructed, allow the additional fee to counsel mentioned in item 86. Under item 93 the judge may also allow a fee to counsel for settling particulars, interrogatories, etc. (Order LIII. rr. 7, 8; and see Scales).

After the transfer, the action becomes a county court action for all purposes, and is subject to the same provisions as to new trial and appeal as other actions (see Moody v. Steward, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 35; 40 L. J. Ex. 25; Bowles v. Drake (C. A.), (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 325, 327, per Brett, L.J.; 51 L. J. Q. B. 66).

Transfer from Liverpool Court of Passage.] By sect. 4 of the Liverpool Court of Passage Act, 1896, a similar power is given to transfer to any court in which it might have been tried any action of contract brought in the Court of Passage where the claim indorsed on the writ is less than 10*l.*, or where the claim, though it originally exceeded 10*l.*, is reduced to a less sum than 10*l.* by payment, an admitted set-off, or otherwise. The jurisdiction is exerciseable by the presiding judge or registrar of the Court of Passage at chambers upon the application of either party to the action. The procedure is the same as in the case of the transfer of actions from the High Court, and the transfer involves the same consequences (59 & 60 Vict. c. 21, s. 4).

Actions of tort in High Court may be remitted to county court. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 10.

66. It shall be lawful for any person against whom an action of tort is brought in the High Court to make an affidavit that the plaintiff has no visible means of paying the costs of the defendant should a verdict be not found for the plaintiff; and thereupon a judge of the High Court shall have power to make an order that, unless the plaintiff shall, within a time to be therein mentioned, give full security for the defendant's costs to the satisfaction of one of the masters of the Supreme Court, or satisfy a judge of the High Court that he has a cause of action fit to be prosecuted in the High Court, all proceedings in the action shall be stayed, or in the event of the plaintiff being unable or unwilling to give such security, or failing to satisfy a judge as aforesaid, that the action be remitted for trial before a court to be named in the order, and thereupon the plaintiff shall lodge the original writ and the order with the registrar of such court, who shall appoint a day for the trial of the action, notice whereof shall be sent by post or otherwise by the registrar to both parties or their solicitors; and the action and all proceedings therein shall be tried and taken in such court as if the action had originally been commenced therein; and the costs of the parties in respect of the proceedings subsequent to the order of the judge of the High Court shall be allowed according to the scale of costs for the time being in use in the county courts, and the costs of the order and all proceedings previously thereto shall be allowed according to the scale of costs for the time being in use in the supreme court.

Actions of Tort.]—The 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 10, was, prior to the Judicature Act of 1873, held to apply to any action of tort (see Craven v. Smith, (1869) L. R. 4 Ex. 146), and the present section doubtless applies whether the action could have been originally commenced in a county court or not—e.g., slander, libel, or seduction, or any other action in which the claim exceeds 100*l.* It was held in Ireland that no order ought to be made, unless the judge was satisfied that the plaintiff ought not to recover more than 50*l.* (Richardson v. Skelly, (1887) 37 L. T. 445), but it is believed that a different rule has obtained in England. An action of detinue may, it is believed, be remitted.

Where plaintiff has been permitted to sue in the High Court as a poor person, the action may still be remitted to the county court under sect. 66, but the order to remit cannot declare that the plaintiff shall be at liberty to sue in the county court as a poor person (Perry v. London General Omnibus Co., (1916) 2 K. B. 335; 85 L. J. K. B. 1609).

In deciding whether the action is in tort or in contract, the substantial cause of action will be considered. If there are distinct claims in contract and in tort, it is doubtful whether any order can be made, unless the claim in contract be abandoned (McDonnell v. Kavanagh, (1887) 37 L. T. 444; Ex parte Baum, (1874) L. R. 9 Ch. 673; 44 L. J. Bk. 25). Where a counterclaim in tort is raised, the petitioner cannot get it remitted under these provisions as an action of tort (Delobbel-Flipo v. Varty, (1893) 1 Q. B. 663; 62 L. J. Q. B. 398).

Where a woman without means brought an action for a slander imputing want of chastity to her, the court held that it was fit to be tried in the High Court (Critchley v. Brown, (1885) 2 Times L. R. 238).

No order can be made on the ground that one plaintiff is abroad and the other insolvent (Sykes v. Sykes, (1869) L. R. 4 C. P. 645; 38 L. J. C. P. 281).

When Power to Remit arises.]—The jurisdiction to make the order arises on the filing of the affidavit of the defendant as to want of visible means—i.e., such as are apparent or can be reasonably ascertained by the defendant; and the question then is whether the plaintiff has any means of paying costs should the verdict be against him. This is a matter of evidence. The judge then has a judicial discretion whether he will make an order (Lea v. Parker (C. A.), (1885) 13 Q. B. D. 835; 54 L. J. Q. B. 38; 33 W. R. 101). The order cannot be made without the affidavit (R. v. Stonor (2), (1883) 50 L. T. 97).

Order to Remit.]—The order may be made by a judge at chambers or by a master of the King's Bench Division, or by a district registrar (R. S. C., Order LIV. r. 12; Order XXXV. r. 6. For form of order, see R. S. C., Form K, 45). It is subject to appeal, but a strong case must be made (Owens v. Woosman, (1867) L. R. 3 Q. B. 469; 37 L. J. Q. B. 159; Palmer v. Roberts, (1873) 29 L. T. 403; 22 W. R. 577, n.; Jennings v. London Omnibus Co. (1), (1874) 30 L. T. 266; Coxwell v. London Omnibus Co., (1879) 27 W. R. 381). The affidavit must be produced on the appeal (Holmes v. Mountstephen, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 474).

At what Time made.]—No time is fixed by statute for making the application; but the ordinary practice is to apply before statement of defence, and where the cause of action is known, before statement of claim. Under the Irish Act it has been held that no order can be made if the defendant has appeared and demanded statement of claim (Nagle v. Sullivan, (1880) 6 L. R. Ir. 149).

To what Court remitted.]—The Act does not specify the court of any particular district as the one to which the cause may be remitted; the judge's discretion is unfettered, though subject to review by the court (see Owens v. Woosman, supra).

If the registrar of the court to which the action is transferred, or his partner or clerk, has acted as solicitor in such action, the county court judge may order it to be transferred under sect. 85 of the Act to some other court (Order XXXIII. r. 19).

Proceedings after Order.]—After the making of the order the same proceedings must be taken, and the same consequences will ensue, as have already been described in regard to actions of contract (ante, pp. 45–47; see sect. 65; Order XXXIII. rr. 1, 2; Order II. r. 8. Particulars must be in accordance with Form 282; notice of trial with Form 283). Where an action brought by a limited company is remitted under sect. 66 on failure of the company to provide security for defendant's costs or to satisfy a judge of the High Court that they have a cause of action fit to be prosecuted in that Court, the county court judge may, if it appears that the company will, if unsuccessful, be unable to pay the defendant's costs, order the company to give security for costs under sect. 278 of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908 (Plasycoed Collieries Co. v. Partridge, (1911) 104 L. T. 807).

Until the plaintiff has lodged the writ and order, the cause remains in the High Court, and a master has jurisdiction to extend the time for giving security for costs (Welply v. Buhl (C. A.), (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 253; 47 L. J. Q. B. 151); or to make any interlocutory order (D'Errico v. Samuel, (1896) 1 Q. B. 163; 65 L. J. Q. B. 197). So an application to dismiss for want of prosecution should be made at chambers in the High Court; in default thereof the county court judge is bound to hear the case, although there may be delay in lodging the order (R. v. Holroyd, (1883) 32 W. R. 370; S. C. nom. Driscol v. King, 49 L. T. 599).

For proceedings where infant suing by next friend is concerned, see Order V., r. 16.

Transfer of Money paid into High Court.]—As to transfer of money paid into the High Court, see ante, p. 46.

Proceedings after Lodging Order.]—When the transfer has been completed, the county court will have the same jurisdiction as if the action had been commenced there, and the action will be subject to the county court rules (Moody v. Steward, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 35; 40 L. J. Ex. 25; Bowles v. Drake, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 325; 51 L. J. Q. B. 66; Order XXXIII. rr. 2, 3).

Notice of Defences.]—Notice of special defences must be given in the prescribed manner, unless a defence has already been delivered in the High Court. If the action be one of libel or slander (over which the county court has no original jurisdiction), and the defendant relies as a defence upon the fact that the libel or slander complained of is true, he must state in his notice that it is true in substance (Order X. r. 16). If in libel or slander he does not rely on the truth of it, but relies, in mitigation of damages, on the circumstances under which the libel or slander was published, or the character of the plaintiff, he must in his notice give particulars of the matters as to which he intends to give evidence (Order X. r. 17). If he relies upon an apology, or payment into court and apology, under the Libel Act, 1843, ss. 1, 2, he must give notice in writing of his intention to rely on it (Forms 86, 87), signed by himself or his solicitor, to the registrar, five clear days at least before the day of trial (Order XXXIII. r. 4).

Where a common-law action of negligence is remitted the plaintiff may add in the county court an alternative claim under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880 (Wood v. Weber, (1908) 99 L. T. 195).

Payment into Court.]—Money may be paid into court by way of damages with an apology, in actions for libel contained in any public newspaper or other periodical publication, by virtue of the Libel Act, 1843, s. 2, and when so paid in, the ordinary rules of practice as to payment into courtwill apply so far as they are applicable (Order IX. r. 14). So money can be paid into court in any action sent to a county court under the section under consideration (see post, sect. 107). The transmission to the county court of money paid into the High Court or a district registry before the action was transferred or remitted is provided for by Order XXXIII. r. 3a.

Trial.]—Any variance between writ and statement of claim should be amended at the trial (Johnson v. Palmer, (1878) 4 C. P. D. 258; 27 W. R. 941). The judge may amend or add parties as in other cases (R. v. Clerkenwell, (1890) 7 T. L. R. 40. Mulleneisen v. Coulson, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 667; 57 L. J. Q. B. 334; 36 W. R. 524, was decided on the particular words of the 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 10, and is no longer of any authority). He may in a proper case refuse to try, and stay proceedings (R. v. Bayley, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 411; 51 L. J. Q. B. 244, post, p. 504).

Costs.]—The costs after the order of transfer must be taxed on the county court scale, and the costs of and prior to the order on the High Court scale, except where the plaintiff recovers a sum less than 20*l.* (see sects. 66, 116), in which case all the costs must be taxed on the county court scale; and except also where he recovers less than 10*l.*, in which case he will apparently be entitled to no costs whatever (see Wilson v. Statham, (1891) 2 Q. B. 261; 60 L. J. Q. B. 725; White v. Cohen (C. A.), ante, p. 47). The county court judge's power over the costs is the same as in actions of contract.

Special Costs.]—As to special costs allowable in these actions, see Order LIII. rr. 7, 8, and items 31, 70, 86, and 93, in the scales.

New Trial and Appeal.]—After the order of transfer, the action becomes a county court action for all purposes, and is subject to the same provisions as to new trial and appeal as other actions (Moody v. Steward, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 35; 40 L. J. Ex. 25; Jennings v. London Omnibus Co. (2), (1874) 30 L. T. 640; Bowles v. Drake (C. A.), (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 325; 51 L. J. Q. B. 66).

Jurisdiction in equity.

67. The court shall have and exercise all the powers and authority of the High Court in the actions or matters hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,)

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, ss. 1, 2. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 9.

1. By creditors, legatees (whether specific, pecuniary, or residuary), devisees (whether in trust or otherwise), heirs-at-law, or next of kin, in which the personal or real or personal and real estate against or for an account or administration of which the demand may be made shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds:
2. For the execution of trusts in which the trust estate or fund shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds:

Section 67.

3. For foreclosure or redemption or for enforcing any charge or lien, where the mortgage, charge, or lien shall not exceed in amount the sum of five hundred pounds:
4. For specific performance of or for the reforming, delivering up, or cancelling of any agreement for the sale, purchase, or lease of any property, where in the case of a sale or purchase the purchase-money, or in the case of a lease the value of the property, shall not exceed the sum of five hundred pounds:
5. Under the Trustees Relief Acts, or under the Trustee Acts, or under any of such Acts, in which the trust estate or fund to which the action or matter relates shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds:
6. Relating to the maintenance or advancement of infants in which the property of the infant shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds:
7. For the dissolution or winding up of any partnership in which the whole property, stock, and credits of such partnership shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds:
8. Actions for relief against fraud or mistake in which the damage sustained or the estate or fund in respect of which relief is sought shall not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds.

In all such actions or matters the judge shall, in addition to the powers and authorities possessed by him, have all the powers and authorities, for the purposes of this Act, of a judge of the Chancery Division of the High Court; and the treasurer, registrar, and high bailiff respectively shall in all such actions or matters discharge any duties which an officer of the said division can discharge, either under the order of a judge of the said division, or under the practice thereof, and all officers of the courts shall, in discharging such duties, conform to any rules or orders made in that behalf under this Act.

Jurisdiction.]—The various kinds of equity actions and matters over which county courts have now jurisdiction are described in the following pages, and no action not coming within the classes there described can be safely commenced in a county court. Thus it is believed that the old equity action to enforce a charge on a married woman's separate estate cannot be commenced in a county court.

The provisions enabling parties to give jurisdiction by agreement under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64, do not extend to equity actions and matters; but an indirect power is given by sect. 114 to confer jurisdiction at the trial, as where there is no jurisdiction the judge must order any action or matter to be struck out, unless the parties consent to the jurisdiction.

By order of Judge of High Court.]—By sect. 68 a judge of the High Court has power to make an order, even without consent, that an equity action in progress and beyond the jurisdiction in point of amount shall remain in the county court.

Jurisdiction concurrent.]—The jurisdiction is concurrent with, and not exclusive of, that of the High Court.

Costs.]—The judges of the High Court have power, by deprivation of costs, to punish a plaintiff who invokes the more expensive machinery of the High Court, instead of that of the county court; but the practice has not been uniform (Scotto v. Heritage, (1866) L. R. 3 Eq. 212; 36 L. J. Ch. 123; Brown v. Rye, (1874) L. R. 17 Eq. 343; 43 L. J. Ch. 228; Simons v. M'Adam, (1868) L. R. 6 Eq. 324). In one case, Bacon, V.-C., allowed only county court costs in an action to foreclose a mortgage for 65*l.* (Crozier v. Dowsett, (1885) 31 Ch. D. 67; 55 L. J. Ch. 210); but Kekewich, J., allowed costs on the High Court scale in an action to try the right to a piece of land less than 20*l.* in value (Williams v. Allen, W. N., (1889) 48; 60 L. T. 103).

The county courts have all the power and authority of the High Court in the following actions and matters:—

(1) Administration.]—In all actions by creditors, legatees (whether specific, pecuniary or residuary), devisees (whether in trust or otherwise), heirs-at-law, or next of kin, in which the personal or real, or personal and real estate against or for an account or administration of which the demand may be made, does not exceed in amount or value the sum of 500*l.* The assignees and representatives of the various classes of persons above enumerated have the same power to institute proceedings under it as the various classes themselves (Turner v. Rennoldson, (1873) L. R. 16 Eq. 37; 42 L. J. Ch. 510. For forms of orders, see Forms 304, 323).

Where Value of Estate is above £500.]—Where the value of the estate is not shown on the face of the proceedings, and can only be ascertained by the county court judge hearing and determining the question in dispute between the parties, it is his duty to try that question. If it transpires that the value of the estate is above 500*l.* he must transfer the action to the Chancery Division of the High Court under sect. 68 (Sunderland v. Glover, (1915) 1 K. B. 393; 84 L. J. K. B. 266).

Effect of Judicature Act, 1875, on Administrations.]—It is not possible here to discuss the law of administration, but attention may be directed to sect. 10 of the Judicature Act, 1875, which enacts that when the assets of a deceased person are insufficient for the payment of his debts, the rules which obtain in bankruptcy shall apply, (1) as to the rights of secured and unsecured creditors, (2) as to debts and liabilities provable, (3) as to the valuation of annuities and contingent liabilities. And the section further provides, that all persons who in bankruptcy would be entitled to prove for and receive dividends out of the estate, may come in under an order for administration and make their claims.

Where the assets are more than sufficient for claims, the court may allow payment of the income of funds in court to parties interested. This power was conferred by 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 57, and although the Act is repealed, the High Court and hence the county court still has the power. Moreover, the repealing statute, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 49, by s. 7, expressly retains the power for inferior courts of civil jurisdiction.

Where commenced.]—The action must be commenced, where both plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business within one or more of the Metropolitan districts, either in the court of the district in which the plaintiff dwells or carries on business or in that in which the defendant dwells or carries on business (see sect. 84; R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309). In the cases to which this provision does not apply the action must be commenced either in the court within the district of which the deceased had his last place of abode in England or Wales (20 Geo. II.

Section 67 Notes.

c. 42, s. 3), or in the court of the district in which one of the executors or administrators has his place of abode (sec 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 75, sub-s. 3).

(2) Execution of Trusts.]—The courts have jurisdiction in all actions for the execution of trusts, in which the trust estate or fund does not exceed in amount or value 500*l.* (form of particulars, Form 8B).

This jurisdiction applies not only to express or implied trusts, but also to constructive trusts arising by operation of law; thus, where a mortgagee of leaseholds took a renewed lease to himself, it was held that the county court had jurisdiction to declare him a trustee for the mortgagor (Clayton v. Renton, (1867) L. R. 4 Eq. 158; 36 L. J. Ch. 428).

Where commenced.]—The action must be commenced, where both plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business within one or more of the Metropolitan districts, either in the district in which the plaintiff dwells or carries on business, or in that in which the defendant dwells or carries on business (see post, sect. 84; R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309). In the rest of England and Wales it must be commenced in the district in which any of the defendants dwell or carry on business, or, by leave, in the other districts mentioned in the section (see post, sect. 74). But the defendant should be a substantial defendant, not merely a nominal defendant in the same interest with the plaintiff (Baker v. Wait, (1869) L. R. 9 Eq. 103; 39 L. J. Ch. 204).

Where in proceedings concerning a trust a compromise is proposed, and some of the persons interested are not parties, but other persons in the same interest are before the court and assent to the compromise, the judge may, if satisfied that the compromise is for the benefit of the absentees, and that to require service on them would cause unreasonable expense or delay, approve the compromise, which will then bind the absent persons, unless the order has been obtained by fraud or non-disclosure (Order III. r. 9).

The following special provisions apply to actions for administration and for the execution of trusts.

Actions for Administration and for the Execution of Trusts.]—The rules extend nearly the whole of the provisions of Order XVI. of the High Court rules in regard to these actions to county courts.

Parties.]—Any residuary legatee or next of kin entitled to a judgment or order for administration of personal estate may obtain it without serving the remaining residuary legatees or next of kin (Order III. r. 20). So a legatee interested in a legacy charged on real estate, and a person interested in the proceeds of real estate directed to be sold, may obtain a judgment or order for administration without serving any other legatee or person interested in such proceeds (Order III. r. 21). A residuary devisee or heir may obtain the like judgment or order without serving any co-residuary devisee or co-heir (Order III. r. 22).

Any of several cestuis que trust under any deed or instrument may obtain a judgment or order for the execution of the trusts under any deed or instrument without serving any other cestui que trust (Order III. r. 23). In an action to execute the trusts of a will it is unnecessary to make the heir-at-law a party (Order III. r. 32).

In actions for the prevention of waste or otherwise for the protection of property, one person may sue on behalf of himself and all persons having the same interest (Order III. r. 24).

Any executor, administrator, or trustee entitled to it, may have a judgment or order against any one legatee, next of kin, or cestui que trust, for the administration of the estate or the execution of the trusts (Order III. r. 25. See Re Peppitt, (1877) 4 Ch. D. 230; 46 L. J. Ch. 95).

The judge may require any person to be made a party, and may give the conduct of the action to such person as he may think fit, and may make such order in any particular case as he may think just for placing the defendant on the record on the same footing in regard to costs as other parties having a common interest with him in the matters in question (Order III. r. 26).

When the right of an heir-at-law, or customary heir, or the next of kin, or of a class, depends on the construction of an instrument, the judge may, in the cases mentioned in the rule, appoint persons to represent them, and they will then be bound by the judgment (Order III. r. 18). Where an heir-at-law or customary heir, or next of kin or class, is interested, if in his judgment the circumstances render it expedient on account of the difficulty of ascertaining the persons, or on the ground of expense, he may appoint a person to represent the heir or all or any of the absent parties, and the judgment or order will bind the persons so represented (Order III. r. 19). Where there is no personal representative of a deceased person who was interested in the matter in question, the judge may proceed without such representative, or appoint some person to represent the estate in the manner mentioned in the rule, and any order made by the judge will bind the estate (Order III. r. 33).

A plaint for administration has been held to be sufficient without an allegation that the estate did not exceed in value or amount 500*l.* (Cheesewright v. Thorn, (1869) 38 L. J. Ch. 615). For form of particulars, see Form 8A, Appendix A., post, p. 873; form of order, Forms 304, 323, post, pp. 833, 844.

Claim for Partial Administration.]—It is not obligatory on the judge in an action for the execution of a trust, or for the administration of an estate, to make an order for a general execution or administration, if the questions at issue can be properly determined without it, but he may make any order that may be necessary for determining such questions (Order XXII. r. 14. See Jones v. Blake (C. A.), (1885) 29 Ch. D. 913; 54 L. J. Ch. 880, as to the proper order to be made in and use of administration actions). This and the next rule give the judge a discretion in all cases to make or refuse a general order or administration (Pearson v. Pearson, (1883) 56 L. T. 445).

The questions which may be submitted are as follows:—

(a) Any question affecting the rights or interests of any person claiming to be creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin, or heir-at-law, or cestui que trust:

(b) The ascertainment of any class of creditors, legatees, devisees, next of kin, or others:

(c) The furnishing of any particular accounts by the executors or administrators or trustees, and the vouching (when necessary) of such accounts:

(d) The payment into court of any money in the hands of the executors or administrators or trustees:

(e) Directing the executors or administrators or trustees to do or abstain from doing any particular act in their character as such executors or administrators or trustees:

(f) The approval of any sale, purchase, compromise, or other transaction:

(g) The determination of any question arising in the administration of the estate or trust.

The plaintiff's particulars must show concisely the question or matter upon which the decision of the court is required, and must show that the plaintiff is willing to renounce his right to an order for general administration (Order VI. r. 5).

Notice of Defence.]—Whenever they are applicable, the rules as to special defences apply, and it is believed that under Order X. r. 19, there is an obligation to state concisely the facts on which the defendant relies by way of defence, not only in these, but in all equity actions; and that in the event of his not doing so, he might be prevented from relying on such facts by way of defence.

Appearance on Claims by Third Persons.]—No party, other than the executor or administrator, is, without leave of the court, entitled to appear either in court or chambers on the claim of any person not a party against the estate of the deceased, in respect of any debt or liability. The court may direct or give liberty to any other party to appear on such terms as it may think fit (Order III. r. 34).

Interest on Debts and Legacies.]—Creditors will be entitled to interest on such debts as carry interest at the agreed rate, or at 4*l.* per cent. from the date of the order, and to their costs of proof (Order XXIV. rr. 22, 24, 25). Legacies will carry interest at 4*l.* per cent. from the end of a year from the testator's death, unless otherwise ordered, or a different rate or time be appointed by the will, and in that case according to the will (Order XXIV. r. 26).

Order where no Accounts.]—Upon an application by a creditor or beneficiary under a will, intestacy, or deed of trust, where no accounts or insufficient accounts have been rendered, the judge may (in addition to his other powers) (a) order the application to stand over for a certain time, and that the executors, administrators, or trustees meanwhile render to the applicant a proper statement of their accounts, with an intimation that, if not done, they may be made to pay the costs of the proceedings; (b) when necessary, to prevent proceedings by other creditors or by persons beneficially interested, make the usual judgment or order for administration, with a proviso that no proceedings are to be taken under it without leave of the judge in person (Order XXII. r. 15).

A creditor is entitled to the costs of establishing his debt, which are to be fixed by the court and added to the debt (Order XXIV. r. 22).

Notice of Judgment.]—Wherever in an action for administration of the estate of a deceased person, or the execution of the trusts of any deed or instrument, or for the partition or sale of any hereditaments, a judgment or order has been pronounced or made, the judge may direct service of notice (Form 317) of the judgment or order on any persons interested in the estate, or under the trust, or in the hereditaments. After such notice the persons so served will be bound by the proceedings; but any of them may, at the next sitting of the court after service, or by leave of the judge at any other sitting, apply to the judge to discharge, vary or add to the judgment or order (Order III. r. 27).

The notice will be prepared by the registrar, who must annex to it a copy of the judgment or order, and issue it to the bailiff for service, delivering to him also a copy of the notice (Order III. r. 28). The notice, whether the person to be served is or is not an infant or person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, must be served in the same manner as a summons, and the bailiff must make on the copy of the notice the usual indorsement of the fact, mode, and place of service (Order III. r. 29).

Service of notice of judgment may be dispensed with, or substituted service or notice by advertisement or otherwise ordered, by the judge in cases where by reason of absence or for other sufficient cause he thinks fit to take that course (Order III. r. 30). The judge may order that the persons as to whom service is dispensed with shall be bound as if served (Order III. r. 31).

Costs.]—The court has complete discretion over the costs in these as in other actions (see sect. 113, post; Plumb v. Craker, (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 40; 55 L. J. Q. B. 116. See, as to the above provisions, Annual Practice, notes to Order XVI.).

(2) Execution of Trusts.]—See note on p. 54.

(3) Foreclosure and Redemption.]—The county courts have jurisdiction in all actions for foreclosure or redemption, or for enforcing any charge or lien whenever the mortgage, charge, or lien does not exceed 500*l.* in amount (sect. 67, sub-s. 3. For forms of particulars, see Form 8C, post, p. 874, and Form 311, post, p. 837; forms of orders and judgment, Forms 307—310, 312). The jurisdiction depends on the amount of the charge at the time of action (Shields, Whitley, etc., Building Society v. Richards, (1901) 84 L. T. 587).

Section 67 Notes.

The court may direct a sale instead of a foreclosure (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41, s. 25; Annual Practice, notes to Order LI. r. 1, R. S. C.). The jurisdiction to enforce a charge is not affected by the fact that the mortgagor has become bankrupt (Medhurst v. Golder, (1867) 16 L. T. N. S. 50). An action by parties claiming through a mortgagor to set aside a sale made by a mortgagee, is an action for redemption (Powell v. Roberts, (1869) L. R. 9 Eq. 169; 39 L. J. Ch. 44). Charges under sect. 257 of the Public Health Act, 1875, may be enforced under these provisions (Tottenham v. Rowell (C. A.), (1880) 15 Ch. D. 378; 50 L. J. Ch. 99; Hornsey v. Monarch Building Society (C. A.), (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 1; 59 L. J. Q. B. 105). The period of limitation for bringing the action is twelve years: see Wakefield and Barnsley Union Bank, Ld. v. Yates, (1916) 1 Ch. 452. The High Court will not exercise jurisdiction in any case where the charge sought to be enforced is less than 10*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 3. For form of particulars, see Form 8c, Appendix A., post, p. 874, and Form 311, post, p. 837; forms of orders and judgment, Forms 307—310, 312).

Where commenced.]—The action must be commenced, where both plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business within one or more of the Metropolitan districts, either in the district in which the plaintiff dwells or carries on business, or in that in which the defendant dwells or carries on business (see post, sect. 84; R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309). In the rest of England and Wales it must be commenced in the court within the district of which the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any part thereof, are situate (see post, sect. 75, sub-s. 1).

(4) Specific Performance, etc.]—The county courts have also jurisdiction in actions for enforcing the specific performance of or the reforming, delivering up or cancelling of any agreement for the sale, purchase or lease of any property, where, in the case of a sale or purchase, the purchase-money, or, in the case of a lease, the value of the property, does not exceed 500*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 4). As to the principles on which specific performance of a contract made by correspondence should be granted, see Hussey v. Horne-Payne, (1879) 4 A. C. 311; 48 L. J. Ch. 846; Bellamy v. Debenham, (1890) 45 Ch. D. 481; 60 L. J. Ch. 166; Perry v. Suffield's, Limited, (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 460. The test of the value of the property, in the case of a sale or purchase, for the purpose of jurisdiction is the amount of the purchase-money; therefore an agreement to purchase an equity of redemption for 75*l.* is within the jurisdiction, although the property, if unencumbered, is worth more than 500*l.* (R. v. Judge Whitehorne, (1904) 1 K. B. 827; 73 L. J. K. B. 344). But in the case of a lease the value of the property is the test; there is therefore no jurisdiction to order the cancellation of a lease where the value of the freehold exceeds 500*l.*, although neither the value of the lessor's nor of the lessee's interest exceeds that amount (Angel v. Jay, (1911) 1 K. B. 666; 80 L. J. K. B. 458). An agreement to grant a licence to use a way over land is not within the section (R. v. Westmoreland C. C., (1888) 36 W. R. 477). As to principles upon which a Court of Equity acts: see Rutherford v. Acton-Adams, (1915) 84 L. J. P. C. 238. Not when parties have agreed that time is to be the essence of the bargain, and the time has elapsed (Steedman v. Drinkle, (1916) 85 L. J. P. C. 79).

Damages.]—By the Act known as Lord Cairns' Act (21 & 22 Vict. c. 27), it was provided, that in all cases in which the court of Chancery had jurisdiction to entertain an action for the specific performance of any covenant, contract or agreement, it might award damages either in addition to or in substitution for specific performance, such damages to be assessed in such manner as the court might direct (sect. 2), either by jury or otherwise (sect. 3). County court judges acquired the powers of this Act under the general powers of Chancery judges given to them by the 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 1, and now continued by 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 67, as well as by sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873 (see post, sect. 187).

Lord Cairns' Act is repealed by 46 & 47 Vict. c. 49; but sect. 7 would, if it were necessary, prevent the destruction of its operation as regards county courts. It is well settled, however, that notwithstanding the repeal, the High Court has all the powers given to it by the Act (Chapman v. Auckland (C. A.), (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 294; 58 L. J. Q. B. 504; and see Annual Practice, notes to Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25 (11), and to Statute Law Revision Act, 1883, s. 5); hence there is no doubt that county court judges possess the same powers.

Where commenced.]—These actions must be commenced in the same court as actions for the execution of trusts (ante, p. 54. See form of particulars, Form 8D, Appendix A., post, p. 874, and Form 313, post, p. 838).

(5) Partnership.]—The county courts have jurisdiction over actions for the dissolution or winding up of any partnership in which the whole property, stock, and credits of such partnership do not exceed in amount or value 500*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 7); see 53 & 54 Vict. c. 39, s. 35, as to when a partnership may be decreed. As to winding up of a partnership between a British subject and an alien enemy, see Hugh Stevenson & Son, Ld. v. Aktiengesellshaft für Cartonnagen Industrie, (1916) 1 K. B. 763; 85 L. J. K. B. 846.

Where commenced.]—These actions must, when both plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business in one or more of the Metropolitan districts, be commenced either in the plaintiff's district or the defendant's (see post, sect. 84; R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309). In the rest of England and Wales they must be commenced in the court within the district of which the partnership business was or is carried on (see post, sect. 75, sub-s. 4. Forms of particulars, Form 8E, Appendix A., post, p. 874; forms of order and judgment, Forms 315, 316, post, p. 840).

(6) Fraud or Mistake.]—The county courts have jurisdiction over actions for relief against fraud or mistake in which the damage sustained or the estate or fund in respect of which the relief is sought does not exceed in amount or value the sum of 500*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 8). This provision confers, for the first time, power on the county courts to set aside or reform deeds or documents on the ground of fraud or mistake.

If the county court in an interlocutory application, and after hearing evidence, and without objection to the form of the proceedings, sets aside a deed as fraudulent, an action brought in the High Court raising the question decided below will be stayed as frivolous (Stephenson v. Garnett, (1898) 1 Q. B. 677 (C. A.); 67 L. J. Q. B. 447).

Mistake.]—The Court must be satisfied when asked to rectify a document on the ground of mistake, that the proposed rectification represents the intention of both parties to the contract (see Fowler v. Sugden, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1090).

Where commenced.]—These actions must be commenced in the same court as actions for the execution of trusts (see ante, p. 54).

[The Partition Acts and Settled Land Acts are now dealt with in Part V.]

(7) Maintenance or Advancement of Infants.]—The provisions of the Guardianship of Infants Act will be found in Part V. The county courts have jurisdiction in all matters relating to the maintenance or advancement of infants, in which the property of the infant does not exceed in amount or value 500*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 6).

Where commenced.]—These proceedings, which are commenced by petition (Order XXXVIII. r. 1), must be commenced, apparently, in the court within the district of which any of the persons who stand in the position of defendants, and on whom the petition must be served, dwell or carry on business, or by leave, in the other districts mentioned in the section (see sect. 74, post). Where, however, all parties dwell or carry on business within one or more of the Metropolitan districts, the proceedings must apparently be commenced in accordance with the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 48 (see R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309).

(8) Trustee Act, 1893.]—For the important sections, see Part V. The Trustee Acts were the Acts of 1850 and 1852 (13 & 14 Vict. c. 60, 15 & 16 Vict. c. 55). The Trustees Relief Acts were the Acts of 1847 and 1849 (10 & 11 Vict. c. 96, 12 & 13 Vict. c. 74); and the 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, intituled "An Act to further amend the Law of Property and to relieve trustees." By sect. 67 of the County Courts Act, 1888, jurisdiction was conferred on county courts under the Trustee and Trustees Relief Acts, in cases in which the trust estate or fund to which the action or matter relates did not exceed in amount or value 500*l.* (sect. 67, sub-s. 5). The Trustee Act, 1893, practically repeals the whole of these Acts (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 51; Part V.), and does not directly confer any jurisdiction on the county courts under the new Act. The only reference to a county court is to be found in a section which says that the provisions of the Act with respect to the High Court shall, in "their application to cases within the jurisdiction of a county court, include that court" (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 46); but it is confidently submitted that that section, assisted by sect. 38 of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63), which enacts that "where this Act or any Act passed after the commencement of this Act repeals and re-enacts, with or without modification, any provisions of a former Act, references in any other Act to the provisions so repealed, shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as references to the provisions so re-enacted," gives the county courts jurisdiction in all those cases up to 500*l.* in which the provisions of the repealed Acts, which formerly applied, are substantially re-enacted. The principal provisions of the old Acts which are re-enacted are referred to below.

Sect. 30 of the "Act to further amend the Law of Property and to relieve trustees" (22 & 23 Vict. c. 35) is repealed by the Trustee Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 51; Part V.); but no corresponding provisions appear, and the Interpretation Act gives no help. The repealed section enabled trustees and others to apply to the court for the opinion, advice, or direction of the judge on any question respecting the management of the trust property; and if, as appears to be the case, the right to make such applications has now gone, a valuable right has been lost in the process of "consolidation."

Where commenced.]—These proceedings which are commenced by petition (Order XXXVIII. r. 1) must be commenced in the court within the district of which any of the persons making the application resides (see post, sect. 75 (2)); but where there are respondents, and they and the petitioners all dwell or carry on business within one or more of the metropolitan districts, the proceedings may apparently also be commenced in any of the courts in which the respondents dwell or carry on business (see post, sect. 84; R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309).

Appointment of New Trustees.] — The High Court may, whenever it is expedient to appoint a new trustee or trustees, and it is inexpedient, difficult, or impracticable to do so without the assistance of the court, order the appointment of a new trustee or trustees either in substitution for, or in addition to, any existing trustee or trustees, or although there is no existing trustee. In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the above provision the court may order the appointment of a new trustee in substitution for a trustee who is convicted of felony, or is a bankrupt (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 25 (1)). This jurisdiction may be exercised on summons or petition (In re Dawson's Trusts, W. N., (1899) 134). The section gives no power to appoint an executor or administrator (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 25 (3)).

Verification of Consent to act.]—The consent of a person to act as a trustee or a new trustee is sufficiently evidenced by a written consent signed by him and verified by the signature of his solicitor (Order XIX. r. 13; Form 332).

The order, and any consequential order or conveyance, will operate no further than an appointment of new trustees under a power in any instrument would have operated (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 25 (2)).

Vesting Orders as to Land.]—In the following cases, subject to the provisions of the section, the High Court may make a vesting order vesting land in such person and such manner, and for such estate as the court may direct, or releasing or disposing of the contingent right to such person as the court may direct (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 26).

The cases referred to are (1) where the High Court appoints or has appointed a new trustee; (2) where a trustee or mortgagee (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 28) is (a) an infant, or (b) is out of the jurisdiction of the High Court, or (c) cannot be found; (3) where it is uncertain which of several trustees was the survivor; (4) where as to the last trustee known it is uncertain whether he is living or dead; (5) where there is no heir or personal representative to a trustee who has died intestate, or where it is uncertain who is his heir or personal representative or devisee; (6) where a trustee has wilfully refused or neglected to convey land, or release a contingent right for twenty-eight days after the date of a due requirement (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 26).

A similar order may be made as to the contingent rights of unborn persons who will become trustees (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 27).

So a vesting order may be made where a mortgagee has died without entry and the mortgage is satisfied, if the heir or devisee of the mortgagee is out of the jurisdiction, or refuses to convey, or it is uncertain which of several was the survivor, or whether such survivor is living or dead, or if the survivor has died intestate with an heir (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 29).

Where the court makes a judgment for the sale or mortgage of land, persons entitled who are parties will be deemed to be trustees, and the High Court may make an order vesting the property in the purchaser, mortgagor, or any other person (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 30; and see sect. 31 for vesting order consequent on judgment for specific performance).

In any of these cases the court may, instead of making a vesting order, appoint any person to convey (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 33; see sect. 32 for effect of vesting order generally, and see sect. 34 as to copyhold).

A vesting order may be made in respect of stock and choses in action when the High Court has appointed a new trustee, or the trustee is an infant, or out of the jurisdiction of the High Court, or cannot be found, or refuses to transfer stock, or receive dividends, or to sue for a chose in action, or it be uncertain whether he, being jointly entitled with another, be living or dead (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 35).

In all cases where a vesting order can be made under sect. 35 the court may, if it is more convenient, appoint some proper person to make the transfer (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 35).

Who may Apply.]—Applications to the court, if they be for the appointment of new trustees or concerning any land, stock, or chose in action subject to a trust, may be made by any person beneficially interested, whether under disability or not, or by any person duly appointed a trustee; or, if they relate to similar property subject to a mortgage, by any person beneficially interested in the equity of redemption, whether under disability or not, or any person interested in the money secured (56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 36).

Payment of Trust Funds into Court.]—Any person desiring to pay money, transfer stock, or deposit security in trust to attend the orders of any court, under sect. 67, sub-s. 5, or sect. 70 of the Act, or sect. 42 of the Trustee Act, 1893, must file with the registrar an affidavit intituled in the matter of the Act (Form 333) and of the particular trust, and setting forth :— 1. His own name, address and description : 2. The place where he is to be served with any petition or summons, or any notice of any proceeding or order of the court relating to the trust fund : 3. The amount of money, stock or security which he proposes to pay, transfer or deposit in trust to attend the orders of the court : 4. A short description of the trust or of the nature and contents of the instrument creating it : 5. The names, addresses and descriptions of the persons interested in or entitled to, or claiming to be interested in or entitled to, the fund, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the trustee : 6. The submission of the trustee to answer all such inquiries relating to the application of the money or stock paid in or transferred or security deposited as the court may think proper to make or direct (Order XXXVIII. r. 9). The affidavit may be in the prescribed form, with such variations as each particular case may require (Order XXXVIII. r. 10 ; Form 333).

Where it is desired to retain any sum of money for costs incurred in the payment of money into court, or in any matter connected with the trust prior to such payment, a bill of costs must be filed, and such sum only retained as may be allowed by the registrar on taxation (Order XXXVIII. r. 11).

Probate of the will or the original instrument or document, or such evidence as the registrar may require as to the instrument creating the trust, must be left with the registrar for such period as he may reasonably require.

Memorandum of Filing.]—Immediately on receipt of the affidavit, the registrar must indorse on it a memorandum of the day on which it was filed, and when the affidavit is so indorsed it will be taken for all purposes to have been duly filed on the date so indorsed.

The registrar must also compare the affidavit with the probate or other instrument deposited with him, or with such evidence as aforesaid, and must indorse on the affidavit a memorandum that he has made such comparison, and may add to such indorsement any memorandum as to any matters which may be omitted in the affidavit and which he may think material.

Certificate.]—The persons filing the affidavit, or any of them, may obtain from the registrar a sealed certificate intituled in the matter of the County Courts Act, and of the particular trust, certifying that the affidavit has been filed.

Money.]—In the case of money, the persons filing the affidavit, or any of them, may, upon the receipt of the certificate, pay the money into a post-office savings bank, established in the town in which the county court is held, and obtain from the officer of the bank a receipt for the same, and must forthwith leave the receipt with the registrar, and the registrar must immediately indorse on it a memorandum of the day on which the same was received by him, and when so indorsed it will be taken for all purposes to have been duly recorded on the date so indorsed.

Stock.]—In the case of stock, the persons filing the affidavit, or any of them, may, upon the receipt of the certificate, transfer the stock into the names of the treasurer and registrar of the county court mentioned in the certificate, or of the registrar and superintendent of the county court department of the Treasury if there is no treasurer (Order XXXVIII. r. 20), in trust to attend the orders of the court. They must forthwith leave the transfer ticket with the registrar, and the registrar must immediately indorse on it a memorandum of the day on which the same was received by him. When so indorsed it will be taken for all purposes to have been duly recorded on the day so indorsed (Order XXXVIII. r. 17).

Section 67 Notes.

Security.]—In the case of security, the person filing the affidavit may forthwith deposit the security with the registrar in the names of the treasurer and registrar, or of the registrar and superintendent of the county court department of the Treasury if there is no treasurer, in trust to attend the orders of the court. The registrar must immediately indorse on the affidavit a memorandum of the day of deposit (Order XXXVIII. r. 18), and must, within twenty-four hours after, send notice by post to the treasurer of the court, stating the particulars of the deposit (Order XXXVIII. r. 19; Form 338).

Immediately after the recording of the receipt or of the transfer ticket, or the deposit of the security, the registrar must give an acknowledgment or certificate (Forms 336, 337) to the persons paying in the money, or transferring the stocks or depositing the security (see post, sect. 70; Order XXXVIII. r. 21); and must cause the necessary entries to be made in the book formerly called the "Suits and Proceedings in Equity Book," including the title of the particular trust, and the amount of money paid or stock transferred, or security deposited, and the names and addresses of the persons making the payment, transfer or deposit, and the names of every person stated in the affidavit to be or to claim to be interested in or entitled to the money or stock, and their addresses and descriptions, as given in the affidavit. The registrar must forthwith, by post, send to each of such last-mentioned persons, to the addresses given in the affidavit, a sealed notice of the payment, transfer or deposit (Order XXXVIII. r. 22; Form 339).

The registrars must comply with all regulations which may from time to time be made by the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the safe custody of any securities deposited with them under the above provisions (Order II. r. 16).

Application as to Funds, etc., in Court.]—Moneys, stocks, or securities may be in court, through being paid in, transferred or deposited either by trustees under the provisions above mentioned, or by parties under order of the court or otherwise in the course of any of the actions or matters dealt with in this chapter. When so in court, any person entitled to or claiming to be interested, or (if need be, but not otherwise) the trustee, who desires the direction of the court as to the investment, paying out, or distribution of the whole or any part of the fund or the income thereof, may apply to the court by petition (Form 340), stating the substance of the order which he desires to obtain, and praying for the order and direction of the judge with respect to the fund, and the rights of all persons thereto. The petitioner must file a copy of the petition for every respondent to be served and one for the judge, which latter is to be forwarded to him by the registrar with an office copy of the affidavit filed on the payment of the funds into court; subject to the special provisions immediately following, the provisions of Order XXXVIII. rr. 2 to 8, apply to the service of, and to the proceedings on, the petition (Order XXXVIII. r. 23). If the application relates to the capital of the fund, the trustee and all persons interested must be served with a copy of the petition, unless the court otherwise directs. If it relates to income only the trustee alone must be served unless the court otherwise directs (Order XXXVIII. r. 24).

Hearing.]—If the person filing the petition relies only on the facts stated in the affidavit filed by a trustee, it will be sufficient for him to state on oath at the hearing that he believes the facts to be true, unless the judge requires further evidence (Order XXXVIII. r. 26), and in such cases the trustee need not appear, and if he does so his costs will not be allowed out of the fund unless the judge certifies that it was right and necessary for him to appear (Order XXXVIII. r. 28).

Except as above-mentioned, proof will, if the application relates to the capital of the fund in court, be required at the hearing of all facts necessary to be ascertained, not only to grant the specific relief prayed, but also to declare and decide the rights of all parties in or to the fund in court; and the judge must make such order as to the whole fund as would be made upon a final judgment or order in an action for administration (Order XXXVIII. r. 27; Form 342).

Payment to Person Entitled.]—The registrar must pay the money found due to any person by the final order on his applying for the same and proving his identity; and where the person was an infant at the date of the order, on further proof that he has attained the age of twenty-one years (Order XXXVIII. r. 29).

Petitions.]—Proceedings under the Trustees Relief Acts, the Trustee Acts (other than proceedings under sect. 42 of the Trustee Act, 1893), or relating to the maintenance or advancement of infants, or under the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890, or the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1886, must be commenced by filing a petition intituled in the matter of the particular Act and of the trust or settlement, with as many copies of the petition as there are respondents to be served (Order XXXVIII. r. 1).

General Practice.]—The petition must be filed with the registrar (Order II. r. 3; Order XXXVIII. r. 1; Form 340), and there should be delivered to him also as many copies as there are parties to be served, and an additional copy for the judge (Order LIV. r. 13). A statement must be made at the foot of every petition and of every copy of the persons intended to be served; if no person is intended to be served, a statement to that effect must be made (Order XXXVIII. r. 2). The registrar must then seal the copies, and deliver them for service upon the parties to the bailiff. He must also deliver to him, for each party to be served, a notice under seal of the court, stating the day and hour upon which the petition is to be heard, and informing them that if they do not attend in person, or by solicitor, the judge will make such order as he may think just and expedient (Order XXXVIII. r. 3; Form 341).

Every petition for dealing with money or securities in court chargeable with any duty payable to the revenue, or with the dividends on any such securities, must contain a statement whether the duty has or has not been paid (Order XXXVIII. r. 31).

Service of the copy petition must be made at least ten days before the hearing, in accordance with the rules as to the service of ordinary summonses (Order XXXVIII. r. 4).

Evidence of facts necessary to be brought before the court must be given by affidavit, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXXVIII. r. 5).

The judge may refer any matter to the registrar to make inquiries and report to him (Order XXXVIII. r. 6).

When the judge makes an order on a petition or application the registrar must, as soon as possible, draw up, seal and file it (Order XXXVIII. r. 8). In every final judgment or order liberty must be given to all parties to apply (Order XXXVIII. r. 7; Form 342).

The court, at the instance of any person interested, must inquire into any prolixity, and as to any irrelevant matter in any petition or affidavit, and as to any needless or unnecessary expense incurred, and must make such order in reference thereto as the justice of the case may require (Order XXXVIII. r. 30).

Subject to the above provisions, the general practice, so far as it is applicable, will apply to all proceedings by or under a petition.

Costs.]—In proceedings under sects. 67 and 70 of the Act, or under the Settled Land Act, 1882, or in any other proceedings under the equitable jurisdiction of the court, the judge may order the costs to be taxed under column B where the subject-matter does not exceed 20*l.* (Order LIII. r. 12).

Section 67 Notes.

Appeal.]—There is an appeal for error in point of law or equity in all equity actions and matters authorised by the Act of 1888, pursuant to the general conditions already explained. See post p. 1702, as to the effect of the decision of the Court of Appeal in The Delano, (1895) P. 40; 64 L. J. P. 8, on special Acts which contain no express provisions as to appeal.

Transfer to Chancery Division of action exceeding jurisdiction. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 9.

68. If during the progress of any action or matter under the last preceding section it shall be made to appear to the judge that the subject-matter exceeds the limit in point of amount to which the jurisdiction of the court is therein limited, it shall not affect the validity of any order already made, but it shall be the duty of the judge to direct the action or matter to be transferred to the Chancery Division of the High Court; and the whole of the procedure in the said action or matter when so transferred shall be regulated by the Rules of the Supreme Court: provided always, that it shall be lawful for any party to apply to a judge of the said Division at chambers for an order authorising and directing the action or matter to be carried on and prosecuted in the county court, notwithstanding such excess in the amount of the limit to which equitable jurisdiction is given by the said section; and the judge, if he shall deem it right to summon the other parties, or any of them, to appear before him for that purpose, after hearing such parties, or on default of the appearance of all or any of them, shall have full power to make such order.

Transfer to High Court.]—When the excess of jurisdiction appears from the evidence at the trial, the judge ought not to strike out the action or matter; but he ought to do so if the want of jurisdiction appears on the plaint or petition itself (Birks v. Silverwood, (1871) L. R. 14 Eq. 101; Thomson v. Flinn, (1881) L. R. 17 Eq. 415; 41 L. J. Ch. 638; 43 L. J. Ch. 256; but see sect. 114, post). The proper course in the former case is for the judge, if requested so to do, to make an order of transfer forthwith; but if not so requested, the order must not be made for fifteen days at least (Order XXXIII. r. 5; Form 331). See Sunderland v. Glover, ante, p. 53.

When the excess of jurisdiction appears on the taking of accounts, or making inquiries before the registrar, he may proceed with and complete the particular account or inquiry; but at the next sitting of the court he must present a certificate of the state of the proceedings, and if the judge is of opinion that the excess of jurisdiction exists, he must make the order of transfer in accordance with the provisions mentioned in the last paragraph (Order XXXIII. r. 6; Form 331).

When the order is made, the registrar must make and file a copy of the order, and must transmit it, by post or otherwise, to the proper officer of the Chancery Division, and must also give notice, by post or otherwise, to all parties and persons entitled to be served with a copy of the order (Order XXXIII. r. 5).

The registrar must also transmit to the same officer the record of proceedings, and all documents, as required in other cases pursuant to Order XXXIII. r. 7. If the transfer be made by the judge unrequested, as above, the costs of copies and of transmission must be paid by the plaintiff in the first instance, and the registrar may require a deposit for them, but this payment will be without prejudice to any question as to the party by whom the costs are ultimately to be borne (Order XXXIII. r. 7).

Section 68 Notes.

When the judge has ordered the transfer, the action or matter will proceed in the High Court in the ordinary way, unless an order be obtained (see below) to continue the proceedings in the county court (sect. 68). After transfer the jurisdiction of the county court judge is at an end; he cannot make an order as to costs (Hares v. Lea, (1867) L. R. 10 Eq. 683). Fry, J., in giving judgment for the plaintiff in an action transferred under these provisions, made the plaintiff bear the costs of the trial in the county court (Ward v. Wyld, (1877) 5 Ch. D. 779).

These powers give the judge of the High Court entire discretion to extend the jurisdiction in the action or matter in question, irrespective of the statutory limitations.

Transfer to county courts of equitable actions or matters. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 8.

69. Where any action or matter is pending in the Chancery Division of the High Court which might have been commenced in a court under this Act, it shall be lawful for any of the parties thereto to apply at chambers to the judge of the said division to whom the said action or matter is attached to have the same transferred to the court or one of the courts in which the same might have been commenced, and such judge shall have power upon such application, or without such application, if he shall think fit, to make an order for such transfer, and thereupon such action or matter shall be carried on in the court to which the same shall be ordered to be transferred, and the parties thereto shall have the same right of appeal as they would have had if the action or matter had been commenced in such court.

Equity Actions and Matters.]—Though the subject-matter of the action may be within the county court jurisdiction, it has not been the practice to make orders of transfer without some special reason (Picard v. Hine, (1868) 18 L. T. 705). Where the judge has made the order, the court will not, except on strong grounds, interfere with his discretion. Where the defendant is an officer of the county court to which otherwise it would be proper to transfer the action, it may be transferred under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 43, to an adjoining district (Linford v. Gudgeon, (1870) L. R. 6 Ch. 359; 40 L. J. Ch. 514).

Proceedings after Order.]—The plaintiff must lodge with the registrar the order, or a duplicate, and the writ, together with the pleadings, affidavits, etc., already filed, or copies thereof, and copies of affidavits on which the order was made, and also a statement of the names and addresses of the several parties to the action and their solicitors, if any, and, if no statement of claim has been delivered in the High Court, a concise statement of the particulars such as would be required on entering the plaint, and the registrar must then enter the action for trial, and give notice to the parties of the day appointed for trial, by post or otherwise, ten clear days at least before the day of trial, and must annex a copy of the particulars sealed with the seal of the court (Order XXXIII. r. 1; Order II. r. 8). The registrar must indorse on the order of transfer the date on which it was lodged (Order XXXIII. r. 2).

Until the transfer is completed, the action or proceeding will remain in the High Court (David v. Howe, (1884) 27 Ch. D. 533; 53 L. J. Ch. 1053; and see R. v. Holroyd, (1883) 32 W. R. 370).

The action or matter, after transfer, will be carried on in the same manner as an action or matter commenced in the county court, but no notice of defence under Order X. will be necessary, if a defence has already been delivered (Order XXXIII. rr. 2, 3).

Section 69 Notes.

After transfer, the registrar must apply to the judge for directions, and the latter may then give directions for carrying on the action or matter, or may appoint a time to hear and determine any matters in such action or matter, and direct the registrar to summon all parties to appear on the day so appointed. The judge may also order the registrar to give notice to the parties, or any of them, that the order of transfer has been made (Order XXXIII. r. 8).

Costs.]—The provisions of Order XXXIII. r. 16, as to costs in interpleaders from the High Court apply also to these cases.

Special Costs.]—As to special costs allowable in these actions, see Order LIII. rr. 7, 8, and items 31, 70, 86 and 93, in the scales.

Appeal.]—The parties will have the same right of appeal and the practice on an appeal will be the same as in other cases.

Trustees may pay trust money or transfer stock and securities into county court. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, ss. 24, 25.

70. Any moneys, annuities, stocks, or securities vested in any persons as trustees, executors, administrators, or otherwise, upon trusts within the meaning of the Trustees Relief Acts, where the same do not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred pounds, upon the filing by such trustees or other persons, or the major part of them, with the registrar of the court within the district of which such persons or any of them shall reside, of an affidavit shortly describing, according to the best of their knowledge, the instrument creating the trust, may, in the case of money, be paid into a post-office savings bank established in the town in which the court is held, in the name of the registrar of such court, in trust to attend the orders of the court, and upon such persons filing with the registrar the receipt or other document given to them by the officer of the said bank, the registrar shall record the same, and give to them an acknowledgment in such form as may be prescribed, which acknowledgment shall be a sufficient discharge to such persons for the money so paid, and, in the case of stocks or securities, may be transferred or deposited into or in the names of the treasurer and registrars of such court, in trust to attend the orders of the court, and the certificate of the proper officer of the transfer or deposit of such stocks or securities shall be a sufficient discharge to such persons for the stocks or securities so transferred or deposited ; and for the above purposes all the powers and authorities of the High Court shall be possessed and exercised by the courts, and any order made by virtue of such powers and authorities shall fully protect and indemnify all persons acting under or in pursuance of such order.

Payment of Trust Funds into Court.]—For procedure, see note to s. 67, ante ; and see Order XXXVIII. r. 9.

Moneys paid into court in proceedings may be invested in

71. Any money paid into court in the actions or matters mentioned in the last four preceding sections, shall, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, be invested by the registrar in his name as registrar, within forty-eight hours of its payment into court, in a post-office savings bank established in the town in which the court is held, without restriction as to amount, and without the declaration required of a depositor in a savings bank; and no part of any money invested in a post-office savings bank under this Act shall be paid out to any registrar except upon an authority addressed to the Postmaster-General by the Treasury.

a post-office savings bank.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 26.

Any person deriving any benefit under any moneys paid into a post-office savings bank under the provisions of this Act may nevertheless open an account in a post-office savings bank, or in any other savings bank, in his own name, without being liable to any penalties imposed by any statute or regulations in respect of the opening of accounts in two savings banks, or of two accounts in the same savings bank.

This section now extends to all money paid into a county court in any proceeding, and ordered by the judge to be invested for the benefit of any infant or person of unsound mind. See County Courts (Investments) Act, 1900 (63 & 64 Vict. c. 47, s. 1), post, p. 223; and see War Loan (Trustees) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 56, s. 2), post, p. 1019.

Money paid into Court.]—This cannot be drawn out without the authority of the Treasury (see sect. 71; Order XXXVII. r. 1). The ordinary rules as to payment into and out of court do not apply (Order IX. r. 23). Persons deriving benefit under such moneys may deposit moneys in other post-office savings banks (sect. 71).

The registrar must enter in the cash book and ledger for equitable proceedings all sums so paid to the account of the action or matter in which it is paid, and where the interest of any fund paid into a post-office savings bank has been directed to be paid to any person, the registrar must pay the same half-yearly out of any general moneys in his hands (Order XXXVII. r. 2).

The registrar, when directed by the court to draw out the fund or part of the fund in any action or matter, must apply by letter (Form 343) to the commissioners of the Treasury (Order XXXVII. r. 3).

Interest.]—Where money has, before January 1st, 1868, been invested in stocks in the names of the treasurer and registrar alone, the registrar must receive the dividends of all such funds and re-invest the same in the same names, except where the court shall otherwise direct, and apportion the amount so re-invested in his books (Order XXXVII. r. 4).

Legacy and Succession Duty.]—Before executing any order directing the payment or transfer of any fund, or part of any fund, in respect of which any duty is payable to the revenue under the Acts relating to legacy, succession or estate duty, the registrar must, before making the payment, require a certificate from the proper officer of, or the production of the receipt for, the payment of the duty chargeable in respect of such fund, or any part thereof respectively (Order II. r. 14).

Married Women.]—Where a married woman is interested in any principal money, stocks, shares or securities, exceeding in value 200*l.*, or 10*l.* in annual payments, and is not entitled to the same as her separate property, she must be examined by the judge apart from her husband to ascertain whether the same shall be paid to him or made the subject-matter of a settlement; and if the judge thinks that a settlement should be made, and in all cases where the married woman is under age, the judge must by his judgment make such settlement accordingly. The judge may, if he thinks fit, order such settlement to be prepared by counsel (Order XXXVII. r. 5).

Section 71 Notes.

Fund Due to Deceased Intestate.]—Where in any action, matter, or proceeding the estate of a deceased intestate is entitled to a fund or to a share of a fund in court not exceeding 100*l.*, and the judge is satisfied that administration has not been taken out, and that his assets (including the fund or share to which the estate is entitled) do not exceed 100*l.*, the judge may direct the fund or share to be paid, transferred, or delivered to the person who, being a widower, widow, child, father, mother, brother, or sister of the deceased, would be entitled to take out administration to his estate (Order XXXVII. r. 6).

Person qualified to practise before courts.
15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 10.
45 & 46 Vict. c. 57, s. 2.

72. It shall be lawful for any party to an action or matter or for a solicitor being a solicitor acting generally in the action or matter for such party, but not a solicitor retained as an advocate by such first-mentioned solicitor, or for a barrister retained by or on behalf of any party on either side, but without any right of exclusive audience, or by leave of the judge for any other person allowed by the judge to appear instead of any party, to address the court, but subject to such regulations as the judge may from time to time prescribe for the orderly transaction of the business of the court, the right of a solicitor to address the court shall not be excluded by reason only that he is in the permanent and exclusive employment of any other solicitor. No person other than a solicitor of the Supreme Court shall be entitled to have or recover any fee or reward for appearing or acting on behalf of any other party in any proceeding in the court: provided that nothing in this Act contained shall affect the right of any barrister at law to appear or act in any court, or of any solicitor of the Supreme Court to recover costs in respect of his employment of a barrister at law to appear or act as aforesaid.

Employment of Solicitor.]—Any act which may be done by any party to an action or proceeding according to the rules of practice may be done by him either in person or by his solicitor or agent, if it may be legally done by an agent (Order LIV. r. 1).

When a plaintiff's solicitor on entering the plaint complies with the requirements of Order VI. r. 9, or when the defendant's solicitor signs a notice of defence, set-off, or counterclaim, or when on behalf of any party, a solicitor gives notice in writing by post or otherwise, to the registrar and the other party, or his solicitor, that he is acting for any party, he will be deemed to be his solicitor until notice of change has been given (Order LIV. r. 4). In these cases the solicitor need not give notice under Order LIV. r. 4, that he is acting for the party. A solicitor's authority to start proceedings cannot be raised as a relevant issue in the action at the trial (Richmond v. Branson & Son, (1914) 83 L. J. Ch. 749). A solicitor who brings an action for an infant, on the instructions of a next friend who is also an infant, is liable to pay the costs (Fernée v. Gorlitz, (1915) 1 Ch. 177; 84 L. J. Ch. 404).

No person other than a solicitor can recover any fee or reward from any party, whether for services in or out of court in any action or proceeding (Verlander v. Eddols, (1882) 51 L. J. Q. B. 55).

Change of Solicitor.]—Subject to the provisions of sect. 72 prohibiting the retainer of a solicitor as an advocate by the solicitor of any party, a party who acts by solicitor may change him, without an order for the purpose. When such change is made, he must give forty-eight hours' notice in writing to the registrar and to the other parties or their solicitors. The notice must contain the name or firm and place of business of the new solicitor, and will be filed by the registrar. Until the notice has been given and filed and a copy served, the former solicitor will be deemed to be the solicitor of the party (Order LIV. r. 6; Form 352).

Authority of Solicitor.]—A solicitor retained merely to bring an action has no implied authority, after judgment, to engage in interpleader proceedings (James v. Ricknell, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 164; 57 L. J. Q. B. 113), nor to enter into an agreement to give the defendant time for payment (Lovegrove v. White, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 440; 40 L. J. C. P. 253), nor to assent to the defendant executing a deed of assignment to a trustee in favour of his creditors (In re "A Debtor" (No. 1 of 1914), (1914) 2 K. B. 758; 83 L. J. K. B. 1176).

Cases in which counsel or solicitors appear have no precedence over others, although sometimes taken out of their order. Disputed claims which do not exceed 2*l*., may, at the request of the parties, and by leave of the judge, be heard by the registrar (see sect. 92).

Liability for Client.]—A solicitor is not liable to pay for things (such as photographs) ordered, on behalf of his client, for use on the trial of an action (Wakefield v. Duckworth, (1915) 1 K. B. 218; 84 L. J. K. B. 335).

The judge has no power, such as exists in the High Court, to order a solicitor to pay costs personally (Davies v. Coles and Mowlem, 132 L. T. Journal, 577.

Persons entitled to appear.]—Parties to a suit may either conduct their cases themselves, or they may employ a solicitor (Order LIV. r. 24), or, through a solicitor, a barrister to conduct their cases for them (Order LIV. r. 25). The solicitor, who is thus allowed to conduct a cause in court, must be the solicitor generally retained in the action, and not a solicitor practising as advocate for another. It is for the judge to determine whether this is or is not the case. If there is any evidence on which he can form an opinion, the High Court will not interfere. The fact of a solicitor being in the permanent and exclusive employment of another solicitor will not disqualify him from acting as advocate; but he will still require to be the solicitor acting generally in the action for the suitor (see Bookham v. Potter, (1868) L. R. 3 C. P. 490; 37 L. J. C. P. 276; Shreeve v. Charlesworth, (1868) 18 L. T. 325; R. v. Snagge, (1894) 2 Q. B. 440; 63 L. J. Q. B. 689).

It is not necessary for a party to give notice to any other, or to the court, of his intention to employ a barrister or solicitor, nor is the allowance of costs to the barrister or solicitor affected by want of notice (Order LIV. r. 8).

Where a party appears in person, he has a right to address the judge or jury as his own advocate, and then, being sworn, to give evidence as a witness, but such a course is inconvenient (Cobbett v. Hudson, (1852) 1 E. & B. 11; 22 L. J. Q. B. 11; 93 R. R. 1).

No solicitor may appear for any person, until he has signed the book kept by the registrar for that purpose. No fee is payable for this. He may be required by the registrar to produce his certificate once a year, and the registrar is to note the fact of production on the roll or book.

If the judge thinks fit, he may allow a person not a solicitor or barrister to address the court on behalf of, and instead of, a party to the proceeding, but such person will not be entitled to any fee or reward for so doing.

Inland Revenue Proceedings.]—The conduct of inland revenue proceedings is provided for by sect. 38 of the Finance Act, 1896, which provides that any person who has been admitted as a solicitor, and is employed or authorised by the Commissioners or the Solicitor of Inland Revenue, may appear in, conduct, defend, and address the court in any legal proceeding in a county court where the proceeding relates to inland revenue or to any matter under the care or management of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue.

Solicitor's Costs.]—The scales of costs allowable to solicitors are framed under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 164. It will be seen that the lower scale of costs contains no provision for any allowance to solicitor in cases where the amount recovered does not exceed 2*l.*; and except in the special cases to which sect. 119 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and Order LIII. rr. 8, 17, apply, no such allowance can be made in such actions.

Two Counsel.]—On taxation of costs of an action brought under the extended jurisdiction there was no power to allow the fees of more than one counsel, except in proceedings under the Rivers Pollution Acts (see Order LIII. r. 45 (2); Bates v. Gordon Hotels, Ld., (1913) 1 K. B. 631; 82 L. J. K. B. 441; but see now where costs are taxed under column C. (Order LIII. r. 8 (3) (b)).

PART IV.

Procedure and Trial.

Actions by plaint. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 59.

73. On the application of any person desirous to bring an action under this Act, the registrar of the court shall enter in a book to be kept for this purpose in his office a plaint in writing, stating the names and the last known places of abode of the parties, and the substance of the action intended to be brought, every one of which plaints shall be numbered in every year according to the order in which it shall be entered; and thereupon a summons, stating the substance of the action, and bearing the number of the plaint on the margin thereof, shall be issued under the seal of the court, according to such form, and be served on the defendant so many days before the day on which the court shall be holden at which the action is to be tried, as shall be prescribed, and delivery of such summons to the defendant, or in such other manner as shall be so prescribed, shall be deemed good service; and no misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place in any such plaint or summons shall vitiate the same, so that the person or place be therein described so as to be commonly known.

Entry of Plaint.]—On application, the registrar enters the plaint in a book kept in his office, stating the names and last known places of abode of the parties, and the substance of the action, every plaint being numbered according to the order in which it is entered. If the plaintiff does not reside in England or Wales, he must give security for costs (Form 16) to the satisfaction of the registrar; where the plaint is entered by a solicitor, an undertaking by him to be responsible for costs is sufficient. If the plaintiff fails in his action or discontinues, and does not pay the costs ordered to be paid by him, payment may be enforced against him, or the solicitor who has given the undertaking, as on a judgment debt (Order V. r. 10; Form 17). The High Court has held that when one only of two plaintiffs is abroad, an order for security cannot be made (D'Hormusgee v. Grey, (1882) 10 Q. B. D. 13; 52 L. J. Q. B. 192). A plaintiff ordinarily resident out of England and Wales may be ordered to give security, although temporarily resident in England or Wales (Order V. r. 11).

Præcipe.]—No plaint can be entered without filing a præcipe. Such præcipe must contain (1) the full names, occupation or description, and residence or place of business of the plaintiff and, in the case of an infant required to sue by a next friend, the particulars required by Order V. r. 16; (2) the surname of the defendant, his general occupation or description, and, subject to Order V. r. 13, his residence or place of business, and (where known) his full names, the name of the street in which his residence or place of business is situate, and the number of the house; (3) a statement whether the defendant is male or female, and, if known, whether of full age or not, and if a female whether married, single or a widow, provided also that these last-named facts are known; (4) a short statement of the cause of action, or remedy or relief sought, and of the debt or damages claimed (Order V. r. 4a; Form 6). Where a company registered under the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, is a defendant, the præcipe must give an address for service described as "being the registered office of the company" (Order V. r. 5). If the plaintiff sues or any of the defendants is sued in a representative capacity, he must add both in the præcipe and particulars (5) a statement of the capacity in which the plaintiff sues, or the defendant is sued (Order V. r. 6). Where an assignee of a debt or other legal chose in action sues, the fact that he is such assignee, and the name, address, and description of the assignor, must be stated in the præcipe and summons (Order V. r. 7). If a solicitor enters the plaint, he must add (6) his name and address. No misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place in a plaint will vitiate it so long as the person or place is described so as to be commonly known.

Illiterate Plaintiff.]—Where the intended plaintiff is illiterate and unable to furnish the required information in writing, the præcipe shall be filled up by the registrar's clerk (Order V. r. 4).

Summons, how issued.]—Upon the entry of the plaint, a summons stating the nature of the action, and bearing the number of the plaint in the margin, is issued under the seal of the court. It must be in one of the prescribed forms, and dated as of the day on which the plaint was entered, and that date is the commencement of the action. If issued by leave of the judge or registrar, the copy of the affidavit mentioned in Order V. r. 13, with a copy thereon of the order granting leave, must be annexed to the summons and served with it.

The registrar must issue the summons within the district to the high bailiff forthwith after the plaint is entered. He must, also, where particulars are required, annex to the summons a copy of the plaintiff's particulars, sealed with the seal of the court, and they will be deemed to be part of the summons, and make and deliver to the bailiff a true copy of the summons; and it is the duty of the bailiff to attend at the registrar's office for the purpose of receiving summonses once at least every day, and to ascertain, by examination and comparison of them, the correctness of the copies. The summons will direct the defendant to appear at the next court for which plaints are then being entered, or, at the request of the plaintiff, at any subsequent court (Order VII. r. 5). The day appointed for the appearance of the defendant, or any other day fixed for the trial, is called the return-day (see post, s. 186; Order LV.).

Errors in Summons.]—The section provides that no misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place in the summons will vitiate it, so long as the person or place is described so as to be commonly known. In case of an error by the officers of the court causing the summons to be a nullity, it would appear that the judge has power to order a new summons to issue, bearing, if necessary, the date of the first; as where a defendant, sued as executor of A., was wrongly described by the officer in the summons as executor of B., the court, believing the first summons to be a nullity, refused to disturb a new summons, which the judge had ordered to issue, bearing the date of the first, to save the Statute of Limitations (Foster v. Temple, (1848) 5 D. & L. 655; 17 L. J. Q. B. 230).

Section 74.

Where action may be commenced.

74. Except where by this Act it is otherwise provided, every action or matter may be commenced in the court within the district of which the defendant or one of the defendants shall dwell or carry on his business at the time of commencing the action or matter, or it may be commenced, by leave of the judge or registrar, in the court within the district of which the defendant or one of the defendants dwelt or carried on business, at any time within six calendar months next before the time of commencement, or, with the like leave in the court in the district of which the cause of action or claim wholly or in part arose.

In what District.]—The district in which actions and matters must be commenced is, generally speaking, to be ascertained from sect. 74 of the Act. As regards some particular forms of equity and other actions and matters, special provisions, differing from those contained in the above section, are made by other sections of the Act, and reference to them has already been made.

So, in many special Acts, particular provision is made as to the district in which proceedings under them must be commenced. Where there are no such provisions the general rule laid down by the section above-mentioned will, it is believed, apply.

Metropolitan Districts.]—England and Wales are divided into districts, and a county court is established in each. The city of London forms a district of itself, and the City of London Court is a county court like the others, except that it retains certain privileges (see post, sect. 185). The metropolitan districts are Bloomsbury, Brompton, Clerkenwell, Lambeth, Marylebone, Shoreditch, Southwark, Westminster, Whitechapel, and the city of London, and if the plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business in any of these districts, though not necessarily in the same, the action or matter may be commenced and all proceedings taken, either in the court of the district in which the plaintiff or in that in which the defendant dwells or carries on business (see sect. 84; Order LV., interpreting "metropolitan court," does not add Bow to the courts mentioned in that section).

This provision enables the plaintiff to sue in the district in which he dwells or carries on business, without leave and without its being necessary for any part of the cause of action to arise within the district. The jurisdiction exists even if the plaintiff has become resident within a district for the purpose of giving jurisdiction, if residence was actually and bonâ fide enjoyed before the issuing of the summons (Massey v. Burton (1857) 2 H. & N. 597; 27 L. J. Ex. 101; 115 R. R. 714).

The above provision excepts the Metropolitan districts from the operation of sect. 75 of the Act of 1888, which specifies the district in which certain equity actions and matters must be commenced. Those proceedings must, therefore, in the metropolitan districts, be commenced in accordance with the provision now under consideration (R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309).

Sect. 39 of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852 (15 Vict. c. lxxvii.), is not repealed by sect. 74 of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, hence the City of London Court has jurisdiction if the defendant has "employment" within the city (Kutner v. Phillips, (1891) 2 Q. B. 267; 60 L. J. Q. B. 505), and without leave of judge or registrar, where the cause of action wholly or in part arose therein (Felton v. Bower, (1900) 1 Q. B. 598; 69 L. J. Q. B. 351).

Dwelling or carrying on Business.]—If a defendant has two permanent residences, he dwells and may be sued in the district of the one in which he is living at the time of action (Butler v. Ablewhite, (1858) 6 C. B. N. S. 740; 28 L. J. C. P. 292; 120 R. R. 345; Pigrim v. Knatchbull, (1865) 18 C. B. N. S. 798; 34 L. J. C. P. 257; 144 R. R. 680); and possibly in the other (Bailey v. Bryant, (1858) 1 E. & E. 340; 28 L. J. Q. B. 86). A temporary residence in a district by a person who has a permanent residence elsewhere does not constitute a dwelling within the district of the temporary residence (Macdougal v. Paterson, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 681; 21 L. J. C. P. 27; 87 R. R. 769; Marsh v. Conquest, (1864) 17 C. B. N. S. 432; 33 L. J. C. P. 319; 142 R. R. 433; Kerr v. Haynes, (1860) 29 L. J. Q. B. 70); nor will a compulsory temporary residence in gaol make the gaol his place of residence (Dunston v. Paterson, (1857) 5 C. B. N. S. 267; 28 L. J. C. P. 97; 116 R. R. 670).

Where the defendant had no permanent place of residence, it was held that he must be taken to dwell at the place where he was temporarily residing (Alexander v. Jones, (1866) 4 H. & C. 204; L. R. 1 Ex. 133; 35 L. J. Ex. 78).

A corporation or company dwells at the place where its business is substantially conducted and not necessarily at its registered office (Taylor v. Crowland Gas Co., (1855) 11 Ex. 1; 24 L. J. Ex. 233; 105 R. R. 360; Adams v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1861) 6 H. & N. 404; 30 L. J. Ex. 124; 23 R. R. 596; Keynsham Lime Co. v. Baker, (1864) 2 H. & C. 729; 33 L. J. Ex. 41; 133 R. R. 765); but it seems that a foreign corporation having an office in England would be considered as dwelling there (Haggin v. Comptoir d'Escompte, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 519; 58 L. J. Q. B. 508; but see Okura & Co. v. Forsbacka, post, p. 74).

"Carrying on his business" means more than a mere employment; therefore a clerk in a public office does not carry on his business at the office where he performs his duties (Buckley v. Hann, (1851) 5 Ex. 43; 19 L. J. Ex. 151; 82 R. R. 553; Rolfe v. Learmonth, (1849) 14 Q. B. 196; 19 L. J. Q. B. 10; Glennie v. Delmar, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 402; S. C., nomine Sangster v. Cave, 5 Ex. 386; 19 L. J. Ex. 314; 82 R. R. 719); nor does a solicitor's clerk at his master's office (Graham v. Lewis (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 1; 58 L. J. Q. B. 117); nor does a foreman or shopman at his master's shop (see per Rolfe, B., in Glennie v. Delmar, supra). A company director does not carry on his business at the place where the company's business is carried on (Cain v. Butler, (1916) 1 K. B. 759; 85 L. J. K. B. 804). A railway company carries on business in the district in which its principal office or station is situate, and not at other terminal or intermediate stations (Brown v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1863) 4 B. & S. 326; 32 L. J. Q. B. 318; 129 R. R. 766; Shiels v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1861) 30 L. J. Q. B. 331; 126 R. R. 856; nor at receiving offices conducted by agents (Minor v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1856) 1 C. B. N. S. 325; 26 L. J. C. P. 39; 107 R. R. 681). A Scotch railway company whose line extends into England does not carry on business at its office there, if the principal office in which its business is managed is in Scotland (Palmer v. Caledonian Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 823; 61 L. J. Q. B. 552). A pier company was held to carry on its business not at the place where the pier was situated, but at its central office in London, where the substantial business of the company was carried on (Aberystwith Pier Co. v. Cooper, (1866) 35 L. J. Q. B. 44). A company incorporated for the manufacture and sale of goods carries on its business at the place of manufacture and sale, not at its registered offices (Keynsham Lime Co. v. Baker, (1864) 2 H. & C. 729; 33 L. J. Ex. 41; 133 R. R. 765; Oldham Co. v. Heald, (1864) 3 H. & C. 132; 33 L. J. Ex. 236; 140 R. R. 350). A company carrying on business in London, which employs in a country town a general commission agent, who transacts the company's business in such town in an office for which the company pays him rent, does not carry on business in that town (Corbett v. General Navigation Co., (1859) 4 H. & N. 482; 28 L. J. Ex. 214; 118 R. R. 564; Shiels v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1861) 30 L. J. Q. B. 331; 126 R. R. 856), and it seems that it would be the same, even if the company's name were outside the office and printed on the agent's note-paper (Baillie v. Goodwin, (1886) 33 Ch. D. 604; 55 L. J. Ch. 849, decided under R. S. C., Order IX. r. 6). A firm whose principal place of business was in Glasgow, but who had a branch at Middlesbrough, was held to carry on business at Middlesbrough (Weatherley v. Calder, (1890) 61 L. T. 508). A temporary carrying on of business in a district by a person whose permanent place of business is elsewhere, does not make it his place of business for the purpose of being sued; as where a contractor erects workshops for men near work upon which he is engaged (see per Hill, J., Shiels v. G. N. Rail. Co., ante, p. 73 ; Gorslett v. Harris, (1857) 29 L. T. O. S. 75). A surgeon who resides in one district, and daily attends patients in another, carries on business within the latter district (Mitchell v. Hender, (1854) 23 L. J. Q. B. 273).

As to a foreign corporation carrying on its business by agents in this country, see Okura & Co. v. Forsbacka Jernverks Aktiebolag, (1914) 1 K. B. 715; 83 L. J. K. B. 561.

Material Part of Cause of Action.]—The summons may issue in the district in which the "cause of action or claim wholly or in part" arose.

The point to be determined is what are the facts which can fairly be said to be material to the cause of action, as distinguished from those which are immaterial or foreign to it.

The order for goods is a material part of the cause of action for their price; therefore where an order for goods was given in Oxford to a traveller for a Manchester house, and the goods were by the defendant's request sent from Manchester by railway, it was held that the whole cause of action did not arise within the Manchester district (Borthwick v. Walton, (1855) 15 C. B. 501; 24 L. J. C. P. 83; 100 R. R. 463; see also Jackson v. Beaumont, (1855) 11 Ex. 300; 24 L. J. Ex. 301; 105 R. R. 536; Gold v. Turner, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 149; Green v. Beach, (1873) L. R. 8 Ex. 208; 42 L. J. Ex. 151). No distinction has been made between cases which are taken out of the operation of the Statute of Frauds by delivery and acceptance, and those where the contract is in writing, or where there is a memorandum signed by the party to be charged. So an oral order was held to be a material part (Borthwick v. Walton, supra); as was a mere oral offer to purchase, afterwards duly accepted (Green v. Beach, supra).

Non-payment at a place where a purchaser ought to pay is a material part (Northey v. Gidney (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 99).

Where the defendant by a letter written and posted in the district of one county court ordered the plaintiff to do certain work in that of another court, and the letter having been received and the work done within the district of the latter and a plaint issued from the latter court to recover the price, it was held that the whole cause of action arose within its district, and that the court had, therefore, jurisdiction (Newcomb v. De Roos, (1858) 2 E. & E. 271; 29 L. J. Q. B. 4; 119 R. R. 717. Acc. Rennie v. Ratcliffe, (1876) 35 L. T. 833; 25 W. R. 319; and see R. v. Rogers, (1877) 3 Q. B. D. 28; 47 L. J. M. C. 11; Bennett v. Cosgriff, (1877) 38 L. T. 177; Household Fire Co. v. Grant (C. A.), (1879) 4 Ex. D. 216; 48 L. J. Ex. 577; and see contra, Taylor v. Jones, (1875) 1 C. P. D. 87; 45 L. J. C. P. 110; R. v. Holmes, (1883) 12 Q. B. D. 23; 53 L. J. M. C. 37). A similar rule has been held to apply to accounts stated, and to contracts entered into by telegraph (Cowan v. O'Connor, (1889) 20 Q. B. D. 640; 57 L. J. Q. B. 401).

A plaintiff orally agreed with the defendant in A. district to purchase a horse to be delivered in B. district. The defendant afterwards brought the horse to the plaintiff in the B. district, when the plaintiff required a warranty which was given and the horse delivered. In an action for breach of the warranty, brought in the B. district, it was held that what had taken place in the A. district did not constitute a material or any part of the cause of action (Aris v. Orchard, (1861) 6 H. & N. 160; 30 L. J. Ex. 21; 123 R. R. 428). The case appears at first sight irreconcilable with others just cited; but it appears to have been held that the parties had not finally agreed upon any terms of sale upon the first occasion, or that what took place when the warranty was demanded and given, was equivalent to a rescission of the original contract and the making of a new one, with the addition of a warranty. In that view the whole cause of action obviously arose at B. Should the decision amount to more than this, some substantial ground appears for doubting the cases above-mentioned, in which it has been held that the oral order for goods is a material part of the cause of action, where delivery and acceptance of goods is relied on, to take a case out of the operation of the Statute of Frauds (see a case, Cooper v. Caswell, cor. Stephen, J., of Sleaford county court, in which he held in a similar case that an oral contract to purchase goods in a district did not give the court jurisdiction (16 S. J. 636)).

In an action for the price of goods sold and delivered, a material part of the cause of action arises at the place where the delivery to the vendee or to his agent takes place (Kemp v. Clark, (1848) 12 Q. B. 647; 17 L. J. Q. B. 305. See Re Wilts Iron Co., (1868) L. R. 3 Ch. 443; 37 L. J. Ch. 554). Where delivery is made to a vendee by a carrier paid by the vendor, a material part arises at the place of actual delivery (Arndt v. Porter, (1861) 30 L. J. Ex. 19). Where a vendor in pursuance of a contract of sale sends goods to the vendee, delivery to the carrier is primâ facie delivery to the vendee, and a material part of the cause of action arises at the place of such delivery, except in cases where the contract is for the sale of goods for 10*l.* and upwards, and fails to satisfy the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, s. 4 (1) (Smith v. Hudson, (1865) 6 B. & S. 431; 34 L. J. Q. B. 145; 141 R. R. 459; Norman v. Phillips, (1845) 14 M. & W. 277; 14 L. J. Ex. 306; Borthwick v. Walton, (1855) 15 C. B. 501; 24 L. J. C. P. 83; 100 R. R. 463. But see Aris v. Orchard, and observations thereupon, supra). Cases such as Ex parte Rosevear Clay Co., (1879) 11 Ch. D. 560; 48 L. J. Bk. 100, may be usefully consulted.

It may be stated generally, that either the making of a contract or the breach of it, is a material part of the cause of action upon the contract (Banque de Crédit Commercial v. De Gas, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 142; Cooke v. Gill, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 107; 42 L. J. C. P. 98; compare Wirth v. Austin, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 689). As to the meaning put upon the words "cause of action" in sect. 18 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, see Sichel v. Borch, (1864) 2 H. & C. 954; Allhusen v. Malgarejo, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 340; 37 L. J. Q. B. 169; Jackson v. Spittall, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 542; 39 L. J. C. P. 321; Durham v. Spence, (1870) L. R. 6 Ex. 46; 40 L. J. Ex. 3; Cherry v. Thompson, (1872) L. R. 7 Q. B. 573; 41 L. J. Q. B. 243; Vaughan v. Weldon, (1874) L. R. 10 C. P. 47; 44 L. J. C. P. 64.

Debt Composed of Several Items.]—Under the section which gave jurisdiction, where the cause of action did not arise wholly or in some material part within the jurisdiction of the court within which the defendant dwelt or carried on his business, it was held that where the items of a bill were so connected as to form one cause of action (as in Grimbley v. Aykroyd, (1847) 1 Ex. 479; 17 L. J. Ex. 157), if any one item arose within the jurisdiction of a county court, within which the defendant dwelt or carried on his business at the time of action brought, the cause of action "in some material point" arose within the jurisdiction (Wood v. Perry, (1850) 3 Ex. 442; 18 L. J. Ex. 161; Bonsey v. Wordsworth, (1856) 18 C. B. 325; 25 L. J. C. P. 205; 107 R. R. 318; Copeman v. Hart, (1863) 14 C. B. N. S. 731; 33 L. J. C. P. 107). Where a defendant entered into a written contract to take a number of bricks, and after some had been delivered, he declined to accept the rest; and it appeared that the contract was signed at the defendant's residence; it was held that the cause of action in a material point arose within the jurisdiction where the defendant dwelt (Norman v. Marchant, (1854) 7 Ex. 723; 21 L. J. Ex. 256).

In an action by an indorsee against the drawer of a bill of exchange, the notice of dishonour is a material part (Huth v. Long, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 333; 19 L. J. Q. B. 325; see Roff v. Miller, (1850) 19 L. J. C. P. 278; 14 Jur. 746).

Section 74 Notes.

In an action by a solicitor against a mortgagor for the costs of preparing a mortgage, the agreement to give the mortgage is a material part (Jackson v. Grimley, (1864) 16 C. B. N. S. 380; 33 L. J. C. P. 238; 139 R. R. 534). In an action against an administrator the grant of letters of administration is a material part (Fuller v. Mackay, (1853) 2 E. & B. 573; 22 L. J. Q. B. 415). In an action by the assignee of a debt, the assignment is a material part (Read v. Brown (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 128; 58 L. J. Q. B. 120).

Account stated.]—If an account be stated in one district in respect of a debt, the whole cause of action of which arose in another, an action on the account stated may be maintained in the former district (see Evans v. Nicholson, (1879) 32 L. T. 778; 45 L. J. C. P. 111, n.; Taylor v. Nicholls, (1875) 1 C. P. D. 242; 45 L. J. C. P. 455). An account stated was defined by Lord Abinger as "an admission of a balance due from one party to another" (Irving v. Veitch, (1837) 3 M. & W. 90, 107; 7 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 25; 49 R. R. 511; and see 2 Wms. Saund. 122, note (c)); but it seems that something more than a mere admission is necessary, it must be assented to by the other party, as by bringing an action upon it (Grundy v. Townsend, (1888) 36 W. R. 531). If the evidence of the admission cannot be relied on there is of course no account stated and no jurisdiction (see Wallace v. Allen, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 607; 44 L. J. C. P. 351; and see per Brett, J., in Taylor v. Nicholls, (1875) 1 C. P. D. 242, 245; 45 L. J. C. P. 455).

When a letter sending an account is sent from one district to another by post, and a reply is sent by post promising payment, it appears that an account is stated in the district in which the letter promising payment is received, as well as in that in which it is posted, and that the letter operates as a continuing statement of account from the time of posting to the time of its receipt (Evans v. Nicholson, supra). This result is singular, for it is substantially that one act—that of posting—establishes two causes of action in different places. In one view it seems to be consistent with Dunlop v. Higgins, (1848) 1 H. L. Cas. 381; 73 R. R. 98; and see Household Fire Insurance Co. v. Grant (C. A.), (1879) 4 Ex. D. 216; 48 L. J. Ex. 577, and in the other with Newcomb v. De Roos, (1858) 2 E. & E. 271; 29 L. J. Q. B. 4. Giving a letter to a town postman outside a post-office, even if the postman goes inside, is not a posting (Re London and Northern Bank, Ex parte Jones, (1900) 1 Ch. 220; 69 L. J. Ch. 24).

Leave to commence Proceedings.]—The leave is in certain cases a condition precedent to the jurisdiction. Thus, if no leave has been obtained, the defendant may oust the jurisdiction of the court by appearing and objecting to the jurisdiction (Brown v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1863) 4 B. & S. 326; 32 L. J. Q. B. 318; 129 R. R. 766). Moreover if the defendant does not appear at all, it is believed that the court has in such a case no jurisdiction. If, however, he does appear and in ignorance of the defect raises no objection until the court has decided against him as to part of the claim, it is said that he has waived the objection and that the court has jurisdiction (Moore v. Gamgee, (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 244; 59 L. J. Q. B. 505).

An order for leave, which should only be granted when the judge or registrar has duly considered the affidavit and exercised his discretion in each case in accordance with the circumstances (Rey. v. Turner, (1897) 1 Q. B. 445; 66 L. J. Q. B. 417), should be signed by the judge or registrar in his own handwriting (Order V. r. 13 (8); Forms 8 (1), 8 (2), 9, 10. See as to the practice, post, p. 401).

Actions by or against Officers of the Court.]—See ante, pp. 25—28.

Equity and other Actions.]—See special provisions as to actions for the recovery of small tenements, p. 162; as to actions of ejectment, p. 33; as to actions of replevin, p. 157; as to equity actions, p. 51; as to actions under the Bills of Exchange Act, 1855, p. 309.

Debtors Act, 1869.]—See p. 235.

Section 74 Notes.

Justices.]—If an action be brought in a county court against a justice for anything done under or in pursuance of the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, it must be brought in the district in which, and within two calendar months from the time when, the act complained of was committed (12 & 13 Vict. c. 92, ss. 27, 28. See, for other provisions as to justices, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 44).

City of London Court.]—Sect. 39 of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852 (15 Vict. c. lxxvii.), is not repealed by this section; hence the City of London Court has jurisdiction if the defendant has "employment" within the city (Kutner v. Phillips, (1891) 2 Q. B. 267; 60 L. J. Q. B. 505), and without leave of the judge or registrar, where the cause of action wholly or in part arose therein (Felton v. Bower, (1900) 1 Q. B. 598; 69 L. J. Q. B. 351).

In what courts proceedings in equity shall be taken. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, ss. 10, 11. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 60. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 55.

75. The provisions of the next preceding section shall not apply to any of the following proceedings; but

(1.) Proceedings which relate to the recovery or sale of any mortgage, charge, or lien on lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or to partition, shall be taken in that court within the districts of which the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any part thereof, are situate:

(2.) Proceedings under the Trustee Acts, 1850 and 1852, shall be taken in the court within the district of which the persons making the application, or any of them, reside or resides:

(3.) Proceedings for the administration of the assets of a deceased person shall be taken in the court within the district of which the deceased person had his last place of abode in England, or in which the executors or administrators, or any one of them, shall have their or his place of abode;

(4.) Proceedings in any partnership case shall be taken in the court within the district of which the partnership business was or is carried on:

Provided that if during the progress of any such proceedings it shall be made to appear to the court that the same could be more conveniently heard in some other court, it shall be competent for the court to transfer the same to such other court, and thereupon the proceeding shall be taken in such other court.

Sect. 84 excepts the metropolitan districts from the operation of this section. The equity proceedings here mentioned must, therefore, in the metropolitan districts, be commenced in accordance with the provisions of sect. 84 (R. v. Bloomsbury C. C., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 309).

Service of process out of district. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 61.

76. Any summons or other process which under this Act shall be required to be served or executed out of the district of the court from which the same shall have issued, may be served or executed by the bailiff of any court in any part of England, and such service or execution shall be as valid as if the same had been made by the bailiff of the court out of which such summons or other process shall have issued within the jurisdiction of the court for which he acts.

By Order II. r. 21, the high bailiff is to serve or cause to be served process sent to him for service from other courts as soon as practicable.

In the case of an ordinary summons, the high bailiff of the foreign court must, eight clear days at least before the return-day, transmit the copy thereof to the registrar of the home court duly indorsed and signed by the bailiff (who must name the court of which he is a bailiff), and also the summons itself when not served (Order II. r. 27).

In the case of a judgment summons, this must be done three clear days at least before the return-day (Order II. r. 28).

In case of neglect to comply with either of the two preceding rules, the high bailiff of the foreign court may be ordered by the judge of the home court to pay to the plaintiff such sum as the judge may think reasonable, as compensation for any loss of time and expense which may have been caused to the plaintiff by such neglect (Order II. r. 29).

The City of London Court is included in this rule. See s. 185.

vice of mmons or ecution of warrant within 500 yards of trict.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 17.

77. Any summons or other process may be served or a warrant executed within five hundred yards of the boundary of the district of the court from which the same issued by the bailiff of such court, or if the judge of such court so orders, by such bailiff within the district of any other court.

This general power of service within five hundred yards of the boundary of the court district is not controlled by the provision of Order VII. r. 29, for service, in the case of metropolitan districts, by a bailiff of the court within the district of which the defendant dwells or carries on business.

Proof of service of process by a bailiff.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 3.

78. Where any summons or other process of the court is served by a bailiff of any court, the service may be proved by indorsement on a copy of the summons or process under the hand of such bailiff, showing the fact and mode of the service of such summons or process; and any such bailiff wilfully and corruptly endorsing any false statement on the copy of a summons or other process shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be removed from his office or employment, and shall incur the same penalties as are or may be incurred by persons convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury.

The copy referred to is the one delivered to the bailiff pursuant to Order II. r. 8, and indorsed by him with particulars of service, etc.

Proof of Service.]—Where any summons has been served by a bailiff of any court, service may be proved by the indorsement on the copy under the hand of the bailiff, showing the fact and mode of service. Where service is on one of two partners sued, or on a person carrying on business in a name or style as if it were a firm name, see Order VII., rules 15, 16, 16A and 16A (2), and Forms 29A and 37 (2). To prove service by post on a company registered under the Companies Act, 1862, the indorsement ought, it is believed, to show that the summons was properly directed to the registered office, and was put as a prepaid letter into the post office in such time as to admit of its delivery within the period necessary for due service (see 25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, ss. 62, 63, and Annual Practice, notes to Order IX. r. 8, R. S. C.). Whether or not the proof of service is sufficient is a matter entirely in the discretion of the court; if it is satisfied with the proof, there is jurisdiction to hear the plaint (Robinson v. Lenaghan, (1848) 2 Ex. 333; 17 L. J. Ex. 174).

Where an affidavit of service is required, it must state when, where, how, and by whom service was effected (Order XIX. r. 12).

Where a solicitor represents he is authorised to accept service for a defendant it is sufficient to deliver the summons to him, provided he endorses on the copy retained by the bailiff, or the person serving the summons, a memorandum that he accepts service on behalf of the defendant (Order VII., r. 12).

Proceedings on hearing the plaint. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 74.

79. On the return-day the plaintiff shall appear, and thereupon the defendant shall be required to appear to answer the plaint; and on answer being made in court the judge shall proceed in a summary way to try the action and give judgment, without further pleading or formal joinder of issue.

At the trial the judge may try the whole matter of the action and give judgment thereon, or grant any relief, redress, or remedy, or may make any order or give any direction which he may consider necessary to enable final judgment to be given upon a day to which the trial may be adjourned, and also may make such order as to costs as he may think fit (see Order XXII. r. 13).

A hearing fee of 2*s.* in the pound must be paid before the trial.

The judge may in any case where the interests of the public require it, or to secure that justice may be done, hear a case in camerâ (Norman v. Matthews, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 857).

No evidence to be given that is not in summons. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 75.

80. Subject to the power of amendment conferred by this Act, no evidence of any demand or claim shall be given by the plaintiff on the trial or hearing, except such as shall be stated in the summons or other proceeding under this Act directed to be issued or taken.

For power of amendment, see sect. 87.

Demands not to be divided for the purpose of bringing two or more actions. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 63. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 1.

81. It shall not be lawful for any plaintiff to divide any cause of action for the purpose of bringing two or more actions in any of the courts; but any plaintiff having cause of action for more than one hundred (a) pounds, for which a plaint might be entered if not for more than one hundred (a) pounds, may abandon the excess, and thereupon the plaintiff shall, on proving his case, recover to an amount not exceeding one hundred (a) pounds; and the judgment of the court upon such plaint shall be in full discharge of all demands in respect of such cause of action, and entry of the judgment shall be made accordingly.

NOTE.—(a) Increased from 50*l.* by County Courts Act, 1903.

Cause of Action not to be Divided.]—"Cause of action" in this section means "one cause of action," and is not limited to an action on one separate contract: therefore in the case of tradesmen's bills, in which one item is connected with another, "and the dealing is not intended to terminate with one contract, but to be continuous, so that one item, if not paid, shall be united with another, and form one entire demand," the demand, if it now exceeds 100*l.* (3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3), ceases to be within the jurisdiction of the county court. So, where the sub-contractor of a railway company gave his workmen tickets or orders for goods, which were supplied by the plaintiff, and the latter brought 228 actions in the county court against the defendant in respect thereof, for sums amounting in the aggregate to 303*l.* 19*s.*, the Court of Exchequer granted a prohibition, although one claim only amounted to 5*l.*, and many to less than 20*s.* (Grimbley v. Aykroyd, (1847) 1 Ex. 479; 17 L. J. Ex. 157). Where, however, the cause of action consists of items of a different character, as a claim for goods sold and money lent, it is otherwise (Brunskill v. Powell, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 550; 19 L. J. Ex. 362; 87 R. R. 887). So rent in arrear and a claim for double value for holding over, under the 4 Geo. II. c. 28, or indeed any two demands which would have required to be stated in distinct counts, may be sued for by separate plaints (Wickham v. Lee, (1848) 12 Q. B. 521; 18 L. J. Q. B. 21; 76 R. R. 334; Neale v. Ellis, (1843) 1 D. & L. 163; 12 L. J. Q. B. 329). A plaintiff entered two plaints in the county court, one for 19*l.* 19*s.* for goods sold and delivered, work and labour, and money paid; the other for 19*l.* for money lent. The plaintiff recovered judgment in the first cause for 17*l.*; in the second for 19*l.* Upon a motion for a prohibition, it was held that the items in the two plaints were not so connected as to form one cause of action (Kimpton v. Willey, (1850) 9 C. B. 719; 19 L. J. C. P. 269; 82 R. R. 515).

Section 81 Notes.

The fact of debts being incurred concurrently, and entered in one account by the plaintiff in his books, and rendered to the defendant in one statement of account, does not constitute a bar to, or a waiver of, his right to treat separate causes of action as distinct demands (Kimpton v. Willey, Brunskill v. Powell, supra). It seems that damage to goods and damage to the person, though occasioned by one wrongful act, give rise to distinct causes of action (Brunsden v. Humphrey (C. A.), (1884) 14 Q. B. D. 141; 53 L. J. Q. B. 476).

Where a plaintiff splits his demand and sues for part, and the defendant omits to take the objection, the plaintiff may afterwards sue for the residue, and the defendant cannot, either at the trial or by prohibition, defeat the claim under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 81 (see Vines v. Arnold, (1851) 8 C. B. 632; 19 L. J. C. P. 98; 79 R. R. 653; Adkin v. Friend, (1878) 38 L. T. 393; Jones v. Jones (No. 2), (1874) 22 W. R. 577).

For provisions enabling the defendant to consolidate in one action several separate actions, see Order VIII., post, p. 426.

Abandonment by Plaintiff of Excess.]—The plaintiff may, in order to bring his claim within the jurisdiction of the county court, abandon the excess of his claim over 100*l.*, but the judgment in the action will bar any further proceedings for the recovery of the abandoned excess (see s. 81; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). The abandonment of the excess should always be entered at the end of the particulars, annexed to the summons (Order VI. r. 1). The effect of the rules now in force seems to be that the excess may be abandoned at any time; by Order XIV. r. 12, the plaintiff can amend his claim at any time before the return-day, and now by Order XIV. r. 13, can, at any time before his case is called on, or in his opening, abandon any part of his claim. This alters the practice on this point, laid down in Avards v. Rhodes, (1853) 8 Ex. 312; 22 L. J. Ex. 106; 91 R. R. 504, and Re Hill, (1855) 10 Ex. 726; 24 L. J. Ex. 137. It has long been held that if the amount claimed on the particulars did not exceed 50*l.* [now 100*l.*], the plaintiff might abandon any excess which appeared on the trial (Isaac v. Wyld, (1852) 7 Ex. 163; 21 L. J. Ex. 46; acc. under the rule, Bodger v. Nicholls, (1873) 28 L. T. 441). A plaintiff may by amended particulars abandon any excess over 100*l.*, even after a summons for prohibition has been taken out (Haddon v. Morton, (1893) 37 S. J. 634).

Where upon taking an account it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to a larger amount than 100*l.* and he has not abandoned the excess in his particulars, he may by leave of the court abandon the excess and judgment may be thereupon entered for 100*l.*; if he does not abandon the excess the action will be struck out (Order XIV. r. 16).

Section 81 Notes.

Entering a plaint for a sum within the jurisdiction—part of a larger claim, the whole arising out of one cause of action—is not of itself an abandonment of the excess (Vines v. Arnold, (1851) 8 C. B. 632; 19 L. J. C. P. 98; 79 R. R. 653)

The abandonment should be entered in the judgment; since, by the section. "entry of the judgment" must "be made accordingly."

82. Subject to the power of amendment conferred by this Act, no defendant shall be allowed to set off or set up by way of counterclaim any debt or demand claimed or recoverable by him from the plaintiff, or to set up by way of defence, and to claim and have the benefit of infancy, coverture, or any statute of limitations, or of his discharge under any statute relating to bankrupts, or any act for relief of insolvent debtors, without the consent of the plaintiff, unless the prescribed notice thereof shall have been given to the registrar; and in every case in which the practice of the court shall require such notice to be given, the registrar of the court shall as soon as conveniently may be after receiving such notice, communicate the same to the plaintiff by post, or by causing the same to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business, but it shall not be necessary for the defendant to prove on the trial that such notice was communicated to the plaintiff by the registrar.

Notice of special defences to be given to registrar, who shall communicate same to plaintiff. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 76.

Notice of Special Defence.]—A defendant cannot at the trial set off or set up by way of counterclaim any debt or demand recoverable by him from the plaintiff, or set up as a defence infancy, coverture, statute of limitations or discharge under the bankrupt or insolvent Acts, without the plaintiff's consent, unless he has given notice in writing of his intention to set up such special defence to the registrar of the court.

The section also provides that "in every case in which the practice of the court shall require such notice to be given," the registrar must communicate it to the plaintiff. Under the power inferentially so given, as well as the power to frame rules, the Rule Committee have enlarged the number of cases in which notice of defence is requisite by the addition of certain defences in actions of libel and slander, statutory defences, equitable defences, defence of tender, or fraud or misrepresentation (Order X. r. 10).

The notice (Forms 84, 85) must be filed in duplicate with the registrar five clear days (but ten clear days in actions brought under the Act of 1903) at least before the return-day, and must contain the name and address of the defendant, and a concise statement of the grounds of defence or of set-off or counterclaim (Order X. r. 10; Order XXIIA. r. 13 (1)), and he must deliver to the registrar, in addition, as many copies of the notice as there are plaintiffs, and an additional copy (if required) for the use of the judge (Order LIV. r. 13); and the registrar must, within twenty-four hours from the time of receiving the same, send one of the copies to each of the plaintiffs, either by post or by delivery at his usual place of abode or business (Order X. r. 10). At the trial it is not necessary for the defendant to prove that the notice was communicated by the registrar to the plaintiff. It is not provided, either by the rules or the statute, for the event of the registrar omitting to send notice to the plaintiff; but it is conceived that it would be such a default of the court as would entitle the plaintiff to an adjournment for the purpose of bringing evidence to rebut the defence, without payment of the costs of the day. In case of non-compliance by the defendant with the rules applying to notice of grounds of defence, the judge may, on such terms as he thinks fit, adjourn the trial to enable the defendant to give such notice (Order X. r. 10).

Amendment of Notice.]—The defendant, whether by original action, counterclaim, or otherwise, may, without any order, file and deliver an amended notice of defence pursuant to Order XIV. r. 12.

Waiver of Irregularity by Notice.]—By giving notice of defence, the defendant waives an irregularity in the process—e.g., the insufficiency of particulars, or an error in the summons (In re Jones, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 65; 19 L. J. Q. B. 257; 87 R. R. 518; Winsor v. Dunford, (1848) 12 Q. B. 603; 18 L. J. Q. B. 14; Wedlake v. Sargent, (1851) 15 Jur. 1134; Knowles v. Holden, (1855) 24 L. J. Ex. 223, per Parke, B.; 101 R. R. 909; and see Order LIV. r. 25); and quære whether, since the provisions for giving jurisdiction by the parties, an absolute defect in the jurisdiction would not be cured by such notice. The defences above referred to are contained in the following paragraphs, matters peculiar to each head of defence being mentioned in the paragraph particularly relating to it. The provisions as to counterclaims are collected in a separate chapter.

Set-off.]—Where a defendant intends to rely on a set-off of any debt or liquidated money demand, he must in his notice state the particulars of it. The provisions of Order VI. as to particulars will apply to them (Order X. r. 11; Form 84). If a defendant gives an imperfect notice, and is thereby precluded from proving his set-off at the trial, he may still enforce it by subsequent original action (Stanton v. Styles, (1850) 5 Ex. 578; 19 L. J. Ex. 336; and see Hindley v. Haslam, (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 481).

If a plaintiff sues one of several defendants jointly liable, pursuant to 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 97, the defendant may avail himself of a set-off as if all had been joined (Order X. r. 7). If a person be improperly joined as plaintiff and defendant raises a set-off or counterclaim, he may establish it as against the other plaintiffs (Order X. r. 8).

A set-off differs in several respects from a counterclaim. Each is in the nature of a cross-action, but a set-off, besides being applicable only to debts or liquidated demands, has an effect upon the original claim different from that of a counterclaim. An established set-off reduces the plaintiff's claim in the action pro tanto, or entirely defeats it. An established counterclaim is equivalent to a verdict in a cross-action, and there are two verdicts, each separate and distinct. Moreover, a set-off can go no further than to defeat a claim—the defendant cannot recover anything beyond; but a defendant may establish and obtain judgment on a counterclaim exceeding in amount the plaintiff's original claim. (As to set-off, see the judgments in Newell v. National Provincial Bank of England, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 496; 45 L. J. C. P. 285; In re Whitehouse, (1878) 9 Ch. D. 595; 47 L. J. Ch. 801; Stooke v. Taylor, (1880) 5 Q. B. D. 569; 49 L. J. Q. B. 857; Neale v. Clarke, (1879) 4 Ex. D. 286).

For the special provisions of the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, enabling county court judges to adjust and set off cross-claims in cases of disputes between an employer and a workman, see Part V., "Employers and Workmen Act, 1875."

Infancy.]—Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of infancy, he must in his statement set forth, so far as he is able, the place and date of his birth (Order X. r. 12; Form 85).

Coverture.]—Where a female defendant intends to rely on the defence of coverture, she must set forth, so far as she is able, the place and date of marriage, the christian name and surname of her husband, and his address and description (Order X. r. 13; Form 85).

Statute of Limitations.] — Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of any statute of limitations, his statement may be according to the Form 85 (ib. rr. 14, 18; Form 85; Eaton v. Tapley, (1899) 1 Q. B. 953; 68 L. J. Q. B. 638). The Public Authorities Protection Act, 1893, s. 1, is a statute of limitations, and should be so pleaded (Gregory v. Torquay Corporation, (1912) 1 K. B. 442; 80 L. J. K. B. 981). Section 82 Notes.

Discharge under Bankruptcy Acts.]—Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of a release under any statute relating to bankrupts, he must set forth the date of his discharge, and the court by which it was granted (Order X. r. 15; Form 85).

Libel or Slander.]—Where in any remitted action for libel or slander the defendant relies as a defence upon the fact that the libel or slander is true, he must set forth that the libel or slander complained of is true in substance (Order X., r. 16; Form 85). If he relies upon an apology, or payment into court and apology under the provisions of sects. 1 and 2 of the Libel Act, 1843, he must give notice in writing (Forms 86, 87), signed by himself or his solicitor, five clear days at least before the day fixed for the trial (Order XXXIII. r. 4).

If he does not rely as a defence upon the fact that the libel or slander is true, but relies in mitigation of damages on the circumstances under which the libel or slander was published, or the character of the plaintiff, he must give particulars of the matters relating thereto as to which he intends to give evidence (Order X. r. 17. These cases can only arise when the parties agree to give the court jurisdiction, or when an action is remitted for trial by the High Court). This rule would not prevent cross-examination to credit without such notice.

Statutory Defence.]—When in any action the defendant relies upon a statutory defence (except the Statute of Limitations) or any defence of which he is required by any statute to give notice, he must set forth the year, chapter, and section of the statute, or the short title thereof, and the particular matter on which he relies, or otherwise sufficiently indicate the nature of the defence on which he relies (Order X. r. 18 (2); Form 85. As to Statute of Limitations, see Eaton v. Tapley, ante, p. 82). But this rule does not entitle a plaintiff to maintain an action contrary to the provisions of the Gaming Acts, 1845 or 1892, by reason of the Acts not having been pleaded as a defence (Order X. r. 18 (2)).

The defence afforded to county court bailiffs by sect. 54 of the County Courts Act, 1888, is such a defence (Denny v. Bennett, (1896) 44 W. R. 333).

The rule clearly covers those cases in which the general issue by statute can be pleaded. In an action against a local board it was held that the board could not, at the trial, object to the sufficiency of a notice of action given under the Public Health Act, 1875, no notice of such defence having been given under the rule (Kay v. Atherton Local Board, (1878) 42 J. P. 792; overruled in Graham v. Mayor of Newcastle, (1893) 1 Q. B. 643; 62 L. J. Q. B. 315, but on another point). So in an action against a police officer, where notice of action had not been given in time, but no notice of defence had been given, it was held that the judge was wrong in non-suiting the plaintiff (Allwright v. Perks, (1893) 9 T. L. R. 235). So want or insufficiency of a notice of injury under the Employers' Liability Act (Conroy v. Peacock, (1897) 2 Q. B. 6; 66 L. J. Q. B. 425); no memorandum in writing sufficient to satisfy the Statute of Frauds, or now sect. 4 of the Sale of Goods Act (Brutton v. Branson, (1898) 2 Q. B. 219; 67 L. J. Q. B. 827); no signed bill of solicitor's costs (Lewis v. Burrell, (1898) 77 L. T. 626); a defence under the Gaming Act, 1892 (Willis v. Lovick, (1901) 2 K. B. 195; 70 L. J. K. B. 656; and see Renton v. King, (1905) 93 L. T. 10), are all statutory defences, though the plaintiff can no longer avail himself of the omission to plead the last-named Act as a defence (Order X. r. 18 (2)). A defence of breach of warranty, though dealt with in the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, s. 53, is not a statutory defence, as it does not owe its existence to a statute (Bright v. Rogers, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 804. The notice of objections to the plaintiff's title under the Copyright Act, 1842, s. 16 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 16), would, it is believed, be within the rule

(Harris v. Sheldon, (1889) W. N. 92, 128, was decided before the new rule). The rule applies to actions of contract.

Equitable Defence.]—Where a defendant claims to be entitled as matter of defence to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground against the claim of the plaintiff, or any part thereof, he must show concisely the circumstances which give rise to such defence, and set forth separately each of the grounds of equitable defence (Order X. r. 19): that is to say, where a defendant has to rely on facts which would formerly have entitled him to relief in equity against the plaintiff's claim, he must concisely state them (see Heap v. Marris, (1876) 2 Q. B. D. 630; 46 L. J. Q. B. 761).

A defence of this kind must not be confounded with counterclaim. Where the facts relied on go to defeat the claim of the plaintiff, whether by way of denial of the claim or by way of admission—that, e.g., something was due, the right to recover which has been avoided—then such facts constitute a proper matter of defence. But if they go to show a claim of a different nature, not merely denying or avoiding the plaintiff's claim, such facts constitute a ground for a counterclaim, and not a defence on equitable grounds.

The defendant may rely on any equitable defence; and, so far as it goes to defeat the plaintiff's claim, the judge has power to entertain any defence whatsoever (see Davis v. Flagstaff Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. C. P. 503), whether he would or would not have jurisdiction if the matter came before him by way of original claim or counterclaim. A defendant might set up as a defence to an action upon a deed, that its terms had been, by mutual mistake of the parties, wrongly expressed. The court might then for the purposes of the action treat the deed as reformed, though it could not go further and actually reform it on a mere defence (see Breslauer v. Barwick, (1876) 36 L. T. 52; 24 W. R. 901; Mostyn v. West Mostyn Coal Co., (1875) 1 C. P. D. 145; 45 L. J. C. P. 401).

As to notice of defence when a summons for a judgment by default is issued, see post, sect. 86; and as to defences in proceedings under the Bills of Exchange Act and other cases, see the special chapters devoted to the particular subjects.

If the defendant has, at any time before the commencement of the action, tendered to the plaintiff the amount claimed, or what he considers to be due to the plaintiff, he may set it up as a defence; and if he succeeds in establishing it, and no further sum is awarded to the plaintiff, the defendant will generally obtain all the costs of the action. The defence is not available unless, with notice of defence, the defendant pays into court (the payment may be made without costs) the amount alleged to have been tendered (Order X. r. 20; Form 85). Notice of the defence and payment into court will be given by the registrar to the plaintiff in accordance with Order X. . 10. The plaintiff may accept the money in satisfaction. He is not ntitled to take it out of court or to any costs without an order of the court, which may make such order as to the costs of either party as may be just, and may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be deducted from the amount in court (Order IX. r. 18).

The defence of tender cannot be raised to a claim for unliquidated damages (Dearle v. Barrett, (1834) 2 A. & E. 82; S. C., nom. Searle v. Barrett, 4 N. & M. 200), except in some cases of wrong, as when by statute a tender of amends is permissible, and may be relied on at the trial. Money may however be paid into court, with or without a denial of liability, see post, Order IX., r. 12.

A tender need not be made by the debtor in person, it may be made by a third person on his behalf (Bacon's Abridgement, Tender A.); nor to the creditor personally; it may be made to an authorised agent (per Parke, B., Kirton v. Braithwaite, (1836) 1 M. & W. 310, 313). A tender of part of an entire demand is bad (Dixon v. Clark, (1849) 5 C. B. 365; 16 L. J. C. P. 237; 75 R. R. 747). A tender of a larger amount than is due is good (Wade's Case, (1601) 5 Rep. 115 a; Dean v. James, (1832) 4 B. & Ad. 546; 2 L. J. K. B. 94), unless objected to for want of change (Bevans v. Rees, (1839) 5 M. & W. 306, 308, per Lord Abinger, C.B.; 8 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 263; 52 R. R. 727; Betterbee v. Davis, (1811) 3 Camp. 70; 13 R. R. 755). So a tender of 2*l.* by a debtor who owed 1*l.* 13*s.* (Cadman v. Lubbock, (1824) 5 D. & R. 289; 3 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 41) and a tender of 20*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* in notes and silver by a debtor who owed 20*l* (Dean v. James, supra) have been held good. Bank of England notes are a legal tender for all sums above 5*l.* (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 98, s. 6), so are currency notes for 1*l.* and 10*s.* issued by the Treasury under the statute 4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 14. There must be an actual production of the money, or its production must be expressly or impliedly dispensed with (Thomas v. Evans, (1808) 10 East, 101; 10 R. R. 229; Finch v. Brook, (1834) 1 Scott, 70, 76, per Tindal, C.J.; 1 Bing. N. C. 253; 4 L. J. (N. S.) C. P. 1; 41 R. R. 595); and the tender must be made unconditionally (Laing v. Meader, (1824) 1 C. & P. 257; Ford v. Noll, (1842) 12 L. J. C. P. 2). Merely demanding a stamped receipt for the amount offered would not, it is thought, make a tender bad (Richardson v. Jackson, (1841) 8 M. & W. 298; 10 L. J. Ex. 303; 54 & 55 Vict. c. 39, s. 103). A cheque objected to merely as to amount was held to be a good tender (Jones v. Arthur, (1840) 8 Dowl. 442).

Fraud or Misrepresentation.]—Must now be specially pleaded (Order X. r. 21A).

83. An affidavit to be used in a court may be sworn before any judge or registrar, or clerk to the registrar nominated by a judge for that purpose, without the payment of any fee, or before any commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court not being a registrar, or before a justice of the peace.

Before whom affidavits may be sworn. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 58.

Affidavits must be expressed in the first person, and drawn up in paragraphs and numbered (Order XIX. r. 1. For heading, see Form 3). All affidavits other than those for which forms are given must state the deponent's occupation, quality, and place of residence, and also what facts or circumstances deposed to are within his own knowledge, and his means of knowledge, and what facts or circumstances deposed to are known to or believed by him by reason of information derived from other sources than his own knowledge, and what those sources are (Order XIX. r. 2). The costs of an affidavit which unnecessarily sets forth matters of hearsay, or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, are to be paid by the party filing it (Order XIX. r. 2). Every affidavit must be intituled in the action or matter in which it is sworn; but if there are more plaintiffs or defendants than one the full name of the first only must be given, with a statement that there are others (Order XIX. r. 3). It must be stated in a note at the foot on whose behalf it is filed, and that note must appear in all copies (Order XIX. r. 4). The costs of affidavits not in conformity with the preceding rules will be disallowed on taxation, unless the court otherwise directs (Order XIX. r. 5). In an affidavit made by two or more deponents, the names of the several deponents are to be inserted in the jurat, except that if the affidavit of all the deponents is taken at one time by the same officer, it will be sufficient to state that it was sworn by both (or all) of the "above-named" deponents (Order XIX. r. 6).

Sources of knowledge to be stated.

Costs when disallowed.

All affidavits must be delivered to the registrar, and must be filed by him before use, and it is his duty to distinguish them by the number of the plaint in respect of which they are filed, and from each other, by a distinctive letter of the alphabet (Order XIX. r. 7; Order II. r. 3). He is entitled to require also the delivery of copies to him pursuant to Order LIV. r. 13.

Filing.

The rule as to filing does not hinder a judge from making an order in an urgent case upon the undertaking of the applicant to file an affidavit already sworn, provided that the order be not issued until the affidavit has been filed (Order XIX. r. 7).

Section 83 Notes.

An affidavit will not be filed which has been sworn before a commissioner who was at the time of the swearing of the same the solicitor acting for the party on whose behalf such affidavit is to be used, or the agent, correspondent, partner, or clerk of such solicitor, or who is the party himself (Order XIX. r. 8).

Erasure, blotting, interlineation, etc.

No affidavit which is blotted so as to obliterate any word, or which is illegibly written, or so altered as to cause it to be illegible, or in the body or jurat of which there is any interlineation, alteration, or erasure, unless the person before whom it is sworn has initialled the interlineation or alteration, and in case of an erasure, shall have re-written and signed in the margin the words or figures appearing to be written on the erasure, or which is so imperfect upon the face by reason of blanks or otherwise that it cannot easily be read or understood, is to be filed or used, unless the court otherwise orders (Order XIX. r. 9).

Illiterate or Blind Deponent.]—Where an affidavit is sworn by any person who appears to the officer taking the affidavit to be illiterate or blind, the officer must certify in the jurat that the affidavit was read in his presence to the deponent, that the deponent seemed perfectly to understand it, and that the deponent made his signature in the presence of the officer. No such affidavit can be used in evidence in the absence of this certificate, unless the court is otherwise satisfied that the affidavit was read over to and appeared to be perfectly understood by the deponent (Order XIX. r. 10).

The court may receive an affidavit sworn for the purpose of being used in any action or matter, notwithstanding any defect by misdescription of parties or otherwise in the title or jurat, or any other irregularity in its form, and may direct a memorandum of its reception to be made upon it (Order XIX. r. 11).

Where a registrar rejects an affidavit, he must give notice (Form 133), by post or otherwise, to the party offering it for filing, of the rejection and the reasons, but no such notice is necessary if the party offering the same is present when the registrar rejects the affidavit (Order XIX. r. 14).

The above rules apply to all cases in which any evidence may be given, or matter proved by affidavit; but, even in cases in which evidence is required or permitted to be taken by affidavit, such evidence may be taken orally on oath, if the judge or registrar shall, at or before the trial, so direct (Order XVIII. r. 1).

Costs of Special Affidavits.]—On taxation of costs instructions for special affidavits will not be allowed, unless in the opinion of the registrar the facts on which they were grounded had not become known to the solicitor or his clerks in the course of the business (item 23).

Affidavits of service, when required, must state when, where, how, and by whom service was effected (Order XIX. r. 12).

Districts of courts in metropolis to be treated as one district. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 18. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 3.

84. Where a plaintiff shall dwell or carry on business in the district of the Bloomsbury county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Brompton county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Clerkenwell county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Lambeth county court of Surrey, or in the district of the Marylebone county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Shoreditch county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Southwark county court of Surrey, or in the district of the Westminster county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the Whitechapel county court of Middlesex, or in the district of the City of London Court, and the defendant shall dwell or carry on business in the district of any of the said courts, the action or matter may be commenced, and all proceedings thereon taken and had either in the court of the district in which the plaintiff shall dwell or carry on business, or in the court of the district in which the defendant shall dwell or carry on business. Section 84.

Metropolitan Districts.]—England and Wales are divided into districts, and a county court is established in each. The city of London forms a district of itself, and the City of London Court is a county court like the others, except that it retains certain privileges. The metropolitan districts are Bloomsbury, Brompton, Clerkenwell, Lambeth, Marylebone, Shoreditch, Southwark, Westminster, Whitechapel, and the city of London, and if the plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business in any of these districts, though not necessarily in the same, the action or matter may be commenced and all proceedings taken, either in the court of the district in which the plaintiff or in that in which the defendant dwells or carries on business.

Order LV. interpreting "metropolitan court" does not add Bow to the courts mentioned in this section.

This provision enables the plaintiff to sue in the district in which he dwells or carries on business, without leave and without its being necessary for any part of the cause of action to arise within the district. The jurisdiction exists even if the plaintiff has become resident within a district for the purpose of giving jurisdiction, if residence was actually and bonâ fide enjoyed before the issuing of the summons.

The above provision excepts the metropolitan districts from the operation of sect. 75 of the Act of 1888, which specifies the district in which certain equity actions and matters discussed in Part VIII. must be commenced. Those proceedings must, therefore, in the metropolitan districts, be commenced in accordance with the provision now under consideration.

Sect. 39 of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852, is not repealed by sect. 74 of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, hence the City of London Court has jurisdiction if the defendant has "employment" within the city, and without leave of judge or registrar, where the cause of action wholly or in part arose therein.

Dwelling or carrying on Business.]—For the meaning of these words, see note to sect. 74, ante, p. 72.

85. If a judge shall be satisfied by either party to an action or matter pending in his court that such action or matter can be more conveniently or fairly tried or heard in some other court, he shall order that the same be transferred to such other court, or, if the judge shall be interested in any action or matter pending in his court, he shall order that the same be transferred to some convenient court of which he is not the judge at his discretion; and in either case the registrar of the court in which the action or matter was commenced shall forthwith transmit by post to the registrar of the court to which it is to be sent, a certified copy of all the proceedings therein, and the judge of such last-mentioned court shall appoint a day for the trial or hearing, notice whereof shall be sent, by post or otherwise, by the registrar to all parties interested, and thenceforth all proceedings therein shall be taken in such court as if the action or matter had been commenced therein. Power to judge to change place of trial. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 22.

Transfer to another Court.]—If the judge is satisfied, by either party to an action or matter, that it can be more conveniently or fairly tried in some other court, he must send it for hearing to such other court; or, if the judge be himself interested in the action or matter, he must send it for hearing to ome other convenient court of which he is not the judge (sect. 85; Form 120). The registrar must forthwith transmit by post a certified copy of all the proceedings to the registrar of the other court, and the judge of it is to appoint a day for hearing, notice (Form 121) whereof is to be given, by post or otherwise, to the parties.

Where actions are commenced in different courts by parties in the same interest, upon application by any of the parties, they must be transferred to the court in which the first plaint was entered, and will then proceed in all respects as if they had been commenced in that court (Order VIII. r. 8).

If an action be brought by an officer of a county court in the court of which he is an officer, except as official receiver, the judge, at the request of the defendant, must order that the action be sent for trial to the court of some convenient district of which he is not the judge (see sect. 42; Form 120). Where any of the parties to an action are officers of the court, the judge, if he thinks fit, may direct the trial to take place at some convenient court of which he is not the judge (Order XXII. r. 23; Form 121). The proceedings, after the making of the order, are the same as in the cases above mentioned (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 42).

Practice.]—Where application is intended to be made for the transfer of any action or proceeding under sect. 85, or Order VIII. r. 8, or Order XXXIII. r. 19, three clear days' notice in writing of such intended application ought to be given by the applicant to the registrar of the court in which such action or proceeding is pending, and to all parties who may be affected; but the judge may at any time, with or without consent, order a transfer, although this rule has not been complied with. The judge may make such order as he thinks fit as to the costs incurred before or occasioned by the transfer, and a certified copy of the proceedings must be transmitted to the registrar of the court to which the transfer has been made in accordance with 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 85. The costs of the copy and of transmission are in the first instance paid for by the applicant, or by the plaintiff if the order is made by the judge without application; without prejudice in either case to any question as to the party by whom the costs are ultimately to be borne (Order VIII. r. 9).

Default summons and notice of defence.
38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 1.

86.—(1) Subject to any rules and orders under this Act, in any action in a court for a debt or liquidated money demand, the plaintiff may, at his option, cause to be issued a summons in the ordinary form, or (upon filing an affidavit to the effect set forth in the prescribed form) a default summons in the prescribed form or to the prescribed effect, and if such last-mentioned summons be issued it shall be personally served on the defendant, and if the defendant shall not, within eight days after service of the summons, inclusive of the day of service, give notice, by post or otherwise, in writing, signed by himself or his solicitor, to the registrar of the court from which the summons issued, of his intention to defend, the plaintiff may, after eight days (a) and within two months from the day of service, upon proof of service, or of an order for leave to proceed as if personal service had been effected, have judgment entered up against the defendant for the amount of his claim and costs, such costs to be taxed by the registrar.

(a) "Eight days." Notice to defend must be given within the eight days. Notice given after the expiry of this time is too late, and plaintiff may notwithstanding sign judgment (The King v. Judge Parry, (1916) 2 K. B. 107; 85 L. J. K. B. 1428). Section 86

(2) The order upon such judgment shall be for payment forthwith or at such time or times, and by such instalments, if any, as the plaintiff, or his solicitor, shall in writing have consented to take at the time of the entry of the plaint or of the judgment (a).

(a) I.e., in time. See The King v. Judge Parry, supra.

(3) Where the defendant shall have given notice of defence the registrar shall, immediately upon the receipt of such notice, send a letter to the plaintiff or his solicitor by post, stating therein that the defendant has given such notice and shall send by post to both plaintiff and defendant notice of the day upon which he shall have fixed that the trial shall take place at least six clear days before the day so fixed.

(4) Where the defendant shall neglect to give such notice the judge or registrar shall, upon an affidavit disclosing a defence upon the merits and satisfactorily explaining his neglect, let in the defendant to defend, upon such terms as he may think just.

(5) Where personal service cannot be effected, and the judge or registrar is satisfied by affidavit that reasonable efforts have been made to effect such service, and either that the summons has come to the knowledge of the defendant or that he wilfully evades service of the same, it shall be lawful for the judge or registrar to order that the plaintiff be at liberty to proceed as if personal service had been effected, subject to such conditions as he may think just.

See The King v. Judge Parry, supra.

(6) Provided always, that no other summons than a summons in the ordinary form shall, without leave of the judge or registrar, be issued where the amount claimed shall not exceed five pounds, unless the action is for the price, value, or hire of goods which, or some part of which, were sold and delivered or let on hire to the defendant to be used or dealt with in the way of his trade, profession, or calling, and such leave shall be given in the manner prescribed.

Where there is no defence, or where the defendant is willing to admit the claim, or able to agree with the plaintiff on the sum to be paid and the manner in which it is to be paid, judgment can be obtained by means of a default summons without trying the cause in the usual manner.

Judgment by Default.]—A default summons may be issued for any debt or liquidated demand not exceeding 100*l.* (see 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3), and is obtained on filing an affidavit (Order V. r. 14; Forms 9, 10, 11, 12) verifying the debt, which must contain the particulars as to name, etc., of the proposed defendant required by Order V. r. 4 (a), (b), (c), for which, see post, p. 398. It can be issued against partners in the name of a firm (Order VII. r. 31), and against corporations (Order VII. r. 32).

Section 86 Notes.

Every summons on plaint required by statute or rule to be served personally is called a "default summons" (see Order LV. For this form of default summons, see Forms 5, 23).

An assignee of a debt or other legal chose in action is not entitled to issue a default summons under sect. 86 (Order V. r. 8; Reg. v. Pontypool C. C. Judge, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 702).

A default summons cannot be issued for service out of England or Wales (Order VII. r. 44a).

The summons is issued without leave where the claim is for the price or value or hire of goods which, or some part of which, were sold and delivered or let on hire to the defendant, to be used or dealt with in the way of his trade, profession, or calling, and in other cases where the claim exceeds 5*l.*: in cases not within these classes leave must be obtained from the judge or registrar.

When the claim in the other cases referred to does not exceed 5*l.*, and leave is required pursuant to sect. 86, it cannot be given unless the occupation or description of the proposed defendant are set out in the affidavit, and will not be given at all where it appears that the defendant is a domestic or menial servant, a labourer, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour (Order V. r. 15; Gordon v. Evans (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 248; 63 L. J. Q. B. 329).

Leave must be obtained in every case where the defendant does not dwell or carry on business within the district in which the plaintiff proposes to enter the plaint (see sect. 74, ante, pp. 72—73). The affidavit, and a copy for each defendant, must be lodged; and the judge or registrar must exercise his discretion as to the grant of leave as in ordinary cases (Reg. v. Turner, (1897) 1 Q. B. 445; 66 L. J. Q. B. 417; Order V. r. 13). The copy affidavit, bearing upon it a copy of the order granting leave (Forms 8 (1), 9, 10), must be annexed to and served with the summons (Order VII. r. 3).

At the time of entering the plaint, the plaintiff may file a notice, signed by himself or his solicitor or agent, of the time or times, and of the instalments, if any, at or by which he consents to accept payment (Form 24). He must file as many copies of this notice as there are defendants, with an additional copy for the use of the judge. A copy of the notice will be annexed to the summons, and served with it. If the plaintiff neglects to file the above notice on entering the plaint, he may, nevertheless, give a similar notice on entering up judgment (Order V. r. 19; Order LIV. r. 13).

On entry of the plaint the plaintiff must file a præcipe, as provided by Order V. rr. 4a, 5, 6, 7, and if he or his solicitor wishes to serve the summons himself he must so state in his præcipe (Order V. r. 9). Where a defendant is a married woman or a widow the præcipe must state that fact, and must state whether judgment is to be entered against her in respect of a contract before coverture or during coverture, or (in the case of a widow) in respect of a contract since the determination of the coverture, according to the form in the Appendix.

Particulars of Demand.]—On entering the plaint, in all cases (Order VI. r. 1), whether the claim is above 40*s.* or not, the plaintiff must file particulars of his demand with the registrar, together with as many copies as there are defendants, and a copy for the judge (Order LIV. r. 13). A copy will be annexed to the summons, sealed with the seal of the court (Order II. r. 8). Where a claim is made against a married woman or widow, the particulars must state whether the claim is in respect of a contract before coverture or during coverture, or (in the case of a widow) since the determination of the coverture (Order VI. r. 1).

Service.]—Default summonses must be served personally within twelve months from their date; but if any defendant has not been served, the plaintiff may, before the expiration of twelve months, apply to the registrar, and if the registrar is satisfied that reasonable efforts have been made to serve such defendant, or that there is some other good reason why service has been delayed, he may issue a successive summons for a further period of twelve months, and so on from time to time, and such successive summonses will be a continuance of the action on and from the day on which the plaint was entered (Order VII. r. 30). Where non-service in a foreign court is caused by the plaintiff having mis-stated or insufficiently stated the particulars as to name, etc., of the defendant required by Order V. r. 4, or by the removal of the defendant from his address given on the summons, before entry of the plaint, the high bailiff (subject to Order VII., r. 5A, para. II., applied by Order VII., r. 30A, para. II.), shall return the summons to the registrar of the court from which it issued, and in his notice of non-service sent to the plaintiff shall state that it has been so returned (Order II., r. 31 (2)). In any of the circumstances given in the last paragraph the default summons may be amended at any time during its currency as to such incorrect particulars on plaintiff correcting and re-swearing the affidavit required before entry of plaint, or swearing a further affidavit, and on payment, where the summons is to be served by a bailiff, of such fee as may be prescribed (Order VII., r. 30A).

Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of Order VII., r. 5A, apply to the amendment of default summonses generally. See Order VII., r. 30A (2). When corporations are sued, a default summons will be deemed sufficiently served if served in accordance with Order VII. r. 26 (Order VII. r. 32). A default summons may be served in any district in which the defendant is found by a bailiff, and, if so requested at the entry of the plaint under Order V. r. 9, (1) by the plaintiff or some clerk or servant in his permanent and exclusive employ : (2) by the plaintiff's solicitor, or a solicitor acting as agent for such solicitor, or some person in the employ of either of them, or some person employed by either of them to serve the summons, who might be so employed to serve a writ in an action in the High Court (Order VII. r. 33). If, however, in any case in which no request has been made at the entry of the plaint, any difficulty is experienced by the bailiff in effecting service, the summons may by leave of the registrar be served by the plaintiff or some clerk or servant in his permanent and exclusive employ, or by the plaintiff's solicitor or the agent of such solicitor, or some person in the employ of either of them (Order VII. r. 33). These provisions as to the person who may effect service apply also to the service of ordinary summonses under the extended jurisdiction conferred by the Act of 1903 (Order XXIIA. r. 3 (3)).

Where a bailiff cannot effect personal service of a default summons, he may, on payment of a sum for his expenses, be required to take the necessary steps to enable the plaintiff to apply under sect. 86, sub-s. 5, for liberty to proceed as if personal service had been effected, and to carry out any order made in the application. In claims exceeding 40*s.* but not exceeding 10*l.*, the sum allowed for these expenses is half-a-crown ; in claims exceeding 10*l.*, it is half the sum which may be allowed to a solicitor under item 17 of the Scales of Costs. These expenses may be allowed as costs against the defendant, but will not be allowed in addition to item 17 (Order VII. r. 33c).

When served otherwise than by a bailiff, the plaintiff must within three clear days, or such time as may be allowed by the registrar of the court issuing the summons, deliver or transmit to him a copy of the summons indorsed with the date and place of service and an affidavit of service according to the form in the Appendix (Order VII. r. 34 ; Form 37).

Substituted Service.]—If personal service cannot be effected, the judge or registrar may, if satisfied by affidavit (Form 43) that reasonable efforts have been made to effect service, and either that the summons has come to the knowledge of the defendant, or that he wilfully evades service, order that the plaintiff may proceed as if personal service had been effected, subject to such conditions as to the judge or registrar may seem fit (see sect. 86 ; Order XII. r. 11 ; Forms 44, 45, 46).

Section 86 Notes.

Foreign Courts.]—The high bailiff of a foreign court must send notice of service within two days, and return the summons duly indorsed to the registrar of the home court. If it cannot be served within a month, notice must be sent to the plaintiff by the high bailiff, who must send a similar notice at the end of each month during which it is in force but not served (Order II. r. 31; Forms 35, 36. See Form 28 for the letter to be sent to a foreign district with the summons). If the plaintiff sues by solicitor these notices must be sent to him (Order II. r. 41).

Where the summons is not returned to the registrar within twelve months from the date of its issue it will be struck out, unless the time for service has been extended (Order VII. r. 35).

Notice of Defence, etc.]—The defendant may, after service of the summons, whether he has any real defence or not, give notice of his intention to defend (see Form 23). The notice of defence must be signed by the defendant or his solicitor, and must be sent, by post or otherwise, to the registrar of the court from which the summons issued, within eight days after service (see Forms 38, 39).

The registrar must, immediately on receipt of the notice, send a letter to the plaintiff or his solicitor, by post, stating that the defendant has given notice, and must also give notice to both plaintiff and defendant of the day fixed for the trial, at least ten clear days before such day (see Forms 38, 39).

Judgment for want of Notice.]—The above notice will prevent the plaintiff from obtaining judgment against the defendant before the return-day; but the defendant will not then be permitted to raise any of the special defences mentioned in Order X. rr. 10—21A, post, pp. 446—450, unless, in addition to the above notice, he gives the notice mentioned in Order X. r. 10, in the manner thereby prescribed.

If the defendant does not, within eight days after service, give notice to defend to the registrar of the court from which the summons issued, the plaintiff may, after eight days and within two months from the day of service, on proof of service, or of an order for leave to proceed as if personal service had been effected, have judgment entered up against the defendant for the amount of his claim and costs: the costs to be taxed by the registrar (see Forms 38, 39).

Where a default summons has been entered by post pursuant to Order V. r. 12, and the defendant does not give notice of his intention to defend, judgment may be entered up by post. The plaintiff, or his solicitor (if the latter has no office within the district), must send to the registrar (a) the plaint note, (b) a præcipe (Form 37A) stating the amount of debt and costs and the instalments (if any) which will be taken, (c) a money order for the fees payable on entering up judgment, and (d) a stamped envelope addressed to the plaintiff or his solicitor (Order VII. r. 34a). Where a defendant is a married woman or widow, the præcipe must state that fact, and must also state whether judgment is to be entered against her in respect of a contract before coverture or during coverture, or (in the case of a widow) since the determination of the coverture (Order VII. r. 34a; Forms 37A, 37B).

Proof of Service, etc.]—If service has been made by bailiff it may be proved in the ordinary way by the indorsement on the summons (see Form 34). If service has been made otherwise than by bailiff, service must be proved by affidavit (Form 37), or by production of the original order to proceed as if personal service had been effected (Form 46), unless the defendant has given notice of defence or admission of the debt. Where conditions are imposed by the order giving liberty to proceed, the plaintiff must also deliver or transmit to the registrar an affidavit showing that they have been complied with (Order VII. r. 34).

Where the default summons is issued against partners, service on any one of the partners is sufficient (Order VII. r. 31). If issued against a person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own it shall be served personally on such person, and the endorsement or affidavit of service shall state that he was served as the person carrying on business in that name or style (Order VII., r. 31A). An endorsement or affidavit of service under these last two rules shall be in accordance with Forms 34A or 37 (2). See Order VII., r. 31B.

The order upon the judgment will be for payment forthwith, or at such times, and by such instalments, if any, as the plaintiff or his solicitor has by writing consented to take at the time of the entry of the plaint or of the judgment (Forms 38, 39). No order need be drawn up or served unless the judgment is for payment by instalments, or unless the plaintiff has abandoned part of his claim under Order XIV. r. 13 (Order XXIII. r. 8).

Leave to Defend.]—Should the defendant neglect to give notice of defence, he may, on filing an affidavit disclosing a defence upon the merits and satisfactorily explaining his neglect, be let in to defend by leave of the judge or registrar, upon such terms as may be just. No order need be drawn up (Order XXIII. r. 5). Judgment may not be entered after two months from the date of service, if the defendant has neither given notice nor obtained an order to defend, and the action will be struck out as against him, notwithstanding the provisions of Order LIV. r. 12, which gives power to enlarge the time fixed by statute for doing any act (Order VII. r. 36).

Death after Service.]—Where a default summons has been served in time to prevent the operation of a statute of limitations, and either party dies after service and after lapse of the period within which it is provided by the statute that an action may be brought, proceedings may be taken by or against the surviving party, or by or against the personal representative of the deceased party, within one year from the date of service of the summons (Order VII. r. 37).

Exchange for Ordinary Summons.]—A default summons may, at the request of the plaintiff, be exchanged, without fee, for an ordinary summons upon the former being filed in court within twelve months from its issue (Order VII. r. 38).

Payment after Notice of Defence.]—If, after notice of defence as to part or the whole of the claim, and before notice of trial has been sent to the plaintiff, the defendant pays into court the amount, or a portion of the amount, claimed, together with court fees proportionate to the amount paid in, and a proportionate amount of the solicitor's costs entered on the summons, he will not be liable for any further costs, if the plaintiff accepts the money paid in as a satisfaction. But if payment into court is made after notice of trial, the court may order the defendant to pay such further fees and costs as the plaintiff may, prior to receiving notice of the payment into court, have incurred in preparing for trial, and may incur in attending court to obtain the order, including, if the judge so orders, any of the items which he might have allowed at the trial; no hearing fee will, however, be charged (Order IX. r. 15; and see Order IX. r. 13 (3)).

Trial after Notice.]—The trial after notice of defence takes place in the ordinary way. If neither plaintiff nor defendant appears, the action will be struck out; if the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not, the action will be struck out, and costs may be given against the plaintiff; where the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not, judgment may be entered for the plaintiff without further proof; and the amount may be ordered to be paid by instalments or otherwise (Order XXII. r. 7). It appears from the judgments of the Court of Appeal in Hooper v. Hill, (1894) 1 Q. B. 659; 63 L. J. Q. B. 598, that these actions are subject to the provisions of sect. 90 of the Act of 1888, and that in default of appearance by the defendant the judge alone has power under Order XXII. r. 7 to enter judgment without proof, if notice of defence has been given. Where the registrar deals with the case, it appears that proof ought to be given in accordance with sect. 90. See, however, the definition of "court" in sect. 18 of the Act of 1888, and in Order LV. Where both parties appear, the action will be tried, and personal service need not be proved (Davis v. Pearce, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 435).

Section 86 Notes.

Bills of Exchange Act, 1855.]—In actions under the Bills of Exchange Act, 1855, the defendant may not defend the action without first obtaining leave.

Amendment of proceedings. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 57.

87. The judge may at all times amend all defects and errors in any proceeding in the court, whether there is anything in writing to amend by or not, and whether the defect or error be that of the party applying to amend, or not; and all such amendments may be made with or without costs, and upon such terms as the judge may think just; and all such amendments as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties shall be so made, if duly applied for.

Amendment.]—This power of the judge to grant an amendment for some sufficient reason is not taken away by Order XIV. r. 12, which authorises the plaintiff to file amended particulars, and gives power to the judge to disallow the amendment.

The judge cannot at the hearing, without the consent of the defendant, amend the particulars so as to substitute a cause of action within the jurisdiction for one which is not, as by amending particulars from slander to false imprisonment, even if the evidence supports the latter cause of action (Hopper v. Warburton, (1863) 32 L. J. Q. B. 104). But the judge may, in a remitted action for demurrage at a specified rate, amend the particulars by substituting a claim for unliquidated damages (Spencer, Whatley & Co. v. Forster & Co., (1905) 1 K. B. 434; 74 L. J. K. B. 288). The abandonment of the excess to a claim exceeding 100*l.* has been dealt with, ante, p. 80.

Recovery of more than Amount claimed.]—Where upon taking an account or by verdict or otherwise it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to recover a larger amount than that in the particulars, but not exceeding 100*l.*, he may, by leave of the court and on payment of the difference (if any) in the fees payable on the respective amounts, amend his particulars so as to claim the larger amount, for which judgment may then be entered (Order XIV. r. 15).

Proceedings if plaintiff does not appear or prove his case. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 79.

88. If upon the return-day, or at any continuation or adjournment of the court, or of the action or matter, the plaintiff shall not appear, the action or matter shall be struck out; and if he shall appear but shall not make proof of his claim to the satisfaction of the court, it shall be lawful for the judge to nonsuit the plaintiff, or to give judgment for the defendant, and in either case where the defendant shall appear and shall not admit the claim, to award to the defendant, by way of costs and satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as the judge in his discretion shall think just, and such sum shall be recoverable from the plaintiff by such ways and means as any debt or damage ordered to be paid by the same court can be recovered: provided always, that if the plaintiff shall not appear when called upon, and the defendant, or some one duly authorised on his behalf, shall appear, and admit the cause of action to the full amount claimed, and pay the fees payable in the first instance by the plaintiff, the judge, if he shall think fit, may proceed to give judgment as if the plaintiff had appeared. Section 88.

Where neither Party appears.]—If neither party appears at the hearing, the cause is usually struck out by order of the judge.

Where Plaintiff does not appear.]—If the plaintiff does not appear, and the defendant appears, and does not admit the claim, the action or matter will be struck out, and the court may award costs to the defendant as if the action had been tried, including costs of counsel, etc., but no hearing fee will be charged (see sect. 89; Order XXII. r. 6; Form 149). The costs may be recovered by the ordinary means for recovering any sum ordered to be paid by the court. If the defendant appears and admits the claim, and pays the court fees payable in the first instance by the plaintiff, the judge may give judgment for the plaintiff. These provisions apply to actions by and against executors and administrators (Order XXX. r. 2). If the plaintiff does not appear, and the cause is struck out, and the judge refuses to restore it, the case is at an end, and the court above cannot interfere (Jennings v. London Omnibus Co. (2), (1874) 30 L. T. 640; 22 W. R. 757).

If the defendant has given notice of a counterclaim, he may prove it and get judgment; but the judgment may be set aside on terms pursuant to 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 91 (Order XXII. r. 8).

Where a case was adjourned for the attendance of a witness, and after the adjournment the defendant appeared but the plaintiff did not, and the judge directed judgment to be entered for the defendant, it was held that the judge had no jurisdiction to hear the case in the absence of the plaintiff, and that he should have ordered the case to be struck out (Jordan v. Jones, (1884) 44 J. P. 800).

As to non-appearance of parties on the return-day of a default summons, see Order XXII. r. 7, post, p. 509.

Costs of defendant where plaintiff does not appear. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 10.

89. In every case where the plaintiff shall not appear, either in person or by some person duly authorised on his behalf, upon the return-day, or at any continuation or adjournment of the court or of the action or matter, and the defendant shall appear either in person or by some person duly authorised on his behalf, it shall be lawful for the court to award to the defendant by way of costs of attendance and satisfaction for his trouble such sum as the court shall think just; and the sum so awarded shall be recoverable from the plaintiff by such ways and means as any debt or damage ordered to be paid by the court can be recovered.

Proceedings before registrar where defendant does not appear. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 16.

90. If in any action founded on contract a defendant shall not appear at the hearing, either in person or by some person duly authorised on his behalf, and no sufficient excuse for the defendant's absence shall be shown, the registrar may, by leave of the judge or in case of the judge's death or unavoidable absence, upon due proof of the service of the summons and of the debt being due and owing, enter up judgment for the plaintiff, and shall have the same power to make an order for payment by instalments, or to enter up judgment of nonsuit, or to strike out or adjourn the action, as a judge would have; and such judgment shall be as valid as if both parties had attended the court; but the judgment, and any execution thereon, may be set aside by the judge of the court, and a new trial granted upon such terms, if any, as the judge may think just.

When acting under this section, the registrar has the same powers of amendment as the judge. It appears from the judgments of the Court of Appeal in Hooper v. Hill, (1894) 1 Q. B. 659; 63 L. J. Q. B. 598, that actions on default summonses are subject to the provisions of sect. 90 of the Act of 1888, and that in default of appearance by the defendant the judge alone has power under Order XXII. r. 7 to enter judgment without proof, if notice of defence has been given. Where the registrar deals with the case, it appears that proof ought to be given in accordance with sect. 90. See, however, the definition of "court" in sect. 18 of the Act of 1888, and in Order LV.

Restoring Case struck out.]—Where any action or matter has been struck out under sects. 88 and 90 or under Order XXII. r. 7, the court may restore the same to the list for hearing either the same or any subsequent day, and may set aside any award of costs made under sect. 89 or Order XXII. rr. 6, 7, upon such terms as to costs of the day, adjournment of the hearing, notice to the opposite party, and otherwise as may be just.

Trial in absence of defendant. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 80.

91. If on the return-day, or at any continuation or adjournment of the court or of the action or matter, the defendant shall not appear either in person or by some person duly authorised on his behalf, or sufficiently excuse his absence, or shall neglect to answer when called in court, the judge, upon due proof of service, may proceed to the trial or hearing on the part of the plaintiff only and the judgment or order thereupon shall be as valid as if both parties had attended: provided always, that the judge in any such case, at the same or any subsequent court, may set aside any judgment or order so given or made in the absence of the defendant, and the execution thereupon, and may grant a new trial or hearing, upon such terms, if any, as to payment of costs, giving security or such other terms as he may think just, on sufficient cause shown to him for that purpose.

Where the Defendant does not appear.]—This provision applies to actions by and against executors and administrators (Order XXX. r. 2). No proof of the service of the judgment is necessary before issuing execution (Order XXIII. r. 7).

For proof of service of summons, see sect. 78.

Where defendant appears and admits the claim. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 17.

92. Where a defendant appearing at the hearing, either in person or by some person duly authorised on his behalf, admits the claim, the registrar may, by leave of the judge, or in case of the judge's death or unavoidable absence, settle the terms and conditions upon which it is to be paid, and enter up judgment accordingly as a judgment of the court. Subject to rules and orders under this Act a registrar may, on the application of the parties and by leave of the judge, hear and determine any disputed claim where the sum claimed or amount involved does not exceed two pounds.

Section 92.

The judge may, after deciding or reserving any question of liability, refer to the registrar any mere matter of account which is in dispute between the parties, and after deciding the question of liability may give judgment on the registrar's report.

Admission by Defendant.]—Where a defendant appears personally or by an agent at the hearing, and admits the claim, the registrar may, by leave of the judge, or in case of the judge's death or unavoidable absence, settle the terms and conditions upon which it is to be paid, and enter up judgment accordingly. The registrar has the same powers of amendment as the judge (Order XIV. r. 14).

Judgments how far final. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 89.

93. Every judgment and order of the court, except as in this Act provided, shall be final and conclusive between the parties; but the court shall have power to nonsuit the plaintiff in every case in which satisfactory proof shall not be given entitling either the plaintiff or defendant to judgment. The judge shall also in every case whatever have the power if he shall think just to order a new trial to be had upon such terms as he shall think reasonable, and in the meantime to stay the proceedings.

Finality of Judgments.]—When the judgment has been formally given the judge has no power to rescind or alter it, even on the same day with the parties still before him. If he does so he subjects himself to a prohibition (per Coleridge, J., Jones v. Jones (2), (1848) 5 D. & L. 628, 632; 17 L. J. Q. B. 170; 79 R. R. 884; Irving v. Askew (2), (1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 208; 39 L. J. Q. B. 118; The Recepta (2) (C. A.), (1893) 42 W. R. 73 (a case of alteration of order as to costs); Robinson v. Fawcett and Frith, (1901) 2 K. B. 325; 70 L. J. K. B. 639; and see Re St. Nazaire Co. (C. A.), (1879) 12 Ch. D. 88, where it was held that there is now no power in the High Court to rehear after judgment). At the present day this rule is not likely to be very strictly enforced, and if the judgment has not been entered on the minutes, and the parties or their solicitors are present, a change in the judgment actually pronounced would probably be justified on the ground that it had not been definitely given (see Barton v. Tilchmarsh, (1880) 49 L. J. Ex. 573). A county court judge who, at the trial of an action with a jury, has ruled that there is evidence for the jury and has entered judgment for the plaintiff in accordance with the verdict, has no power to grant a new trial on the ground that there was no evidence for the jury (Clarke v. West Ham Corporation, (1914) 2 K. B. 448; 83 L. J. K. B. 1306).

All orders and judgments, subject to the right of appeal or to apply for a new trial (post, sect. 120), are final and conclusive between the parties and cannot be sued upon; but see Savill v. Dalton, ante, p. 32. The judgment is a bar to an action on the original consideration in any other court (Austin v. Mills, (1854) 9 Ex. 288; 23 L. J. Ex. 40; 96 R. R. 717; Berkeley v. Elderkin, (1853) 1 E. & B. 805; 22 L. J. Q. B. 281; 93 R. R. 405). A judgment against A. by default does not debar the plaintiff, if he should afterwards discover that B. is liable and not A., from suing B., unless A. and B. were partners, or in some other way jointly liable (Isaacs & Sons v. Salbstein, (1916) 2 K. B. 139; 85 L. J. K. B. 1433). As to suing on original consideration where a negotiable instrument is invalid owing to alteration having been made therein, see Payana Reena Saminathan v. Pana Lana Palaniappa, (1914) A. C. 618; 83 L. J. P. C. 131. Where a servant sued unsuccessfully for wrongful dismissal, and after waiting a quarter summoned her master before justices for a quarter's wages, it was held that the county court judgment was conclusive against the claim (Routledge v. Hislop, (1860)

2 E. & E. 549; 29 L. J. M. C. 90; 119 R. R. 841). Where A. sued B. for rent, and the judge found in favour of B., on the ground of a yearly tenancy, it was held, in a subsequent action, brought in a superior court by B. against A., that A. was estopped by the judgment from contending that the tenancy was a weekly one (Flitters v. Allfrey, (1874) L. R. 10 C. P. 29; 44 L. J. C. P. 10, n.). Where the judge, after hearing evidence, set aside as fraudulent a deed compromising the judgment, a subsequent action in the High Court raising the question so decided was stayed as frivolous (Stephenson v. Garnett, (1898) 1 Q. B. 677 (C. A.); 67 L. J. Q. B. 447).

If damage to goods and damage to the person be occasioned by one wrongful act, the causes of action are distinct; and if an action be brought in respect of one only, the judgment will not be a bar to the maintenance of an action for the other (Brunsden v. Humphrey (C. A.), (1884) 14 Q. B. D. 141; 53 L. J. Q. B. 476). Even where a plaintiff splits his demand contrary to 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 81, it seems that the judgment obtained in the action will not bar another action for the residue of his demand (Vines v. Arnold, (1849) 8 C. B. 632; 19 L. J. C. P. 98; 79 R. R. 653; Adkin v. Friend, (1878) 38 L. T. 393; Jones v. Jones (1), (1874) 22 W. R. 577).

Where a defendant has a set-off or counterclaim which he does not give notice of, or which he is prevented from proving through non-compliance with the rules of practice, the judgment in the action will not prevent him from enforcing it either as a set-off or counterclaim in another action between the same parties, or by original action (Stanton v. Styles, (1850) 5 Ex. 578; 19 L. J. Ex. 336; Hindley v. Haslam, (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 481). If the set-off or counterclaim were properly raised, and evidence were given by cross-examination or otherwise in support of it, the judgment would no doubt be final.

When a counterclaim is raised which exceeds the statutory limit of the jurisdiction, and the plaintiff gives notice of objection pursuant to 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18, judgment as to the cause of counterclaim will estop both parties, but the counter-claimant will, if successful, be able to sue in the High Court for that part of his counterclaim which he is prevented from recovering in the county court by reason of the excess of jurisdiction (Webster v. Armstrong, (1885) 55 L. J. Q. B. 236).

As to judgments and orders generally—the drawing up of the same, mode of service, time for compliance with, etc., see Order XXIII.

Power to Order New Trial.—Where a judge subsequently to trying an action comes to the conclusion that he has misdirected himself on a question of fact, he may on application grant a new trial (Sanatorium, Ltd. v. Marshall, (1916) 2 K. B. 57; 85 L. J. K. B. 941).

Bankruptcy not to cause action to abate, if trustee elect to continue it.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 62.

94. The bankruptcy of the plaintiff in any action in the court which the trustee might maintain for the benefit of the creditors, shall not cause the action to abate if the trustee shall elect to continue such action, and to give security for the costs thereof within such reasonable time as the judge shall order, but the hearing of the action may be adjourned until such election is made; and in case the trustee does not elect to continue the action and to give such security within the time limited by the order, the defendant may avail himself of the bankruptcy as a defence to the action.

Bankruptcy.]—The bankruptcy of the plaintiff in any action in the county court which the trustee might maintain for the benefit of the creditors does not cause the action to abate if the trustee elects to continue the action, and gives security for costs, within such reasonable time as the judge may order, but the hearing may be adjourned until such election is made. In default of such election and security, the bankruptcy may be relied on as a defence (see Order XVII. r. 9); or an order to stay may be obtained if the bankrupt proceeds with it (Warder v. Saunders, (1882) 10 Q. B. D. 114). If the trustee refuses to continue the action the stay is absolute against all subsequent assignees of the cause of action (Selig v. Lion, (1891) 1 Q. B. 513; 60 L. J. Q. B. 403). When the trustee elects to continue the action, he should, it is believed, apply to be joined as plaintiff under the rules hereafter mentioned; where he has been so added (in a case commenced in the High Court, but ordered to be tried in the county court under sect. 65) before the original writ or order has been lodged with the registrar of the county court, the judge of the county court has no jurisdiction to order security for costs under sect. 94 (Hemming v. Davies, (1898) 1 Q. B. 660; 67 L. J. Q. B. 458).

Section 94 Notes.

The right to maintain actions for breaches of contract resulting in direct injury to the bankrupt's person or feelings does not pass to his trustee, e.g., for a breach of promise of marriage (Beckham v. Drake, (1849) 2 H. L. Cas. 579; 81 R. R. 301); nor for personal wrongs, e.g., libel, assault, personal injuries, etc. (Ib.; Howard v. Crowther, (1841) 8 M. & W. 601; 10 L. J. Ex. 335; 58 R. R. 823). In such cases there is no abatement, but security for costs may be ordered (Brocklebank v. King's Lynn, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 365; 47 L. J. C. P. 321).

Where bankruptcy takes place after judgment, the provisions of Order XXV. r. 14 presumably apply (see East End Building Society v. Slack, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 359).

If a defendant becomes bankrupt, and the trustee continues the defence and fails, he may be ordered to pay costs personally, even if he has not been added as defendant (London School Board v. Wall (C. A.), (1891) 7 T. L. R. 566).

95. It shall be lawful for any executor or administrator to sue and be sued in the court in like manner as if he were a party in his own right, and judgment and execution shall be such as in the like case would be given or issued in the High Court.

Executors may sue and be sued.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 66.

Trustees, Executors, etc.]—Trustees, executors and administrators may sue and be sued on behalf of or as representing the property or estate of which they are trustees or representatives, without joining any of the parties beneficially interested in the trust or estate, and will be considered as representing such parties in the action; but the court may, at any stage of the proceedings, order any of them to be made parties to the action, either in addition to or in lieu of the previously existing parties (Order III. r. 6). This rule applies to trustees, executors and administrators sued in proceedings to enforce a security by foreclosure or otherwise.

In county courts, executors and administrators may sue and be sued in their own names, as if the action were brought by or against them in their own right (see Order V. r. 6). Trustees, executors, or administrators so suing will, it is conceived, let in a set-off or counterclaim, available against them in their private capacity. At law, the rule as to joinder was that all the executors named in the will should be joined as plaintiffs, though one only had proved (see 1 Wms. Saund. 291, k, l), except in case of renunciation (20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 79); but the rule in equity was much more elastic (see Williams on Executors). Assuming that the provisions of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 97, extend to actions against executors, the plaintiff will only require to select as defendant an executor who has administered; if not, all who have administered should be joined (Bul. & L. 18, note (b); Dicey on Parties, 322).

For further provisions as to actions against executors and administrators, see Order XXX.

Executors and Administrators.]—The ordinary judgment against executors and administrators is to pay the debt and costs to be levied out of the assets of the testator, if the defendant have so much; but if not, then the costs out of the defendant's own goods. If a plaintiff executor fails, the judgment is the same as in ordinary actions; but the costs will, unless the court shall otherwise order, be awarded in favour of the defendant, and be levied de bonis propriis (Order XXX. r. 1).

Where devastavit.]—In all cases where the defendant is charged in the summons with wasting assets, if the judge is of opinion that the defendant has wasted the assets, the judgment will be that the debt or damage and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, de bonis propriis, and the non-payment of the amount of the demand immediately, on the judge finding such demand to be correct, and that the defendant is chargeable in respect of assets, is conclusive evidence of wasting to the amount with which he is so chargeable (Order XXX. r. 4; Form 238. See form of warrant, Form 245; see also Winch v. Winch, (1853) 22 L. J. C. P. 104, where it was held that the county court has jurisdiction to try a devastavit).

Where the defendant does not appear at the trial, or admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and does not deny assets, the judgment will be that the demand and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis (Order XXX. r. 4A; Form 238A).

Where an executor or administrator admits his representative character, and only denies the demand, if the plaintiff prove it, the judgment will be that the demand and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris, et si non, etc., as to the costs, de bonis propriis (Order XXX. r. 5; Form 239).

Where the defendant admits his representative character, but denies the demand, and alleges a total or partial administration of assets, and the plaintiff proves his demand, and the defendant proves the administration alleged, the judgment will be to levy the costs of proving the demand de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, de bonis propriis; and as to the demand, judgment of assets quando acciderint, and the plaintiff must pay defendant's costs of proving the administration of assets unless the court otherwise orders (Order XXX. r. 6; Form 240).

Where the defendant admits his representative character, but denies the demand, and alleges a total or partial administration of assets, and the plaintiff proves his demand, but the defendant does not prove the administration alleged, the judgment will be to levy the amount of the demand, or such amount of assets as is shown to have come to the hands of the defendant, and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis, and as to the residue of the demand, if any, judgment of assets quando acciderint (Order XXX. r. 7; Form 241).

Where a defendant admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, but alleges and proves a total or partial administration of the assets, the judgment will be of assets quando acciderint, and the plaintiff must pay the defendant's costs of proving the administration unless the court otherwise orders (Order XXX. r. 8; Form 242).

Where a defendant admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and alleges a total or partial administration of the assets, but does not prove the administration alleged, and does not establish any other ground of defence, the judgment will be to levy the amount of the demand, or such amount of assets as is shown to have come to the defendant's hands, and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis, and as to the residue of the demand, if any, judgment of assets quando acciderint (Order XXX. r. 9; Form 243).

In actions against executors or administrators for which no special provision is made, if the defendant fails as to any of his defences, the judgment, unless the court otherwise orders, will be for the plaintiff as to his costs of disproving such defence, and such costs are to be levied de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, de bonis propriis (Order XXX. r. 12).

It was formerly held that, if, after a plea of plene administravit and judgment of assets quando acciderint, the defendant received assets, the plaintiff must proceed by summons stating the judgment quando, and suggesting assets, and that a suggestion of a devastavit would be wrong (Ellis v. Watt, (1851) 8 C. B. 614; 19 L. J. C. P. 113). This was provided for by a rule of practice (Order XXX. r. 10), which directs that, where judgment has been given against an executor or administrator that the amount be levied upon assets of the deceased quando acciderint, the plaintiff may issue a summons in the prescribed form (Form 244); and, if it appears that assets have come to the hands of the executor or administrator since the judgment, the judge may order that the debt, damages and costs be levied de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, as to the costs, de bonis propriis. The party applying may also charge in the summons that the executor or administrator has wasted the assets of the testator or intestate, in the same manner as in an original summons, and the provisions of r. 4 apply to such inquiry. The judge may, if it appears that the party charged has wasted the assets, direct a levy to be made as to the debt and costs, de bonis testatoris, si, etc., et si non, de bonis propriis (see form of judgment, Form 246; of warrant, Form 245).

Section 95 Notes.

96. It shall be lawful for any person under the age of twenty-one years to prosecute any action in the court for any sum of money not greater than one hundred (a) pounds which may be due to him for wages or piece work, or for work as a servant, in the same manner as if he were of full age.

Minors may sue for wages. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 64. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 1.

NOTE.—(a) Jurisdiction increased from 50*l*. (see sect. 3 of Act of 1903).

Infants.]—An infant when suing for any sum not exceeding 100*l*. for wages or piecework, or for work done as a servant, may prosecute such action in the same manner as if he were of full age. In such a case, the provisions of Order IX. r. 24, as to settlement of claims on behalf of infants and payment into court and application of moneys recovered or awarded do not apply. When he is suing for any cause of action, other than the above, or is a claimant in an interpleader proceeding, he must sue by a next friend (Order III. r. 10). For Procedure see Order V. r. 16.

Infant plaintiff.

97. Where any plaintiff shall have any demand recoverable under this Act against two or more persons jointly answerable, it shall be sufficient if any of such persons be served with process, and judgment may be obtained and execution issued against the person or persons so served, notwithstanding that others jointly liable may not have been served or sued, or may not be within the jurisdiction of the court; and every such person against whom judgment shall have been obtained, and who shall have satisfied such judgment, shall be entitled to demand and recover in the court contribution from any other person jointly liable with him.

One of several persons liable may be sued. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 68.

Joint Defendants.]—Where there is a demand against two or more defendants who are jointly liable, it is sufficient to serve one with process, leaving out the others, and judgment and execution may go against the defendant or defendants served, who, when the judgment has been satisfied, may recover contribution from any persons jointly liable. Where a plaintiff avails himself of this provision, and does not proceed against all of several joint contractors, every defendant sued may avail himself of any set-off or counterclaim to which he would have been entitled if all the persons liable had been made defendants (Order X. r. 7). It should be remembered that it is a principle of law that a judgment against one of several joint contractors is a bar to an action against the others (King v. Hoare, (1844) 13 M. & W. 494; 14 L. J. Ex. 29; 67 R. R. 694; Kendall v. Hamilton, (1879) 4 App. Cas. 504; 48 L. J. C. P. 705); and that the provision of the County Courts Act above mentioned does not prevent the principle from applying in the county courts, so as to estop the plaintiff from maintaining another action. In a remitted action two defendants were represented by the same solicitor, and, judgment with costs having been given for one and against the other, the successful defendant was held entitled to recover from the plaintiff half the costs of the defence (Beaumont v. Senior, (1903) 1 K. B. 282; 72 L. J. K. B. 141).

As to the effect of judgment by default against one defendant; in an action against two joint defendants, where fraud is alleged and proved, see Ch. Goldrei Foucar & Son v. Louis Sinclair and the Russian Chamber of Commerce in London, (1917) 33 T. L. R. 318.

Under sect. 97 of the Act the plaintiff may sue one or more partners in their own names for a joint debt, and is not obliged to join all.

If plaintiff sues one of several persons jointly liable under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 97, the defendant may counterclaim as if all had been joined (Order X. r. 7).

Confession of debts or part of debts, etc., and judgment thereupon.

13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 8.

98. Any person against whom a plaint shall be entered in any court may, if he think fit, whether he be summoned upon such plaint or not, in the presence of any registrar, registrar's clerk, or solicitor, sign a statement confessing and admitting the amount of the debt or demand, or part of the amount of the debt or demand, for which such plaint shall have been entered; and it shall be the duty of the registrar of the court in which the plaint was entered, as soon as conveniently may be after receiving such statement, to send notice thereof to the plaintiff by post, or by causing the same to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business, and thereupon it shall not be necessary for the said plaintiff to prove the debt or demand so confessed and admitted as aforesaid; but the court, at the next sitting thereof, whether the parties or either of them attend such court or not, shall, upon proof by affidavit of the signature of the party, if such statement was not made in the presence of a registrar, or one of his clerks, enter up judgment for the debt or demand so confessed and admitted.

For form of admission, see Form 65.

The confession must be signed by the party himself, not by his agent (R. v. Judge Mulligan, (1909) 25 T. L. R. 341). This confession should be delivered to the registrar five clear days at least before the return-day, and ten clear days before that day in cases under the Act of 1903; it may, however, be delivered at any time before the action is called on, but then the defendant will be liable to be ordered to pay the costs which the plaintiff may have incurred in consequence of the defendant's delay (Order IX. r. 2; Order XXIIA. r. 8).

The court may accept an admission of the claim, or of any part thereof, by letter, addressed to the court, purporting to be written by or on behalf of the defendant, if satisfied that such letter was in fact written by or by the authority of the defendant; a note of the letter having been accepted as an admission must be entered in the minute book (Order IX. r. 3).

The defendant may add to his confession an offer to pay the amount by instalments (see Form 65). Notice of the confession is sent by the registrars to the plaintiff by post or by delivery at his usual place of abode or business (Forms 67, 68), and no proof of the claim is then required.

Section 98 Notes.

The affidavit used to obtain judgment may be made by the solicitor or his clerk (Order IX. r. 9; Forms 66, 70, 72). The plaintiff need not appear at the hearing, unless the defendant has proposed to pay the amount confessed by instalments, and he objects thereto. The plaintiff must, however, see that the fees are paid according to the notice sent to him by the registrar (see Forms 67, 68). By confessing judgment the defendant saves half the hearing fee and subsequent costs.

Agreement as to amount of debt, and conditions of payment. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 9.

99. If the person against whom a plaint shall be entered in a court can agree with the person on whose behalf such plaint shall have been entered upon the amount of the debt or demand in respect of which such plaint shall have been entered, and upon the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be paid and satisfied, it shall be lawful for such persons respectively, in the presence of the registrar of the court in which such plaint shall have been entered, or one of his clerks, or in the presence of a solicitor, to sign a statement of the amount of the debt or demand so agreed upon between such persons respectively, and of the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be paid or satisfied, and such registrar shall receive such statement, and shall thereupon, upon proof by affidavit of the signatures of the parties, if such statement was not signed in the presence of the registrar, or one of his clerks, enter up judgment for the plaintiff for the amount of the debt or demand so agreed on and upon the terms and conditions mentioned in such statement; and such judgment shall to all intents and purposes be the same and have the same effect, and shall be enforced and enforceable in the same manner as if it had been a judgment of the judge of the said court.

The agreement must be signed by the defendant himself; it is not sufficient that it should be signed by an agent on his behalf (R. v. Judge Mulligan, (1909) 25 T. L. R. 341). If the agreement is executed in the presence of a solicitor, the signatures of the parties must be verified by affidavit of the solicitor or his clerk (Order IX. r. 9; Form 70). The agreement and the affidavit, when necessary, must be delivered to the registrar, who must then enter up judgment for the plaintiff for the amount of the debt or demand agreed upon, and upon the terms and conditions mentioned in the statement: and the judgment will have the same effect as an ordinary judgment. The parties may also agree to the amount of the plaintiff's costs, besides court fees, and in such case the amount of the plaintiff's costs must be stated separately in the judgment (Order IX. r. 4).

Fees.]—A fee of 1*s.* in the pound is payable upon the amount for which judgment is entered by consent under, or when the defendant does not appear to, a default summons.

Judge alone to determine all questions, unless a jury be summoned 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 69.

100. The judge shall be the sole judge in all actions brought in the court, and shall determine all questions as well of fact as of law, unless a jury shall be summoned as hereinafter mentioned.

Hearing before Registrar.]—A registrar may, at the request of the parties, and by leave of the judge, hear and determine any disputed claim where the sum claimed or the amount involved does not exceed 2*l.* (51 & 52 Vict.

Section 100 Notes.

c. 43, s. 92). The leave of the judge to exercise this power may be either general or special (Order XXII. r. 24). When the registrar has obtained the leave, he must ask the parties whether they desire to have the case heard by him or the judge (Order XXII. r. 25).

Illegality.]—If a contract and all the surrounding circumstances are fully before the court, the court must take notice of any illegality in the transaction rendering it non-enforceable, but if all the circumstances are not before the court, the court can only take notice of illegality appearing on the face of the contract (North Western Salt Co. v. Electrolytic Alkali Co., (1914) A. C. 461; 83 L. J. K. B. 530).

The judge has power to order any person who in his opinion has been guilty of perjury in any proceedings before him, to be prosecuted, Perjury Act, 1911 (1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 6), s. 9, post, p. 232.

Reference to Registrar.]—Any mere matter of account may be referred by the judge to the registrar for inquiry and report (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 92).

Trial with jury when parties require it.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, ss. 70, 71.
28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 7.

101. In all actions where the amount claimed shall exceed five pounds, it shall be lawful for the plaintiff or defendant to require a jury to be summoned to try the said action, unless the action is of the nature of the causes or matters assigned to the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice; and in all actions where the amount claimed shall not exceed five pounds, it shall be lawful for the judge in his discretion, on the application of either of the parties, to order that such action be tried by a jury; and in every case such jury shall be summoned according to the provisions in this Act contained: The party requiring a jury to be summoned shall give to the registrar of the court, or leave at his office, such notice thereof as shall be prescribed; and the said registrar shall cause notice of such demand of a jury, made either by the plaintiff or defendant, to be communicated to the other party to the said action, either by post or by causing the same to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business, but it shall not be necessary for either party to prove on the trial that such notice was communicated to the other party by the registrar. Every party requiring a jury to be summoned shall, at the time of giving the said notice, and before he shall be entitled to have such jury summoned, pay to the registrar of the court the sum of five (a) shillings for payment of the jury, and such sum shall be considered as costs in the action, unless otherwise ordered by the judge. Whenever it is required that a jury should be summoned for the trial of any matter arising out of the jurisdiction given to the court by section sixty-seven of this Act, the jury shall be summoned from the list of jurors in the possession of the registrar of the court in which the action or matter was commenced.

NOTE.—(a) Now eight shillings (Order XXII. r. 1A).

Jury.]—Actions in county courts are tried in most cases before the judge alone, who decides the issues both of law and fact.

The number of jurymen is now eight (see sect. 102, and 3 Edw. 7, c. 42, s. 4). A special jury, as such, cannot be had in the county court (Ex parte Armitage, (1880) 17 Ch. D. 13; 29 W. R. 772). Section 101 Notes.

Particular Actions.]—When an action of contract or tort is remitted, the provisions as to juries apply. Interpleaders, replevin, actions of ejectment or for the recovery of possession, or to enforce any right relating to land (as to what is a right relating to land, see Rex v. Surrey County Court Judge, (1910) 2 K. B. 410; 79 L. J. K. B. 802), or to recover damages in respect of such right, may at the instance of either party be tried by jury, and by order of the judge or registrar any other action or matter or any question of fact therein may be tried by jury (Order XXII. r. 3). The application may be by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), or ex parte or on notice (Order XII. r. 11). When a new trial is granted, the judge may make it a condition that it shall take place before a jury, although the former trial did not (Order XXXI. r. 2), or either party may demand and obtain a jury in the manner described above (R. v. Harwood, (1853) 22 L. J. Q. B. 127; 94 R. R. 860; Ford v. Taylor, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 21; 47 L. J. C. P. 116).

There is no absolute right to have a trial by jury in equity actions or matters, but the above rules give a discretion to allow such actions or issues of fact therein to be tried by jury (see as to the exercise of the discretion in the High Court, Swindell v. Birmingham (C. A.), (1876) 3 Ch. D. 127; 45 L. J. Ch. 756; West v. White, (1877) 4 Ch. D. 631; 46 L. J. Ch. 333; Ruston v. Tobin (C. A.), (1870) 10 Ch. D. 558).

Verdict.]—When the jury have once given a general verdict, the judge is not entitled to ask any further question of the jury for the purpose of ascertaining whether the ground of their verdict was one which there was evidence to support: Arnold v. Jeffreys, (1914) 1 K. B. 512; 83 L. J. K. B. 329.

The judge trying a case with a jury may, when he has refused to withdraw the case from the jury on the plaintiff's evidence, direct judgment for defendant after hearing the whole case (Skeate v. Slaters, Ltd., (1914) 2 K. B. 429; 83 L. J. K. B. 676).

Notice of Demand of.]—Notice of a demand of a jury must be made in writing to the registrar, according to the form in the Appendix, ten clear days at least (in actions under the Employers' Liability Act fifteen clear days at least) before the return-day, and the summons to the jurors must be delivered to the bailiff forthwith and served six clear days at least before the return-day. The registrar must forthwith give to the other party notice of the demand (Order XXII. r. 1A; Forms 142, 143, 144).

Where notice has not been given in time, or if at the trial both parties desire to try by jury, the judge may, on such terms as he thinks fit, adjourn the action in order that the necessary steps for such trial may take place accordingly (Order XXII. r. 2). If an adjournment is granted for other reasons, a party who has not given due notice for a jury cannot give notice for a jury on the adjourned hearing (Fletcher v. Baker, (1873) L. R. 9 Q. B. 370; 43 L. J. Q. B. 112; R. v. Leeds C. C., (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 691; 55 L. J. Q. B. 365).

102. The sheriff of every county, and the high bailiffs of Westminster and Southwark, shall cause to be delivered to the registrar of the court a list of persons qualified and liable to serve as jurors in the courts of assize and nisi prius for their county, city, and borough respectively, within fourteen days from the receipt of the jury book from the clerk of the peace of the county or other officer, each list containing only the names of persons residing within the jurisdiction of the court, for which list the said Who shall be jurors, and their number. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, ss. 72, 73. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 7.

Section 102. sheriffs and high bailiffs shall be entitled to receive a fee after the rate of twopence for every folio of seventy-two words; and whenever a jury shall be required the registrar of the court shall cause as many of the persons named in the list as shall be prescribed, to be summoned to attend the court at a time and place to be mentioned in the summons, and shall administer, or cause to be administered, to such of them as shall be impanelled, an oath to give true verdicts according to the evidence; and the persons so summoned shall attend at the court at the time mentioned in the summons, and in default of attendance shall forfeit such sum of money as the judge shall direct, not being more than five pounds for each default; and the delivery of such summons to the person whose attendance is required on such jury, or delivery thereof to his wife or servant, or any inmate at his usual place of abode, trading, or dealing, shall be deemed good service: Provided always, that no person shall be summoned or compelled to serve on such jury more than twice within one year, or who shall have been summoned and shall have attended upon any jury for the same county at the assizes, or any court of nisi prius, or at the central criminal court within six months next before the delivery of such summons. Whenever there are any jury trials eight jurymen shall be impanelled and sworn, as occasion shall require, to give their verdicts in the actions which shall be brought before them in the said court, and being once sworn shall not need to be resworn in each trial; and either of the parties to any such action shall be entitled to his lawful challenge against all or any of the said jurors in like manner as he would be entitled in the High Court; and the jurymen so sworn shall be required to give an unanimous verdict.

The prescribed number of jurymen to be summoned is sixteen, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXII. r. 4).

Summonses.]—Summonses (Form 144) are issued by the registrar, on receipt of the demand for a jury, and are forthwith delivered to the bailiff for service (Order XXII. r. 1A). The persons summoned must attend at the court at the time mentioned in the summons: in default of attendance, they will forfeit such sum of money as the judge may direct, not exceeding 5*l.* for each default (for form of order, see Form 145). Payment may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment debt, or as money adjudged to be paid under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (see sect. 167. See post, p. 866. For warrant of execution, see Form 146). The fine may be remitted on cause shown by affidavit, or by the juror in person (Order LII. r. 6). The delivery of the summons to the person, or to his wife or servant, or any inmate at his usual place of abode, trading, or dealing, is good service. No person can be summoned or compelled to serve on a jury more than twice in one year, nor can a person who has been summoned and has attended any jury at the assizes, or any court of nisi prius, or at the central criminal court for the same county, within six calendar months next before the delivery of the summons.

Notice to Jurors.]—Where a jury has been summoned, but the action or matter is settled or withdrawn before the return-day, it is the duty of the party who caused the jury to be summoned to inform the registrar of the fact, who is thereupon to return the deposit, and, unless the jury are required in another action, forthwith to send notice to the persons summoned by post, that their attendance will not be required; where the action or matter is adjourned, the registrar must forthwith send notice by post to the persons summoned as jurors of the adjournment and of the day on which their attendance will be required (Order XXII. r. 5 (1)). Where a non-jury action is settled or withdrawn before the return-day, the parties must inform the registrar of the fact (Order XXII. r. 5 (2)). If notice under this rule is given three clear days before the return-day, and costs are taxed on the higher scale, item 97 may be allowed for such notice (Order XXII. r. 5 (3)). Where on the trial a jury has been impanelled, and the hearing is adjourned, the registrar must, if the adjournment is to a further date than the next day but one, forthwith give or send by post to the jurors impanelled notice of the adjournment and of the day on which their further attendance will be required (Order XXII. r. 5A (1)).

Where a jury has been summoned, but the action or matter is adjourned on the return-day before a jury has been impanelled, the registrar must, unless the judge orders the persons summoned as jurors to be discharged and a fresh jury to be summoned, forthwith give or send by post to the persons summoned as jurors notice of the adjournment and of the day on which their attendance will be required (Order XXII. r. 5A (2)).

Swearing.]—If there are several successive jury cases, it is not necessary to impanel a fresh jury in each case, nor need the jurymen be even re-sworn. They must be sworn to give true verdicts, according to the evidence, in the actions which shall be brought before them. If, therefore, there are many jury cases appointed for one day, after summoning a jury in the first two or three cases, it is unnecessary to summon more; the deposit of 8*s.* must, however, be taken in each case from the party requiring the jury.

Challenge].—Either party is entitled to his lawful challenge against all or any of the jurors, as he would be in the High Court. The verdict of the jury must be unanimous. Separation of the jury after the summing up does not invalidate the verdict (Fanshaw v. Knowles, (1916) 2 K. B. 538; 85 L. J. K. B. 1735).

Appointment of assessors. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 5.

103. In any action or matter it shall be lawful for the judge, if he think fit, on the application of either party, to summon to his assistance, in such manner as may be prescribed, one or more persons of skill and experience in the matter to which the action or matter relates, who may be willing to sit with the judge and act as assessors; and their remuneration for so sitting shall be at such rate as may be prescribed, and shall be costs in the action or matter, unless otherwise ordered by the judge; but, where any person is proposed to be summoned as an assessor, objection to him, either personally or in respect of his qualification, may be taken by either party in the prescribed manner.

List of Assessors.]—It is the duty of the registrar of each county court, from time to time, at the request of the judge, to submit to him the names of as many persons as he may direct, whom, having regard to the nature of the ordinary business of the court, and to their fitness from ability and reputation, he believes to be qualified to act as assessors. From the names so submitted the judge frames a list of persons to act as assessors for each court within his circuit (Order XXI. r. 1). The registrar must apply to such persons as the judge may approve to know if they are willing to act as assessors and to attend any court they may be summoned to attend at a reasonable time beforehand (Order XXI. r. 2). When the judge has completed the list of assessors, the registrar must cause a printed list of their names in alphabetical order to be hung up in the court and office (Order XXI. r. 3; Form 135). Every assessor named in the printed list continues to be an assessor until a new list is framed and approved, or until he has given to the registrar notice in writing that he is unwilling to act as an assessor from and after a day named (Order XXI. r. 4). Upon receipt of such notice the registrar must remove the name from the list of assessors (Order XXI. r. 5).

Application for and Summons to Assessors.]—A party who desires assessors to be summoned must six clear days (in actions under the extended jurisdiction conferred by the Act of 1903 twelve clear days) at least before the return-day file an application (Form 136), giving the names of the assessors he wishes to be summoned, and if he has obtained the consent of the other party to the assessors named he must file the consent with his application (Order XXI. r. 7; Order XXIIA. r. 19).

Upon receipt of the application the registrar must forward a copy to the judge, who, if he sees fit, must return it with his approval, and the registrar must forthwith summon the assessors named (Form 137). If the judge does not think that assessors should be summoned, notice must be given by the registrar to all parties (Order XXI. r. 8; Form 141).

Where the party applying does not file the consent of the other party to the assessors proposed, the registrar must, after obtaining the consent of the judge, forthwith cause notice (Form 138) to be served on the other party, and the party so served must, as soon as may be after receipt of the notice, inform the registrar in writing whether or not he accepts the appointment of the assessors proposed in the notice, or any of them, and give the names of such assessors as he is willing should be summoned (Order XXI. r. 9; Form 138).

Where the party served with the notice does not accept the proposed appointment, he must forthwith after receipt of the notice inform the registrar in writing of his non-acceptance and of the reasons for it, and the registrar must thereupon fix a time and place for hearing the objection and selecting the assessors. The objection may be heard either on the return-day of the summons or before the judge acting under the powers conferred on him by sect. 9 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or by direction of the judge before the registrar. Notice (Form 139) of the time and place at which the objection will be heard must be given to all parties interested. On the hearing such order (Form 140) will be made as the judge or registrar thinks just, and any costs occasioned by the objection or consequent thereon may be ordered to be paid by the party objecting (Order XXI. r. 10). When assessors are appointed, they are to be summoned by the registrar (Order XXI. r. 10).

If at the time and place appointed for the trial the assessors summoned do not attend, the judge may either proceed to try the action, with the assistance of such of the assessors, if any, as do attend, or, if none attend, without assistance, or he may adjourn the trial (Order XXI. r. 11).

Assessors' Fees—Costs.]—Each assessor is entitled for each day's attendance to one guinea or two guineas according as the subject-matter of the action does or does not exceed 20*l.* in value, together with such sum, if any, for his expenses as the judge may order (Order XXI. r. 6).

Every person applying for assessors must at the time of application pay to the registrar the sum of two guineas if the amount of the subject-matter of the action does not exceed 20*l.*, and four guineas if it does exceed that amount, which payments will be costs in the action, unless otherwise ordered by the judge (Order XXI. r. 12).

Where an action is adjourned, the plaintiff must pay the assessors' fees for the day of adjournment forthwith after the order of adjournment is made (Order XXI. r. 13).

104. The judge may in any case, with the consent of both parties to the action, order the same, with or without other matters within the jurisdiction of the court in dispute between such parties, to be referred to arbitration, to such person or persons and in such manner, and on such terms as he shall think reasonable and just; and such reference shall not be revocable by either party, except by consent of the judge; and the award of the arbitrator or arbitrators, or umpire, shall be entered as the judgment in the action, and shall be as binding and effectual to all intents as if given by the judge: Provided that the judge may, if he think fit, on application to him at the first court held after the expiration of one week after the entry of such award, set aside any such award so given as aforesaid, or may, with the consent of both parties aforesaid, revoke the reference, or order another reference to be made in the manner aforesaid.

Section 104.

Actions may be settled by arbitration.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 77.

Reference to Arbitration.]—The judge may, with the consent of both parties, at any time after an action has been commenced, in all cases within the ordinary jurisdiction of the court, and in cases of agreement under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64, order the action, with or without other matters within the jurisdiction of the court in dispute between the parties, to be referred to arbitration, in such manner and on such terms as he thinks reasonable and just. The same fees are payable as on entering judgment under a default summons; but where any reference is ordered to the registrar or other officer of the court, the ordinary hearing fee must be paid (Order XX. r. 1; Forms 134, 134A).

An order of reference, when once made, cannot be revoked by either party, except by consent of the judge (sect. 104).

The Act to amend the law of evidence (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99) provides, by sect. 16, that "every court, judge, justice, officer, commissioner, arbitrator or other person, now or hereafter having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, is hereby empowered to administer an oath to all such witnesses as are legally called before them respectively."

The award of the arbitrator or umpire is entered as the judgment in the action, and is as binding as if given by the judge; but, at the first court held after the expiration of one week after the entry of the award, the judge may set it aside, or, with the consent of both parties, may revoke the reference or order another (sect. 104).

An arbitrator has authority to decide as to a custom affecting the contractual rights of the parties if not inconsistent with the express terms of the contract (Produce Brokers Co., Ld. v. Olympia Oil and Cake Co., Ld., (1916) A. C. 314).

The High Court had, before the Act of 1888, no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from the refusal of a judge to set aside an award (Mayer v. Farmer, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 235; 47 L. J. Ex. 760).

Application, how made.]—The application to refer before the trial cannot be made ex parte, as the consent of both parties is required. It may be made on notice (Order XII. r. 11) or by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4).

Before the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 25, it was held that a defendant, by consenting to a reference, did not waive his right to obtain a prohibition, if the court had no jurisdiction over the cause (Knowles v. Holden, (1855) 24 L. J. Ex. 223; 101 R. R. 909). It is conceived, however, that the defendant would now be held to have waived such right. The order of reference is proof in other proceedings of an agreement to refer (Roper v. Levy, (1851) 7 Ex. 55; 21 L. J. Ex. 28). The death of either party before award would revoke the authority of the arbitrator (Cooper v. Johnson, (1819) 2 B. & A. 394; 20 R. R. 483; but see Arbitration Act, 1889).

Where parties who have a dispute agree to abide by the decision of the judge, but do not follow the practice required to give him jurisdiction, his position becomes that of an arbitrator, and no appeal lies from his decision (Pearce v. Winkworth, (1873) 28 L. T. 710). Where, during the hearing of an action of trespass, the parties agreed to withdraw a juror and abide by the decision of the judge, and before his decision the defendant withdrew his consent, the court held that the power of the judge as arbitrator was gone, but that the cause remained, and so ordered the judge to rehear it (Norburn v. Hilliam, (1869) L. R. 5 C. P. 129; 39 L. J. C. P. 183).

Staying Proceedings.]—The judge has jurisdiction to stay proceedings under sect. 4 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, where there is a submission to arbitration (Morriston Tinplate Co. v. Brooker, (1908) 1 K. B. 403; 77 L. J. K. B. 197; see Jureidini v. National British and Irish Millers Insurance Co., (1915) A. C. 499; 84 L. J. K. B. 640, where charge of fraud made).

Counsel.]—Counsel's fee on a reference cannot be allowed, except by order of the judge (see item 92).

Where judgment does not exceed 20*l.*, court may order payment by instalments. In other cases consent of plaintiffs necessary. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 45.

105. Where judgment has been obtained for a sum not exceeding twenty pounds, exclusive of costs, the court may order such sum and the costs to be paid at such time or times, and by such instalments, if any, as it shall think fit, and all such moneys shall be paid into court; but in all other cases the full amount for which judgment has been obtained shall be ordered to be paid either forthwith or within fourteen clear days from the date of the judgment, unless the plaintiff, or his counsel, solicitor, or agent, will consent that the same shall be paid by instalments, in which case the court shall order the same to be paid at such time or times, and by such instalments, if any, as shall be consented to; and all such moneys, whether payable in one sum or by instalments, shall be paid into court.

Ordinary Judgments for Payment of Money.]—Money payable under the judgment is payable within fourteen days from the date of the judgment, unless the court otherwise orders (Order XXIII. r. 11). If the amount, exclusive of costs, exceed 20*l.*, the judgment may direct payment forthwith or within fourteen clear days, and the costs to be taxed and paid forthwith or within fourteen clear days after taxation (Order XXIII. r. 12), and by consent of the plaintiff may order payment by instalments (see Form 151).

Where under a judgment or order money is payable within fourteen days of the date of the judgment or order, or in the case of costs within fourteen days after taxation, the judge may at any time before the expiration of the fourteen days, for good cause shown on application made on oath or affidavit in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications, make an order for payment at an earlier date. An order so made must be served in accordance with Order XXIII. r. 7; and, if made ex parte, any party affected by it may within two days after service apply to set it aside (Order XXIII. r. 12A).

By Instalments.]—If the amount, exclusive of costs, do not exceed 20*l.*, the judge or registrar may order the judgment and costs to be paid by instalments.

The party entitled to enforce a judgment may at any time after judgment obtain ex parte an order from the judge or from the registrar sitting in court for payment by instalments, or renewing or diminishing the instalments payable under a previous order. The application may be made in person or by solicitor or by request in writing giving the letter, number, names of the parties to the action or matter, and the instalments by which the applicant desires the amount due to be paid. The request must be left at or sent by post to the registrar's office accompanied by the plaint note (or duplicate mentioned in Order VII. r. 1), or where a defendant is entitled to enforce a judgment or order, by the summons (or duplicate mentioned in Order LIV. r. 26) and a stamped and directed envelope; when the request has been dealt with, the registrar will return the plaint note, summons, or duplicate, with a minute of the order made, in the envelope. By leave of the judge the registrar may deal with any such application out of court without requiring the attendance of the applicant, but the registrar may, and where no payment has been made within six years must, refer the application to the judge, who may make such order as he thinks right, and may require the attendance of the applicant. The order must be entered in the minute book, and prepared and served in accordance with Order XXIII. r. 7, and has the same effect as a fresh order for payment by instalments made on the hearing of a judgment summons. This is not an interlocutory application within Order XII. r. 11 (Order XXIII. r. 14; Order XXV. r. 55; Order LV.; Form 157).

Where the judgment or order is for payment of a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, exclusive of costs, by instalments or otherwise, and the judge is satisfied that the person liable is unable to pay at the time or by the instalments ordered, he may, upon the application of the person liable, made upon notice to the person entitled to enforce the judgment or order two days at least before the hearing, order the amount due and unpaid to be paid by instalments, or, if already payable by instalments, by the like or smaller instalments; the order may be varied from time to time. The judge may also, on the application of the person entitled to enforce the judgment or order made on the like notice to the person liable, order the amount to be paid in one sum or by larger instalments than those previously ordered, and may vary his order. An order made under this rule is entered in the minute book and prepared and served in accordance with Order XXIII. r. 7, and has the same effect as a fresh order for payment made on the hearing of a judgment summons (Order XXIII. r. 15).

Instalments are payable as directed. If no date is mentioned, the first becomes due on the twenty-eighth day, and every successive instalment after a like period from the day of the last previous instalment becoming due (Order XXIII. r. 11; Form 151).

Default in payment of an instalment subjects the defendant to execution for the whole amount remaining unpaid, unless the judge or registrar otherwise orders (see sects. 149, 186).

Judgment will not be given for a fraction of a penny (Order VI. r. 8).

Service.]—A judgment or order for the payment of money or costs or both or any other order, except an order on a default summons, after being prepared by the registrar, is delivered to a bailiff, who must, within twenty-four hours, send the same by post or otherwise to the party on whom service has to be made (Order XXIII. r. 7). It is unnecessary to prove that the judgment was posted or reached the opposite party (Order XXIII. r. 7). Where judgment is entered up against a party served with a default summons, no order need be drawn up or served, unless the judgment is for payment by instalments or unless the plaintiff has abandoned part of his claim under Order XIV. r. 13 (Order XXIII. r. 8).

Interest.]—The judgment does not carry interest (R. v. Essex C. C. (C. A.), (1886) 18 Q. B. D. 704; 56 L. J. Q. B. 315).

106. The judge may in any case make orders for granting time to the plaintiff or defendant to proceed in the prosecution or defence of the action or matter, and also may from time to time adjourn any court, or the hearing or further hearing of any action or matter, in such manner as the judge may think fit.

Adjournment.]—The judge may adjourn any court, hearing, or further hearing of any action or matter as may seem fit to him (see Form 92). When anything required by the practice of the court to be done by either party before or during the trial is not done, the court may in its discretion, and on such terms as it thinks fit, adjourn the trial, to enable the parties to comply therewith (Order XII. r. 15). The court may at any time postpone the trial of any action or matter upon the joint application of the parties (Order XII. r. 12). In any case not coming within Order XII. rr. 12—15, the court has a discretion, on the application of any party made on motion in accordance with r. 11, to postpone or adjourn for good cause the trial of any action or matter upon such terms as may be just; the order, if made in the absence of the other party, must be served on him (Order XII. r. 16). The order under this rule may be on notice under Order XII. r. 11, or by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), not ex parte. No adjournment by the parties is operative (Morgan v. Rees (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 508; 50 L. J. Q. B. 491). If from the state of the proceedings the case cannot be tried on the return-day, the court may postpone the trial, and notice must be given by the registrar to all parties and persons interested not present when the order was made (Order XII. r. 14; Form 92).

When a cause is adjourned, no order of adjournment need be drawn up or served unless directed (Order XXIII. r. 5). When service is directed, the order must be prepared by the registrar, and delivered to the bailiff, who must serve it by post or otherwise. Proof of service is unnecessary (Order XXIII. r. 7).

Where, in any action or matter, interlocutory proceedings are contemplated or pending, which cannot be concluded in time to enable the parties to prepare for trial on the day fixed for it, the court may, on the application of any party, make an order postponing the trial on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it may think fit. The order, if made in the absence of the other party, must be served on him (Order XII. r. 13).

The judge may adjourn the hearing where the defendant wishes to set up a defence of which notice is required (Order X. r. 10); also when either party requires a jury (Order XXII. r. 2); also where assessors do not attend (Order XXI. r. 11); also to add parties (Order XXII. r. 18).

Also where a summons is served on a defendant about to remove out of the jurisdiction (Order VII. r. 9). So also when service has come to the knowledge of the defendant less than ten days before the trial (Order VII. r. 28).

As to adjournment when the plaintiff has become bankrupt, see sect. 94; and when two actions are brought in different courts for the same cause of action, Order XXII. r. 11; for production or proof of documents, Order XVIII. r. 9; in case of the death or absence of the judge, ante, sect. 10.

Defendant may pay money into court; notice to be given to plaintiff.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 82.

107. It shall be lawful for the defendant in any action or matter within such time as shall be prescribed, to pay into court such sum of money as he shall think a full satisfaction for the demand of the plaintiff, together with the costs incurred by the plaintiff up to the time of such payment; and notice of such payment shall be communicated by the registrar to the plaintiff by post, or by causing the same to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business; and the said sum of money shall be paid to the plaintiff; but if the plaintiff shall elect to proceed, and shall recover no further sum in the action or matter than shall have been so paid into court, he shall pay to the defendant the costs incurred by him in the said action or matter after such payment; and such costs shall be settled by the court, and an order shall thereupon be made by the court for the payment of such costs by the plaintiff. Section 107.

Payment of Money into Court.]—A defendant in any action or matter may pay into court such sum of money as he thinks a full satisfaction for the demand of the plaintiff, together with the costs incurred by the plaintiff up to the time of such payment, and such payment may be made either with or without a denial of liability (Order IX. r. 12 (1). See J. R. Munday, Ltd. v. London County Council, post, p. 434.

When without Denial of Liability.]—A payment without denial of liability admits pro tanto the claim or cause of action or complaint in respect of which it is made; though if the claim is for a debt composed of several items, a general payment will not admit that something is due under each item (Hennell v. Davies, (1893) 1 Q. B. 367; 62 L. J. Q. B. 220). The payment ought to be made at least five clear days (ten clear days in cases under the Act of 1903) before the return-day (see Stevens v. Hounslow, (1889) 38 W. R. 236; 61 L. T. 839), with court fees proportionate to the amount paid in, and proportionate solicitor's costs, if any, unless the payment into court be made under a defence of tender, when the defendant may make the payment without costs (Order IX. r. 12 (1); Order XXIIA. r. 10). If the defendant claims to be entitled to a set-off or counterclaim, he may pay in the residue, but must pay into court court fees and solicitor's costs proportionate to the amount paid in (Order IX. r. 17). The money may be paid in any day when the office is open, during office hours (Order II. r. 9). An acknowledgment of the payment will be given in all cases (Order II. r. 11).

Within twenty-four hours from the time of such payment, the registrar must give notice of the payment to the plaintiff (see as to default of officer, Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423, 432; 43 L. J. C. P. 248) by post, or by causing the notice to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 107; Order IX. r. 12 (2); Forms 73, 74).

Where Plaintiff accepts it.]—If the plaintiff elects to accept the sum paid into court in satisfaction of his claim, whether the same has been paid in, in due time or not, or with or without costs, or with or without a notice of denial of liability, and sends to the registrar and to the defendant by post, or leaves at the registrar's office and at the defendant's dwelling or place of business, a written notice (Form 76), stating such acceptance, within such reasonable time before the return-day as the time of payment by the defendant permits, the action will abate, and the plaintiff will not be liable for any costs incurred by the defendant after receiving the notice (Order IX. r. 13 (1), (2)). In default of acceptance the action may proceed, but the plaintiff may accept the money at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to the payment of any costs reasonably incurred by the defendant since payment into court, which may be allowed by the court (Order IX. r. 13 (5), (6)). If the plaintiff claims too small a sum, and the amount claimed is paid into court without denial of liability and taken out by the plaintiff, the latter cannot bring a fresh action for the larger amount, and give credit for the sum paid into and taken out of court; the matter is res judicata (Sanders v. Hamilton, (1907) 96 L. T. 679).

The statute gives the plaintiff the "costs incurred," and the court may in its discretion order the defendant to pay such fees and costs beyond the fees and costs (if any) paid into court, as the plaintiff may have properly incurred for work done, before the receipt of notice of payment into court, and in attending the court to obtain the order for the same, including, in the judge's discretion, any items which might have been allowed at the trial, but no hearing fee is to be charged (Order IX. r. 13 (3)).

Notice of Application for Costs.]—When the plaintiff intends to apply for such costs, he must give notice of his intention in his notice of acceptance of the sum paid in, unless the time of payment into court does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, in which case the plaintiff may apply for costs without giving the notice (Order IX. r. 13 (1), (4); Form 76).

If the plaintiff proceeds, and recovers no more than was paid into court, he must pay the costs incurred by the defendant after the payment into court; such costs to be settled by the court, and an order made for payment of them by the plaintiff (sect. 107).

The defendant may also, at any time less than five clear days (ten clear days in actions under the Act of 1903) before the return-day, pay money into court, with costs, as above mentioned, and notice will be given of the payment as above; but the defendant may not, except by leave of the court, give a notice denying liability at the time of such payment. If it is so paid in, or in any case where it is paid in without costs, the plaintiff may elect to accept in satisfaction the sum paid in, and send the written notice (Form 76), and claim costs or further costs as above mentioned. If the plaintiff does not accept money so paid in in satisfaction, he may proceed as if there had been no such payment, and will be entitled to his costs on the amount recovered by him, unless the court otherwise orders (Order IX. r. 12 (3), (4); Order XXIIA. r. 10). If nothing is paid in for costs, and the judge finds the sum paid in sufficient and gives judgment for the defendant, he may give the plaintiff his costs up to the payment into court, and the subsequent costs to the defendant (Sykes v. Wesleyan and General Assurance Society, (1907) 76 L. J. K. B. 626).

Money may be taken out.]—When money is paid into court without a denial of liability the plaintiff may take it out at once whether he accepts it in satisfaction or not (sect. 107). It has been held that if a High Court action abates by reason of the death of the defendant after paying money into court without a denial of liability, the money should be paid out to the plaintiff and not to the executors of the defendant (Brown v. Feeney, (1906) 1 K. B. 563; 75 L. J. K. B. 494).

Payment with Denial of Liability.]—In order that payment shall not operate as an admission, the defendant, at the time of paying money into court, must file with the registrar (with the copies required by Order LIV. r. 13), a notice (Form 75) stating his name and address, and that notwithstanding such payment he denies his liability. Payment into court with a denial of liability cannot be made in any action or counterclaim for libel or slander. A proportionate part of the court fees and solicitor's costs, if any, must be paid in, as in other cases, unless the payment into court is made under a defence of tender (Order IX. r. 12 (1)). The registrar, with the notice of payment above mentioned, must send to the plaintiff a copy of the notice denying liability (Order IX. r. 12 (2); Forms 74, 75).

Time for Payment.]—The payment must be made five clear days (ten clear days in actions brought under the Act of 1903) at least before the return-day (Order IX. r. 12 (1); Order XXIIA. r. 10), and, except by leave of the judge or registrar, cannot be made afterwards with a notice denying liability (Order IX. r. 12 (3); Order XXIIA. r. 10).

If the plaintiff then accept the money in satisfaction, he must give notice as provided and the action will abate (Order IX. r. 13 (1), (2); Form 76); and the money may be taken out of court at once (Wood v. Leetham, (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 215).

As to manner of obtaining money paid into court to the credit of a party who neither resides nor carries on business within the district of the court, see Order IX. r. 22.

If not accepted in satisfaction, the money will be retained in court until after the trial, and if the plaintiff recovers less than the amount paid into court, the balance will be repaid to the defendant, unless the court otherwise orders. The court may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be set against the amount recovered by the plaintiff. If the defendant succeeds the whole amount will be repaid to him, unless the court otherwise orders (Order IX. r. 19). In either case, judgment should be entered for the defendant, with, subject to the general discretion of the judge, costs (Wood v. Leetham, (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 215).

Where an executor or administrator is defendant, and he admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and that he is chargeable with any sum in respect of assets, he must pay it into court under the above rules (Order XXX. r. 11).

The rules also apply to payment into court in actions of libel remitted from the High Court (Order IX. r. 14). A plaintiff may, in answer to a counterclaim, pay money into court under the same conditions (Order IX. r. 16). The above provisions do not apply to payments into court in equity actions or matters under order of the court (Order IX. r. 23).

Taxation; Costs of Issues.]—Where in an action for negligence the defendant paid money into court with a denial of liability, and the trial resulted in a verdict for an amount less than that so paid in, it was held that the judge's order giving the defendant the general costs of the action and the plaintiff the costs of the issues found in his favour was right (Wagstaffe v. Bentley, (1902) 1 K. B. 124; 71 L. J. K. B. 55), and it is immaterial that the issue on which the plaintiff succeeds is not an issue going to the whole cause of action (Hubback v. British North Borneo Co., (1904) 2 K. B. 473; 73 L. J. K. B. 654). Under similar circumstances, the plaintiff having been nonsuited, a new trial was ordered, the costs of the first trial to abide the event. At the second trial the plaintiff obtained a verdict for the sum paid into court, and it was held that the defendants were entitled to the general costs of the action, but that the county court judge had a discretion as to giving the plaintiff the costs of the issue of negligence, on which he had succeeded (Dunn v. South Eastern Rail. Co., (1903) 1 K. B. 358; 72 L. J. K. B. 127).

Tender.]—If the money is paid into court with the defence of tender, no court fees or costs need be paid in (Order IX. r. 12 (1)). The plaintiff may accept the money in satisfaction, but is not entitled to take it out of court, or to any costs, without an order of the court, which may make such order as to the costs of either party as may be just, and may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be deducted from the amount paid into court and to be paid to the defendant (Order IX. r. 18).

Money is obtained out of court on production of the plaint note, just as when it has been paid in under a judgment.

As to payment into court by officers of court, as amends, see p. 26; under a default summons, Order IX. r. 15; when assignment of chose in action disputed, Order XXVII. r. 15; when defendant sets up lien on specific property, Order XII. r. 7; when money found due to infant or person of unsound mind, Order IX. r. 24; in replevin, s. 134; under Trustee Acts, Part V.

Payment not to be communicated to Jury.]—Neither the fact that money has been paid into court, nor the amount paid in, is to be communicated to a jury, who must find their verdict without reference to any payment into court.

When payment into court is made, and an apology tendered, in actions for libel, under the provisions hereafter mentioned (Jones v. Mackie, (1867) L. R. 3 Ex. 1; 37 L. J. Ex. 1), it is believed that the payment is only conditional, and does not admit the cause of action (Order IX. r. 26).

108. Where a party is required to give security, such security shall be at the cost of the party giving it, and in the form of a bond, How securities to be with sureties, to the other party or intended party in the action or matter: Provided always, that the court in which any action on the bond shall be brought may by order give such relief to the obligors as may be just, and such order shall have the effect of a defeasance of such bond.

In what Cases.]—The principal cases in which security is required to be given in the county court are as follows:—

(1.) By treasurers, registrars, and high bailiffs (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 40; see ante, p. 20). The costs of discovery are secured by a payment into court to which these provisions do not apply (see post, p. 482).

(2.) Upon its appearing, on application for the entry of a plaint, that the plaintiff does not reside in England (Order V. r. 10). When the plaint is entered by a solicitor, it is sufficient if he gives an undertaking to pay the costs of the defendant.

(3.) By plaintiff, when defendant in foreign district makes affidavit of merits (Order XII. r. 9; Order XXIIA. r. 15).

(4.) When the trustee of a bankrupt plaintiff elects to continue an action (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 94; see ante, p. 98).

(5.) Upon a defendant objecting to a cause being tried in the county court (see sect. 62).

(6.) By parties for the safe keeping or payment of the value of goods (Order XII. rr. 1, 2, 3; Order II. r. 40).

(7.) By persons appointed receivers (Order XIII. rr. 2, 14 (4); pp. 464—466).

(8.) Upon application for a warrant to return goods to a replevisor (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 135, 136, post, pp. 161—162).

(9.) Upon obtaining leave to defend an action brought under the "Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855" (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 107).

(10.) On application in the county court for a new trial, where security is ordered to be taken by the court (see sects. 91, 93).

(11.) On orders for certiorari or transfer, when security ordered (see sect. 126).

(12.) On appeal, when security for costs or otherwise ordered (see sect. 120).

The security in any case may be either by bond, or by a deposit of money (see sects. 108, 109).

If by Bond.]—The party intending to take the proceeding must find sureties to join with him in the bond (see sects. 108, 109), and must serve by post or otherwise, on the opposite party and the registrar at his office, notice of the persons whom he proposes as his sureties (Form 235). The registrar must forthwith give notice to both parties of the day and hour on which he proposes that the bond shall be executed, and must state in the notice to the obligee that, if he have any valid objection to make to the proposed sureties or either of them, he must make it at that time (Order XXIX. r. 1; Form 237). The sureties must make an affidavit of their sufficiency before the registrar (Form 236), unless the opposite party dispenses with it (Order XXIX. r. 2). The bond must be given at the cost of the party giving it, and must be made to the other party or intended party to the action or matter (sect. 108). It must be executed in the presence of the judge, registrar, or a commissioner to administer oaths, or of the clerk to the registrar nominated to take affidavits (Order XXIX. r. 3). It must be given to the party or persons requiring the security, and be deposited with the registrar until the action is finally disposed of (Order XXIX. r. 5).

The registrar has only to see that the bond is duly executed, and that the sureties are sufficient; he cannot decline to approve of the bond upon the ground that the defendant is by law incompetent to execute it (Young v. Brompton Waterworks Co., (1862) 1 B. & S. 675; 31 L. J. Q. B. 14; 124

Section 108 Notes.

R. R. 709. In this case it was held that an incorporated joint-stock company, limited, could properly execute such a bond).

In cases of objection to the trial in the county court the bond must be in a sum not exceeding 150*l.*, and the security must be approved by the registrar (see sect. 62).

In cases of replevin the bond must be in a sum sufficient to cover the alleged rent or damage, and the probable costs of the action in the High or county court, according to the court in which the replevisor elects to sue (see sects. 135, 136).

Where the high bailiff is ordered to take possession of goods until security is given for their safe keeping or payment of their value in default, but the amount of security is not specified, an inventory and appraisement must be made; upon receiving as a deposit the amount of the appraisement, or sufficient security to be approved by the registrar, for their safe custody and for their delivery up on request, the high bailiff will relinquish possession on condition that they shall be re-delivered to him on request or held to abide the order of the court. Where the warrant specifies the amount of security, no less deposit or security will be sufficient (Order II. r. 40).

In cases other than those which have been above mentioned, where the Act or rule does not specify the sum for which security must be given, the amount must be fixed by the judge or registrar.

Action on.]—If any action be brought on the bond, the court in which the action is brought may, by order, give such relief to the obligors as may be just, and such order will have the effect of a defeasance of the bond (sect. 108).

Forms of Bonds.]—See, as to bond by defendant objecting to jurisdiction, Form 82. As to bond by defendant in an action under the Bills of Exchange Act, Form 42; in replevin, Forms 287 and 288; by receiver, Form 303; for security for costs by plaintiff out of England, Form 16.

Officers not to be Sureties.]—No officer of the court may become a surety under any of the above provisions (Order XXIX. r. 6; see Carr v. Stringer, (1858) 4 Jur. N. S. 439; 111 R. R. 876).

The party giving security, or depositing money under the provisions mentioned below, is excused from a strict compliance with the statute, or the rules, if such compliance is rendered impossible by the act of the court or registrar, or if performance of the conditions is prevented or waived by the opposite party (Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423; 43 L. J. C. P. 248; Waterton v. Baker, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 173; 37 L. J. Q. B. 65; Park Gate Co. v. Coates, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 634; 39 L. J. C. P. 317; and see Ex parte Johnson, (1870) L. R. 5 Ch. 741).

If Security by Deposit.]—Where a party is required to give security, he may, in lieu of giving a bond, deposit with the registrar a sum equal in amount to the sum for which he would otherwise give security, together with a memorandum, to be approved of by the registrar, and to be signed by the party, his solicitor or agent, setting forth the conditions on which the money is deposited, and the registrar must give a written acknowledgment of the deposit (see sect. 109; Form 234). The party, upon making the deposit, must give notice to the opposite party, by post or otherwise, of the deposit having been made (Order XXIX. r. 4).

Any objection to receive the money without the memorandum named in the statute should be made before the acknowledgment is given by the registrar; as the want of the memorandum cannot afterwards be relied on as vitiating the deposit if the other requisite forms have been complied with (Griffin v. Coleman, (1859) 4 H. & N. 265; 28 L. J. Ex. 134; 118 R. R. 426; Walters v. Coghlan, (1872) L. R. 8 Q. B. 61).

Payment out of Court of Deposit.]—The judge of the court in which the money has been deposited may, on the same evidence as would be required to enforce or avoid a bond, given by way of security, order the sum deposited to be paid out to such party or parties as he shall think just (see sect. 109).

Section 108. Notes.

In High Court.]—Where security is required to be given in the High Court, it may be by bond or deposit, as if it were required to be given in a county court (see sects. 108, 109); and if an action be brought on the bond, the High Court or a judge has the same powers, as to giving relief to the obligors, and to the disposal of the money deposited, as are above stated to be possessed by the county court (see sects. 108, 109).

Where security is required to be given, a deposit of money may be made in lieu thereof.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 71.

109. Where a party is required to give security, he may in lieu thereof deposit with the registrar, if the security is required to be given in the court, or with a master of the Supreme Court if the security is required to be given in the High Court, a sum equal in amount to the sum for which he would be required to give security, together with a memorandum, to be approved of by such registrar or master, and to be signed by such party, his solicitor or agent, setting forth the conditions on which such money is deposited, and the registrar or master shall give to the party paying a written acknowledgment of such payment; and the judge of the county court, when the money shall have been deposited in such court, or a judge of the High Court when the money shall have been deposited in the High Court, may, on the same evidence as would be required to enforce or avoid such bond as in the last preceding section is mentioned, order such sum so deposited to be paid out to such party or parties as he shall think just.

See notes to sect. 108.

Service of summonses to witnesses and others.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 2.

110. Either of the parties to any action or matter may obtain from the registrar summonses to witnesses, with or without a clause requiring the production of books, deeds, papers, and writings in the possession or control of the person summoned as a witness; and such summonses, and any summonses which are now or may be required to be served personally, may, under such regulations as may be prescribed, be served by a bailiff of the court or otherwise.

See Order XVIII. rr. 3, 3A, 4; Forms 123, 124, 124A.

Witnesses.]—Except where it is otherwise provided by the rules, evidence is to be taken orally on oath (Order XVIII. r. 1).

The attendance of witnesses for this purpose is enforced by means of summonses, to be served either in the home or in any foreign district; they may be issued without leave, and are then served by bailiff. They may, also, by leave of the court, be issued in blank and served by the party applying for the same or some person in his permanent and exclusive employ, or by his solicitor, or a solicitor acting as agent for such solicitor, or by some person in the employ of either of them, or some person employed by either of them to serve such summonses who might be so employed to serve a summons in an action in the High Court. In no case may more than one name be placed on any summons (Order XVIII. r. 3; Forms 123, 124, 124A). A summons to a witness may be issued by post. The plaintiff or his solicitor must transmit to the registrar (a) the plaint note, or summons, or a duplicate; (b) a request for the issue of summonses to witnesses, and (where the service is to be by bailiff) their names and addresses, or (if service is not to be by bailiff) a request to serve them in accordance with Order XVIII. r. 3; (c) a money order for the fees, and (where service is to be by bailiff) the amount to be tendered to each witness for expenses; (d) a stamped addressed envelope (Order XVIII. r. 3A). It is sufficient if a summons to a witness is served within a reasonable time; it may be served by delivering it to the witness personally, or to some person apparently not less than sixteen years old at the house or place of dwelling or place of business of the witness, or in the cases mentioned in Order VII. rr. 18, 19, 21, and 22, in the manner prescribed by those rules for the service of an ordinary summons (Order XVIII. r. 4; Form 125). For the purposes of this rule a place of business is not deemed to be the place of business of a witness unless he is the master or one of the masters of it (Order XVIII. r. 4). The parties themselves and their wives are competent witnesses (14 & 15 Vict. c. 9, s. 9).

Summons to produce Documents.]—The summons may be issued with or without a clause requiring the production of books, deeds, papers, and writings, in the possession or control of the person summoned as a witness (see sect. 110; Form 124).

Where a witness served with such a summons does not produce the documents at the trial, the judge may, upon admission or proof that the summons was served within a reasonable time, and that such documents are in the possession or under the control of the witness, and that they are relevant, make an order for their production by the witness, and may deal with all costs occasioned by their non-production, as may be just. This rule does not affect the rules as to the admission of secondary evidence of such documents (Order XVIII. r. 5; Form 126).

Penalty for witnesses neglecting summons. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 86.

111. Every person summoned as a witness, either personally or in such other manner as shall be prescribed, to whom at the same time payment or a tender of payment of his expenses shall have been made on the prescribed scale of allowances and who shall refuse or neglect, without sufficient cause, to appear, or to produce any books, papers, or writings required by such summons to be produced, or who shall refuse to be sworn or give evidence, and also every person present in court who shall be required to give evidence, and who shall refuse to be sworn or give evidence, shall forfeit and pay such fine, not exceeding ten pounds, as the judge shall direct; and the whole or any part of such fine, in the discretion of the judge, after deducting the costs, shall be applicable towards indemnifying the party injured by such refusal or neglect, and the remainder thereof shall be accounted for by the registrar to the treasurer.

A fine on a witness for non-attendance may be remitted on cause shown. The practice is, under Order LII. r. 6, the same as in the case of a juror (Order LII. r. 7A). Where a fine is inflicted on a judgment debtor for refusing or neglecting without reasonable cause to appear at the hearing of a judgment summons, the judge has no jurisdiction to apply the fine in reduction of the judgment debt, though he may order the same or part thereof to be allotted to the plaintiff for his expenses caused by such non-appearance (R. v. Snagge, (1909) 1 K. B. 644; 78 L. J. K. B. 562). The payment of the fine may be enforced as an ordinary judgment, or as money adjudged to be paid under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (see sect. 167; Forms 167, 127—129; see these statutes, post, pp. 866—868).

Bringing up Prisoners.]—Where the witness is a prisoner, not under process in a civil proceeding, the judge may, upon application by affidavit

Section 111. Notes.

(Form 130), issue a warrant to bring him up to give evidence: the prisoner will then be brought up as by writ of habeas corpus; but a reasonable sum must be tendered for the conveyance and maintenance of the officers and prisoner in going to, remaining at, and returning from court (see sect. 112; Form 131).

If a prisoner be in custody on civil process, he can only be brought up by a writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum, issued from the High Court pursuant to 44 Geo. 3, c. 102. The application should be made to a judge of the High Court at chambers (Browne v. Gisborne, (1843) 2 Dowl. N. S. 963; 12 L. J. Q. B. 297).

Expenses.]—All witnesses, and all plaintiffs and defendants personally attending the court, may be allowed for travelling expenses the sums actually and reasonably paid by them (Order LIII. r. 39). A witness can also recover from the person on whose behalf he is summoned, or from any other person by agreement, an allowance for loss of time (Chamberlain v. Stoneham, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 113; 59 L. J. Q. B. 95; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 111) according to the scale of allowance to witnesses on taxing costs.

Judges differ as to the meaning of "expenses"; some hold expenses to include an allowance according to scale for loss of time, others that "expenses" simply means travelling expenses, and that allowances for loss of time must be claimed in court before being sworn. The latter seems the better course, as a litigant could not reasonably be expected to determine what the allowance should be.

Judge may issue warrant for bringing up a prisoner to give evidence.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 31.

112. A judge in any case where he shall think fit, upon application on an affidavit by either party, may issue an order under his hand and the seal of the court for bringing up before such court any prisoner or person confined in any gaol, prison, or place under any sentence or under commitment for trial or otherwise, except under process in any civil action, or matter (a), to be examined as a witness in any action or matter depending or to be inquired of or determined in or before such court; and the person required by any such warrant or order to be brought before the court shall be so brought under the same care and custody, and be dealt with in like manner in all respects as a prisoner required by any writ of habeas corpus awarded by the High Court to be brought before such court to be examined as a witness in any action or matter pending before such court is by law required to be dealt with: Provided always, that the person having the custody of such prisoner or person shall not be bound to obey such order unless a tender be made to him of a reasonable sum for the conveyance and maintenance of a proper officer or officers and of the prisoner or person in going to, remaining at, and returning from such court.

See notes to sect. 111.

Costs to abide the event.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 88.

113. All the costs of any action or matter in the court, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be paid by or apportioned between the parties in such manner as the court shall think just, and in default of any special direction shall abide the event of the action or matter, and execution may issue for the recovery of any such costs in like manner as for any debt adjudged in the said court. Section 113.

The fact that the judge is dissatisfied with the evidence of a witness called on behalf of the plaintiff is no ground for depriving the plaintiff of costs to which he is entitled as the result of succeeding in the action (Hudsons, Ld. v. De Halpert, 108 L. T. 416).

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

114. Whenever an action or matter is commenced over which the court has no jurisdiction, the judge shall, unless the parties consent to the court having jurisdiction, order it to be struck out, and shall have power to award costs in the same manner, to the same extent, and recoverable in the same manner, as if the court had jurisdiction therein, and the plaintiff had not appeared, or had appeared and failed to prove his demand or complaint. Court may award costs where action or matter is struck out for want of jurisdiction. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 14.

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

115. If any party shall sue another in any court for any debt or other cause of action for which he has already sued him and obtained judgment in any other court, proof of such former action having been brought and judgment obtained may be given, and the party so suing shall not be entitled to recover in such second action, and shall be adjudged to pay three times the costs of such second action to the opposite party. (a) No second action for same cause. Treble costs. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 18.

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

NOTE (a).—See, as to suing for a debt for which judgment has already been obtained by error against the wrong party, Isaacs v. Salbstein and Another, (1916) 2 K. B. 139; 85 L. J. K. B. 1433.

116. With respect to any action brought in the High Court which could have been commenced in a county court, the following provisions shall apply :— Costs when not recoverable in High Court. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5. 45 & 46 Vict. c. 57, s. 4.

1. If in an action founded on contract the plaintiff shall recover a sum less than twenty pounds, he shall not be entitled to any costs of the action, and, if he shall recover a sum of twenty pounds or upwards, but less than one hundred (a) pounds, he shall not be entitled to any more costs than he would have been entitled to if the action had been brought in a county court; and
2. If in an action founded on tort the plaintiff shall recover a sum less than ten pounds, he shall not be entitled to any costs of the action; and, if he shall recover a sum of ten pounds or upwards, but less than twenty pounds, he shall not be entitled to any more costs than he would have been entitled to if the action had been brought in a county court; unless in any such action, whether founded on contract or on tort, a judge of the High Court certifies that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in that court, or unless the High Court or a judge thereof at chambers shall by order allow costs. Provided that, if in any action founded on contract the plaintiff shall within twenty-one days after the service of the writ, or within such further time as may be ordered by the High Court or a judge thereof, obtain an order under order fourteen of the rules of the Supreme Court empowering him to enter judgment for a sum of twenty pounds or upwards, he shall be entitled to costs according to the scale for the time being in use in the Supreme Court.

NOTE.—(a) Extended from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of Act of 1903).
See separate chapter on Costs, Part II., and ante, pp. 46—47.

Costs of action brought elsewhere than in county court. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 29.

117. Where any action shall be brought in any other court than the High Court which could have been brought in a county court, and the verdict recovered is for a less sum than ten pounds, the plaintiff shall not recover from the defendant a greater amount of costs than he would have been allowed if the action had been brought in a county court.

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

Costs of solicitor to be taxed by registrar. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, ss. 34, 35, 36.

118. All costs and charges between party and party shall be taxed by the registrar of the court in which such costs and charges were incurred, but his taxation may be reviewed by the judge on the application of either party, and no costs or charges shall be allowed on such taxation which are not sanctioned by the scale then in force. All costs and charges between solicitor and client shall, on the application either of the solicitor or client, but not otherwise, be taxed by the registrar of the court in which such costs and charges were incurred, but his taxation may be reviewed by the judge on the application of either party, and no costs or charges shall be allowed on such taxation which are not sanctioned by the scale then in force unless the registrar shall be satisfied that the client has agreed in writing to pay them, in which case they may be allowed; and no solicitor shall have a right to recover from his client any such costs or charges unless they shall have been allowed on taxation.

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

The section does not make taxation a condition precedent to the solicitor's right to sue for his costs, even if the time within which the client is entitled to taxation has not expired (Bell v. Girdlestone, (1913) 2 K. B. 225; 82 L. J. K. B. 696).

Costs on higher scale. 45 & 46 Vict. c. 57, s. 5.

119. The judge may award costs on any scale higher than that which would be otherwise applicable to the plaintiff on any amount recovered, however small, or to a defendant who successfully defends an action brought for any amount, however small, provided that the said judge certifies in writing that the action involved some novel or difficult point of law, or that the question litigated was of importance to some class or body of persons (a), or of general or public interest. Section 119.

See separate chapter on Costs, Part II.

NOTE.—(a) "Questions of importance to class of persons." See Day v. Day, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 917.

PART V.

APPEALS, ETC.

120. If any party in any action or matter shall be dissatisfied with the determination or direction of the judge in point of law or equity, or upon the admission or rejection of any evidence, the party aggrieved by the judgment, direction, decision, or order of the judge may appeal from the same to the High Court, in such manner and subject to such conditions as may be for the time being provided by the rules of the Supreme Court regulating the procedure on appeals from inferior courts to the High Court; Provided always, that there shall be no appeal in any action of contract or tort, other than an action of ejectment or an action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditament shall have come in question, where the debt or damage claimed does not exceed twenty pounds, nor in any action of replevin, where the amount of rent or the damage or value of the goods seized does not exceed twenty pounds, nor in any action for the recovery of tenements where the yearly rent or value of the premises does not exceed twenty pounds, nor in proceedings in interpleader where the money claimed or the value of the goods or chattels claimed, or of the proceeds thereof, does not exceed twenty pounds, unless the judge shall think it reasonable and proper that such appeal should be allowed, and shall grant leave to appeal. At the trial or hearing of any action or matter, in which there is a right of appeal, the judge, at the request of either party, shall make a note of any question of law raised at such trial or hearing, and of the facts in evidence in relation thereto, and of his decision thereon, and of his decision of the action or matter. Parties aggrieved may appeal by notice of motion. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, ss. 14, 15. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 68. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 18. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 13. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 6. 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 23.

In what Cases.]—The County Courts Act of 1888 has consolidated the provisions of several statutes regulating appeals, and provides generally, subject to the limitations hereafter mentioned, that "any party in any action or matter" may appeal for error of the kind hereafter mentioned. These words are wide enough to include all those cases in which jurisdiction is given by particular Acts which are not County Courts Acts. Some of these Acts—e.g., the Friendly Societies Act, 1896—do not in terms give an appeal, but give power to the judge to state a case for the opinion of the High Court on any question of law (59 & 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 68 (7); see also 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, ss. 4, 36 (Building Societies Act, 1874), Part V.); and others, e.g., the Settled Land Act, 1882, the Partition Acts, the Succession Duty Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 51, s. 50, Part V.), the Local Loans Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 83, ss. 12, 25, Part V.), contain no provision for appeal. It was considered as doubtful whether the Act of 1888 operated so as to give an appeal (see Wilkinson v. Jagger, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 423; 57 L. J. Q. B. 254). That doubt is now set at rest. The Court of Appeal has decided that sect. 120 of the Act gives an appeal (subject to the limitations contained in the section) in every action or matter which may come before a county court, unless the court is satisfied that the words of that section were intended by the Legislature to be cut down (The Delano (C. A.), (1895) P. 40; 64 L. J. P. 8).

An appeal lies under the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908 (8 Edw. 7, c. 28), s. 13, from the refusal of a county court judge to set aside the award of an arbitrator on the ground of misconduct, where a question of law is involved (Williams v. Wallis, (1914) 2 K. B. 478; 83 L. J. K. B. 1296).

The Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894, contains several provisions respecting appeals, and enacts that where there is a right of appeal to the High Court from any court or person the appeal shall be heard and determined by a divisional court, whose determination shall be final unless leave to appeal is given by that court or by the Court of Appeal.

Appeals from Interlocutory Decisions.]—It has been decided that since the Act of 1888, it is no longer an objection to the hearing of an appeal that it is against an interlocutory order (Gilson v. Kilner, (1894) 69 L. T. 310). See Jonas v. Long, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 564; 57 L. J. Q. B. 298, as to interlocutory appeals in equity under the Act of 1865. Hence an appeal lies against an order granting a new trial (Murtagh v. Barry, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 632; 59 L. J. Q. B. 388; Bryant v. North Met. Tramways Co., (1890) 6 T. L. R. 396; How v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., (1892) 1 Q. B. 391; 61 L. J. Q. B. 368); or refusing it (Dingor v. Matthews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n.; Pole v. Bright, (1892) 1 Q. B. 603; 61 L. J. Q. B. 139); an order refusing to review a taxation of costs (Wilson v. Statham, (1891) 2 Q. B. 261; 60 L. J. Q. B. 725; and see Goodman v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 77; 56 L. J. Q. B. 441), under repealed Acts; an order refusing to order a better answer to interrogatories (Meek v. Witherington, (1892) 67 L. T. 122); and an order refusing attachment of the person (Vallentin v. Woodley, (1889) 5 T. L. R. 462). Assuming that the appeal will lie generally, it will clearly be subject to the same rules and limitations which affect appeals against final judgments. It will lie, therefore, in those actions or matters only in which an appeal could have been brought had the decision complained of been a final judgment, and doubtless on the same grounds only. Thus, in an action to recover a debt of 10*l.*, there could be no appeal against any interlocutory order made in it without leave, and no appeal under any circumstances in any case, except for error of law (see Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683).

There is no appeal against an order fining a person for assaulting an officer in the execution of his duty, such proceeding being of a criminal nature (Lewis v. Owen, (1894) 1 Q. B. 102; 63 L. J. Q. B. 233).

Though the right of appeal is extended to interlocutory orders generally, it does not follow that an appeal will always lie against, for instance, the judge's decision to review a taxation of costs; so far as it is a matter of discretion it is a matter purely for the judge; but should his decision be affected by error of law or the misapplication of a legal principle, then an appeal will lie.

It was held under the old Acts that no appeal lay from the refusal of the judge to set aside an award (Mayer v. Farmer, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 235; 47 L. J. Ex. 760); and except for error of law causing the decision, no appeal would lie now (see Williams v. Wallis, supra).

Section 120 Notes.

It was formerly held that no appeal lay from an order of commitment (Rackham v. Blowers, (1849) 15 Jur. 758), and it has, since the Debtors Act, 1869, been always assumed that no appeal will lie; but it has been suggested that in some cases there may be an appeal under sect. 103, sub-s. 4, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (Draycott v. Harrison, (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 147).

It was held with regret by the court prior to the Act of 1888, that no appeal lay by a garnishee against an erroneous garnishee order (Mason v. Wirral Board, (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 459; 48 L. J. Q. B. 679). The decision did not turn on whether the decision was final or interlocutory, but on the point that the garnishee was not an original party to the action. In so holding the court followed the cases in which, prior to the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 68, it had been held on the same ground that no appeal lay in interpleader matters (Beswick v. Boffey, (1855) 9 Ex. 315; 23 L. J. Ex. 89).

The words of the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 14, under which the above cases were decided, were "if either party in any cause" be dissatisfied, he may appeal. The words of the 1888 Act, are "if any party in any action or matter," and the words "action" and "matter" together include every proceeding in the court, whether commenced by plaint or otherwise (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186). They are wide enough to include both interpleader and garnishee proceedings, and the intention to give an appeal in interpleaders is shown by the limit imposed upon the absolute right of appeal in such cases by sect. 120. The mere giving of an appeal "in proceedings in interpleader" by the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 68, was held to give an appeal to the claimant (Vallance v. Nash, (1858) 2 H. & N. 712; 27 L. J. Ex. 142; 115 R. R. 759); and to the execution creditor, and to a landlord who appeared on the summons (Foulger v. Taylor, (1860) 5 H. & N. 202; 29 L. J. Ex. 154; 120 R. R. 542); and it is therefore submitted that the Act of 1888 continues the right of appeal in interpleaders, and also confers a right of appeal on parties to garnishee proceedings.

Jurisdiction given by Consent.]—The appeal section does not expressly mention actions in which jurisdiction is given by consent of the parties (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64). Prior to the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 68, which expressly gave an appeal in such cases, it was held that no appeal would lie (Groves v. Janssens, (1854) 9 Ex. 481; 23 L. J. Ex. 91). But the section which gave the power to confer jurisdiction (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 23), was passed some years after the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 14, and that fact may have influenced the minds of the judges. It is, however, submitted that the Act of 1888 gives an appeal in "any action," and that where parties confer jurisdiction and bring an action the proceeding afterwards commenced by plaint is none the less an action (see sect. 186), and that there is therefore clearly an appeal.

Title incidentally in Question.]—Where parties give jurisdiction when a question of title beyond the jurisdiction incidentally arises, their right of appeal is expressly reserved (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 61).

There is an absolute right of appeal in all actions in which title is in question; in all actions of ejectment; in all actions where an injunction has been granted or apparently claimed, see Dixon v Brown, post, p. 126 (Brune v. James, (1898) 1 Q. B. 417; 67 L. J. Q. B. 283); and in all equity actions and matters.

The appeal lies in all cases quite irrespectively of the fact whether they are tried by jury or by the judge alone (Cawley v. Furnell, (1852) 12 C. B. 291; 20 L. J. C. P. 197; East Anglian Co. v. Lythgoe, (1851) 10 C. B. 726; 20 L. J. C. P. 84).

Where the judge gives leave to move in the county court for a new trial, the dissatisfied party, if he have a right to appeal, may appeal at once to the High Court, instead of moving in the county court (Outhwaite v. Hudson, (1851) 7 Ex. 380).

There is no appeal where the rules of practice are entirely disregarded; as where the parties to an action in a superior court agree to try the case without plaint or formalities before the county court judge as arbitrator (Pearce v. Winkworth, (1873) 28 L. T. 710).

When actions of contract and tort, or equity actions or matters are sent for trial to a county court under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 65, 66, 69, or interpleaders under 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 17, there is, it is believed, an appeal in the same manner and under the same conditions as in other actions or matters commenced in a county court (see Cousins v. Lombard Bank, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 404; 45 L. J. Ex. 573; Bowles v. Drake (C. A.), (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 325; 51 L. J. Q. B. 66).

Limit on Right of Appeal.]—No appeal will lie if, before the decision of the court be pronounced, both parties agree, in writing signed by themselves or their solicitors or agents, that the decision of the judge shall be final (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 123). The agreement does not require a stamp (ib.).

The next friend of an infant plaintiff, who has failed in an action, cannot bind him by agreement not to appeal in consideration of forbearance of costs against the next friend (Rhodes v. Swithenbank (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 577; 58 L. J. Q. B. 287).

There is no appeal of right in any action of contract or tort, not being an action in which title is in question, where the debt or damage does not exceed 20*l.* (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120): but where an injunction and 20*l.* damages for trespass were claimed, and the claim for the injunction was withdrawn during the hearing, and damages for the trespass were assessed at 15*l.*, there is apparently leave to appeal without leave (Dixon v. Brown, (1915) 2 K. B. 294; 84 L. J. K. B. 1248).

Generally the right of appeal depends upon the amount claimed. If it exceeds 20*l.*, although the judgment be for less, an appeal lies (Harris v. Dreesman, (1854) 9 Ex. 485; 23 L. J. Ex. 210). So a defendant whose counterclaim exceeds 20*l.* has an absolute right of appeal, though the plaintiff's claim is less (Smith v. Gill, (1896) 2 Q. B. 166; 65 L. J. Q. B. 556). But if the nature of the case is such, that the judge cannot lawfully award more than 20*l.*, there is no right of appeal, although the damages claimed are unliquidated and exceed 20*l.* Thus in an action against a bailiff for omission to levy a debt and costs, amounting to 12*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*, in which the judge decided against the plaintiff it was held that no appeal would lie, though he had claimed 20*l.* 1*s.* (Mayer v. Burgess, (1855) 4 E. & B. 655; 24 L. J. Q. B. 67; 99 R. R. 677). A plaintiff cannot at the trial abandon the excess of his claim over 20*l.*, so as to deprive the defendant of his right of appeal (North v. Holroyd, (1867) L. R. 3 Ex. 69; 37 L. J. Ex. 42).

There is no appeal of right in any action of replevin where the amount of rent or damage or value of the goods seized does not exceed 20*l.*, nor in any action for the recovery of tenements where the yearly rent or value of the premises does not exceed 20*l.* (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120), nor in interpleader proceedings where neither the money claimed nor the value of the goods or of their proceeds exceeds 20*l.*; but the appeal in interpleaders will lie if the value of the goods seized exceeds 20*l.*, although the claim in the original action is below it (Vallance v. Nash, (1858) 2 H. & N. 712; 27 L. J. Ex. 142; 115 R. R. 759). Where the goods are appraised and a deposit made to prevent a sale, the appraised value is the value for the purpose of appeal (White v. Milne, (1888) 58 L. T. 225); and if it does not exceed 20*l.*, there is no appeal even though a claim for damages exceeding 20*l.* be made (Lumb v. Teal, (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 675; 58 L. J. Q. B. 298).

Appeal by Leave.]—When there is no right of appeal on account of the limit imposed, the judge may, if he thinks fit, give leave to appeal; and it is believed in no other cases (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). Where leave is not asked for at the trial, and the judge dies before the expiration of the period during which leave could be applied for, leave cannot be granted by a judge of the High Court, and there is no jurisdiction to hear an appeal (Fell v. L. & Y. Ry. Co., (1907) 96 L. T. 785).

The judge may impose terms as a condition for granting leave, e.g., that the appellant shall pay the respondent's costs in any event, and if unsuccessful pay the costs of trial on the higher scale (Goodes v. Cluff, (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 694). Under rule 129 of Bankruptcy Rules, 1886—1914, no appeal lies from a county court in bankruptcy proceedings unless the money or money's worth involved exceeds 50*l*. This means without the costs of the proceedings (Arnold, In re, (1915) 3 K. B. 1078; 84 L. J. K. B. 110).

On what Grounds.]—The power of appealing is confined to those cases in which one of the parties is dissatisfied with the "determination or direction of the judge in point of law or equity, or upon the admission or rejection of any evidence"; therefore, where there is no jury, the judge's findings of fact are final if there is any evidence on which he could so find (Cousins v. Lombard Bank, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 404; 45 L. J. Ex. 573; Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683); still if the inferences of fact drawn by the judge from the evidence could not have been arrived at without an error in point of law, an appeal will lie (Cawley v. Furnell, (1852) 12 C. B. 291; 20 L. J. C. P. 197; Cuthbertson v. Parsons, (1852) 12 C. B. 304; 21 L. J. C. P. 165; and see Le Blanche v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1876) 1 C. P. D. 286; 45 L. J. C. P. 521). This rule applies to equity actions; to support an appeal, a misapplication by the judge of the principles of equity to the facts must be shown (Hill v. Persse, (1876) 25 W. R. 275).

Where there is a misdirection or a non-direction to a jury, the objection to the judge's direction must be taken at the time if the objector desires to appeal to the High Court direct (Clifford v. Thames Ironworks and Shipbuilding Co., (1898) 1 Q. B. 314; 67 L. J. Q. B. 244); but the objection may also be taken for the first time upon an application for a new trial, and if refused relief then appeal will lie (Handley v. London, Edinburgh, and Glasgow Assurance Co., (1902) 1 K. B. 350; 71 L. J. K. B. 39).

If the trial is by jury, their findings of fact cannot be questioned on appeal in the High Court; but only by an application to the judge of the county court for a new trial.

An appeal was held to lie under the County Courts Equitable Jurisdiction Act, on the ground that a decree was irregular in form, and that costs were wrongly disallowed (Cooper v. Busbridge, (1867) 16 L. T. 5). It has also been held, that whether certain conversations amount in equity to a contract between the parties is not a mere question of fact but a question of equity, the judge's decision upon which may be the subject of appeal (Williams v. Williams, (1868) 37 L. J. Ch. 854).

An appeal may lie even under circumstances which would justify a prohibition (Sweetland v. Turkish Cigarette Co., (1899) 47 W. R. 511; 80 L. T. 472; Barker v. Palmer, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 9; 51 L. J. Q. B. 110); but it is difficult to understand how, if a county court had no jurisdiction, there could be an appeal, which presupposes jurisdiction.

No appeal lies from a ruling that the stamp on a document is sufficient (Mander v. Ridgway, (1898) 1 Q. B. 501; 67 L. J. Q. B. 335).

The point which a party relies on should be distinctly raised before the judge of the county court, since it is a condition precedent to the right of appeal that the point should be made at the trial (Rhodes v. Liverpool Co., (1879) 4 C. P. D. 425; Pierpoint v. Cartwright, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 139; Clarkson v. Musgrave, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 386; 51 L. J. Q. B. 525; Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683, per Lord Halsbury, L.C., and Lords Watson and Morris). This rule applies even when the ground of appeal is that the jurisdiction of the county court in the matter in question has been ousted by a public statute: Taylor v. National Amalgamated Approved Society, (1914) 2 K. B. 352; 83 L. J. K. B. 1020.

The court will not hear an appeal where a point has been taken and the judge has given judgment pro formâ in order that the opinion of the High Court may be taken (Chapman v. Withers, (1887) W. N. 235; 58 L. T. 24).

The mere fact that a defendant, who has unsuccessfully applied for a nonsuit calls witnesses, will not debar him from appealing on this ground (G. N. Ry. Co. v. Rimell, (1856) 18 C. B. 575; S. C. nom. G. W. Ry. Co. v. Rimell, (1856) 27 L. J. C. P. 201; Groves v. Cheltenham, etc. Building Society, (1913) 2 K. B. 100; 82 L. J. K. B. 664).

An appeal on the ground of misdirection in law does not succeed unless substantial wrong has been occasioned thereby, and this, whether the ground of appeal is misdirection by the judge of the jury, or misdirection of himself. See R. S. C. Order XIX., r. 7, and Tullis v. North Pole Ice Co., Ltd., (1916) 33 T. L. R. 114.

Mode of Appeal.]—Appeals from county courts must be brought in accordance with the provisions of the Rules of the Supreme Court (Order LIX. r. 1; 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 23; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). They provide that every appeal must be by notice of motion only (R. S. C., Order LIX. rr. 10, 18). See these Rules, post, pp. 230—232.

The method of appeal by motion now clearly applies to all actions or matters commenced or authorised by the County Courts Act, and also to those cases in which a special Act has given an appeal and prescribed the mode of it as by case stated by the judge, e.g., under the Rivers Pollution Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 75, Part V.; Kirkheaton Local Board v. Ainley (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 274; 61 L. J. Q. B. 812). Where, however, the special Act has not given an appeal, but merely power to state a special case, e.g., under the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1883, the practice is still unsettled. (R. v. Kettle, (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 761; 55 L. J. Q. B. 470, was under the County Courts Acts and does not decide the point. The point was discussed but not decided in Wilkinson v. Jagger, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 423; 57 L. J. Q. B. 254.) Under the provisions as to disputes in the Building Societies Act, 1874, an appeal is directly forbidden; it seems clear, therefore, that in that case a case must be stated. It is possible that whenever there is power to state a special case, the judge may under the Arbitration Act (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49, s. 19) be compelled to state it by order of a judge of the High Court at chambers (Tabernacle Building Society v. Knight, (1892) A. C. 298; 62 L. J. Q. B. 50); but as the rule is never to grant a mandamus where there is another effectual remedy, it is presumed that an order to the judge to state a case would only be granted if the court held that an appeal could not in the particular case be maintained by motion in the ordinary manner.

Notice of Motion.]—The notice of motion (see Form 9, Appendix A) must be an eight days' notice (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 10), p. 231, and it must be served and the appeal entered within twenty-one days from the date of the "judgment, order or finding complained of" (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 12). It is believed that the notice must fix a day not less than eight days from the date of the notice as that upon which the court will be moved; but that the eight days need not be part of the twenty-one (see Dingor v. Matthews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n.). The time for appealing may be extended by the High Court (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 16); but some good ground must be shown (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 17). Where through a mistake of counsel the appellant was a day too late for entry of the appeal the court extended the time on payment of costs (Cusack v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1891) 1 Q. B. 347; 60 L. J. Q. B. 208).

It is not clear whether an appeal could be entered during the long vacation, or even notice of motion given.

The time from which the twenty-one days begins to run is that at which the judgment or order is signed, entered, or otherwise perfected, or from the time at which the finding or any refusal is made or given (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 12). The question as to the date of the decision of the judge in the county court has already been considered. The county court judge, by ordering judgment to be entered as of a later day than that on which he delivers it, cannot extend the time for appealing (Wilberforce v. Sowton, (1878) 48 L. J. C. P. 28). When judgment is reserved, and notice of the judgment is afterwards sent to the parties, for the purpose of appeal, time will, it is believed, still run from the date of the notice, and not from an earlier day for which judgment is ordered to be entered (Waterton v. Baker, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 173, 176, per Cockburn, C.J.; 37 L. J. Q. B. 65; Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423, 430, per Lord Coleridge, C.J.; 43 L. J. C. P. 248). If on a special finding of facts the county court judge directs judgment, but reserves leave to move him to enter judgment the other way, the time for appeal against the judgment would, probably, date from the day of the hearing of the motion (Foster v. Green, (1861) 6 H. & N. 793; 30 L. J. Ex. 263).

On appeal against an order granting or refusing a new trial, time runs from the date of the making of the order, not from the date of the original judgment (Dingor v. Matthews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n., post, p. 603, overruling McHardy v. Liptrott, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 151).

Grounds of Appeal.]—The notice of motion must state the grounds of appeal (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 10, Appendix B.; see Form 9, Appendix). The absence of grounds would, it is believed, now be fatal unless amended (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 16). Nevertheless, the grounds appear to be matters of procedure imposed for the benefit of the respondent, and he might, it is believed, waive any objection to them or their absence (see Park Gate Co. v. Coates, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 634; 39 L. J. C. P. 317; Ward v. Raw, (1872) L. R. 15 Eq. 83). The appellant, moreover, would not be prejudiced by any act of the court, or the respondent himself which prevented his stating the grounds of appeal. "Thus, if the judge were to pronounce judgment at one court day, and to state the grounds of his decision at a future day, after the expiration of the [twenty-one days] the appellant might be unable to show his grounds of appeal. In that case, I think that if the grounds were given as early as possible after the latter day, the delay would be the act of the court, and the appellant would be excused" (per Brett, J., Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423, 432; 43 L. J. C. P. 248).

The notice of motion must state whether the whole or part only of the judgment, order or finding is complained of.

The notice of motion must be served within the time above named on every party directly affected by the appeal. Service on the solicitor of a party who acts by solicitor suffices (Order LIV. rr. 3—6), but service on the London agent of a country solicitor does not (Powell v. Thomas, (1891) 1 Q. B. 97; Jackson v. Marygrett, (1893) 41 W. R. 267; 68 L. T. 91). When an action is sent from the High Court to the county court, service may be made on the solicitor who acts in the county court, not on his London agent (Malley v. Shepley, (1893) 62 L. J. Q. B. 31; see Order XXXIII. r. 1; Order LIV. rr. 3—6). The High Court has a general power to order service of the notice of appeal on any party not served, or on a person not a party if his presence be deemed necessary (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 17; Order LVIII. r. 2).

The appeal must be entered within the time above named, by lodging a copy of the notice of motion at the Crown Office Department of the Central Office at the Royal Courts of Justice (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 11).

Extended Jurisdiction.]—In the case of an appeal in an action under the extended jurisdiction sent for trial to a foreign court, a copy of the notice of motion must be lodged by the appellant with the registrar of that court (Order XXIIA. r. 27 (1)). If it is lodged before the documents in the action have been transmitted to the home court under Order XXIIA. r. 26, the registrar of the foreign court will, if there is no stay, proceed under that rule, and will transmit the copy with the other documents to the registrar of the home court; if there is a stay, the registrar of the foreign court will retain the documents until the appeal is disposed of (Order XXIIA. r. 27 (2)). If the copy is not lodged until after the documents have been transmitted to the home court, the registrar of the foreign court must forthwith transmit the copy to the registrar of the home court, and give him notice of a stay of proceedings (if any) (Order XXIIA. r. 27 (3)). When the appeal has been heard or otherwise disposed of, either party may deposit with the registrar of the foreign court the judgment of the Court of Appeal, or an office copy, or a memorandum signed by the parties and showing how the appeal has been disposed of, and the like proceedings will be taken as are prescribed where an application for a new trial has been heard or otherwise disposed of, and the provisions of Order XXII. r. 26, and of Order XXXII. rr. 2, 3, 4, will apply with the necessary modifications (Order XXIIA. r. 27 (4)).

Security.]—No security is required unless ordered by the High Court; and the court may equally order security in applications for new trials as well as in final appeals (Wightwick v. Pope, (1902) 2 K. B. 99; 71 L. J. K. B. 709). The appeal will not, however, operate as a stay of proceedings, unless the judge so orders, or unless within ten days after the decision a deposit be made of, or security given to the satisfaction of the county court for, a sum to be fixed by it, not exceeding the amount of the money or the value of the property affected by the judgment, order or finding appealed from (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 14, post, p. 231). The money "affected by the judgment" includes the costs as well as the debt; the judge may therefore, as a condition of a stay, order security to be given for the costs, although the amount of the judgment debt is paid into court (Grimshaw v. Parker, (1910) 2 K. B. 161; 79 L. J. K. B. 780). Where an infant sues by a next friend, the High Court may order security for the costs of the appeal if the next friend is without means (Swain v. Follows, (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 585; 56 L. J. Q. B. 310); so where an appellant has disposed of his goods to avoid paying respondent's costs (Moore v. Pinnick, (1901) 70 L. J. K. B. 471); but, as a general rule, not in any case where the judge has given unconditional leave to appeal (Ex parte Society of Apothecaries, (1890) 38 W. R. 478).

Security must always be by bond or deposit of money. No doubt the respondent may waive his right to security (Park Gate Co. v. Coates, (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 634; 39 L. J. C. P. 317; Waterton v. Baker, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 173; 37 L. J. Q. B. 65); and if the appellant, not being himself in fault, failed to complete his security, either through the default of the respondent or of the judge or registrar, he could not be deprived of the benefit of the stay of proceedings (Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423, 432; 43 L. J. C. P. 248).

Cross Appeal.]—A respondent need not give notice of motion by way of cross appeal, but if he intends on the hearing of the appeal to contend that the decision of the county court should be varied, he must, within eight days apparently from the service of the notice of motion, give notice of his intention to the parties who may be affected by it. The omission to give the notice will not affect the power of the court, but may be a ground for adjournment or special order as to costs (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 17; Order LVIII. rr. 6, 7; see Form 10, Appendix, post, p. 875). The grounds of cross appeal must be stated (Williams v. Taperell, (1892) 92 L. T. 213). A respondent cannot by way of cross appeal raise questions which he could not have originated by appeal (The Alne Holme, (1893) P. 173; 62 L. J. P. 51).

Judge's Notes.]—To facilitate appeals the judge must, at the request of either party, make a note of any question of law raised at the trial or hearing, and of the facts in evidence in relation thereto, and of his decision thereon, and of his decision of the action or matter (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). This provision has given rise to much discussion. "The statute seems to suppose that the point of law may be stated at once at the trial, and then a note taken of all the evidence; but it is obvious that a point of law may arise in the course of the case; or it may arise afterwards at the end" (Morgan v. Rees (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 508, 513, per Bramwell, L.J.; 50 L. J. Q. B. 491). In this case it was held that a statement by the solicitor of the plaintiff that the case was important and might be taken to the High Court was technically insufficient. So a request made an hour and a half after judgment was held to be too late (Pierpoint v. Cartwright, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 139).

The provisions as to obtaining notes above referred to are for the benefit of the party intending to appeal, and do not constitute a condition precedent to the right of appeal (Wohlgemuthe v. Coste, (1899) 1 Q. B. 501; 68 L. J. Q. B. 373). Where, without any request having been made, the judge had taken a note, and had added a statement of the points of law raised and determined, the Court of Appeal held that an appeal would lie (Seymour v. Coulson (C. A.), (1880) 5 Q. B. D. 359; 49 L. J. Q. B. 604). Where evidence had been given by affidavits, and the judge compiled notes from them, they were allowed to be used on the appeal (Hill v. Persse, (1876) 25 W. R. 275).

A rule provides that if the notes are not produced, the court may hear the appeal on any other evidence or statement of what occurred in the court below which the court may deem sufficient (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 8); see post, p. 231. In Abrahams v. Dimmock, (1915) 1 K. B. 662; 84 L. J. K. B. 802, the Court of Appeal decided that though the point of law must be raised at the trial it is sufficient if raised by the judge himself and discussed. It is not a condition precedent to appeal that the judge should have taken a note, or been asked to take a note, or if he has not taken one, that he should certify to this effect. Cook v. Gordon, (1892) 67 L. J. Q. B. 445, in so far as it was an authority for the contrary view must be considered overruled. Still, the point of law must be raised (Smith v. Baker, (1891) A. C. 325. In one case the appeal was adjourned, in order that the certificate of the county court judge that there was no note might be obtained (Brown v. Book, (1892) 8 T. L. R. 227). In another, where no request had been made and the judge's notes were very incomplete, the court heard the motion without any notes (Morgan v. Davies, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 260; The Confidence, (1879) 40 L. T. 201). In another, where there was no request, and no notes, the court ordered that the witnesses examined at the trial might be called on appeal, and examined as to their evidence (The Crescent (C. A.), (1893) 62 L. J. P. 63). When counsel had merely requested the judge "to take the usual note," the court held that his duty was to raise the question of law, and then to ask the judge to make a note of the evidence and of his decision, and it dismissed an application to state a case, or to furnish a copy taken for the use of the court (R. v. Kerr, (1894) 70 L. T. 595). Abrahams v. Dimmock, supra, is not inconsistent with this case.

Where there is a right of appeal, and the judge has at the request of either party made a note as above mentioned, he must at the expense of any party (see sect. 186) furnish a copy of the note, or allow a copy to be taken by or on behalf of such party, whether notice of motion by way of appeal has been served or not, and he must sign the note.

In the event of no request being made as required by sect. 120, the judge will not be bound either to take a note or to furnish or sign a copy (Morgan v. Rees (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 508; 50 L. J. Q. B. 491; ante, p. 130). Where the point of law arose in the summing up and could not have been revised without the evidence being read, the court allowed a transcript of a shorthand note taken by a writer of the Corporation of the City of London, but not signed by the judge, to be used on the appeal, and allowed the successful plaintiff the costs of obtaining the note (Barber v. Burt, (1894) 2 Q. B. 437; 63 L. J. Q. B. 700); but such costs are allowed on vital points only (In re Sprange, (1898) 77 L. T. 808). In cases tried with a jury the costs of the note of the summing up only will be allowed (Barber v. Burt, supra).

The note ought to be sealed with the seal of the county court (Order LIV. r. 14), and must be used at the hearing of the appeal (sect. 121). It is the duty of the appellant, in accordance with the practice of the Court of Appeal, to supply copies of the notes for the use of the judges (McGrah v. Cartwright, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 3; 58 L. J. Q. B. 331).

Section 120 Notes.

Hearing of Appeals.]—The appeal lies to a divisional court of the High Court of Justice, constituted as prescribed by rules of the High Court, and whose decision is final unless leave to appeal is given by that court or by the Court of Appeal (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16, s. 1 (5); R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 4).

The appeal must be entered in the proper list (the Civil paper) for hearing on such days as the Lord Chief Justice of England may direct, and will come on to be heard in its order, unless the High Court otherwise directs (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 15). One counsel only will be heard on each side. The appellant begins and has a reply after the respondent has been heard.

If one of the parties dies after the entry of an appeal the High Court has jurisdiction to give leave to add the personal representatives of the party dying (Blakeway v. Patteshall, (1894) 1 Q. B. 247; Hemming v. Williams, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 480; 40 L. J. C. P. 270).

The court cannot entertain objections not made in the court below (Cox v. Slater, (1866) 14 L. T. 511; Williams v. Evans, (1875) L. R. 19 Eq. 547; 44 L. J. Ch. 319; Yorke v. Smith, (1852) 21 L. J. Q. B. 53; Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683, per Lord Halsbury, L.C., and Lords Watson and Morris). Where a new point was raised in the county court more than an hour after judgment the court dismissed the appeal, although the judge made a note and reserved the point (Pierpoint v. Cartwright, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 139; Rhodes v. Liverpool Co., (1879) 4 C. P. D. 425). If, upon the facts appearing on the notes, the judgment can be supported on grounds different from those taken in the court below, judgment will not be disturbed (Chapman v. Knight, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 308; 49 L. J. C. P. 425).

The High Court has power to draw any inference of fact and to amend the grounds of appeal, and may grant a new trial on such terms as it thinks fit, or order judgment to be entered for any party, or dismiss the appeal, or make any final or other order, on such terms as it thinks just, to ensure the determination of the real questions between the parties (see sect. 122; R. S. C., Order LIX. rr. 7—16). No appeal will succeed merely on the ground of misdirection or improper reception or rejection of evidence, unless, in the opinion of the court, substantial wrong or miscarriage has been thereby occasioned in the court below (R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 7; framed to meet Matthews v. Ovey, (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 403).

The power to enter judgment is well settled whether the trial be before a judge alone (Eastland v. Burchell, (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 432; 47 L. J. Q. B. 500; Whiteman v. Hawkins, (1878) 4 C. P. D. 13; King v. Oxford, (1885) 51 L. T. 94), or with a jury (Snowden v. Baynes, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 568; 59 L. J. Q. B. 325; (C. A.), 25 Q. B. D. 193; Amos v. Duffy (C. A.), (1890) 6 T. L. R. 339; Whatley v. Holloway, (1890) 6 T. L. R. 190; (C. A.), 353).

Workmen's Compensation Act.]—Appeals under this Act lie to the Court of Appeal direct. See Act, Sched. II. (4).

Appeal from Order of High Court.]—The judgment of the divisional court is final unless special leave to appeal to the Court of Appeal be granted by that court or by the Court of Appeal (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16, s. 1 (5); Godman v. Moses (C. A.), (1900) 69 L. J. Q. B. 823); an application for leave to appeal when made to the Court of Appeal should be always made ex parte; if the court wishes the other side to be heard it will direct notice to be served (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16, s. 1 (6); County Council of Dorset v. Pethick, (1898) 14 Times Rep. 183). Where Divisional Court orders new trial, an appeal to the Court of Appeal is from an interlocutory, not final, order. See M. Isaacs & Sons, Ltd. v. Salbstein, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1436. Where leave to appeal is given by a county court judge, a right of appeal is created within the meaning of sect. 1, sub-s. 5, of the Judicature Act, 1894, and a further appeal lies to the Court of Appeal by leave of the divisional court or of the Court of Appeal (Moore, Nettlefold & Co. v. Singer Manufacturing Co. (C. A.), (1904) 1 K. B. 820; 73 L. J. K. B. 457). In the Court of Appeal the argument will be confined to the point as to which leave to appeal has been given (Jones v. Biernstein, (1900) 1 Q. B. 100; 69 L. J. Q. B. 1). Leave to proceed as a pauper may be granted by the Court of Appeal to a party appealing thereto from the divisional court which has affirmed the judgment of the county court (Clements v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1894) 2 Q. B. 482). No appeal lies against the refusal to grant leave (Kay v. Briggs (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 343; 58 L. J. Q. B. 182). From the Court of Appeal an appeal lies as of right to the House of Lords (Crush v. Turner, (1879) 4 App. Cas. 221; Thomas v. Kelly, (1889) 13 App. Cas. 506; 58 L. J. Q. B. 66); aliter where the county court was sitting in bankruptcy (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 103; see post, p. 280).

Proceedings after Judgment.]—When the court has pronounced judgment, either party may deposit the same, or an office copy, with the registrar of the county court, and upon being so deposited the judgment will be filed, and may be enforced as if it had been made by the county court (Order XXXII. r. 2).

Where the Divisional Court has given judgment on an appeal, and the judgment has been drawn up and perfected, there is no power to restore it to the list, even though it was heard in the absence of the respondent, and the decision was against him, (Hession v. Jones, (1914) 2 K. B. 421; 83 L. J. K. B. 810).

When a new trial is ordered, the cause must be entered for trial at the first county court held next after twelve clear days from the time when the order or office copy has been deposited, unless the parties agree that it shall take place sooner, or the judge otherwise orders. The new trial must be conducted in the same manner as any new trial granted by the county court itself (Order XXXII. r. 3).

If the order of the High Court be that judgment be entered for either party, the judgment must be entered accordingly, and the successful party will be at liberty to proceed as on a judgment of the county court (Order XXXII. r. 4).

Costs.]—Although the court refuses to hear an appeal on the ground that the appeal will not lie, it frequently does entertain it so far as to dismiss it with costs (Carr v. Stringer, (1858) E. B. & E. 123; 113 R. R. 570), but as its power depends on jurisdiction, it is difficult to see how it can do so (Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 1 H. & N. 621; 26 L. J. Ex. 147; 108 R. R. 74; Brown v. Shaw, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 425; Clarke v. Roche (2), (1877) 36 L. T. 78; see, however, Ex parte Pringle (C. A.), (1889) 60 L. T. 796). It seems that the court cannot make a conditional order that the costs of the appeal shall abide the event of the new trial (Gibbon v. Gibbon, (1853) 13 C. B. 205; 22 L. J. C. P. 131, 135, in notis). The costs of appeal, as a general rule, follow the event; and unless there are special circumstances to take a case out of the rule, the appellant, if successful, is now allowed his costs of appeal (Mountney v. Collier, (1852) 1 E. & B. 630; 22 L. J. Q. B. 124; 93 R. R. 317; Schroeder v. Ward, (1863) 13 C. B. N. S. 410; 32 L. J. C. P. 150; Richardson v. N. E. Rail. Co., (1872) L. R. 7 C. P. 75, 83; 41 L. J. C. P. 60).

Where the judge of a county court ruled a point of law against a plaintiff, with leave to move to set aside the verdict, and the plaintiff, instead of so moving, appealed to a superior court, which decided the point in his favour: it was held that he ought to have his costs of appeal, since he was not bound to try the experiment of going a second time before the same judge, who had once expressed an opinion against him (Outhwaite v. Hudson, (1851) 7 Ex. 380; 21 L. J. Ex. 151).

Costs of appeal will not be allowed unless the application for them is made at the time the case is disposed of (Taylor v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 430; 35 L. J. C. P. 210).

Procedure on appeal. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 6.

121. In any action or matter in which there is a right of appeal, and the judge has at the request of either party made a note of any question of law raised at such trial or hearing, and of the facts in evidence in relation thereto, and of his decision thereon, and of his decision of the action or matter, he shall at the expense of any person or persons being party or parties in any such action or matter, furnish a copy of the note so taken at the said trial or hearing, or allow a copy to be taken of the same, by or on behalf of such person or persons, and he shall sign such copy, whether a notice of motion in the matter of the said appeal has been served or not, and the copy so signed shall be used and received at the hearing of such appeal.

Judge's Notes.]—The judge may make an alteration in his note of a judgment after its delivery for the purpose of explanation or the clearing away of a possible misunderstanding (Lowery v. Walker, (1911) A. C. 10; 80 L. J. K. B. 138).

Jurisdiction of High Court. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 14.

122. On the hearing of an appeal the High Court shall have power to draw any inference of fact, and may either order a new trial on such terms as the court shall think just, or may order judgment to be entered for any party, as the case may be, or may make a final or other order on such terms as the High Court may think proper to ensure the determination on the merits of the real questions in controversy between the parties.

Parties may agree not to appeal. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 69.

123. No appeal shall lie from the decision of the judge, if before such decision is pronounced the parties shall agree, in writing signed by themselves or their solicitors or agents, that his decision shall be final, and no such agreement shall require a stamp.

The next friend of an infant plaintiff, who has failed in an action, cannot bind him by agreement not to appeal in consideration of forbearance of costs against the next friend (Rhodes v. Swithenbank (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 577; 58 L. J. Q. B. 287).

No appeal allowed except as in this Act mentioned. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 16.

124. No judgment or order of any judge, nor any action or matter brought before him or pending in his court, shall be removed by appeal, motion, certiorari, or otherwise, into any other court whatever, save and except in the manner and according to the provisions in this Act mentioned.

Assessors on appeal. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 11.

125. Where an Admiralty action has been heard in the court with the assistance of nautical assessors, elder brethren of the Trinity House shall be summoned to assist on the hearing of an appeal by the High Court if either party shall require the same, and the High Court shall be of opinion that the assistance of the elder brethren is necessary or desirable.

Assessors merely sit to advise the judge. If he differs from them, he must decide in accordance with his own opinion (The Beryl, (1884) 9 P. D. 137; 53 L. J. Adm. 75).

otherwise, of any action or matter commenced in the court under the provisions of this Act, if the High Court or a judge thereof shall deem it desirable that the action or matter shall be tried in the High Court, and upon such terms as to payment of costs, giving security, or otherwise as the High Court or a judge thereof shall think fit to impose.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 90. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 38. 28 & 29 Vict c. 99, s. 3.

After the service of proceedings on a defendant, it is open to him, in certain cases, to obtain their removal into the High Court by certiorari or order (a), and thus to stop the proceedings in the county court. A power to object to the jurisdiction of the county courts in cases where a claim exceeds a certain sum is also given; but those provisions extend only to cases where the claim exceeds a certain sum.

By Certiorari or Order.]—The section which now confers the power of removal above mentioned consolidates the provisions which formerly applied to common law and equity proceedings respectively (9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 90; 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 38; 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 3), and places all upon the same footing, quite irrespectively of the amount in dispute. (Formerly there was a distinction between cases in which the claim exceeded or did not exceed 5*l.*) The two sets of provisions just mentioned provided, in the case of common law actions, for removal by writ of certiorari, and in the case of equity actions or matters, for removal by order. Now any action or matter (terms which include every proceeding in a county court (see sect. 18)), if commenced under the Act of 1888 (as to when an action is commenced in a county court within the meaning of sect. 126, see General Estates Co. v. Beaver, (1912) 2 K. B. 398; 81 L. J. K. B. 761), may be removed by the High Court or a judge either by certiorari or otherwise, i.e., presumably, by mere order; but, except in the cases and in the manner mentioned in the Act, no action, matter, judgment, or order can be removed from the county court (see sect. 124).

In what cases.

Section 126 does not confer the power of removal on the judges of any particular division, but it is apprehended that in practice, for convenience, applications in common law actions and matters should be made to a divisional court or a judge of the King's Bench Division, and in equity actions and matters to a judge of the Chancery Division, and that, according to the nature of the matters in issue, the removal should be into one division or the other.

By what division.

Grounds for Removal.]—The grounds upon which the High Court or a judge may remove an action or matter are that they shall deem it desirable that the action or matter shall be tried in the High Court; and in that case they may impose such terms as to payment of costs, giving security, or otherwise as they may think fit (see sect. 126). The party applying must show that the action is more fit to be tried in the High Court (Donkin v. Pearson, (1911) 2 K. B. 412; 80 L. J. K. B. 1069). But the section is not confined to cases in which the action is in itself more fit to be tried in the High Court than in the county court. It gives an absolute discretion to the High Court to consider, having regard to all the circumstances, whether it is desirable that the action should be tried in the High Court, or remain in the county court (Challis v. Watson, (1913) 1 K. B. 547; 82 L. J. K. B. 529).

The Crown may of right obtain the removal of any plaint affecting the revenue or its rights at any stage of the case (Mountjoy v. Wood, (1856) 1 H. & N. 58; 108 R. R. 453; Stanley of Alderley (Lord) v. Wild, (1900) 1 Q. B. 256; 69 L. J. Q. B. 318); but in other cases the writ is not granted of course, but ex debito justitiæ (R. v. Surrey Justices, (1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 466; 39 L. J. M. C. 145). The section is so general, that possibly actions brought under the peculiar jurisdiction of county courts in cases of partnerships and intestacies (they could not formerly be removed : Durant v. Tomlin, (1848) 11 L. T. O. S. 267), and interpleader proceedings (they were not removable before: Ex parte Summers, (1852) 18 Jur. 522), may be removable. It is important to observe that actions and matters commenced under the Act of 1888 are alone removable under these provisions (Donkin v. Pearson, supra); yet it has been held that a petition to wind up under the Building Societies Act may be removed (Re East Dulwich Building Society (North, J.), (1891) 39 W. R. 32); but a writ of certiorari cannot be issued to bring up an order of a county court judge when exercising bankruptcy jurisdiction (Skinner v. Northallerton County Court Judge, (1898) 2 Q. B. 680; 68 L. J. Q. B. 24; 79 L. T. 327; affirmed H. L., (1899) A. C. 439; 68 L. J. Q. B. 897).

(a) It is in fact generally done by certiorari.

It is conceived that an action, the particulars of which disclose a cause of action not within the jurisdiction of the county court, cannot be removed, the proper remedy being by prohibition. A justice of the peace who has objected to be sued in the county court, under the provisions referred to (ante, p. 42), cannot remove the plaint by certiorari (Weston v. Sneyd, (1857) 1 H. & N. 703; 26 L. J. Ex. 161; 108 R. R. 787).

As to the removal by certiorari of unsatisfied judgments, see sect. 151; as to replevin, see sect. 137; as to the removal by order of actions of ejectment, see sect. 59.

Usual Ground of Removal.]—That difficult questions of law are likely to arise on the trial is a usual ground (see Longbottom v. Longbottom, (1853) 8 Ex. 203; 22 L. J. Ex. 74; Hunt v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 268; 20 L. J. Q. B. 349; 84 R. R. 840). Where there were six or seven actions pending against the same defendant, and arising out of the same matter, and difficult questions of law were likely to arise in them, the Court of Appeal granted a certiorari to remove an action under the Employers' Liability Act against the same defendant involving the same facts and law (Potter v. G. W. Colliery Co. (C. A.), (1894) 10 T. L. R. 380); and where a plaint was removed by certiorari on an affidavit that difficult questions of law were likely to arise, the court refused to quash the writ, though counter-affidavits were made that no such difficult questions would arise (Rees v. Williams, (1851) 7 Ex. 51; 21 L. J. Ex. 24). But where the court considered that a defence was not bonâ fide they quashed the writ, although it was sworn that difficult matters of law would arise (Kenworthy v. Sidebottom, an unreported case argued in the C. P. D. on the 16th May, 1876). Where the claim was under 20*l.*, a certiorari was refused, though it was sworn that various nice questions of law and fact, important to the applicant, would probably arise (Soloman v. L. C. & D. Rail. Co., (1861) 10 W. R. 59). The fact of the plaintiff being an officer of the court would probably be a ground which would be entertained (Box v. Green, (1854) 9 Ex. 503; 23 L. J. Ex. 219), but as there is now ample power to change the venue (see sect. 85), it would hardly be of much weight alone.

Practice on application for Certiorari.]—The application for a certiorari must be made to a judge at chambers, not to the court (Bowen v. Evans, (1848) 3 Ex. 111; 18 L. J. Ex. 38; Robertson v. Womack, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 367). It may be made to a master (R. S. C., Order LIV. r. 12), but not, it seems, to a district registrar (R. S. C., Order XXXV. r. 6). There is no cause "proceeding" in the registry to give the power.

Affidavit.]—The application must be made on affidavit intituled "In the High Court of Justice, —— Division," but not in any cause or matter (Ex parte Nohro, (1823) 1 B. & C. 267). The proceedings are on the civil, not on the Crown side.

The affidavit must be drawn up in the first person, and divided into paragraphs; each paragraph must be numbered consecutively, and must be confined as much as possible to a distinct portion of the subject (R. S. C., Order XXXVIII. r. 7). The affidavit must state the description and true place of abode of the deponent (Order XXXVIII. r. 8), and, subject as aforesaid, generally the rules of the High Court as to affidavits must be observed (see Annual Practice, notes to R. S. C., Order XXXVIII. r. 7, and following rules).

As the judge to whom the application is made may exercise his discretion with respect to the terms upon which he will grant it, it is important that the affidavit should state all the facts material to the case. Where a certiorari had been obtained by a plaintiff upon an affidavit which omitted to disclose facts as to costs which the defendant had already incurred, the Court of Exchequer, upon those facts being brought before it, quashed the writ (Parker v. B. & E. Rail. Co., (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 136; 20 L. J. Ex. 112). Where, however, a certiorari had been issued by leave of a judge, upon an affidavit which stated generally that difficult questions would arise, but did not state what those questions were, or the grounds upon which they would arise, the court refused to set the writ aside, as it did not appear that those particulars were not pointed out to the judge at chambers (Golding v. Caudwell, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 175).

If a certiorari be refused by the court or judge, no other judge may grant it. The applicant may, however, appeal from a judge to the court, or make a second application on different grounds. See s. 132, post, p. 156.

Order.]—When security is ordered to be given, it may be by bond, or by deposit of money. The Court held to be unreasonable a term which had been imposed by a judge at chambers, that the defendant, if successful, should only recover county court costs. Such an order is sometimes made by consent.

The grant of an order nisi or summons for a certiorari will, if the court or a judge so direct, operate as a stay of proceedings in the action or matter until the determination of the order or summons, or until the court or judge otherwise orders; and the judge of the county court must from time to time adjourn the trial to such day as he thinks fit. If, however, a copy of the order or summons be not served by the party who obtained it on the opposite party and on the registrar of the county court two clear days before the day fixed for the trial, the judge of the county court may order the party who obtained it to pay the costs of the day, or part of them, unless the High Court or judge has made some order respecting them.

Where a writ of certiorari has been granted on an ex parte application, and the party who obtained it does not lodge it with the registrar, and give notice to the opposite party that it has issued, two clear days before the day fixed for the trial, the judge of the county court may, in his discretion, order the party who obtained the writ to pay all the costs of the day, or so much as he thinks fit, unless the High Court or judge has made some order respecting them (see sect. 130; Form 148; see R. S. C., Forms G 13, J 9, K 30).

The court has power under this section to order the re-transfer from the county court to the High Court of an action originally commenced in the Chancery Division and remitted to the county court under sect. 69 (General Estates Co. v. Beaver, (1912) 2 K. B. 398; 81 L. J. K. B. 761).

Service of Writ of Certiorari.]—The writ should be delivered as early as possible to the registrar of the county court, so as to render all proceedings taken in that court after its service irregular and coram non judice. According to the old practice, the writ must have been delivered to the judge or officer of the court, before the jury appeared, or before one of them had been sworn; otherwise the inferior court might proceed with the cause (43 Eliz. c. 5). And this would seem to be still the law in a case tried before a jury. If the judge of the county court refuses to obey it, he is liable to an attachment for contempt (Mungean v. Wheatley, (1851) 6 Ex. 88; 20 L. J. Ex. 106). The effect of the service of the writ of certiorari is instantly to suspend the power of the county court in the cause which it removes (Tidd's Prac. 9th ed. p. 404; Cross v. Smith, (1703) 1 Salk. 148; Bevan v. Prothesk, (1761) 2 Burr. 1151; Mungean v. Wheatley, supra). Where the writ was left with a clerk at the registrar's office, it was held to be good service; but the court intimated that the strictly proper course to pursue, where there has been no personal service on the judge, and the cause does not come on for hearing until after the return-day, would be to rule the judge to return the writ (Brookman v. Wenham, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 233; 20 L. J. Q. B. 278).

Where a defendant has removed an action from a county court by certiorari, the plaintiff is not bound to follow it; and if he decline, the defendant cannot sign judgment, nor recover from the plaintiff the costs of removal (Garton v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1858) 1 E. & E. 258; 28 L. J. Q. B. 103; 117 R. R. 202). If the plaintiff continues the proceedings after the grant of a certiorari, he does not commence de novo in the High Court, but delivers statement of claim reciting the proceedings in the county court, and the issue of the certiorari (see Ashley v. Ashley, (1867) 17 L. T. 265; Bul. & L., 3rd ed. p. 33). The plaintiff cannot be compelled to proceed with the action in the King's Bench Division (Harrison v. Bull, (1912) 1 K. B. 612; 81 L. J. K. B. 656).

When the writ is granted, the costs in the court below will be costs in the cause (R. S. C., Order LXV. r. 3). A fee may be charged for making a return to a certiorari (Batt v. Price, (1875) 1 Q. B. D. 264; 45 L. J. Q. B. 170).

Order to remove Equity Proceedings.]—If application be made for an order, under the above provisions, for the transfer of an equity action or matter to the High Court, it is probable that the application should be made to a judge of the Chancery Division. According to the former practice the order was not made ex parte, but by summons to show cause (Anon., (1876) W. N. 12). An affidavit would no doubt be required. After an order of transfer the plaintiff must deliver statement of claim before he can obtain an order for discovery (Davies v. Williams, (1880) 13 Ch. D. 550; 49 L. J. Ch. 352).

Where, by reason of the combination of legal and equitable remedies, defences, and counterclaims, any defence or counterclaim involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the court, the High Court, or any division or judge thereof, may order the whole proceeding to be transferred to the High Court, or to any division of it (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 90).

The application under this provision ought, it is believed, to be made by summons as in the case last mentioned, to a judge of the division to which it is proposed to transfer the proceeding. After the making of the order the action or matter will proceed in the High Court as if it had been originally commenced there (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 90).

Where an order is made by a judge of the High Court under either of the two last-mentioned provisions, then, subject to such order, the record in the proceeding must be transmitted by the registrar, in the following manner: The registrar must make and certify under his hand office copies of all entries of record in the books of the court, and must forthwith transmit them, together with all such documents as have been filed in the action or matter, to the proper officer of the High Court. The copies and the cost of transmission must be paid for, in the first instance, by the party on whose application the transfer has been made; and the registrar may require deposit of the costs of such copies and transmission before making or transmitting the same; such payment is to be without prejudice to the question as to by which party the costs are ultimately to be borne (Order XXXIII. r. 7).

Objection by Defendant to Jurisdiction, when.]—Where the plaintiff claims more than 20*l.* in actions of contract, or more than 10*l.* in actions of tort, if the defendant gives notice that he objects to the action being tried in the county court, and gives security, to be approved of by the registrar, for the amount claimed, and the costs of trial in the High Court, not exceeding in the whole the sum of 150*l.* (for form of bond, see Form 82; see Young v. Brompton, (1862) 1 B. & S. 675; 31 L. J. Q. B. 14; 124 R. R. 709, decided under the corresponding section), and the judge certifies that in his opinion some important question of law or fact is likely to arise, all proceedings in the county court will be stayed. The entry of the plaints prevents the operation of any statute of limitation. This power does not prevent, and is quite distinct from, the removal of a cause by certiorari (see sect. 62).

Notice of Objection.]—Where a defendant intends to avail himself of the above power, he must give notice in writing (Form 79) of such intention to the registrar and to the plaintiff five clear days (but ten clear days in actions brought under the Act of 1903) at least before the return-day of the summons, and name therein the parties whom he proposes to be his sureties, or state his willingness to deposit money in lieu of giving security, otherwise he will not be entitled to object to a trial in the county court (Order X. r. 6; Order XXIIA. r. 12. For form of bond, see Form 82).

Application for Certificate.] — After giving the notice the defendant must apply ex parte (Order XII. r. 11) to the judge on affidavit (Form 80) for his certificate to the effect above mentioned, and if granted, notice must be sent to the plaintiff by the registrar by post or otherwise (Form 81). The affidavit must specify the important questions of law or fact likely to arise; and as regards questions of law must also specify the facts which are relied on as likely to raise them. If after the grant of the certificate the defendant fails to give security, or to make the deposit, before the return-day, he will not be entitled to object to the action being tried in the county court (Order X. r. 6; Order XXIIA. r. 12).

Effect of Notice, &c.]—When notice of objection, certificate, and due security have been given, the proceedings in the county court are at an end, and the plaintiff must begin de novo by issuing a writ in the High Court, the pleadings in the action being the same as in ordinary actions (see Flitters v. Allfrey, (1874) L. R. 10 C. P. 29; 44 L. J. C. P. 10). No provision limits the time in which the action is to be brought. Where money has been deposited, and no action brought, say, for three months, it is conceived that the defendant ought to be entitled to a return of the money. To obtain this result he should apply ex parte or on notice under Order XII. r. 11.

Where a new trial was granted by a county court judge on the application of the defendant, it was held that he could not afterwards object to the new trial being had in the county court (Campbell v. Fairlie, (1880) 49 L. J. Q. B. 445); and it would appear from the case just cited that the rule is the same whether the new trial be granted by the county court judge or by the High Court, and whether on the application of plaintiff or defendant. Nor can the defendant object, under these provisions, in cases where the county courts have exclusive original jurisdiction—e.g., under the Employers' Liability Act (R. v. City of London Court (1) (C. A.), (1885) 14 Q. B. D. 905; 54 L. J. Q. B. 330).

The above provisions as to objecting to the jurisdiction differ from prohibition. It is only by means of the notice and security given by the defendant and the certificate of the judge that the cause, if within the ordinary jurisdiction, becomes one over which it has no jurisdiction. Prohibition would only lie if, after such notice, certificate, and security, the court entertained the cause.

It seems clear that the county court judge making an order under sect. 62 has no power to give the plaintiff costs of the proceedings properly instituted by him in the county court; and as upon an order being made the county court proceedings are ipso facto at an end and a new action has to be brought in the High Court, it seems equally clear that the High Court has no power over the costs in the county court action. There seems to be no remedy but legislation for this unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Objection by Justices.]—If an action be brought in a county court against a justice of the peace (by virtue of the general jurisdiction as to personal actions) for anything done by him in the execution of his office, he may, within six days after service of the summons, himself, or by his solicitor or agent, give notice in writing to the plaintiff that he objects to being sued in the county court for such cause of action. All subsequent proceedings in the county court will then be null and void. After giving notice of objection, the justice is not entitled to remove the plaint by certiorari into the High Court. The above provisions appear to be general, and to apply to all actions against justices for anything done by them as justices (ante, p. 42).

Default Summons.]—Where a defendant has been served with a default summons he may also object to the jurisdiction.

Judge of High Court may hear applications for prohibition.

13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 22.

127. It shall be lawful for any judge of the High Court, as well during the sittings as in vacation, to hear and determine applications for writs of prohibition to any court and to make such orders for the issuing of such writs as might have been made by the High Court, and all such orders so made by any such judge of the High Court shall have the same force and effect as heretofore.

The writ of prohibition is a writ issuing out of the High Court to restrain any inferior courts within the limits and bounds of their several jurisdictions prescribed to them by law. It is granted in all cases where an inferior court exceeds its powers, either by acting where it has no jurisdiction, or where, having a primary jurisdiction, it takes upon itself the decision of something not included within its jurisdiction (2 Inst. 601; F. N. B. 40; 12 Rep. 65; Bac. Ab. tit. Prohibition). There was formerly great difference of opinion whether this writ was discretionary, or to be granted ex debito justitiæ: but it is now clear that at the suit of the party aggrieved it is of right, though discretionary in the sense that, from the circumstances of the case, the courts may exercise a legal, not arbitrary discretion (Bac. Ab. Prohibition (B.) and cases there cited; Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 239, 278; 36 L. J. Ex. 225; see the opinion of the judges delivered by Willes, J., which contains a great body of learning on the Law and Practice of Prohibition; and Worthington v. Jeffries, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 379; 44 L. J. C. P. 209). And consequently, when a party establishes to the court facts upon which an application is properly founded, whether appearing on the face of the proceedings or not, he is entitled to the writ as of right (Jackson v. Beaumont, (1855) 11 Ex. 300; 24 L. J. Ex. 301; 105 R. R. 536; Mayor of London v. Cox, ubi supra).

What Court may grant a Prohibition.]—Any one of the superior courts of common law at Westminster could always award prohibitions to the county courts; so also could the Court of Chancery (F. N. B. 53; 4 Inst. 71; 1 Peere Wms. 476; Wright v. Cattell, (1850) 13 Beav. 81; 19 L. J. Ch. 527; Jacobs v. Brett, (1875) L. R. 20 Eq. 1; 44 L. J. Ch. 377). The writ from Chancery appears not to have been returnable, but if disobeyed that court granted an attachment returnable in the King's Bench or Common Bench (Inst. 81). A writ of prohibition might also issue out of the Petty Bag Office (Wright v. Cattell, (1850) 13 Beav. 81). The duties of the clerk of the petty bag are, under a rule of the Supreme Court dated January 30th, 1889, to be performed by the senior clerk of the Crown Office Department; and it is believed that no prohibition will be issued by him. By 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 127, any judge of the High Court may, as well during sittings as in vacation, hear and determine applications for writs of prohibition to any county court.

If the court has no jurisdiction, a writ of prohibition may be granted even on the application of a stranger (2 Inst. 602; Wadsworth v. Queen of Spain, (1851) 17 Q. B. 171; 20 L. J. Q. B. 488; 85 R. R. 398; Mayor of London v. Cox, supra; Robinson v. Emanuel, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 414; 43 L. J. C. P. 244). But the grant of the writ at the suit of a stranger is discretionary; not ex debito justitiæ as at the suit of the party aggrieved (Re Forster, (1863) 4 B. & S. 187; 129 R. R. 713; Mayor of London v. Cox, supra). Section 127 Notes.

In what Cases granted.]—A prohibition is granted either absolutely or hoc usque only until a particular act be done. The first is peremptory and ties up the inferior jurisdiction till a consultation is awarded; the second is ipso facto discharged upon performing the act, and that without any writ of consultation (Bac. Ab. Prohibition (F.); Treil v. Edwards, (1705) 6 Mod. 308). A writ of prohibition will be granted to a county court in any case in which it exceeds the jurisdiction given by the several statutes by which it is governed, or takes upon itself the cognizance of any action of ejectment in which the value or rent of the lands exceeds 100*l*., or of any action in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, of which the value or rent exceeds 100*l*., or to any easement or licence where the value or rent of the dominant or servient tenement exceeds 100*l*., or to any toll, fair, or market or franchise, is in question, or (except where such a case is sent for trial from the High Court) for any libel, or slander, seduction, or breach of promise of marriage. Or if a plaint be entered, under the common law jurisdiction, claiming more than 100*l*., for the whole or part of the unliquidated balance of a partnership account, or for a distributive share of personal estate under an intestacy, or of any legacy under a will, or if at the trial, after notice of objection pursuant to 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18, the judge entertains a counterclaim, not within the jurisdiction of the court, further than he is justified in doing under sects. 89 & 90 of the Judicature Act, 1873, to defeat or counterbalance the plaintiff's claim (Davis v. Flagstaff Silver Mining Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. P. C. 503); or if, in any of the special subjects of jurisdiction noticed in Part V. (e.g., the Friendly Societies Acts Hull v. M'Farlane, (1857) 2 C. B. N. S. 796; 27 L. J. C. P. 41; 109 R. R. 896), or in any equity action or matter, the court exceeds the jurisdiction which is given to it; unless the defendant has consented before plaint entered, or consents at the hearing, to give the court jurisdiction, or by neglect or waiver, as hereafter mentioned, has lost his right to obtain it, the writ of prohibition will lie.

The writ will issue also if the action be in its nature one over which the county court has jurisdiction, but the defence raises a question which it has no power to try, as where a defence raises a question of title to hereditaments of more than 100*l*. value or rent (Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 239; see Pearson v. Glazebrook, (1868) L. R. 3 Ex. 27; 37 L. J. Ex. 15). Other instances in which a writ of prohibition will be granted are pro defectu triationis; that is, the want of any means of trying, as when it is impossible to try the cause by the proper and legitimate evidence (per Lord Denman, C.J., in Winsor v. Dunford, (1848) 12 Q. B. 603, 608; 18 L. J. Q. B. 14). Taking a wrong course in trying is not, however, such a defect (per Patteson, J., in Winsor v. Dunford, supra).

Where the existence of jurisdiction in the county court depends upon the decision of a point of law going to jurisdiction, a prohibition will be issued if the county court assumes jurisdiction in consequence of a wrong decision of the point (Elston v. Rose, (1868) L. R. 4 Q. B. 4; 38 L. J. Q. B. 6; Thompson v. Ingham, (1849) 14 Q. B. 710; 19 L. J. Q. B. 189; 80 R. R. 376; Crowley v. Vitty, (1852) 7 Ex. 319; 21 L. J. Ex. 135; 86 R. R. 664). If it depends upon a question of fact, and the county court judge decides it upon evidence, the High Court will not review his decision, at any rate except upon very strong grounds (Brown v. Cocking, (1867) L. R. 3 Q. B. 672; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250; Elston v. Rose, supra). And where the question of fact upon which the jurisdiction depends is the very question at issue in the cause, the reluctance to interfere will be still stronger (Joseph v. Henry, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 369; 15 Jur. 104; Milner v. Rhoden, (1851) 15 Jur. 1037).

The distinction between the two classes of cases as to facts going to jurisdiction is thus explained by Cockburn, C.J.: "If there has been a real conflict of testimony upon some fact which goes to the question of jurisdiction, the court will not interfere except on very strong grounds. The judge has then really exercised his discretion; but where he has given himself jurisdiction by coming to an erroneous conclusion upon a point of law, the case is very different, and he is in fact without jurisdiction, and has no authority to entertain the question" (Elston v. Rose, supra). So, where a lessee for years, with a rent reserved, brought ejectment, and the annual value of the premises to let to an occupying tenant exceeded 20*l*., but the value of the plaintiff's interest, after deducting the rent paid by him, was less than 20*l*. a year, and the judge decided that the yearly value did not exceed 20*l*., and that he had, therefore, jurisdiction, the court held that the value of the tenements meant the marketable value, and not the value of the plaintiff's interest, and that the judge had assumed jurisdiction, not by deciding upon conflicting facts, but on a wrong assumption as to a point of law, and so ordered that the writ should go. "I think," said Blackburn, J., "that the judge was wrong in the conclusion at which he arrived, because he applied a wrong rule of law to the facts" (Elston v. Rose, supra). So, where the judge wrongly decided on the facts that title to land was not in question a prohibition was allowed to go (Thompson v. Ingham, supra); as it was where a judge, through the erroneous construction of a will, held that he had power to make an order on trustees to pay income to a receiver, although they had a discretion as to its application (R. v. Lincoln County Court, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 167; 57 L. J. Q. B. 136). And where, in interpleader proceedings, the particulars of the claimant were wrongfully held to be insufficient by the judge, and he refused to hear the claim, a prohibition was issued to restrain proceedings under the original judgment (Hardy v. Walker, Ex parte McFee, (1854) 9 Ex. 261; 23 L. J. Ex. 57; 96 R. R. 700). Where a judge, of his own motion, amended the plaint and reduced a claim originally in excess of the jurisdiction to an amount within the jurisdiction (Hill v. Swift, (1854) 10 Ex. 726; 24 L. J. Ex. 137; 102 R. R. 793), a prohibition issued.

The writ will issue where a judge has given leave to serve a summons on a defendant domiciled and resident in Scotland, notwithstanding that there is an alternative remedy under Order VII. r. 49, by application to the judge himself to set aside the service or discharge the order (Channel Coaling Co. v. Ross, (1907) 1 K. B. 145; 76 L. J. K. B. 145).

So a writ of prohibition will lie to prevent a person from splitting his demand and bringing several actions contrary to the provisions already noticed (ante, p. 80) (Grimbley v. Aykroyd, (1847) 1 Ex. 479; 17 L. J. Ex. 157); and to stay proceedings on a plaint entered without leave of the judge or registrar in a case where leave is required (Brown v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1863) 4 B. & S. 326; 32 L. J. Q. B. 318; 129 R. R. 766); and to restrain execution on an order for payment of costs where the court has no jurisdiction to award them (Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 1 H. & N. 621; 26 L. J. Ex. 147; 108 R. R. 749), as where under 45 & 46 Vict. c. 57, s. 5 (now 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 119), the judge ordered costs on the higher scale without certifying in writing (Howard v. Graves, (1885) 52 L. T. 858). It will lie to prevent a judge from hearing a cause in which he is interested (Ex parte Medwin, (1853) 1 E. & B. 609; 22 L. J. Q. B. 169; 93 R. R. 304); from altering or rescinding a judgment after it has been once pronounced (Jones v. Jones (3), (1848) 5 D. & L. 628, 632; 17 L. J. Q. B. 170; 79 R. R. 884, per Coleridge, J.; Irving v. Askew (2), (1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 208; 39 L. J. Q. B. 118; from entering judgment for the applicant on an application for a new trial (Robinson v. Fawcett, (1901) 2 K. B. 325; 70 L. J. K. B. 639); the same rule obtains upon an application for a new trial (G. N. Rail. Co. v. Mossop, (1856) 17 C. B. 130; 25 L. J. C. P. 22; 104 R. R. 626). It will lie to prevent a judge from proceeding with a citation to appear to answer a contempt committed out of court (R. v. Lefroy, (1873) L. R. 8 Q. B. 134; 42 L. J. Q. B. 121), and to stay proceedings on an order for commitment, where an order has been already obtained for the same debt, and is still in force (Horsnail v. Bruce, (1872) L. R. 8 C. P. 378; 42 L. J. C. P. 140), or has been executed (Evans v. Wills, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 229; 45 L. J. C. P.

420), or where the judge has for other causes no jurisdiction to make it (R. v. Brompton County Court (C. A.), (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 213; S. C., Reeve v. Fowle, 56 L. J. Q. B. 49. This case was reversed on the facts, but the proposition of law was not impeached (1887) 13 App. Cas. 20; 57 L. J. Q. B. 387). So if a judge exceeds his jurisdiction under the Friendly Societies Acts, a prohibition will lie (Hull v. M'Farlane, (1857) 2 C. B. N. S. 796: 27 L. J. C. P. 41; 109 R. R. 896; Smith v. Pryse, (1857) 7 E. & B. 339; 26 L. J. Q. B. 95; 110 R. R. 623).

A writ of prohibition may be partial, and prohibit so much of a plaint as exceeds the jurisdiction of the inferior court, allowing it to proceed as to the residue. Thus, where the cause of action disclosed by the particulars was divisible, and part had arisen within the jurisdiction of a county court and part out of the jurisdiction, the Court of Queen's Bench granted a prohibition as to the latter only (Ex parte Walsh, (1853) 1 E. & B. 383; 22 L. J. Q. B. 137; 93 R. R. 192; see also Free v. Burgoyne, (1826) 5 B. & C. 400; R. v. Westmoreland C. C., (1888) 36 W. R. 477).

In what Cases not granted.]—The court will not inquire by prohibition into the correctness of the judge's decision, where it is upon a matter clearly within his jurisdiction (Winsor v. Dunford, (1848) 12 Q. B. 603, 608; 18 L. J. Q. B. 14; Joseph v. Henry, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 369; Lexden Union v. Southgate, (1854) 10 Ex. 201; 23 L. J. Ex. 316; 102 R. R 531; Norris v. Carrington, (1864) 16 C. B. N. S. 396; 139 R. R. 543). It cannot look to see whether the decision on a question of fact going to jurisdiction was, on the balance of evidence, right or not (see per Cockburn, C.J., Brown v. Cocking, (1868) L. R. 3 Q B. 676; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250). Where the judge of a county court gave judgment for the plaintiff, notwithstanding that the defendant's plea (that judgment had already been obtained and execution executed against him in another inferior court) was admitted to be true, the superior court declined to interfere (Toft v. Rayner, (1847) 5 C. B. 162). So, where an insolvent pleaded his discharge to a judgment summons, and the judge notwithstanding made an order for payment by instalments, and afterwards for committal of the defendant, it was held to be at most an error in the exercise of the powers of the judge, and that therefore prohibition would not lie (Still v. Booth, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 440). It does not lie for receiving improper evidence (Winsor v. Dunford, (1848) 12 Q. B. 603, 611; 18 L. J. Q. B. 14), nor for the misconstruction of a statute (In re Bowen, (1851) 15 Jur. 1196), nor on the ground that a former action has been removed by certiorari and is still pending (Edwards v. Rogers, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 196; 19 L. J. Ex. 149; 86 R. R. 889). Where an action was brought for false imprisonment, but the judge in giving judgment used expressions as if he were giving damages for a malicious prosecution (not then within his jurisdiction), the court held that it was not a case for a prohibition (Chivers v. Savage, (1855) 5 E. & B. 697; 25 L. J. Q. B. 85; 103 R. R. 689).

Where a defendant was sued in the double capacity of executor and administrator, and objected that the plaintiff should elect in which capacity he would proceed against him, and the judge overruled the objection, the court, assuming the objection was right, refused a prohibition (Lexden Union v. Southgate, supra). So where, in an action of ejectment, the judge decided on conflicting evidence that the yearly value of the premises did not exceed 20*l.*, the then limit of the jurisdiction, the court refused a prohibition though there was strong evidence that the yearly value did exceed 20*l.* (Brown v. Cocking, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 672; 37 L. J. Q. B. 250). And where a defendant did not appear, and the judge held that service of the summons had been duly made, and gave judgment against the defendant in his absence, and it was afterwards discovered that service had been wrongly made, the court refused a prohibition, holding that the decision as to the service was one of fact within the judge's jurisdiction (Robinson v. Lenaghan, (1848) 2 Ex. 333; 17 L. J. Ex. 174; see also Zohrab v. Smith, (1847) 5 D. & L. 635; 17

L. J. Q. B. 174; compare Liverpool Gas Co. v. Everton, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 414).

Where a summons was issued incorrectly against the defendant as executor of A. B., instead of executor of C. D., the plaint having been entered correctly, and the judge, on its being represented that the Statute of Limitations would bar the claim if a new summons were issued, ordered a new summons to issue, bearing the date and number of the first, the court declined to interfere (Foster v. Temple, (1848) 5 D. & L. 655; 17 L. J. Q. B. 230). The writ was not allowed to go, because, under process of the court, to levy a sum within its jurisdiction, the officer seized property to a greater amount (Ex parte Summers, (1852) 2 C. L. R. 1286; 18 Jur. 522).

No prohibition will lie to the judge or to the defendant before the trial merely because the latter gives notice of a counterclaim not within the statutory jurisdiction of the court, even, it is believed, after notice of objection pursuant to 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18 (Davis v. Flagstaff Co., (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. C. P. 503).

The Application for, when made.]—A prohibition may be granted upon the request of a stranger as well as of the defendant himself, the reason being that, when an inferior court exceeds its jurisdiction, it is chargeable with a contempt of the Crown as well as a grievance to the party (Ede v. Jackson, (1720) Fortescue, 345; Wadsworth v. Queen of Spain, (1851) 17 Q. B. 171; 20 L. J. Q. B. 488; 85 R. R. 398). At whatever stage of the proceedings the defect of jurisdiction is made manifest to the court, it may grant a prohibition (Burder v. Veley (1840) 12 A. & E. 233, 263; and per Willes, J., Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 239, 279; 36 L. J. Ex. 225). Where there is a total want of jurisdiction, which is disclosed by the plaintiff's particulars, a prohibition may be obtained by the defendant before the trial (Sewell v. Jones, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 525; 19 L. J. Q. B. 372; 90 R. R. 946, per Wightman, J.; Hunt v. N. S. Rail. Co., (1857) 2 H. & N. 451; 26 L. J. Ex. 374; 115 R. R. 634). So, where the particulars showed a claim for damage to plaintiff's reversionary interest, a prohibition was granted, on the defendant showing that the title to land was bonâ fide in dispute (Sewell v. Jones, supra). And even though the court has now a limited jurisdiction in such cases, a prohibition may still be obtained before the trial, if the High Court or a judge, on the evidence used in support of the application, decides that the rent or value of the land exceeds 100*l.* a year (see Symons v. Rees, (1875) 1 Ex. D. 416; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3).

A prohibition may in certain cases be obtained after hearing and judgment. The rules now applicable are stated by Willes, J., in delivering the opinion of the judges in the House of Lords in Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 239, 282. "There is a distinction after sentence between a patent and a latent defect, for if the party below, whether plaintiff or defendant, thinks proper, instead of moving for a prohibition, to proceed to trial in the special or inferior court and is defeated, then if the defect be of power to try the particular issue only (defectus triationis as it has been called), the right to move for a prohibition is gone. If the defect be of jurisdiction over the cause (defectus jurisdictionis), and that defect be apparent upon the proceeding, a prohibition goes after sentence (see Farquharson v. Morgan (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 552; 63 L. J. Q. B. 474). If it be not apparent, but the party, instead of moving for a prohibition, pleads in the special or inferior court the facts ousting the jurisdiction, and such court improperly decides that it has jurisdiction, he may, notwithstanding such decision, upon satisfying a superior court that it was erroneous, obtain a prohibition. Where, however, the defect is not apparent, but depends upon some fact in the knowledge of the applicant which he had an opportunity of bringing forward in the court below, and he has thought proper, without excuse, to allow that court to proceed to judgment without setting up the objection, and without moving for a prohibition in the first instance, although . . . . the right to grant a prohibition in respect of the right of the Crown is not taken away, for mere acquiescence does not give jurisdiction, yet considering the conduct of the applicant, the importance of making an end of litigation, and that the writ, though of right, is not of course, the court would decline to interpose, except perhaps upon an irresistible case, and an excuse for the delay, such as disability, malpractice, or matter newly come to the knowledge of the applicant" (The Court of Appeal has after argument before the full court affirmed and adopted the opinion of Willes, J.: Broad v. Perkins (C. A.), (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 533; 57 L. J. Q. B. 638.)

Hence where there is an entire absence of jurisdiction in the county court, though not apparent on the proceedings, and the defendant takes the objection at the trial, the matter is, for the purpose of prohibition, thereby put on the same footing as if the defect had appeared on the face of the proceedings (Marsden v. Wardle, (1854) 3 E. & B. 695; 23 L. J. Q. B. 263; 97 R. R. 711; Thompson v. Ingham, (1849) 14 Q. B. 710; 19 L. J. Q. B. 189; 80 R. R. 376; Denton v. Marshall, (1863) 32 L. J. Ex. 89). It appears also that if the want of jurisdiction appears from the order made by the court, it is "a defect apparent upon the proceeding" within the rule mentioned in the above opinion of Willes, J. (R. v. Shropshire C. C., (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 242; 57 L. J. Q. B. 143). In the case last cited, the judge of one court made without jurisdiction an order on the bailiff of another court, under the enactment corresponding with sect. 49 of the County Courts Act, 1888; and it was held that prohibition would go although no formal objection to the jurisdiction had been taken at the hearing (R. v. Shropshire C. C., supra). Apparently in the opinion of the learned judges who heard the case, neither neglect to object to the jurisdiction nor acquiescence in the jurisdiction could prevent the issue of the prohibition, as the defect was apparent upon the proceedings. This view seems to accord with many cases decided before the Act of 1856, which enabled the parties to give jurisdiction by consent in a particular manner (Knowles v. Holden, (1855) 24 L. J. Ex. 223; 101 R. R. 909; Yates v. Palmer, (1849) 6 D. & L. 283, per Wightman, J.; De Haber v. Queen of Portugal, (1851) 20 L. J. Q. B. 498; 85 R. R. 398, per Lord Campbell, C.J.; Wadsworth v. Queen of Spain, (1851) 20 L. J. Q. B. 493, per Erle, J.); but the effect (if any) of those provisions and of sect. 114 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (see per Watson, B., Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 26 L. J. Ex. 148), upon the question under consideration does not appear to have been yet discussed.

The writ may issue after execution has issued and a levy has been made if no sale has taken place (Kimpton v. Willey, (1850) 9 C. B. 719; 19 L. J. C. P. 269; 82 R. R. 515; Marsden v. Wardle, (1854) 3 E. & B. 695; 23 L. J. Q. B. 263; 97 R. R. 711); but if execution has been completed by seizure and sale, and the money paid out of court, the writ cannot go, for there is nothing to prohibit, and the applicant loses the writ by his own laches (Hall v. Norwood, (1664) 1 Sid. 165; and see Denton v. Marshall, (1863) 1 H. & C. 654; 32 L. J. Ex. 89; 130 R. R. 712; Yates v. Palmer, supra). When, however, under proceedings for the recovery of small tenements, a warrant of possession was obtained in a case in which the court had no jurisdiction, and the defendant obtained a rule nisi for a prohibition the day before the execution of the warrant, the court made it absolute, with a clause of restitution, although it was not served on the plaintiff until after the execution of the warrant of possession. But the defendant's attorney had protested at the trial against the jurisdiction, and upon his expressing his intention of applying for a prohibition the judge had ordered possession in seven days instead of a month (Jones v. Owen, (1848) 5 D. & L. 669; 18 L. J. Q. B. 8; 79 R. R. 888; a nice distinction between this case and that of Denton v. Marshall was drawn by Martin and Wilde, BB., in the latter case, viz., that in it a summons to show cause only had been obtained which had no effect until returnable, whilst in the former a rule nisi had been obtained).

If an objection to the jurisdiction is taken in the inferior court, the judge ought to enter it on the proceedings, in order that the superior court may see if there is ground for prohibition (per Parke, B., in Pears v. Wilson, (1851) 20 L. J. Ex. 383; 86 R. R. 502).

Waiver.]—It has been shown that in cases where the want of jurisdiction does not appear on the face of the proceedings, the defendant may, by lying by and acquiescing in the proceedings up to judgment, lose his right to a prohibition. Thus in the case of Broad v. Perkins, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 533; 57 L. J. Q. B. 638, an action for libel was brought in the Lord Mayor's Court, and after judgment for the plaintiff, no objection to the jurisdiction having been previously made, the defendant applied for a prohibition on the ground that there was no publication within the jurisdiction. The full Court of Appeal refused the writ on the grounds stated by Willes, J. (ante, p. 144).

Where the jurisdiction of the county court depends upon the raising or not raising of some particular issue, the right to a prohibition is lost if the defendant appears before the court and abstains from raising the issue (Mayor of London v. Cox, (1867) L. R. 2 H. L. 239, 274; 36 L. J. Ex. 225; Home v. Earl Camden, (1795) 2 H. Black. 533) which would oust the jurisdiction; as, if the question of title to an office is not raised at the hearing of a plaint, but the party is taken to be duly appointed (per Erle, J., Stevenson v. Stickle, (1849) 13 Jur. 1103), or if title to corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments is admitted (Gwynne v. Knight, (1847) 1 Ex. 802; 17 L. J. Ex. 168; 74 R. R. 857). A mere irregularity in process may be similarly waived. Thus, a defendant was held to have waived any objection to the validity of an order for service of the summons out of the jurisdiction by appearing and giving notice of the Statute of Limitations (Jones v. Jones, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 257; and see per Parke, B., Knowles v. Holden, (1855) 24 L. J. Ex. 224; 101 R. R. 909).

Where a summons was issued without leave, in a case in which leave was a condition precedent to jurisdiction, and the defendant being ignorant of it appeared and raised no objection, and judgment was given against him as to part of his claim, and the case adjourned to the following day, and he then objected to the jurisdiction, it was held that he had waived the defect. The court treated it as a case of irregularity (Moore v. Gamgee, (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 244; 59 L. J. Q. B. 505).

Consent to Jurisdiction.]—In addition to the authorities cited above, showing that by waiver or acquiescence a party neglecting to raise in the county court an objection to the jurisdiction which is open to him, may lose his right to or may not be permitted to obtain a prohibition, attention may be called to the provisions of sects. 61 and 64 of the County Courts Act, 1888, enabling the parties to give jurisdiction by consent in a particular manner, and also to sect. 114 of the same Act, which provides that whenever an action or matter is commenced which the court has no jurisdiction to try, the judge must order it to be struck out unless the parties consent to the jurisdiction. The consent is not required to be in writing, and the court before granting a prohibition in such a case would doubtless inquire whether from the statements and conduct of the parties consent must be inferred (see ante, pp. 43—44, and see per Watson, B., Lawford v. Partridge, (1857) 26 L. J. Ex. 148).

In face of the decisions and statutory provisions already mentioned, it is a matter of doubt whether a prohibition would now be granted in such a case as Knowles v. Holden, supra. There the parties appeared before the judge, and consented to a reference without objecting to the want of jurisdiction, but one of them during the progress of the reference objected to the jurisdiction of the arbitrators, on the ground that title to land came in question, and the arbitrators proceeded with the reference: it was held that he was entitled to a prohibition. Section 127 Notes.

It has been held that where, on the hearing, a party objected to the jurisdiction of the county court, he did not waive his right to a writ of prohibition by obtaining from the judge a statement of a case for appeal (Jackson v. Beaumont, (1855) 11 Ex. 300: 24 L. J. Ex. 301; 105 R. R. 536).

Effect of Refusal of Writ.]—Where an application for a prohibition is made before the trial and refused, and the question upon which the jurisdiction depends is one of fact, which is decided adversely to the applicant, the refusal to grant the prohibition is a conclusive judgment as to such question of fact for the purpose of jurisdiction. So where a defendant in ejectment applied before the trial for a prohibition, on the ground that the annual value of the land to be recovered exceeded 20*l.*, and the prohibition was refused, the court upheld the decision of the county court judge rejecting evidence offered by the defendant to show for the purpose of ousting the jurisdiction, that the annual value exceeded 20*l.* (Symons v. Rees, (1875) 1 Ex. D. 416).

Practice.]—Although there is power in the judges of the Chancery Division to grant the writ, and although it could (possibly) issue out of the Petty Bag Office as before mentioned, the writ should be generally applied for to a divisional court or a judge of the King's Bench Division; and the proceedings form part of the civil proceedings on the Crown side. The application may be made during sittings or in vacation (see sect. 127).

By Rule 70 of the Crown Office Rules, 1906, an application for prohibition in civil proceedings on the Crown side shall be made by motion for an order nisi, or by summons before a judge at chambers. It may be made absolute ex parte in the first instance, on special circumstances being shown, in the discretion of the court or judge (ib., r. 71). Order LIX. r. 8A of the R. S. C., which required that the application should be made by notice of motion, and not for an order nisi, is repealed (see Crown Office Rules, 1906, r. 1). The application cannot be made to a master or district registrar (R. S. C., Order LIV. r. 12 (d); Order XXXV. r. 6). No notice of the application must be served on the judge of the county court (King v. Charing Cross Bank, (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 27; 59 L. J. Q. B. 24; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 127, 128, 129, 130).

The application should be made on affidavit, but the court or judge may, on the application of either party, order the attendance of the deponents for cross-examination (Harte v. Byrne, (1851) 1 Ir. C. L. R. 557; it is assumed that an affidavit is still necessary). The affidavits must be intituled, "In the High Court of Justice, King's Bench Division" (Cr. Off. R. 1906, r. 6; the separate Crown Office Rules as to affidavits have mostly disappeared, and by R. S. C., Order LXVIII. r. 2, and Cr. Off. R. r. 5, Order XXXVIII. of the R. S. C. as to affidavits also applies to civil proceedings on the Crown side, and the rules of that order must be followed), and not in any cause or matter. If affidavits are objected to on showing cause for a defect of this kind the court would not generally allow them to be corrected and re-sworn (Ex parte Evans, (1842) 2 Dowl. N. S. 410; R. v. Plymouth Rail. Co., (1889) 37 W. R. 334, sed quære). The affidavit must be drawn up in the first person, and divided into paragraphs, and every paragraph must be numbered consecutively, and as nearly as may be must be confined to a distinct portion of the subject. It must be written or printed bookwise (R. S. C., Order XXXVIII. r. 7). The application being, it is believed, in a sense interlocutory, the affidavit may contain statements as to the belief of the deponent as to facts deposed to, but the ground of belief must then be stated (R. S. C., Order XXXVIII. r. 3).

The affidavit must state clearly and distinctly the facts which show that the application ought to be granted, and should show affirmatively that the court has gone beyond its jurisdiction. So where the judge has jurisdiction to inquire into the objection it must be shown that it was substantiated (Kimpton v. Willey, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 280; 19 L. J. C. P. 269; 82 R. R. 515, per Wilde, C.J.; for a suggested form of affidavit, see Form I, Appendix A, post, p. 869).

Hearing.]—Except by order of a judge of the High Court, the county court judge is not required to appear or be heard on any of the proceedings, nor is he without such order liable to pay the costs of them. The application is to be proceeded with and heard as if it were an appeal (see sect. 128).

When a divisional court or a judge has refused a prohibition no other court or judge may grant it; but a second application may be made to the same court or judge on different grounds (see sect. 132).

When the writ is granted the grounds for granting it should appear in the writ (for form of prohibition, see R. S. C., Appendix J., No. 11). The whole matter is disposed of by order, and no declaration or other proceedings in prohibition allowed (see sect. 128). Costs appear to be in the discretion of the court (Wallace v. Allen, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 607; 44 L. J. C. P. 351; R. v. Justices of County of London (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 453; 63 L. J. Q. B. 148).

Appeal.]—The order of a judge granting or refusing a prohibition may be appealed against in the ordinary way, by motion within eight days (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43. s. 132; 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 50; see Annual Practice, notes to Order LIV. r. 24, R. S. C.). The appeal from a judge at chambers in prohibition proceedings is in the first instance to the divisional court (Watson v. Petts, (1899) 1 Q. B. 54 (C. A.); 67 L. J. Q. B. 971). An appeal lies from a divisional court to the Court of Appeal (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 132; 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 19; The Recepta (C. A.), (1893) P. 255; Davis v. Flaystaff Co., (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 62 L. J. P. 118; 47 L. J. C. P. 503). The practice is regulated by Order LVIII., R. S. C. (see Cr. Off. Rules, r. 206). No leave is requisite, even since the Act of 1888 (Lister v. Wood (C. A.), (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 229; 37 W. R. 738). From the Court of Appeal an appeal lies to the House of Lords (39 & 40 Vict. c. 59, s. 3). As to practice, see Annual Practice, notes to Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876, s. 3.

Setting aside Writ.]—A writ of prohibition issued out of the Petty Bag Office in vacation on an ex parte affidavit, disclosing no sufficient ground of prohibition, could be set aside on motion in a divisional court or by a judge at chambers. It is no answer to such an application, that the solicitor of the applicant has not entered his name and address in a book at the Petty Bag Office as required by the 12 & 13 Vict. c. 109, s. 44. But a prohibition issued out of the Petty Bag Office, which upon its face appears to be regular, and which contains a good ground for prohibition, could not be set aside though issued ex parte.

The last part of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 22, enabling the court to set aside the writ, is not re-enacted in 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 127; the intention apparently being to require a dissatisfied party to appeal, not to apply to set aside the writ.

Effect of, on Proceedings in County Court.]—The granting of an order nisi or summons for a prohibition will, if the court or a judge so direct, operate as a stay of proceedings in the action or matter until the determination of the order or summons, or until the court or judge otherwise orders, and the judge of the county court must adjourn the trial. If, however, a copy of the order or summons is not served by the party who obtained it on the opposite party, and on the registrar of the county court, two clear days before the day fixed for the trial, the judge of the county court may order the party who obtained it to pay the costs of the day or part of them, unless the High Court or judge has made some order respecting them (see sect. 129).

Where a writ of prohibition has been granted ex parte, and the party who obtained it does not lodge it with the registrar, and give notice to the opposite party that it has issued two clear days before the return day, the judge of the county court may order him to pay the costs of the day or part of them; unless the High Court or judge has made some order respecting them (see sect. 130).

Section 127 Notes.

Vexatious Actions Act, 1896.]—Though not strictly prohibition, the Vexatious Actions Act, 1896 (59 & 60 Vict. c. 51), may here be noticed. This Act provides that if the Attorney-General satisfies the High Court that any person has habitually and persistently instituted vexatious legal proceedings without any reasonable ground, whether in the High Court or in an inferior court, and whether against the same or different persons, the High Court may, after hearing such person or giving him an opportunity of being heard, and after assigning counsel if through poverty the person is unable to retain counsel, order that no legal proceedings shall be instituted by that person in the High Court or any other court without leave of the High Court or a judge thereof. The order is to be published in the London Gazette. The Act has no application to criminal proceedings (In re Boaler, (1914) 1 K. B. 122; 83 L. J. K. B. 139; affirmed on appeal, (1914) 83 L. J. K. B. 1629).

128. When an application shall be made to the High Court or a judge thereof for a writ of prohibition addressed to any court, the matter shall be finally disposed of by order, and no declaration or further proceedings in prohibition shall be allowed. Upon any such application the judge of the court shall not be served with notice thereof, and shall not, except by the order of a judge of the High Court, be required to appear or be heard thereon, and shall not, except by such order, be liable to any order for the payment of the costs thereof; but the application shall be proceeded with and heard in the same manner in all respects as any case of an appeal duly brought from a decision of a judge; and notice thereof shall be given to or served upon the same parties as in any case of an order made or refused by a judge in a matter within his jurisdiction, as the case may be.

Prohibition finally disposed of by order. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 42.

129. The grant by the High Court, or by any judge thereof, of an order or summons to show cause why a writ of certiorari or prohibition should not issue to any court shall, if the High Court or a judge thereof so direct, operate as a stay of proceedings in the action or matter to which the same shall relate, until the determination of an order or summons, or until such High Court or judge thereof shall otherwise order; and the judge shall from time to time adjourn the trial of such action or matter to such day as he shall think fit, until such determination, or until such order be made; but if a copy of such order or summons shall not be served by the party who obtained it on the opposite party and on the registrar two clear days before the day fixed for the trial of the action or matter, the judge may, in his discretion, order the party who obtained the order or summons to pay all the costs of the day, or so much thereof as he may think fit, unless the High Court or a judge thereof shall have made some order respecting such costs.

Costs of certiorari or prohibition if not sent to registrar. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 41

130. Where a writ of certiorari or of prohibition to a court shall have been granted by the High Court or a judge thereof on an ex parte application, and the party who obtained it shall not lodge it with the registrar, and give notice to the opposite party that it has issued, two clear days before the day fixed for the trial of the action or matter to which it shall relate, the judge may, in his discretion, order the party who obtained the writ to pay all the costs of the day, or so much thereof as he shall think fit, unless the High Court or a judge thereof shall have made some order respecting such costs.

Order in lieu of mandamus. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 43. 21 & 22 Vict. c. 74, s. 4.

131. No writ of mandamus shall issue to a judge or an officer of the court for refusing to do any act relating to the duties of his office, but any party requiring such act to be done may apply to the High Court, upon an affidavit of the facts, for an order or summons calling upon such judge or officer of the court, and also the party to be affected by such act, to show cause why such act should not be done; and if after the service of such order or summons good cause shall not be shown, the High Court may, by order, direct the act to be done, and the judge or officer of the court, upon being served with such order, shall obey the same on pain of attachment; and, in any event, the High Court may make such order with respect to costs as to it shall seem fit.

The proceedings by means of which the judge or the officers of a county court may be compelled to exercise their jurisdiction will now be explained. The common law remedy was by writ of mandamus, issued from the Court of King's Bench, ordering the performance of the neglected duty; but, so far as it applied to any judge or officer of a county court, a simpler proceeding by order has been substituted (sect. 131). The same principles, however, which governed the grant of a mandamus govern the grant of the order (Irving v. Askew (1), (1869) 20 L. T. 584). Still it would doubtless be granted to compel a judge to hear a plaint entered under the jurisdiction given to him in certain equity matters.

In considering the question whether the order will lie, the following considerations, applicable to the grant of a mandamus at common law, are, it is conceived, equally applicable to the grant of the order:—

1. The writ is a high prerogative writ, and is not granted of right, ex debito justitiæ: see Tapping on Mandamus, p. 4, and see note (a): "By the term 'prerogative writ' is meant either firstly, that the power to award it is not delegated by the Crown to the ordinary judges between party and party —that is, the justices of Common Bench — but is reserved for that court in which the Queen is supposed to be personally present; or, secondly, that such a writ is one of grace and favour granted according to discretion upon probable cause shown, and not a writ of right; that is, not such a writ as the subject has a right to call upon the court to issue under the clause of Magna Charta, by which the Queen is bound not to refuse or delay justice or right."

Section 131 Notes.

So, although the court will generally grant the order where there is a good ground for its interference, it will, nevertheless, exercise a discretion, and if the circumstances are such as to show a kind of equitable reason why the order should not go, it will refuse it. So, where a judge acted under a particular impression as to a point of law, in a case involving a small amount, and the effect of granting a rule would have been to give the party moving an indirect appeal, when the statute had forbidden a direct one, the rule was refused (Brown v. Taylor, (1868) 18 L. T. 657; see Sharrock v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1876) 1 C. P. D. 70; Clarke v. Roche (3), (1877) 36 L. T. 727). So, where a motion by way of appeal was refused, on the ground that the point relied on had not been made at the trial in such a way as to cause the judge to make a note of it, and the appellant afterwards applied for a rule to the judge to state a case, the court refused it (Rhodes v. Liverpool Investment Co., (1879) 4 C. P. D. 425). The effect of their granting it would, in fact, have been to give two appeals instead of one. And the court will not compel a judge or officer to do that which might bring him in peril of an action (see per Lord Campbell, C.J., R. v. Dowling, (1853) 2 E. & B. 196, 204; 22 L. J. Ch. 295). And it seems that the order will not be granted to compel an act to be done under circumstances in which prohibition would lie (Brown v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1863) 32 L. J. Q. B. 318, 319, per Blackburn, J.). Nor will the order be granted unless applied for in a reasonable time; where more than twelve months had elapsed, the court refused a rule (Coke v. Jones, (1861) 4 L. T. 306; 9 W. R. 618).

2. Two circumstances must concur to justify the grant of the order—viz., a specific legal right to the performance of the act required to be done, and the absence of an effectual remedy (Com. Dig., Mandamus A; R. v. Windham, (1776) 1 Cowp. 377, per Lord Mansfield, C.J.; R. v. Bristol Dock Co., (1810) 12 East, 429; 11 R. R. 440; R. v. Nottingham Water Co., (1837) 6 A. & E. 355; 6 L. J. (N. S.) K. B. 89; 45 R. R. 484; R. v. Garland, (1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 269, 272; 39 L. J. Q. B. 86).

Thus the courts have always refused to issue a mandamus where the ordinary remedy by action at law was adequate to enforce the legal right in question, though it was sometimes granted where an indictment might have been preferred, the test being whether mandamus or indictment was the more effectual remedy (R. v. Hull Rail. Co., (1844) 6 Q. B. 70; 13 L. J. Q. B. 257; R. v. Hopkins, (1841) 1 Q. B. 161, 168; 10 L. J. Q. B. 63; 55 R. R. 235; R. v. Severn Rail. Co., (1819) 2 B. & A. 646; 21 R. R. 433; Ex parte Robins, (1839) 3 Jur. 103; 54 R. R. 859). Nor was the writ granted where a statute prescribed another particular remedy for the non-performance of the act sought to be performed (Stevens v. Evans, (1761) Burr. 1157, per Dennison, J.; R. v. Margate Pier Co., (1819) 3 B. & A. 220; 22 R. R. 356; R. v. Reg. of Joint Stock Cos., (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 131; 57 L. J. Q. B. 433).

Hence it is apprehended that the order will be granted to the judge or officer of a county court to compel him to perform any act to which the person seeking the remedy is clearly by law entitled; but it is open to doubt whether, in those cases in which a particular remedy has been specified for neglect to do a particular act, the order will be granted. Thus particular provisions are made in case of the neglect of the bailiff of a foreign district to make a return to a summons sent to him for service, and of the neglect of a bailiff to levy execution. In such cases it is believed that the court would not grant the order, unless it could be shown that the applicant would not obtain an equivalent by the process specified. It will, however, lie to compel the judge to hear and determine an action to recover from a bailiff who has distrained for poor rates so much of his charge as is unreasonable, the remedy of the person aggrieved not being confined to an application to justices under sect. 2 of the Distress (Costs) Act, 1817 (R. v. Philbrick, (1905) 2 K. B. 108; 74 L. J. K. B. 464).

The court will not grant the order to compel a judge to hear a plaint over which he has no jurisdiction (Brown v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., (1863) 32 L. J. Q. B. 318; Ex parte Payne, (1849) 5 D. & L. 679; 18 L. J. Q. B. 197; 79 R. R. 892), nor will it interfere in a matter clearly within his discretion, if he has really exercised it (Clifton v. Furley, (1861) 7 H. & N. 783; 31 L. J. Ex. 170; 126 R. R. 703); but if he has acted in accordance with a general rule, made for the guidance of himself and his officers, and has not exercised his discretion otherwise than by applying that general rule, an order will lie (R. v. Marylebone C. C., (1890) 34 S. J. 459). Where there is a clear right to the performance of an act the order will go, although the judge or officer has acted under a mistake of law, or a misapprehension of his duty; e.g., to compel a registrar to issue a summons under the "Bills of Exchange Act" (R. v. Southampton C. C. (2), (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 706; Holborow v. Jones, (1869) per Smith, J., L. R. 4 C. P. 14; 38 L. J. C. P. 22), and to issue execution under a judgment (R. v. Fletcher, (1853) 2 E. & B. 279; 21 L. J. Q. B. 310; 95 R. R. 544; S. C., R. v. Surrey C. C., 21 L. J. Q. B. 310). Where a judge wrongly decides a preliminary question, and refuses to go into the merits, the order will be granted; as in interpleader issues which he refuses to hear, upon the erroneous ground that the particulars are insufficient (R. v. Richards, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 263; 20 L. J. Q. B. 351; 86 R. R. 898; Churchward v. Coleman, (1866) L. R. 2 Q. B. 18; 36 L. J. Q. B. 57; see also R. v. Southampton C. C., (1891) 65 L. T. 320).

The order will lie to compel a judge to hear a cause sent for trial from the High Court (Blades v. Lawrence, (1874) L. R. 9 Q. B. 374; 43 L. J. Q. B. 133), and to try a cause by jury where there is a right to a jury, and due notice for it has been given (R. v. Harwood, (1853) 1 B. C. C. 144; 22 L. J. Q. B. 127; 94 R. R. 860). Where a judge refused to receive the verdict of a jury, a rule was granted to show cause why the verdict should not be received and entered (Jardine v. Smith, (1860) 8 W. R. 464).

Where, during the hearing of an action of trespass, the parties agreed to withdraw a juror, and to abide by the decision of the judge after viewing the premises, and before the judge delivered his decision the defendant withdrew his consent, a rule was granted ordering the judge to appoint a day for the rehearing of the cause, on the ground that the repudiation of the defendant was a repudiation of the whole agreement, and that the cause must be heard de novo (Norburn v. Hilliam, (1869) L. R. 5 C. P. 129; 39 L. J. C. P. 183).

3. Though the writ will lie where that has not been done which a statute orders to be done, it will not be granted for the purpose of undoing what has been done (per Lord Campbell, C.J., Ex parte Nash, (1850) 15 Q. B. 92, 95; 19 L. J. Q. B. 296, 297; 81 R. R. 520); so it will not lie where an inferior court has decided in a particular case unjustly or improperly (R. v. Justices of Worcestershire, (1854) 3 E. & B. 477; 23 L. J. M. C. 113; 97 R. R. 607; Sturgis v. Joy, (1853) 2 E. & B. 739, 740).

If the judge of a county court abstains from entering upon the merits of a case, in consequence of wrongly deciding a preliminary point upon which his jurisdiction depends, he may be set right, as has been already shown above, by an order to hear the case; but if he enters upon the hearing of a case, and decides it, however erroneously, the order will not be granted (see per Coleridge, J., R. v. Richards, (1851) 20 L. J. Q. B. 352; 86 R. R. 898; and per Erle, J., Ex parte Milner, (1851) 15 Jur. 1037). He is then functus officio; and the remedy for his error is by appeal, or in some cases by prohibition. Where an insolvent (before the late Bankruptcy Acts) filed a petition in a county court, and obtained an order for protection until his last examination, and afterwards applied to withdraw the petition, but the judge refused to allow him to do so, and adjourned the examination sine die, the court held that it had no power to compel him by rule to remove the petition from the file, or dismiss it, or name a day for the examination (In re Corbett, (1859) 4 H. & N. 452; 28 L. J. Ex. 254; 118 R. R. 549). Where a judge refused to hear witnesses tendered by the plaintiff, and he in consequence elected to be nonsuited, the court refused the rule, holding that whilst the nonsuit stood it left the judge no case on which he could be compelled to act (Fortescue v. Paton, (1860) 3 L. T. 268). So, where a judge, after hearing the plaintiff's case, and during the examination of the defendant's witnesses, discharged the jury, and directed a nonsuit to be entered, the court, regretting they had not the power, held that they could not grant the rule (Kershaw v. Chantler, (1868) 26 L. T. 474). So a rule was refused to order a judge to review a taxation of costs, the court holding that it was within the judge's discretion, and could not be reviewed by rule (Clifton v. Furley, (1861) 7 H. & N. 783; 31 L. J. Ex. 170; 126 R. R. 703). The decision may also be supported as being within the principle of the present rule, the refusal of the order to review being a decision upon the whole matter before the judge.

4. A mandamus is never granted unless there has been a distinct demand for the performance of that which it is the object of the mandamus to enforce, and a direct refusal, either in terms or by circumstances which show an intention to withhold from doing the act required (R. v. Bristol Rail. Co., (1843) 4 Q. B. 162; 12 L. J. Q. B. 106; R. v. Brecknock Co., (1835) 3 A. & E. 217; 4 L. J. M. C. 105).

Hence, if the judge or officer of a county court absolutely refuses to do the duty to the performance of which the applicant is entitled, the court will grant the order (Ex parte Furber, (1858) 3 H. & N. 521; 27 L. J. Ex. 453; 117 R. R. 836); but a mere qualified and temporary refusal, as by suggesting an adjournment with a view to an arrangement, is an insufficient refusal (Irving v. Askew (1), (1869) 20 L. T. 584); so is an offer by the judge to deal with the case, though not in the form desired by the plaintiff (Reg. v. Pontypool C. C. Judge, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 702).

5. The remedy by mandamus cannot be extended to cases to which it does not by law extend, though the parties waive the objection (see per Lord Campbell, C.J., R. v. Lords of Treasury, (1851) 16 Q. B. 357, 359; 20 L. J. Q. B. 305; 83 R. R. 495).

Practice.]—The application for an order in the nature of a mandamus to a county court judge must be by ex parte motion for an order nisi (Cr. Off. Rules, 1906, rr. 49, 69) on affidavit of the facts (see sect. 131). The judge of the City of London court is not exempt from these provisions (Blades v. Lawrence, (1874) L. R. 9 Q. B. 374; 43 L. J. Q. B. 133). Where the act to be done is not within the judge's "ordinary jurisdiction," it has been held that a mandamus is the proper remedy, not an order, under these provisions; as when by an Act of Parliament the judge was appointed to decide certain disputes, and he refused to do so (Re Brighton Sewers Act, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 723).

The order is applied for during the sittings in a divisional court of the King's Bench Division, by motion for a rule nisi, and in the vacation where urgent by summons to a judge in chambers to show cause, and the proceedings are on the Crown side (see Cr. Off. Rules, rr. 49, 69). The order cannot be granted out of vacation by a single judge whether sitting in court or at chambers (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 131; see Clarke v. Roche (1), (1877) 35 L. T. 705; 25 W. R. 309). The application should be made in a reasonable time. When more than twelve months had elapsed the court refused a rule (Coke v. Jones, (1861) 4 L. T. 306; 9 W. R. 618).

Affidavit.]—The affidavit upon which the order is moved should be intituled "In the High Court of Justice, King's Bench Division" (Cr. Off. Rules, r. 6, which see (with R. S. C., Order XXXVIII.) as to affidavits, and see ante, p. 147), but not in any action or matter. It should state such facts as show that the order ought to be granted; and, possibly, should also state, in compliance with Rule 65 of the Crown Office Rules, that the motion is made at the deponent's instance "as prosecutor" (see Ex parte Young, (1892) 37 S. J. 67). The order is not absolute in the first instance: It should call on the judge or officer of the county court, and the party affected to show cause. It should be served on the parties called on to show cause (see sect. 131). The party showing cause must take an office copy of the order and the affidavits on which it was moved, otherwise he cannot be heard. The affidavits used in showing cause should be intituled in the manner above described (Cr. Off. Rules, r. 6).

The want of the affidavit on the application for the order is an irregularity only; and it is too late for a judge, who fails to attend the argument, after the order has been made absolute and served, to object to the irregularity (Ex parte Furber, (1858) 3 H. & N. 521; 27 L. J. Ex. 453; 117 R. R. 836).

Costs.]—Where the order is granted to correct the decision of the judge upon some preliminary matter, the courts differed as to their power to reverse the order of the county court as to costs, the Exchequer having held that they could deal with them (Whitehead v. Proctor, (1858) 3 H. & N. 532; 117 R. R. 843), the Queen's Bench that they could not (Churchward v. Coleman, (1866) L. R. 2 Q. B. 18; 36 L. J. Q. B. 57). The costs of the order are in the discretion of the court, and may be granted to the applicant if the court thinks fit, though not asked for in the order (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 131; Norburn v. Hilliam, (1869) L. R. 5 C. P. 129; 39 L. J. C. P. 183). No order as to costs can be made if the application for the order be made to a court or judge having no jurisdiction to grant it (Brown v. Shaw, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 425). See further Cr. Off. Rules, rr. 66, 67.

Appeal.]—An appeal lies to the Court of Appeal under 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 19 (Sharrock v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1876) 1 C. P. D. 70; Morgan v. Rees (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 508; 50 L. J. Q. B. 491; Clarke v. Roche (3), (1877) 36 L. T. 727; as to the practice, see Annual Practice, notes to Order LVIII. r. 1, R. S. C.). Where a party had failed to pay costs which he had been ordered to pay, the Court of Appeal ordered an appeal to be stayed until security for costs had been given (Clarke v. Roche (2), (1877); 46 L. J. Ch. 372; 36 L. T. 78).

An appeal lies from the Court of Appeal to the House of Lords (39 & 40 Vict. c. 59, s. 3; as to the practice, see Annual Practice, notes to Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876, s. 3).

How Order enforced.]—If the order be made absolute, it should be drawn up and served. If not obeyed, it is enforced by attachment (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 131; Ex parte Furber, (1858) 3 H. & N. 521).

Attachment for Contempt of Court generally.—A trustee cannot be attached unless the money ordered to be paid has at some time been in his possession or control (Middleton v. Chichester, (1871) L. R. 6 Ch. 152; 40 L. J. Ch. 237); so if ordered to pay the difference between the value of securities sold by him and their market value he is not liable to attachment in case of default (Re Walker, (1891) 60 L. J. Ch. 25). If an ordinary common law judgment be obtained for misapplied trust moneys, and execution be levied, no order to attach can be made, even if the amount recovered be insufficient to satisfy the judgment (Drewitt v. Edwards (C. A.), (1877) 26 W. R. 122).

An order can be made against a trustee even if between the date of the order to pay and the date of the application to attach a receiving order is made against him (Re Edye, (1891) 39 W. R. 198; 63 L. T. 762; Re Smith (C. A.), (1893) 2 Ch. 1; 62 L. J. Ch. 336).

The person in default is liable to attachment, even though his official position may be at an end, when the order to pay is made (Re Strong (C. A.), (1886) 32 Ch. D. 342; 55 L. J. Ch. 553; Re Gent, (1889) 40 Ch. D. 190; 58 L. J. Ch. 162).

Under the second class of cases above mentioned it was held that default by a solicitor to pay the costs of an order to deliver up certain documents and to pay costs rendered the solicitor liable to attachment (In re Freston (C. A.), (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 545; 52 L. J. Q. B. 545); but where an order had been made against a solicitor for delivery and taxation of his bill of costs, and he unsuccessfully appealed, and was ordered to pay the costs of appeal, it was held that default in payment of such costs did not render him liable to attachment (In re Hope, (1872) L. R. 7 Ch. 523; 20 W. R. 694). He may be attached even if he has become bankrupt (Re Edye, (1891) 39 W. R. 198).

An interlocutory order for payment of money into court may, if the case be within sect. 4 of the Debtors Act, be enforced by attachment before the trial (Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. (1877) 29 (M. R.)), subject, however, to the provisions of the 41 & 42 Vict. c. 54, s. 1, above mentioned.

Practice.]—To found an application for an attachment it is essential that a sealed copy of the order which gives rise to the application should first have been duly served (Order XXV. r. 58), and even after such service the attachment can be obtained by express order of the court only (Abud v. Riches (M. R.), (1870) 2 Ch. D. 528; 45 L. J. Ch. 649). The order requiring the act to be done must state the time, or the time after its service, within which the act is to be done (Order XXIII. r. 9).

The order sought to be enforced, if final, having been settled by the registrar and sealed and filed (Order XXIII. r. 4), or, if interlocutory, sealed and filed by the registrar (Order XII. r. 8) as already described, the party entitled to the benefit of it must apply to the registrar. The registrar must then issue for service to the bailiff a sealed copy of the order, indorsed with a notice in the prescribed form (Form 346). The copy and notice may, if the party desires it, by leave of the registrar, be issued for service to the solicitor of the party entitled, and may then be served by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Order VII. r. 33 (Order XXV. r. 58). When so issued for service to a solicitor it seems that he ought to make all necessary copies, and present them to be sealed to the registrar (Order LIV. r. 5). It is not clear whether the costs of service by solicitor will be allowed.

If no order to serve by solicitor be made, service must be by bailiff. Service must in all cases be personal, unless the judge makes an order for substituted service pursuant to Order VII. r. 40 (Order XXV. r. 58).

If the person bound by the order fails to obey it, application may be made to the registrar, not less than three days after service of the copy order and notice, or by leave of the judge at an earlier period, and the registrar must then issue for service a notice under the seal of the court (Form 347) requiring the person who has failed to obey the order to appear on a day named therein to show cause why he should not be committed for his contempt. This notice must be served personally, or under an order for substituted service in the same manner as the order and notice (Order XXV. r. 59).

On the day named in the notice, the judge, on proof of service of the copy order duly indorsed and of the notice mentioned in the last paragraph, and of the disobedience of the person in default, may order (Form 348) a warrant of attachment to issue, unconditionally or on terms. He may also make such order as to costs as he thinks fit. The warrant will then issue without further notice, but the order of the judge must be drawn up and a sealed copy served before or at the time of execution, unless the judge otherwise orders. No proof of service of the copy order or notice will be necessary if the party appears (Order XXV. rr. 60, 61; Form 349; as to the prison, see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 163).

The order must set out the particular ground of committal, in order that the person committed may know exactly what he ought to do to purge his contempt (R. v. Lambeth C. C. (2), (1887) 36 W. R. 475). The warrant authorizes the high bailiff to take the body of the person in default, and all constables and peace officers in their jurisdiction must aid in its execution, and the governor of the prison must receive and keep such prisoner until duly discharged (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161).

Discharge from Custody.]—A person who has purged his contempt may apply to the registrar to be discharged, unless in the order for his committal it is directed that the application shall be made to the judge. He must give two clear days' notice to the other party of his intention to make the application, and must file an affidavit showing that he has cleared or is desirous of clearing his contempt (Order XXV. r. 63 ; Form 350). If application to the judge was directed, it must be made accordingly, the same practice being followed. The judge may hear the application at any place which he may appoint (Order XXV. r. 62 ; Form 351). On the return, the judge or registrar, as the case may be, can now, by virtue of the 41 & 42 Vict. c. 54, s. 1, in case of failure to purge the contempt by paying money, inquire into the case, and exercise a judicial discretion in deciding whether or not the prisoner should be kept in custody. This was not the case before the Act just cited (Ransom v. Boyd, (1877) W. N. 236). In other cases of contempt not purged the discharge cannot generally be granted. An appeal would possibly lie from the registrar to the judge. If the judge or registrar declined to hear the application, an order in the nature of a mandamus would lie (ante, p. 150) ; but if the case were decided on the merits and the discharge refused, there would appear to be no remedy except perhaps by habeas corpus from the High Court.

Injunctions (see post, p. 511).]—The remedy for breach of an injunction, whether final or interlocutory, is in the High Court by attachment or sequestration (see Spokes v. Banbury Board, (1865) L. R. 1 Eq. 42; 35 L. J. Ch. 105) ; but although there seems to be no reason why a county court judge should not have jurisdiction to order a writ of sequestration, no provision has been made for it by the rules. The power of the county court judges to attach has been confirmed by express decision (Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491; 48 L. J. Q. B. 676).

Mandamus (see ante, p. 150).]—Final and interlocutory orders of mandamus may, it is conceived, so long as they are not orders to pay money within the provisions of the Debtors Acts, be enforced by attachment.

Receivers (see post, p. 464).]—A receiver is, from his position as a quasi-officer of the court, directly under its control, and is, for the purpose of orders for payment of money, treated as a person in a fiduciary position (Sprunt v. Pugh (M. R.), (1878) 7 Ch. D. 567). Obedience to the orders of the court, subject to the Debtors Acts, may be enforced by attachment.

No judge to grant writ or order once refused.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 44.

132. When the High Court or a judge thereof shall have refused to grant a writ of certiorari or prohibition to a court, or any such order as in the last preceding section mentioned, no other court or judge shall grant such writ or order ; but nothing herein shall affect the right of appealing from the decision of the judge of the High Court to the High Court itself, or prevent a second application being made for such writ or order to the High Court or a judge thereof on grounds different from those on which the first application was founded.

Second Application.]—When application for the order has been made, and refused, a second application may be made on grounds different from those on which the first application was founded (supra).

This section only applies to proceedings in the High Court, and prevents an application to another judge of the High Court or to another divisional court, when the first judge, or divisional court, has refused to grant the writ ; it does not forbid an appeal to the Court of Appeal from the refusal of the High Court to grant a writ of prohibition (The Recepta, (1893) P. 255 ; 62 L. J. P. 118).

PART VI.

REPLEVIN; RECOVERY OF TENEMENTS.

Section 133.

Actions of replevin may be brought by plaint.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, ss. 119, 120.

133. All actions of replevin which shall be brought in the court shall be brought by plaint, and in every such action the plaint shall be entered in the court of the district where the goods were seized.

Nature of Action.]—Replevin is a re-delivery to the owner of cattle or goods which have been wrongfully distrained or taken from him, upon surety that he will pursue an action against him who distrained (Co. Lit. 145, b; Bac. Ab. "Replevin").

It lies in nearly every case of an alleged wrongful taking of cattle and goods (Com. Dig. "Replevin"; George v. Chambers, (1843) 11 M. & W. 149; 12 L. J. M. C. 94; 63 R. R. 554; Allen v. Sharp, (1848) 2 Exch. 352; 17 L. J. Ex. 209; 76 R. R. 621; Mellor v. Leather, (1853) 1 E. & B. 619; 22 L. J. M. C. 76; 93 R. R. 310). The taking is essential in replevin. Although trover or detinue will lie for the wrongful withholding of goods after a demand by the owner, replevin will not lie in such a case (Mennie v. Blake, (1856) 6 E. & B. 842; 25 L. J. Q. B. 399; 106 R. R. 822; see as to remedies for wrongful distress, p. 928); but proceedings in the county court under the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, could formerly be had only in the two most ordinary cases; viz., of distress for rent and damage feasant. Now, however, the court has jurisdiction in all cases of replevin (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 134; 23 & 24 Vict. c. 126, s. 22). The court has jurisdiction, no matter what question of title is raised, unless the steps for removal of the plaint by certiorari, noticed presently, have been taken (R. v. Raines, (1853) 11 E. & B. 855; 22 L. J. Q. B. 223; 93 R. R. 442; Fordham v. Akers, (1864) 34 B. & S. 578; 33 L. J. Q. B. 67 129 R. R. 860).

Registrar to grant replevins.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 64.

134. The sheriff shall have no powers and responsibilities with respect to replevin bonds and replevins; but the registrar of the court of the district in which any goods subject to replevin shall be taken, shall be empowered, subject to the regulations hereinafter contained, to approve of replevin bonds, and to grant replevins, and to issue all necessary process in relation thereto, and such process shall be executed by the bailiff. Such registrar shall, at the instance of the party whose goods shall have been seized, cause the same to be replevied to such party, on his giving one or other of such securities as are mentioned in the next two succeeding sections.

Proceedings before Plaint.]—Formerly the sheriff was the proper officer to re-deliver goods sought to be replevied, and he, upon complaint made to him, was bound to replevy without writ (Stat. Marlebridge; 2 Inst. 139).

The registrar of the county court of the district in which any distress subject to replevin may be taken must now approve of replevin bonds, grant replevins, and issue all necessary process in relation to them; and the process must be executed by the bailiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 134; 23 & 24 Vict. c. 126, s. 22).

No ill consequences will arise to the registrar upon granting a replevin where the goods are not replevisable, except where the goods are distrained under a judgment of a court or a conviction before justices, in which cases the registrar would be liable to an attachment (Bull. N. P. c. 4, p. 53).

Section 134 Notes.

The person whose goods have been seized, in order to recover them, is bound to give security for the due prosecution of an action of replevin against the person who has distrained. The security may be by deposit of money or by bond (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 108, 109; Forms 287, 288); and upon the security being completed, the goods will be restored to the claimant. To effect this purpose, immediately after the distress has been put in, or at the latest, before sale, the claimant must give notice of his intention to replevy to the registrar of the county court of the district in which the cattle or goods have been seized. He must also state whether the action of replevin is to be commenced in a county or in the High Court, and must name the persons whom he proposes as his sureties (see Form 235), if he intends to give a bond, or state his willingness to deposit money, if he intends to give security in that way. The registrar then gives notice to the seizor (Form 286; replevin bonds now require to be stamped, as the exemption from duty is not continued by the Stamp Act, 1891). On the day named by the registrar in the notice, the security will be completed. The security thus required by bond or deposit will be for such an amount as the registrar may deem sufficient to cover the alleged rent or damage in respect of which the distress has been made, or if the goods have been seized otherwise than under a distress the value of the goods, and the probable costs of the action of replevin (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 135, 136).

If the plaintiff elect to sue in a county court, the condition of the bond or deposit will be to commence an action of replevin against the seizor in the county court of the above-named district within one month from the date of the security, and to prosecute such action with effect and without delay, and to make a return of the goods, if a return should be adjudged (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 136; Form 288).

If the plaintiff elect to sue in the High Court the condition will be to commence an action in the High Court within one week from the date of the security, and to prosecute such action with effect and without delay, and, unless judgment be obtained by default, to prove that he had good ground for believing that the title to some corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, the yearly rent or value of which exceeded 20*l.*, or to some toll, market, fair, or franchise was in question, or that such rent or damage or the value of the goods seized exceeded 20*l.*, and to make a return of the goods, if a return should be adjudged (see sect. 135; Form 287).

When the security has been completed, the registrar issues his warrant (see sect. 134; Form 289) to the high bailiff, directing him to replevy and deliver the goods to the claimant (called the replevisor), and the bailiff then delivers up the goods, and makes a return accordingly.

Security.]—The general provisions in regard to the giving of security in county courts have already been explained; and it is conceived that the duty and responsibility of the registrar in regard to the taking of sufficient security is the same in regard to replevins as in other cases—i.e., he must exercise "proper and vigilant discretion" (see the judgments in Young v. Brompton Waterworks Co., (1862) 1 B. & S. 675; 31 L. J. Q. B. 14), but must not be held to warrant the sufficiency of the sureties. In other words, it is believed that the registrar could only be held responsible in damages for injury sustained by the party for whose benefit the security was taken, if he performed his duty negligently, and that negligence caused the damage (the sheriff was formerly under a heavier responsibility, but later cases seem to show that he is only bound to exercise reasonable diligence; see Hindle v. Blades, (1813) 5 Taunt. 225; Sutton v. Waite, (1823) 8 Moore, 27; Scott v. Waithman, (1822) 3 Stark. 168; Plumer v. Briscoe, (1847) 11 Q. B. 46; 17 L. J. Q. B. 158; Jeffery v. Bastard, (1836) 4 A. & E. 823).

The condition to prosecute the action with effect is not satisfied if the plaintiff in replevin fails in his suit (Tunnicliffe v. Wilmot, (1847) 2 C. & K. 626; Tummons v. Ogle, (1856) 6 E. & B. 571; 25 L. J. Q. B. 403; 106 R. R. 714); he must prosecute his action "to a not unsuccessful determination" (Jackson v. Hanson, (1841) 8 M. & W. 477, 487; 10 L. J. Ex. 396; Perreau v. Bevan, (1826) 5 B. & C. 284; 4 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 177). The condition to prosecute without delay is satisfied if a suit is commenced and carried regularly forward, according to the ordinary practice of the court (Morris v. Matthews, (1841) 2 Q. B. 293; 11 L. J. Q. B. 57), but want of due diligence may, if the defendant in replevin is prejudiced by the delay, constitute a breach of the condition (Gent v. Cutts, (1848) 11 Q. B. 288: 17 L. J. Q. B. 55; 75 R. R. 390; Harrison v. Wardle, (1833) 5 B. & Ad. 146). Where a replevisor had permitted two years to elapse without taking any steps in the replevin suit, it was held that the bond was forfeited, and that the obligee might recover, although he had not signed judgment of non pros. (Axford v. Perrett, (1828) 4 Bing. 586; 6 L. J. (O. S.) C. P. 116). If the plaintiff in replevin be hindered from prosecuting the suit with effect by the default of the defendant in replevin, the court will prevent the latter from proceeding on the bond (Evans v. Bowen, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 8).

Proceedings in Replevin.]—After the security has been completed and the goods replevied, the replevisor must proceed with his action of replevin either in a county or the High Court, according to the condition of the security.

Plaint and Summons.]—The plaint must be entered in the court holden for the district wherein the goods were seized (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 133; and see ante, s. 35, as to the service of the summons). No other cause of action may be joined in the same summons (Order XXXIV. r. 1).

Particulars.]—On entering the plaint, the plaintiff must in the ordinary manner deliver particulars (see Order VI. r. 1) specifying and describing the cattle, or the several goods and chattels taken and the distress or taking of which he complains (Order XXXIV. r. 2).

Payment into Court.]—It is believed that the plaintiff, in replevin, may pay money into court in satisfaction in accordance with the practice in the High Court. The ordinary practice in the county court applies (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 164; Order IX. r. 21).

Hearing.]—Actions of replevin in cases of rent in arrear or damage feasance are tried like other actions, in a summary way (Order XXXIV. r. 3). Either party may demand a jury, as in other cases (Order XXII. r. 3).

Title in Question.]—If the defendant takes no steps, under the provisions mentioned below, to remove the plaint into the High Court, the judge has jurisdiction to try the action, although the title to hereditaments of greater yearly rent or value than 50*l.* may be in question (R. v. Raines, (1853) 11 E. & B. 855; 22 L. J. Q. B. 223; 93 R. R. 442; Fordham v. Akers, (1864) 4 B. & S. 578; 33 L. J. Q. B. 67; 129 R. R. 860).

Defendant's Evidence.]—The defendant, or avowant, as he is commonly called, may show that the goods were not seized within the district of the court. He may also justify the seizure of the goods, by showing that they were properly distrained for rent or otherwise. In the case of distress for rent, he must show a demise at a fixed rent (Hayward v. Haswell, (1837) 6 A. & E. 265; 6 L. J. K. B. 116; Knight v. Benett, (1826) 3 Bing. 361; 4 L. J. C. P. 95; 28 R. R. 643); the amount of rent in arrear; and the value of the goods distrained (Sheape v. Culpeper, (1669) 1 Lev. 255). If the defendant be only bailiff, and his authority is denied, he must prove it; a recognition of his acts by the landlord will suffice, even if made after action (Whitehead v. Taylor, (1839) 10 A. & E. 210; 50 R. R. 385).

Where the defendant has taken the distress damage feasant, the same evidence is necessary as in trespass to real property.

Plaintiff's Evidence.]—The plaintiff may deny the tenancy, or that he holds at any rent certain (Regnart v. Porter, (1831) 7 Bing. 45; 9 L. J. C. P. 168; 33 R. R. 537), or show that he was holding over after notice to quit from the landlord (Jenner v. Clegg, (1832) 1 Moo. & R. 213; 42 R. R. 778). He may prove that the defendant's title expired before the rent became due (Downs v. Cooper, (1841) 2 Q. B. 256; 11 L. J. Q. B. 2; 57 R. R. 669); or that he has been evicted by his landlord or a third person claiming by title paramount (Hopcraft v. Keys, (1833) 9 Bing. 613; 35 R. R. 644); or that there is no rent in arrear; or that defendant's title has been barred by the Statute of Limitations (Owen v. De Beauvoir, (1847) 16 M. & W. 547; 82 R. R. 612); or that he has paid rent to the landlord, or under compulsion to a superior landlord, or to a mortgagee annuitant, claiming by prior title (Taylor v. Zamira, (1816) 6 Taunt. 524; 16 R. R. 668; Johnson v. Jones, (1839) 9 A. & E. 809; 8 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 124; 48 R. R. 714); or a tender of the amount due for rent.

Damages.]—In replevin, the jury may assess damages as in trespass (Smith v. Enright, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 220).

Judgment.]—The judgment in replevin in ordinary cases, whether for plaintiff or defendant, is in the form prescribed (Order XXXIV. r. 3; Forms 151, 290, 291).

Assessment of Value of Goods.]—Where the distress has been for rent, or for any other sum of money for which a distress may be lawfully taken, and the defendant succeeds in the action, if the defendant requires it, the judge, if the action be tried without a jury, and the jury, if the action be tried with a jury, must find the value of the goods distrained. If the value be less than the amount of rent or money in arrear, judgment must be given for the amount of such value; but if the amount of the rent or money in arrear be less than the value so found, judgment must be given for the amount of such rent or money, and it may be enforced in the same manner as any other judgment (Order XXXIV. r. 4; see Form 290).

Assessment of Damage.]—Where the distress is for damage feasant, and the defendant is entitled to judgment for a return, if the plaintiff requires it, the amount of the damage sustained by the defendant must be found, and judgment will then be given in favour of the defendant, in the alternative, either for a return, or for the amount of the damage so found (Order XXXIV. r. 5; Form 291; see Bac. Ab. "Replevin").

Other Cases.]—In all cases of replevin other than those arising out of a seizure by way of distress, when the defendant justifies and succeeds, the judgment for the defendant will be for a return of the goods with or without costs (Order XXXIV. r. 6).

One who has replevied goods distrained, and obtained judgment in an action of replevin, cannot maintain an action for damages in respect of the taking of the goods (Gibbs v. Cruikshank, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 454; 42 L. J. C. P. 273).

Costs.]—The judge may, by special order, order costs to be taxed under columns A, B, or C of the scales; if he makes no special order they will be taxed under column B (Order LIII. rr. 10, 11).

Certiorari.]—Any action of replevin may be removed into the High Court by writ of certiorari, on the application of the defendant (see the practice as to the application for a certiorari, ante, pp. 135—138). The defendant must give security to be approved of by the master of the court, for such amount not exceeding 150*l.* as he may think fit, conditioned to defend the action with effect (see Tummons v. Ogle, (1856) 6 E. & B. 571; 25 L. J. Q. B. 403; 106 R. R. 714), and, unless the replevisor discontinues or does not prosecute the action or becomes nonsuit, to prove before the High Court that the defendant had good ground for believing either that the title to some corporeal or incorporeal hereditament the yearly rent or value of which exceeded 20*l.* or to some toll, market, fair or franchise was in question, or that the rent or damage in respect of which the distress was taken or the value of the goods seized exceeded 20*l.* (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 137);

Appeal.]—An appeal is allowed in actions of replevin. The appeal lies as of right when the amount of rent or damage or value (see Smith v. Enright, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 220) of the goods seized exceeds 20*l.*, and by leave of the judge in all other cases (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). The practice in regard to appeals is the same as in ordinary cases (see ante, pp. 123—133). Section 134 Notes.

135. Where a replevisor shall wish to commence proceedings in the High Court he shall, at the time of replevying, give security, to be approved of by the registrar in the last preceding section mentioned, for such an amount as such registrar shall deem sufficient to cover the alleged rent or damage, or if the goods replevied have been seized otherwise than under colour of distress, the value of the goods, and in either case the probable costs of the action in the High Court, conditioned to commence an action of replevin against the seizor in the High Court, within one week from the date thereof, and to prosecute such action with effect and without delay, and unless judgment thereon be obtained by default, to prove before the High Court that he had good ground for believing either that the title to some corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, the rent or value whereof exceeded twenty pounds by the year, or to some toll, market, fair, or franchise, was in question, or that such rent or damage, or the value of the goods seized, exceeded twenty pounds, and to make return of the goods if a return thereof shall be adjudged. Condition of security to be given in cases of replevins commenced in High Court. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 65.

If the plaintiff fails in the action, the security is forfeited (Tummons v. Ogle, (1856) 6 E. & B. 571; 25 L. J. Q. B. 403; 106 R. R. 714).

136. If a replevisor shall wish to commence proceedings in a county court, he shall at the time of replevying give security, to be approved of by the registrar, for such an amount as such registrar shall deem sufficient to cover the alleged rent or damage in respect of which the distress shall have been made, or if the goods replevied have been seized otherwise than under colour of distress, the value of the goods, and in either case the probable costs of the action, conditioned to commence an action of replevin against the seizor in the court of the district in which the goods shall have been seized, within one month from the date of the security and to prosecute such action with effect and without delay, and to make a return of the goods if a return thereof shall be adjudged. Conditions of security to be given when replevin brought in county court. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 66.

137. Any action of replevin brought in the court shall be removed into the High Court by writ of certiorari, if the defendant shall apply to the High Court or to a judge thereof for such writ, and shall give security, to be approved of by a master of the Supreme Court, for such amount, not exceeding one hundred and fifty pounds, as such master shall think fit, conditioned to defend such action with effect, and unless the replevisor shall discontinue Replevins shall at instance of defendant be removed into High Court by certiorari in certain cases. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 67.

Section 137.

or shall not prosecute such action, or shall become nonsuit therein, to prove before the High Court that the defendant had good ground for believing, either that the title to some corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, the rent or value whereof exceeded twenty pounds by the year, or to some toll, market, fair, or franchise, was in question, or that the rent or damage in respect of which the distress shall have been taken or the value of the goods seized exceeded twenty pounds.

Possession of small tenements may be recovered in county courts by landlords where term has expired or been determined by notice. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, ss. 50, 51.

138. When the term and interest of the tenant of any corporeal hereditament, where neither the value of the premises nor the rent payable in respect thereof shall have exceeded one hundred (a) pounds by the year, and upon which no fine or premium shall have been duly paid, shall have expired, or shall have been determined either by the landlord or the tenant by notice to quit, and such tenant, or any person holding or claiming by, through, or under him, shall neglect or refuse to deliver up possession accordingly, the landlord may enter a plaint, at his option, either against such tenant, or against such person so neglecting or refusing, in the court of the district in which the premises lie, for the recovery of the same, and thereupon a summons shall issue to such tenant or such person so neglecting or refusing; and if the defendant shall not at the time named in the summons, show good cause to the contrary, then, on proof of his still neglecting or refusing to deliver up possession of the premises, and of the yearly value and rent of the premises, and of the holding, and of the expiration or other determination of the tenancy, with the time and manner thereof, and of the title of the plaintiff, if such title has accrued since the letting of the premises, and of the service of the summons, if the defendant shall not appear thereto, the judge may order that possession of the premises mentioned in the plaint be given by the defendant to the plaintiff, either forthwith or on or before such day as the judge shall think fit to name; and if such order be not obeyed, the registrar, whether such order can be proved to have been served or not, shall, at the instance of the plaintiff, issue a warrant authorising and requiring the bailiff of the court to give possession of such premises to the plaintiff. In any such plaint against a tenant, the plaintiff may add a claim for rent or mesne profits, or both, down to the day appointed for the hearing, or to any preceding day named in the plaint, so as the same shall not exceed one hundred (a) pounds.

See now "Emergency Legislation," especially Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V., c. 97), and rules thereunder, post, p. 980, as amended by Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1917 (7 & 8 Geo. 5, c. 25), post, p. 958.

NOTE.—(a) The powers given by the statute to the county court on this head do not oust the jurisdiction given by 1 & 2 Vict. c. 74, under which Act magistrates possess similar powers, in cases where the rent does not exceed 20*l.*

The jurisdiction of the county courts in proceedings for the recovery of small tenements is of a two-fold character. It extends to cases where a tenant holds over after the legal determination of his tenancy; and also to those cases where a landlord has by law a right to re-enter and obtain possession on the ground of non-payment of rent. These proceedings which are governed by sects. 138 and 139 of the Act, are now known as actions for the recovery of possession as distinguished from actions of ejectment under sect. 59 (Order V. r. 3). Proceedings should be taken for recovery of possession wherever practicable, for where an action of ejectment is brought, and in the opinion of the judge an action should have been brought for the recovery of possession, the plaintiff is not entitled to any further relief or any further costs than he would have been in an action for the recovery of possession (Order V. r. 3).

Generally speaking, the practice in these cases is similar to the ordinary practice. The essential points of difference will be gathered from the following remarks.

On Determination of Tenancy.]—When the term and interest of the tenant of any corporeal hereditament where neither the value of the premises, nor the rent payable in respect of the tenancy shall have exceeded 100*l.* by the year, and on which no fine or premium has been paid, has expired, or been duly determined by notice to quit; and the tenant, or any person holding or claiming by, through, or under him, neglects or refuses to deliver up possession of the premises, the landlord may, at his option, enter a plaint for their recovery, either against the tenant or the person so neglecting or refusing (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 138; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3; the former section re-enacts the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 50, which replaced the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 122, and amended it so as to exclude the jurisdiction where the yearly value of the premises exceeded 50*l.*; Fearon v. Norvall (2), (1848) 5 D. & L. 445; 18 L. J. Q. B. 9; Harrington v. Ramsay, (1853) 2 E. & B. 669; 22 L. J. Q. B. 460).

The fact of the pendency of an action of ejectment is not a bar to the plaintiff's proceeding in the county court under this section (Bissill v. Williamson, (1861) 7 H. & N. 391; 31 L. J. Ex. 131; 126 R. R. 477).

Mesne Profits.]—In the plaint under the above section, the plaintiff may also add a claim for rent or mesne profits, or for both, down to the day appointed for the hearing, or to any preceding day named in the plaint, so that the aggregate amount does not exceed 100*l.* (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 138; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). Where an order for possession has been made under this section against the tenant and his sub-tenant, and the sub-tenant has given up possession, the order of the county court is not in a subsequent action for mesne profits against the sub-tenant by the original landlord conclusive evidence of liability (Campbell v. Loader, (1864) 3 H. & C. 520; 34 L. J. Ex. 50; 140 R. R. 589; and see Hodson v. Walker, post, p. 170).

Where Title is in Question.]—These provisions do not overrule the provisions already explained (ante, p. 30) by which the court is prevented from entertaining a question of title, if either the yearly rent or value of the premises exceeds 100*l.* (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 56, 60; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3; and see ante, p. 30). The judge, however, may decide, in the case of leaseholds or freeholds, questions of title as to whether the landlord has a lawful right to the possession; that is, such questions as arise from a dispute as to whether the lease was determined or the like; but he may not decide questions as to whether the claimant has title as landlord if the limit of value or rent be exceeded (Kerkin v. Kerkin, (1854) 3 E. & B. 399; Pearson v. Glazebrook, (1868) L. R. 3 Ex. 27; 37 L. J. Ex. 15; 97 R. R. 553).

A bonâ fide claim of ownership by an alleged tenant will raise a question of title which will put an end to the jurisdiction, if the yearly rent or value exceed 100*l.* (Pearson v. Glazebrook, supra). The assertion by the defendant, an alleged tenant, that he has given up possession to a third party, who made a bonâ fide claim, will not necessarily put an end to the jurisdiction. It must be proved also and decided that he gave up possession, by compulsion; because if he gave it up voluntarily, he would be estopped from setting up the third person's title against his landlord's, and the court would have jurisdiction (Emery v. Barnett, (1858) 4 C. B. N. S. 423; 27 L. J. C. P. 216; 114 R. R. 793).

B. held, as tenant to C., two farms, C. being lessee of the one and owner in fee of the other. C. died, and A. proved a will under which he was devisee of all C.'s real estate, and also made executor. A. gave B. notice to quit. B. bonâ fide disputed the validity of the will: held, that title to the leasehold was not in question, as probate of the will was conclusive as to title of A.; but that title to the freehold did come in question (Kerkin v. Kerkin, supra).

Landlord and Tenant.]—The landlord, within the meaning of the Act, is the person entitled to the immediate reversion of the lands, or in the case of joint tenancy, coparcenary, or tenancy in common, one of the persons entitled to such reversion (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186).

The action only lies where the ordinary relation of landlord and tenant exists; therefore where the plaintiff claimed as mortgagee to recover possession from a person who had entered into occupation subsequently to the mortgage, and had not become tenant to him, it was held that the court had no jurisdiction (Jones v. Owen, (1848) 5 D. & L. 669; 18 L. J. Q. B. 8; 79 R. R. 888; and see Marwood v. Waters, (1854) 13 C. B. 820; 93 R. R. 749). So where the defendant had been let into possession under an agreement to purchase, one of the terms being that the rent should be deducted from the purchase-money, and it appeared that he had paid a sum which, together with a set-off, equalled the amount of the purchase-money, it was held that the county court had no jurisdiction (Banks v. Rebbeck, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 452; 20 L. J. Q. B. 476; 86 R. R. 905).

A defendant was entitled to 500*l.* and interest, charged on Whiteacre, which belonged to A.; and it was orally agreed that the defendant should rent Blackacre from A., and should deduct the interest on the 500*l.* from the rent. Afterwards A. conveyed the reversion of Blackacre to the plaintiff: held, that the defendant was an ordinary tenant of Blackacre (Jones v. Thomas, (1861) 4 L. T. 210; 127 R. R. 915).

Rent or Value.]—A defendant entered into a written agreement to take premises at a rent of 20*s.* a week; during the tenancy an oral agreement was made that the rent should be 16*s.* a week, and the defendant for several weeks paid the reduced amount, and on one occasion submitted to a distress: held, that there was no fresh demise, and that the original rent continued to be the rent payable for the premises (Crowley v. Vitty, (1852) 7 Ex. 319; 21 L. J. Ex. 135; 86 R. R. 664; and see further as to rent and value, ante, p. 33).

Due Determination of Tenancy.]—The question whether the tenancy has been duly determined by notice to quit is one upon which the decision of the county court judge is conclusive between the parties (Fearon v. Norvall (1), (1848) 17 L. J. Q. B. 161; 5 D. & L. 431; 79 R. R. 865); but the section only applies to cases where a tenancy has been determined by ordinary notice to quit, and not to cases where there is a power of re-entry after notice for non-payment of rent or breach of covenant, and the notice to quit relied on is a notice to the tenant to leave the premises in consequence of a forfeiture (Friend v. Shaw, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 374; 57 L. J. Q. B. 225). The words of the section under which this decision was given have been altered by the omission of the word "legal" in the phrase "legal notice to quit." It is doubtful, therefore, whether the decision is now law.

Section 138 Notes.

Plaintiff's Evidence at the Trial.]—If the landlord's title has accrued previous to the letting of the premises, the plaintiff need only prove as follows:—

Proof of Holding.]—First, the tenancy or holding; if it be by lease, the lease, or a counterpart, must be produced, or an admission of its terms by the defendant (Howard v. Smith, (1841) 3 Scott, N. R. 574; 10 L. J. C. P. 245; 60 R. R. 506) must be proved. A demise from year to year may be proved by the payment and receipt of yearly rent (Doe v. Horn, (1838) 3 M. & W. 333; 7 L. J. Ex. 98; Bishop v. Howard, (1823) 2 B. & C. 100; 1 L. J. K. B. 243; 26 R. R. 291). Where the defendant has been let into possession under a lease void by the Statute of Frauds, payment and receipt of rent is evidence of a tenancy from year to year (Doe v. Bell, (1793) 5 T. R. 471; Doe v. Amey, (1840) 12 A. & E. 476). A general letting, without agreement as to the term, creates only a tenancy at will (Richardson v. Langridge, (1811) 4 Taunt. 128; 13 R. R. 570); which by the receipt of rent is converted into a tenancy from year to year. If the rent is reserved as a yearly rent, though received at shorter periods, it is a yearly tenancy (R. v. Herstmonceaux, (1827) 7 B. & C. 551; 6 L. J. (O. S.) M. C. 35); if determinable at three months' notice, it is a quarterly tenancy (Kemp v. Derrett, (1814) 3 Camp. 510; 14 R. R. 828). Since the Judicature Acts a person occupying under an executory agreement for a lease not under seal is to be treated in every court as holding on the terms of the agreement (Walsh v. Lonsdale (C. A.), (1883) 21 Ch. D. 9; 52 L. J. Ch. 2; Furness v. Bond, W. N. (1888) 78; 4 T. L. R. 457; but see Foster v. Reeves (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 255; 61 L. J. Q. B. 713). As to position of assignees of agreement for a lease not under seal, who have neither privity of contract, or privity of estate with the lessors, see Purchase v. Lichfield Brewery Co., (1915) 1 K. B. 184; 84 L. J. K. B. 742.

Determination.]—Secondly, the plaintiff must prove determination of the tenancy, with the time or manner thereof; as, if it be an estate at will, the death of the lessee, demand of possession, or other determination of the will on either side; if it be a holding for a time certain, the expiration of that time; and in cases of holding for a time certain, a disclaimer, surrender or forfeiture by the tenant, or that the tenancy has been determined by notice.

If the holding be from year to year, a mere denial by the tenant that he holds of his landlord, or other verbal repudiation, is sufficient to entitle the landlord to treat the tenancy as determined (Doe v. Stanion, (1836) 1 M. & W. 695; 5 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 253; 46 R. R. 464). In the case of a definite term, it cannot be forfeited by mere words, some other act on the part of the tenant inconsistent with the existence of the relationship, must be proved (Doe v. Wells, (1839) 10 A. & E. 427; 8 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 265; 50 R. R. 473).

A surrender may be proved either by deed or by act of law, as where the tenant has been party to some act which would not be valid if his lease still existed, as the acceptance of a new lease (Lyon v. Reed, (1844) 13 M. & W. 285; 13 L. J. Ex. 377; 67 R. R. 593), or authorizing the landlord to let to another (Nickells v. Atherstone, (1847) 10 Q. B. 944; 16 L. J. Q. B. 371; 74 R. R. 556).

A notice to quit may, in the absence of agreement, be by parol (Doe v. Crick, (1805) 5 Esp. 196; 8 R. R. 848) or in writing; but it must refer to some distinct time. If the tenancy is yearly, it must, in the absence of any special agreement, have been given six months, or, in the case of an agricultural holding, a year before the end of the year (Right v. Darby, (1786) 1 T. R. 159; 46 & 47 Vict. c. 61, s. 33; see as to the construction of this section, Barlow v. Teal (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 501; 54 L. J. Q. B. 564); or, where six months are sufficient, where the rent is payable on the usual feast-days, on one feast-day, to quit on the next but one (Roe v. Doe, (1830) 6 Bing. 574). A notice to quit "at the earliest possible moment lawful" but accompanied by a statement that the notice will be withdrawn

Section 138 Notes.

"if business improves" is a good notice (May v. Borup, (1915) 1 K. B. 830; 84 L. J. K. B. 823). If the holding be for less than a year, the notice must follow the period, as a month's notice for a monthly, or a week's for a weekly, letting. A tenancy is taken to commence from the time of the tenant's entry (Kemp v. Derrett, (1814) 3 Camp. 510; 14 R. R. 828), unless there is evidence contra (Doe v. Johnson, (1806) 6 Esp. 10; 9 R. R. 800). Where a tenant, who has entered under a lease, holds over and pays rent, notice to quit must be given in accordance with its terms (Doe v. Lines, (1848) 11 Q. B. 402; 17 L. J. Q. B. 108; 75 R. R. 428). When a tenant, whose term ends in the broken part of a year, holds over and pays rent, the notice to quit must correspond with the commencement of the holding over, not to the time of his original entry. Where a defendant disclaims, and on demand of possession refuses to give up the premises, claiming the property as his own, no notice to quit is necessary (Doe d. Lansdell v. Gower, (1851) 17 Q. B. 589; 21 L. J. Q. B. 57; 85 R. R. 581).

The notice may be given by the landlord or his agent. One of several joint tenants may give notice for himself and other joint tenants (Doe v. Summersett, (1830) 1 B. & Ad. 135; 8 L. J. K. B. 369; 35 R. R. 250); and if an agent gives notice in the name of several joint tenants, it will inure for all although he have but the authority of one (Doe v. Hughes, (1840) 7 M. & W. 139; 10 L. J. Ex. 185; 56 R. R. 669).

Where Title has Accrued since Letting.]—Should the title of the landlord have accrued since the letting of the premises, the plaintiff must prove, in addition to the above facts, the right by which he claims possession (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 138); not that his title can come in issue, but because otherwise his character as landlord would not appear. This right may be evidenced by length of possession (Doe v. Cooke, (1831) 7 Bing. 346; 9 L. J. C. P. 118; 33 R. R. 503), by title, by act of law, as that of heir, or if it be a term of years, administrator, or by will or conveyance.

Title Expiring before Trial.]—Where the title of the plaintiff appears to have existed as alleged in the summons at the time of the entry of the plaint, but to have expired before the return day, the plaintiff will be entitled to judgment according to the fact that he was so entitled, and for his costs of the action, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXIII. r. 16).

Defendant's Evidence.]—If the tenant bonâ fide disputes his landlord's title, and it really comes in question, or the yearly value or rent exceeds 100*l.*, the jurisdiction of the county court ceases, unless both parties agree to give it jurisdiction (ante, p. 43); therefore no defence which involves that need here be noticed. The same remark applies also to any other evidence which would exclude the jurisdiction, as showing that the rent is above 100*l.* a year. A tenant may, however, disprove the fact of tenancy, or deny that it has been ended; he may also contradict any facts which tend to prove a disclaimer, surrender or forfeiture, or may show that the forfeiture has been waived; as where the lease is voidable only and not void, by proving that the landlord has received rent, or has since otherwise recognised the tenancy (Arnsby v. Woodward, (1827) 6 B. & C. 519, 5 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 199). This, however, is only evidence of a waiver, and the receipt of rent after a forfeiture which accrued due before it, or after the landlord has by some unequivocal act elected to determine the tenancy, will not revive it (Jones v. Carter, (1846) 15 M. & W. 718; 71 R. R. 800).

The defendant may deny either the fact or the sufficiency of the notice to quit (Fearon v. Norvall, (1848) 5 D. & L. 439; 17 L. J. Q. B. 161; 79 R. R. 865); as that it was bad in form, or was not given to the proper person; or he may show that it has been waived subsequently by the landlord's accepting rent after the expiration of the notice (Goodright v. Cordwent, (1795) 6 T. R. 219; 3 R. R. 161).

The pendency of an action of ejectment in the High Court is no answer to a plaint in a county court, by which it is sought to recover possession of the same premises (Bissill v. Williamson, (1861) 7 H. & N. 391; 31 L. J. Ex. 131; 126 R. R. 477; see, however, Order XXII. r. 11).

Order at the Trial.]—If the tenant or occupier on service of the summons does not appear at the time and place appointed, and show good cause to the contrary, the landlord may give to the court proof of the neglect or refusal to deliver up possession of the premises and of the yearly value and rent thereof, and of the holding and of the expiration or other determination of the tenancy, with the time or manner thereof, and of the title of the landlord, if such title has accrued since the letting of the premises, and of the service of the summons, if defendant has not appeared, and the judge may order that possession be given by the defendant to the plaintiff, either forthwith, or on or before such day as the judge shall name (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 138; Form 250). The fact of the tenant appearing and showing cause does not oust the jurisdiction of the court to order possession: it is for the court to determine whether the cause shown is sufficient or not (Fearon v. Norvall (1), (1848) 5 D. & L. 439; 17 L. J. Q. B. 161; and see per Patteson, J., 18 L. J. Q. B. 9, 10). If the order be not obeyed, the registrar, whether service of the order can be proved or not, must at the instance of the plaintiff issue a warrant (Form 251) authorising and requiring the high bailiff to give possession to the plaintiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 138).

Possession of small tenements may be recovered in the court by landlord for non-payment of rent.

19 & 20 Vict c. 108, s. 52.

139. When the rent of any corporeal hereditament, where neither the value of the premises nor the rent payable in respect thereof exceeds one hundred (a) pounds by the year, shall for one half-year be in arrear, and the landlord shall have right by law (b) to re-enter for the non-payment thereof, he may, without any formal demand or re-entry, enter a plaint in the court of the district in which the premises lie, for the recovery of the premises, and thereupon a summons shall issue to the tenant, the service whereof shall stand in lieu of a demand and re-entry; and if the tenant shall, five clear days before the return day of such summons, pay into court all the rent in arrear and the costs, the action shall cease; but if he shall not make such payment, and shall not at the time named in the summons show good cause why the premises should not be recovered, then, on proof of the yearly value and rent of the premises, and of the fact that one half-year's rent was in arrear before the plaint was entered, and that no sufficient distress was then to be found on the premises to countervail such arrear, and of the landlord's power to re-enter, and of the rent being still in arrear, and of the title of the plaintiff if such title has accrued since the letting of the premises, and of the service of the summons if the defendant shall not appear thereto, the judge may order possession of the premises mentioned in the plaint to be given by the defendant to the plaintiff on or before such day, not being less than four weeks from the day of hearing, as the judge shall think fit to name, unless within that period all the rent in arrear and the costs are paid into court, and if such order be not obeyed, and such rent and costs are not so paid, the registrar shall, whether such order can be proved to have been served or not, at the instance of the plaintiff, issue a warrant authorising and requiring the bailiff of the court to give possession of such premises to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff shall, from the time of the execution of such warrant, hold the premises discharged of the tenancy, and the defendant and all persons claiming by, through, or under him, shall, so long as the order of the court remains unreversed, be barred from all relief.

NOTE.—(a) Increased from 50*l.* (see sect. 3 of County Courts Act of 1903).

NOTE.—(b) Before commencing any action for the recovery of tenements under this or the previous section, consider carefully the effect on the rights thereby given of the Emergency Legislation, especially the Courts (Emergency Powers) Acts, 1914—1916 and 1917, and the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1916, post, p. 980.

For Non-Payment of Rent.]—If the rent of any corporeal hereditament, where neither the value of the premises nor the rent payable in respect of them exceeds 100*l.* a year, is one half-year in arrear, and the landlord has by law a right to re-enter for the non-payment, he may, without any formal demand or re-entry, enter a plaint in the county court, and a summons will issue to the tenant. Service of such summons will stand in lieu of a demand and re-entry.

If the tenant, five clear days before the return day, pays into court all the rent in arrear, and the costs, the action will abate, but if he does not make such payment, and does not on the return day show good cause why the premises should not be recovered, then on proof of the yearly value and rent, and of the fact that one half-year's rent was in arrear before the plaint was entered, and that no sufficient distress was then to be found on the premises to countervail such arrear, and of the landlord's power to re-enter, and of the rent being still in arrear, and of the title of the plaintiff, if such title has accrued since the letting of the premises, and of service of the summons, if the defendant does not appear—the judge may order (Form 250) that possession of the premises be given by the defendant to the plaintiff, on or before such day, not being less than four weeks from the trial, as the judge may name, unless within that period all the rent in arrear and the costs be paid into court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 139; 3 Edw. 7, c. 42, s. 3). In order to prove that "no sufficient distress was then to be found on the premises," so as to entitle the landlord to maintain an action for the recovery of possession, it is not necessary that a distress for the half-year's rent shall have been actually levied on the premises; the fact of no sufficient distress may be proved aliunde (Rickett v. Green, (1910) 1 K. B. 253; 79 L. J. K. B. 193).

Enforcing Order.]—If such last order be not obeyed, and the rent and costs be not so paid, the registrar, whether service of the order can be proved or not, will, at the instance of the plaintiff, issue a warrant (Form 251) authorising and requiring the bailiff to give possession of the premises to the plaintiff. The plaintiff will from the time of the execution of such warrant, hold the premises discharged from the tenancy; and the defendant and all persons claiming by, through, or under him, will, so long as the order remains unreversed, be barred from all relief (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 139).

Plaintiff's Evidence.]—The plaintiff must prove the yearly value and rent of the premises, that one half-year's rent was in arrear before the plaint was entered, and that no sufficient distress was then to be found on the premises to countervail such arrears. He must also prove his power to re-enter, and that the rent is still in arrear. He need not, however, prove any demand or re-entry, as the statute provides that the service of the summons shall stand in lieu of these. If the plaintiff's title has accrued since the letting of the premises, he must prove it. If the defendant does not appear, service of the summons must be proved (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 139). Section 139 Notes.

Defendant's Evidence.]—The defendant may disprove the fact that the rent was in arrear, or he may show that there was sufficient distress on the premises (see sect. 139).

Proceedings Common to both Sections 138 and 139.]—The plaint must be brought in the district in which the tenements are situate, and the summons must be in the prescribed form (see sect. 138; Forms 247, 248).

The summons may be served like ordinary summonses. If, however, the defendant cannot be found, and his place of dwelling is not known, or admission to it cannot be obtained for serving the summons, service may be effected by posting a copy on some conspicuous part of the premises sought to be recovered (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 141).

Where a summons is served on or comes to the knowledge of a sub-tenant of the plaintiff's immediate tenant, such sub-tenant being an occupier of the whole or of a part of the premises sought to be recovered, he must forthwith give notice thereof to his immediate landlord under penalty of forfeiting to such landlord three years' rack-rent of the premises held by such sub-tenant, to be recovered whatever the amount by action in the court from which the summons issued; and the landlord, on the receipt of such notice, if not originally a defendant, may be added or substituted as a defendant to defend possession of the premises in question (see sect. 140).

Practice.]—The provisions of Order IX. r. 7, as to confession of the plaintiff's title and of his right to possession, apply to this action as well as to an action of ejectment, as do those of Order X. r. 4, as to allowing a defendant not named in the summons to appear and defend, and of Order X. r. 5, as to limiting defence to a part of the property (see post, p. 444); but the following differences in practice must be observed: the affidavit of the applicant for leave to appear and defend required by rule 4 need only be filed in cases where neither rent nor value exceeds 50*l.* five (instead of twelve) clear days before the return day, and in cases under the extended jurisdiction up to 100*l.* ten (instead of twenty) clear days before that day; the registrar's notice (Form 254) to the plaintiff of the leave to appear must in the former class of case be given three (instead of ten) clear days, and in the latter class of case eight (instead of eighteen) clear days, before that day (Order X. r. 4; Order XXIIA. r. 11); the defendant's notice limiting his defence must in the former class of case be filed five (instead of twelve) clear days, and in the latter class ten (instead of twenty) clear days at least, before the return day (Form 255), and the copy of it is to be sent by the registrar to the plaintiff in the former class of case three (instead of ten), and in the latter eight (instead of eighteen), clear days at least before it (Order X. r. 5; Order XXIIA. r. 11).

Jury.]—Either party may require the trial to be by jury, on giving notice in the ordinary way (Order XXII. r. 3).

Costs.]—The costs of a plaintiff will be taxed on the scale applicable to the rent or value of the premises on which court fees are assessed, plus the amount of any rent or mesne profits recovered; the costs of a defendant on that applicable to such rent or value plus the rent or mesne profits claimed (Order LIII. r. 13).

Possession Warrant.]—The warrant bears date the day next after the last day named by the judge in his order for possession to be given, and continues in force for three calendar months from its date, but no order for delivery of possession need be drawn up or served (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 143). The warrant justifies the bailiff in entering on the premises with such assistants as he deems necessary, and in giving possession accordingly (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 142).

The warrant cannot be issued or executed when the lands are situated without the jurisdiction of the court, although both parties reside within it (Ellis v. Peachey, (1849) 18 L. J. Q. B. 137; 5 D. & L. 675). The order for possession does not affect the rights of third persons; so trespass may be maintained against the person obtaining the warrant of possession, and on whose behalf it is executed, by one whose rights are injuriously affected thereby: quære, whether the rights of the person against whom the order is obtained are affected thereby (Hodson v. Walker, (1871) L. R. 7 Ex. 55; 41 L. J. Ex. 51).

When Executed.]—The entry must not be made at any time except between the hours of nine in the morning and four in the afternoon, s. 142, post, p. 171.

Protection of Officers.]—The judge, registrar, bailiff, or other person executing the warrant, or affixing the summons, are protected from any action or prosecution for so doing, on account of the person suing out of the same not having lawful right to the possession of the premises (see sect. 144); the party, however, who sues out the warrant is not so protected, except against mere irregularities (see sect. 145; Hodson v. Walker, supra, (1871) L. R. 7 Ex. 55).

Effect of Irregularity.]—Where the landlord at the time in applying for the warrant had lawful right to possession, neither he nor his agent may be deemed a trespasser by reason merely of any irregularity or informality in the mode of proceeding for obtaining possession under authority of the Act; but the party aggrieved may bring an action, in which he must allege special damage, and may recover full compensation, with costs of action. If special damage be not proved, the defendant will be entitled to a verdict; if proved, but assessed by the jury at not more than 5*s*., the plaintiff will recover no more costs than damages, unless the judge certifies that in his opinion full costs ought to be allowed (see post, sect. 145).

Appeal.]—Where the yearly rent or value of the premises exceeds 20*l*., or in other cases, by leave of the judge, either party may appeal on the same grounds and subject to the same conditions as in other cases (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120).

This procedure is applicable to the recovery of possession of a house by a local authority under the provisions of the Small Dwellings Acquisition Act, 1899 (62 & 63 Vict. c. 44, s. 5, sub-s. 5; see Part V.).

Sub-tenant served with summons to recover possession must give notice to his immediate landlord, who may come in and defend. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 53.

140. Where any summons for the recovery of a tenement as is hereinbefore specified shall be served on or come to the knowledge of any sub-tenant of the plaintiff's immediate tenant, such sub-tenant being an occupier of the whole or of a part of the premises sought to be recovered, he shall forthwith give notice thereof to his immediate landlord, under penalty of forfeiting three years' rack-rent of the premises held by such sub-tenant to such landlord, to be recovered, whatever the amount thereof, by such landlord, by action in the court from which such summons shall have issued, and such landlord, on the receipt of such notice, if not originally a defendant, may be added or substituted as a defendant to defend possession of the premises in question.

In plaints to recover possession of premises, how sum-

141. A summons for the recovery of a tenement may be served like ordinary summonses to appear to plaints in the court, and if the defendant cannot be found, and his place of dwelling shall either not be known, or admission thereto cannot be obtained for serving any such summons, a copy of the summons shall be posted on some conspicuous part of the premises sought to be recovered, and such posting shall be deemed good service on the defendant.

Section 141. monses may be served. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 54.

142. Any warrant to a bailiff to give possession of a tenement shall justify the bailiff named therein in entering upon the premises named therein, with such assistants as he shall deem necessary, and in giving possession accordingly; but no entry upon any such warrant shall be made except between the hours of nine in the morning and four in the afternoon.

Warrants to high bailiffs sufficient to justify them for entering on premises. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 55.

143. Every such warrant shall, on whatever day it may be issued, bear date on the day next after the last day named by the judge in his order for the delivery of possession of the premises in question, and shall continue in force for three months from such date and no longer, but no order for delivery of possession need be drawn up or served.

Such warrants to be in force for three months from the day named for delivering possession. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 66.

144. It shall not be lawful to bring any action or prosecution against the judge or against the registrar of the court by whom such warrant as aforesaid shall have been issued, or against any bailiff or other person by whom such warrant may be executed or summons affixed, for issuing such warrant, or executing the same respectively, or affixing such summons, by reason that the person by whom the same shall be sued out had not lawful right to the possession of the premises.

Judges, registrars, bailiffs, or other officers not liable to actions on account of proceedings taken. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 124.

145. Where the landlord at the time of applying for such warrant as aforesaid had lawful right to the possession of the premises, or of the part thereof so held over as aforesaid, neither the said landlord nor his agent, nor any other person acting in his behalf, shall be deemed to be a trespasser by reason merely of any irregularity or informality in the mode of proceeding for obtaining possession under the authority of this Act, but the party aggrieved may, if he think fit, bring an action for such irregularity or informality, in which the damage alleged to be sustained thereby shall be specially laid, and may recover full satisfaction for such special damage with costs of the action: Provided that if the special damage so laid be not proved, the defendant shall be entitled to a verdict, and that if proved, but assessed at any sum not exceeding five shillings, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages, unless the judge before whom the trial shall have been held shall certify that in his opinion full costs ought to be allowed.

Where landlord has a lawful title, he shall not be deemed a trespasser by reason of irregularity. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 125.

PART VII.

EXECUTION; COMMITMENT.

Section 146.

Court may award execution against goods.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 94. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 46. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 8.

146. Whenever the court shall have given or made a judgment or order for the payment of money, the amount may be recoverable, in case of default or failure of payment thereof forthwith, or at the time or times and in the manner thereby directed, by execution against the goods and chattels of the party against whom such judgment or order shall be given or made; and the registrar, at the request of the party prosecuting such judgment or order, shall issue under the seal of the court a warrant of execution in the nature of a writ of fieri facias to the high bailiff of the court, who, by such warrant, shall be empowered to levy, or cause to be levied, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels wheresoever they may be found within the district of the court, whether within liberties or without, such sum of money as shall be so ordered, and also the costs of the execution; and all constables and other peace officers within their several jurisdictions shall aid in the execution of every such warrant. The precise time when an application shall be made to a registrar to issue a warrant against the goods of a party shall be entered by him in the execution book and on the warrant; and when more than one such warrant shall be delivered to the high bailiff to be executed, he shall execute them in the order of the times so entered.

Execution on Judgment or Order for Payment of Money.]—When a judgment has been obtained for debt or damages, or an order for the payment of money has been made, the amount is recoverable, in case of default, by execution against the goods (see sect. 146; Order XXV. r. 1).

Oral Examination.]—The party entitled to enforce the judgment or order, may also apply to the court for an order for the oral examination of the debtor, or in case the debtor be a corporation, or any of its officers, as to whether the debtor has any and what property or means of satisfying the judgment or order. And an order may be made for the attendance and examination of the debtor, or of any other person, and for the production of any books or documents (Order XXV. r. 71 (1)). The examination may be taken, if necessary, as prescribed by Order XVIII. r. 18. The order may be made for the examination of a married woman as to her separate estate (Aylesford v. G. W. Rail. Co., (1892) 2 Q. B. 626).

Orders.]—Every order of the court in any action or matter may be enforced against all persons bound by it in the same manner as a judgment to the same effect (Order XXV. r. 2).

When Warrant may Issue.]—A person requiring a warrant of execution to be issued must produce the plaint note or summons issued in the action, or a duplicate, and furnish a præcipe containing the number of the plaint, and the full names and address of or otherwise sufficiently identifying every person against whom the warrant is to be issued (Order XXV. r. 7). Where execution is to be issued against a person under a description different from that given in the judgment, both descriptions are to be entered on the warrant (Order XXV. r. 7).

Section 146 Notes.

Where judgment is given for more than 20*l.* and costs and directs payment forthwith or within 14 clear days and costs to be taxed and paid forthwith or within 14 clear days after taxation, on default separate warrants may issue for the amount ordered to be paid and for the costs; but no second warrant (which can only be for costs) may be issued until the expiration of eight days from the issue of the first warrant (Order XXV. r. 9).

Execution may not issue after the expiration of twelve years from the date of the original judgment, unless there has been a part payment, or payment of interest, or an acknowledgment in writing given. If there has been such payment or acknowledgment, execution may not issue after twelve years from the date of such payment or acknowledgment, or if more than one, from the last (37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, s. 8; Hebblethwaite v. Peever, (1892) 1 Q. B. 124; Jay v. Johnstone (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 189; 62 L. J. Q. B. 128).

When Payment by Instalments.]—Where a defendant has made default in payment of the whole amount awarded by the judgment or order or of an instalment thereof, execution may issue against his goods, without leave, for the whole amount of the judgment or order and costs then remaining unsatisfied, or in case of an order for payment by instalments for such portion thereof as the court shall order, either at the time of making the original order or at any subsequent time (Order XXV. r. 8).

When an order has been made to pay by instalments, execution cannot issue until default is made in payment of some instalment; execution or successive executions, under the seal of the court, may then issue for the whole sum and costs remaining unpaid, or for such portion as the court orders either when it makes the original order or subsequently (see sect. 149).

For Costs.]—It is doubtful whether under the statutory provisions requiring payment of all moneys under judgments into court (see sect. 105) a judgment creditor who receives the amount of a judgment debt out of court can obtain execution for his costs, as he might have done formerly (Reg. v. C. C. of Surrey, (1853) 21 L. J. Q. B. 310; S. C. nom. R. v. Fletcher, 2 E. & B. 279; 21 L. J. Q. B. 310; 95 R. R. 544).

There is power, but no obligation to issue the warrant on any day on which the offices need not be open (Order LIV. r. 19; Order I. rr. 3, 5).

Judgment for Married Woman.]—When a married woman, sued only in her own name, obtains judgment on the ground of coverture, and is awarded costs, she may enforce payment in her own name (Order XXV. r. 4).

Cross Judgments.]—Where there are cross judgments between the parties, execution must be taken out by that party only who has obtained judgment for the larger sum, for as much as remains after deducting the smaller sum, and satisfaction for the remainder must be entered, as well as satisfaction for the smaller sum. If the sums are equal, satisfaction must be entered on both judgments (see sect. 150). These provisions apply where there are cross judgments in separate actions as well as to cross judgments on claim and counterclaim in the same action (Ward v. Haddrill, (1904) 1 K. B. 399; 73 L. J. K. B. 277).

Partners.]—Where a judgment or order is against a firm execution may issue (1) against any property of the partnership; (2) against any property of any person who has admitted before the court in the particular proceedings that he was a partner at the time of the accruing of the cause of action, or who has been adjudged to be liable as a partner; (3) against any person who has been individually served with the summons as a partner or a person sought to be made liable and has failed to appear at the trial. If the judgment creditor claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as a member of the firm, he must apply for leave as explained below (Order XXV. r. 11). It seems that, instead of applying for leave, the creditor might bring an action on the judgment (Clark v. Cullen, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 355).

Section 146 Notes.

It must be remembered that, except as against any property of the partnership, a judgment against a firm will not render liable, release, or otherwise affect any member thereof who was out of England and Wales when the summons was issued, unless he has been made a party under Order VII. r. 41, or has been served within England or Wales after the summons in the action was issued (Order XXV. r. 11). If leave to enter a plaint under this rule is required under sect. 74 of the Act, the court may grant it without requiring an affidavit under Order V. r. 13; in that case the order must state that leave is so granted, and a copy of the order must be annexed to the summons and served therewith (Order XXV. r. 11).

Execution by Post.]—Where leave to issue execution is not required, it may be issued by post. Where the party desiring to issue execution does not reside or carry on business within the district of the court, he or his solicitor (if the latter has no office within the district) may transmit to the registrar by prepaid post (a) the plaint note or summons, or a duplicate; (b) a præcipe; (c) a money order for the fees payable upon the issue of the warrant; and (d) a stamped addressed envelope. The party may ask for and obtain from the registrar information to enable him to ascertain whether execution may be issued. The registrar may require the personal attendance at his office of the party or his solicitor where it is sought to issue execution or to obtain information in more than twenty actions at the same time (Order XXV. r. 10B).

Execution may not issue against partnership property unless the judgment is against the firm. The court may, however, on the application of any judgment creditor of a partner, make an order charging that partner's interest in the partnership property and profits with payment of the amount of the judgment debt and interest, and may by the same or a subsequent order appoint a receiver of that partner's share of profits (whether already declared or accruing), and of any other money which may be coming to him in respect of the partnership, and direct all accounts and inquiries, and give all other orders and directions which might have been directed or given if the charge had been made in favour of the judgment creditor by the partner, or which the circumstances of the case may require (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39, s. 23).

The application by a separate judgment creditor of a partner should be made to the court on notice. The notice must be served on the judgment debtor and such of his partners as are in England or Wales. If the partnership is a cost-book company it must be served on the judgment debtor and the purser of the company. All orders made on the application must be similarly served (Order XXV. r. 12).

The other partners will be at liberty at any time to redeem the interest charged, or in case of a sale being directed, to purchase it (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39, s. 23).

The application by a partner should be made to the court on notice. The notice must be served on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor, and on such of the partners as do not concur in the application and are in England or Wales. If the partnership is a cost-book company the notice must be served on the judgment creditor and judgment debtor and on the purser of the company. All orders made on the application must be similarly served (Order XXV. r. 13).

Leave to issue Execution.]—It is required in the following cases: (1) where no payment into court has been made for twenty-four months (Order XXV. r. 10); when (2) a party claims to issue execution, under a judgment against a firm, against a person as partner who has neither admitted that he is a partner, nor been adjudged to be one, nor been served with the summons (Order XXV. r. 11); when (3) there has been a change after judgment, by death, assignment, or otherwise, in the parties entitled or liable to execution; (4) where a husband is entitled or liable to proceedings upon a judgment or order against his wife; (5) where a party is entitled to execution against any of the shareholders of a joint-stock company upon a judgment against such company, or against a public officer or other person representing such company (Order XXV. r. 14; see Forms 158, 160); (6) where a judgment summons has been issued or an order of commitment has been made and is outstanding (Order XXV. r. 10A).

1. In the first of the above cases leave is obtained on application to the court, without notice to the debtor, and the leave must be expressed on the warrant (Order XXV. r. 10). 2. In the second two clear days' notice of intention to apply to the court must be given to the individual against whom execution is claimed. If he does not dispute liability, leave may be given by the court, but if liability be disputed the court may order the liability to be determined in an action to be commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way (Order XXV. r. 11). 3, 4 and 5. In these cases application for leave must be made to the court on affidavit, and the court, if satisfied that the party is entitled, may give the leave, or may order any issue or question necessary to determine the liability to be tried in an action, commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way, and may impose terms as to costs and otherwise (Order XXV. r. 14; Forms 158, 160). The order for leave must, in these cases, if ex parte, be drawn up and served, by post or otherwise, on the persons to be affected, and when the order is for leave, proceedings will not issue for six clear days at least after service (Order XXV. r. 15). Several actions or persons may be joined in one application, and one order only need be made on such application; in serving notice of any such order such part only as affects the person served need be set out (Order XXV. r. 16; Forms 159, 161). Service may be made by or upon the solicitor of a person who acts by solicitor (Order XXIII. r. 6).

If leave to enter a plaint under this rule is required under sect. 74 of the Act, the court may grant it without requiring an affidavit under Order V. r. 13; in that case the order must state that leave is so granted, and a copy of the order must be annexed to the summons and served therewith (Order XXV. r. 14).

Warrant of Execution.]—The registrar, at the request of the party prosecuting the order, must prepare and issue forthwith under the seal of the court a warrant of execution to the high bailiff (see sect. 146; Order II. r. 4; Forms 162—165), together with a notice (Form 162) to be left with the debtor (Order XXV. r. 17; sect. 155). In the event of the high bailiff being himself the judgment debtor, the warrant may be issued to a bailiff specially appointed to execute it (Bellamy v. Hoyle, (1874) L. R. 10 Ex. 220; 44 L. J. Ex. 169).

The warrant bears date of the day on which it is issued, and, if unexecuted, continues in force for one year only from and exclusive of that date; but it may, at any time before its expiration and by leave of the court, be renewed by the party issuing it for one year from the date of renewal, and so on from time to time during the continuance of the renewed warrant. The fact of renewal must be indorsed on the warrant according to Form 163A, and a renewed warrant has effect and is entitled to priority according to the time of the application to the registrar for the original issue (Order XXV. r. 6A; Form 163A). Fees payable on the renewal may be allowed as costs of the execution; if allowed, the amount and the fact of the allowance are to be entered on the warrant (Order XXV. r. 6B). The precise time when the warrant is applied for must be entered by the registrar in the warrant-book and on the warrant (see sect. 146). He must insert in or indorse on it the amount to be levied, and the fees for the execution of the warrant, distinguishing the amount adjudged to be paid and remaining due and the amount of the fee for issuing and executing the warrant (Order XXV. r. 17; sect. 155).

Warrants of execution may be issued concurrently in one or more districts; but the costs of more than one warrant will not be allowed against the execution debtor unless by order of the court (Order XXV. r. 18).

Section 146 Notes.

The fee must be paid into court prior to the issue of the warrant. For the amount of fee payable, see item 21 of the fees order.

The warrant empowers the high bailiff to levy the judgment debt and costs by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the debtor within the district of the court (see sect. 146). He does this with the aid of his bailiffs (see sect. 35). All constables and peace officers within their several jurisdictions must aid them in the execution of the warrants (see sect. 146).

The high bailiff or bailiff must execute the warrant as soon as possible, enter it in the proper book, and state from time to time therein what has been done under the warrant, and if the same be not executed within one calendar month from the day of the delivery to him, why it has not been executed. And the high bailiff must, at all reasonable times, give every information to a suitor, or his solicitor, as to the execution or non-execution of a warrant issued at his instance (Order II. r. 33).

Supersedeas by Payment.]—If the party against whom execution is issued before sale pays or tenders to the registrar or to the bailiff the sum indorsed on the warrant and costs, or such part as the plaintiff agrees to accept in full for debt or damages and costs, together with the fees, the execution will be superseded, and defendant's goods discharged (see sect. 155; Receipt, Form 166).

Priority of Executions.]—The bailiff should execute the writ within a reasonable time, and, if more than one warrant has been issued against the same person, he must execute them in the order of time in which they were entered by the registrar, as shown by the indorsement on the warrant (see sect. 146). As to liability of bailiff should he lose the opportunity of levying, see ante, p. 23.

Where a writ has issued against the goods from the High Court, and a warrant has issued against the goods of the same party from the county court, the right to the goods is to be determined by the priority of the time of the delivery of the writ to the sheriff to be executed, or of the application for the issue of the warrant from the county court; and the sheriff, on demand, is by writing signed by any clerk in the office of the under-sheriff to inform the high bailiff of the precise time of the delivery of the writ, and the bailiff is to show his warrant to the sheriff's officer; and such writing, or the indorsement on the warrant (see sect. 146), will respectively justify the high bailiff or sheriff in acting thereon (see sect. 152).

Hiring Agreements.]—As to, see post, p. 179.

Withdrawal of Execution by Execution Creditor.]—Where an execution creditor requests the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, unless it be in pursuance of an arrangement between the execution creditor and execution debtor communicated to the high bailiff that the latter shall be at liberty to re-enter, the execution creditor will be deemed to have abandoned the execution, and the high bailiff must return the warrant as withdrawn by order of the execution creditor, and the latter will not be entitled to require the warrant to be re-issued. But this rule does not prejudice any right of the execution creditor to apply for a fresh warrant (Order XXV. r. 18A).

How and where Executed.]—The warrant may be executed within five hundred yards of the boundary of the district of the court from which it issued by a bailiff of such court, or, by order of the judge, by the same bailiff within the district of any other court (see sect. 77). The execution may not take place on Sunday, Christmas Day, or Good Friday, or on any day appointed by royal proclamation for a public fast, humiliation, or thanksgiving. There is power, but no obligation, to execute the warrant on any day on which the offices of the courts need not be open (Order LIV. r. 19; Order I. r. 5; the only exception to the rule prohibiting service of process or execution of a warrant on Sunday, Christmas Day, or Good Friday, is in the case of a warrant of arrest in an Admiralty action; see also 29 Car. 2, c. 7, s. 6). The warrant may be executed at any hour of the day or night (Mackalley's Case, (1612) 9 Rep. 66).

On levying, the bailiff must deliver to the debtor, or leave at the place where the levy is made, a notice (Form 162) prepared by and delivered to the bailiff by the registrar, informing the debtor of the amount for which the levy is to be made and the fees for the execution of the warrant, and that the goods will not be sold for five days, unless they are of a perishable nature, or he wishes it (Order XXV. r. 17).

The bailiff may not break open any outer door or window of the defendant's dwelling-house to execute the writ (Semayne's Case, (1603) 5 Rep. 91; 1 Sm. L. C. 115 (12th ed.) and notes); but he may enter through the door or any other opening which is open, although no goods of the defendant are within, if there is reasonable ground for suspecting that they are there (Semayne's Case, (1603) 5 Rep. 91; Cooke v. Birt, (1814) 5 Taunt. 765; 15 R. R. 652, per Gibbs, C.J., and Dallas, J.). He may enter the house of a third person, if the defendant's goods are within (Semayne's Case, supra), but not otherwise (Morrish v. Murrey, (1844) 13 M. & W. 52; 13 L. J. Ex. 261; 67 R. R. 505). Having once obtained peaceable possession, he may break open inner doors, closets, trunks, etc.; or if he be locked in, he may break open the outer door from the inside to get out or carry away goods; and if, having once entered, he is forcibly ejected, he may break open the door to re-enter (Eagleton v. Gutteridge, (1843) 11 M. & W. 465; 12 L. J. Ex. 357; 63 R. R. 655; followed in Bannister v. Hyde (1860), 29 L. J. Q. B. 141). If the house be that of a third person, to which the defendant has taken his goods to avoid the execution, the bailiff may, on demand and refusal, break open even the outer door (Semayne's Case). Outer doors of barns or outhouses, or workshops, or other buildings not being dwelling-houses or connected therewith, may be broken open (Penton v. Brown, (1665) 1 Sid. 186; Hodder v. Williams, (1895) 2 Q. B. 663; 65 L. J. Q. B. 70).

What may be Seized.]—The bailiff having entered with the warrant, and having seized the goods, should deposit them in a fit place, or put in possession a fit person, appointed by the high bailiff (see sect. 154). If he seizes part in the name of the whole it is a sufficient seizure of the whole (Cole v. Davies, (1698) 1 Lord Raym. 724). He may seize any goods or chattels of the defendant (excepting the wearing apparel and bedding (which includes a bedstead used as part of the sleeping accommodation: Davis v. Harris, (1900) 1 Q. B. 729; 69 L. J. Q. B. 232) of himself or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade to the value of 5*l.*, which are to that extent protected); also money or bank notes, whether of the Bank of England or any other bank, cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, specialties or securities for money (see sect. 147). Where the only article on premises of a cab driver where a distress for rent had been levied was a cab worth considerably more than 5*l.*, the cab was held to be exempt from seizure as an "implement of trade" under sect. 147 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (Lavell v. Richings, (1906) 1 K. B. 480; 75 L. J. K. B. 287). A typewriting machine lent as a sample to an agent was held not to be an "implement of trade" (Addison v. Shepherd, (1908) 2 K. B. 118; 77 L. J. K. B. 534). But this was distress. See now Distress Amendment Act, 1908, post; Part V. All the goods of the judgment debtor on the premises should be seized if necessary (see Miller & Co. v. Solomon, (1906) 2 K. B. 91; 75 L. J. K. B. 671).

The protection is limited to wearing apparel, bedding, tools and implements of trade to the value of 5*l.*; therefore, where wearing apparel and bedding to the value of 5*l.* were left on the premises, all the implements of trade were held liable to seizure (Boyd, Ltd. v. Bilham, (1909) 1 K. B. 14; 78 L. J. K. B. 50). Even if a piano can in any circumstances be regarded as an implement of trade, it is not exempt from distress at the instance of the Crown for default of paying income tax or house duty (MacGregor v. Clamp, (1914) 1 K. B. 288; 83 L. J K. B. 240).

Section 146 Notes.

The high bailiff may hold any cheques, bills, or other securities for money, which have been seized in execution as security for the amount to be levied. The plaintiff may sue in the name of the defendant for the money secured thereby (see sect. 148).

"Money" means actual money of the defendant's, and not a mere debt to him; money, therefore, which a sheriff or bailiff has in his hands under a fi. fa., issued by the defendant in another action (Wood v. Wood, (1843) 4 Q. B. 397; 12 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 141), or the surplus of a former execution against him, cannot be seized (Harrison v. Paynter, (1840) 6 M. & W. 387; 9 L. J. Ex. 169). It has been doubted whether money about the person of the defendant can be seized (per Parke, B., Sunbolf v. Alford, (1838) 3 M. & W. 248, 254; 7 L. J. (N. S.) Ch. 60; 49 R. R. 593).

As to the attachment of debts, see pp. 568—584.

As to obtaining money deposited by the judgment debtor in the post office savings bank, see post, p. 581.

The bailiff may seize chattel interests of the defendant in land, as leases or terms for years (Com. Dig. "Execution," C. 3), whether belonging to the defendant in his own right, or that of his wife (per Buller, J., Farr v. Newman, (1792) 4 T. R. 621, 638); he cannot, however, sell a mere equitable interest, as an equity of redemption, the legal estate being in the mortgagee (Metcalf v. Scholey, (1807) 2 N. R. Bos. & P. 461).

The bailiff cannot seize fixtures, as furnaces, ovens, doors, windows, hearths, chimney-pieces, etc., which go to the heir and not to the executor (Com. Dig. "Execution"; Elwes v. Maw, (1802) 3 East, 38; 6 R. R. 523; 2 Sm. L. C. 188 (12th ed.): see notes), even although the freehold belongs to the defendant (Winn v. Ingilby, (1822) 5 B. & A. 625; 24 R. R. 503). If the tenant unlawfully removes fixtures, they revert to the landlord and cannot be seized (Farrant v. Thompson, (1822) 5 B. & A. 826; 24 R. R. 571). The bailiff may seize and sell fixtures which the tenant may remove, as those fixed for the purposes of trade—as coppers, vats, etc. (Poole's Case, (1703) 1 Salk. 368).

Corn and other crops which are raised by the industry of man are emblements which go to the executor, and may be taken in execution; but things which yield no annual profit, or which are produced without the labour of man, are not emblements, but go to the heir, and cannot be seized (see judgment in Evans v. Roberts, (1826) 5 B. & C. 829; 4 L. J. K. B. 313; 29 R. R. 421). The sale of the produce of farms is regulated by the 56 Geo. 3, c. 50. The substance of its provisions is as follows:—

The bailiff may not sell straw, straw of crops, chaff, colder, turnips, manure, compost, ashes, or seaweed (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 1), nor clover, rye, or other artificial grasses which are newly sown, and growing under a crop of standing corn (56 Geo. 3, c. 50. s. 7); nor can he sell hay, grasses (natural or artificial), tares, vetches, roots or vegetables, where, by any covenant or written agreement made for the benefit of the owner or landlord, they ought not to be taken off from the land, or ought to be used thereon, if he has received a written notice thereof before sale (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 1).

The tenant or occupier must give notice to the bailiff of such covenants or agreements, and the bailiff must postpone the sale until the latest day he lawfully can appoint (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 2).

The bailiff may, where no such covenant or written agreement is shown, sell such crops by written agreement, in such manner as accords with the custom of the country. In cases where a covenant or written agreement is shown, then, according to such covenant or agreement. After sale the purchasers may use all necessary barns, etc. for the purpose of consuming such crops or produce as the bailiff allots to them, and which the tenant or occupier would have been entitled to use (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 3); should the landlord or owner be aggrieved by breach of such agreement, the bailiff, being indemnified by him, must permit the landlord or owner to use his name for the recovery of damages (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 4).

The bailiff, before selling, must make inquiry within the parish in which the lands are situate, as to the name and residence of the landlord or owner (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 5).

The landlord may not, where such agreement for sale has been made, distrain on corn, hay, straw, or other produce, which at the time of such sale or agreement has been severed from the soil; nor on any turnips, whether drawn or growing, nor on horses, sheep, cattle or beasts, nor on waggons, carts, or implements of husbandry, which the purchaser employs for thrashing, carrying, or consuming such produce (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 6).

The Act does not extend to straw, turnips, or other articles which the tenant may remove consistently with some contract in writing (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 8).

The bailiff is not liable for any breach or omission of the provisions of the Act, unless it be wilful (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 9); and all persons acting under it are indemnified (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 10).

The assignees of a bankrupt, etc. may not take produce, manure, etc. in any other way than the bankrupt, etc. would have been entitled to do (56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 11).

Whose Goods may be Seized.]—The bailiff must at his peril seize only the goods of the person named in the warrant; if he seize those of another he is liable to an action, though the goods are in the possession of, and apparently the defendant's (Jarmain v. Hooper, (1843) 6 M. & G. 827; 7 Scott, N. R. 663; 13 L. J. C. P. 63; 64 R. R. 861; Catteral v. Kenyon, (1842) 3 Q. B. 310; 11 L. J. Q. B. 260; 61 R. R. 235; as to the practice of the county courts when dealing with such cases, see post, p. 584). The goods of a woman cohabiting with the defendant cannot be taken, though she passes for his wife (Glasspoole v. Young, (1829) 9 B. & C. 696; 7 L. J. K. B. 305; 33 R. R. 294).

Hiring Agreements.—Goods held by the judgment debtor under a hiring agreement cannot be seized, as they are not his property whilst the agreement is in force.

The goods of a testator or intestate cannot be seized for the personal debt of the executor or administrator (Farr v. Newman, (1792) 4 T. R. 621), unless by using them he has made the goods his own (Quick v. Staines, (1798) 1 B. & P. 293; 4 R. R. 801), in which case he cannot deny that they are his property.

If judgment is obtained against an individual who has partners for his separate debt, the partnership property cannot be seized under a warrant under such judgment (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39, s. 23). The remedy in this case is described post, p. 538. The procedure when the judgment is against a firm is also described post, p. 539.

The goods of ambassadors and other ministers of foreign states and their domestics cannot be seized (7 Anne, c. 12, s. 3).

Goods which are in the custody of the law, as those which are seized under a distress or previous execution, cannot be seized (Com. Dig. "Execution," C. 4).

The rule of law being that a bailiff may only seize that which he can sell, goods in the defendant's possession, and on which he has a mere lien, cannot be seized (Legg v. Evans, (1840) 6 M. & W. 36; 9 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 102; 55 R. R. 490). Where, however, goods are let to the defendant for a term, the bailiff may seize them, and sell the defendant's interest in them (Legg v. Evans, supra). Goods of the defendant pawned or leased to another may be sold, subject to the right of the bailee or lessee, but cannot be seized till the bailment or term is determined.

At common law the goods of the execution debtor were bound from the teste of the writ. The Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 15 (stats. revised)), sect. 15 (repealed by the Sale of Goods Act, 1893), altered this by providing that "no writ of fieri facias or other writ of execution" should bind the goods until the delivery of the writ to the "sheriff, under-sheriff, or coroners;" but decided cases established that as against the debtor himself, the goods, notwithstanding the statute, were still bound from the teste of the writ, consequently, if the defendant after the delivery of the writ to the bailiff assigned his goods, even for a valuable consideration, except it were in market overt, no property passed to the assignee, and the bailiff might still seize and sell them (Samuel v. Duke, (1838) 3 M. & W. 622; 7 L. J. Ex. 177); so if the assignment were before the delivery of the writ, if it were made for the purpose of delaying, hindering, or defrauding creditors (13 Eliz. c. 5; 29 Eliz. c. 5; Twyne's Case, (1602) 3 Rep. 80; 1 Sm. L. C. 1 (12th ed.): see notes).

Now by the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, s. 26 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 71), a writ of fieri facias or other writ of execution against goods binds the property in the goods of the execution debtor as from the time when the writ was delivered to the sheriff to be executed: and, for the better manifestation of such time, it is the duty of the sheriff, without fee, upon the receipt of any such writ to indorse upon the back thereof the hour, day, month, and year when he received the same. By the same section it is provided that no such writ shall prejudice the title to such goods acquired by any person in good faith and for valuable consideration, unless such person had at the time when he acquired his title notice that such writ, or any other writ by virtue of which the goods of the execution debtor might be seized or attached, had been delivered to and remained unexecuted in the hands of the sheriff. In the said section the term "sheriff" includes any officer charged with the enforcement of a writ of execution (56 & 57 Vict. c. 71, s. 26). In deciding the question of priority between an execution creditor and the holder of a bill of sale, the period to be regarded, at any rate where the registrar and the high bailiff are the same person, is the time when the application for the warrant of execution is made by the execution creditor; consequently an execution creditor who makes the application at an earlier hour of the same day as that on which the debtor gives a bill of sale over his goods will not be prejudiced by the warrant of execution being stamped as being delivered to the bailiff on the following day (Murgatroyd v. Wright, (1907) 2 K. B. 333; 76 L. J. K. B. 747). And where the warrant of execution is sent to a foreign court under sect. 158 of the County Courts Act, 1888, the property in the judgment debtor's goods is bound from the time at which the warrant is issued by the registrar of the foreign court to the high bailiff of that court (Birstall Candle Co. v. Daniels, (1908) 2 K. B. 254; 77 L. J. K. B. 590).

Proceeds of Execution.]—Every high bailiff levying or receiving any money by virtue of any process of the court of which he is bailiff, must forthwith enter in ink on the face of the process, at the foot or on the margin, the amount levied or received, and sign this entry, and subject to Rules 34a, 35 and 36 of Order II (see infra), within twenty-four hours from its receipt, except where by statute he is required to retain the same, pay over the same to the registrar of his court, who must indorse upon the process a memorandum of having received it, and return the process to the high bailiff (Order II. 234).

(Under the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, an execution creditor is not entitled to retain the benefit of his execution, as against the trustee, unless the execution is completed by sale as well as by seizure before the date of the receiving order, and before notice of a bankruptcy petition against the debtor, or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by him (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 40. See p. 276)).

If, after seizure of the goods and before sale or the completion of the execution by the receipt or recovery of the full amount of the levy (see Ex parte Warren (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 48; 54 L. J. Q. B. 320; Bellyse v. M'Ginn, (1891) 2 Q. B. 227), any money is seised or received in part satisfaction of the execution the following provisions apply:—

Section 146 Notes.

1. If before paying over the money the high bailiff receives notice of a receiving order being made against the debtor, he shall on request, after deducting the costs of the execution, pay over such money to the official receiver, in accordance with sub-section 1 of section 41 of the Bankrupcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. V. c. 59) and send notices to the registrar and the execution creditor that he has done this (see Order II., r. 36, infra), Order II., r. 34 a (1).
2. If, after he has paid this money over to the registrar, he receives notice of a receiving order having been made he must give notice thereof to the registrar of his court, and also, if the warrant issued out of any other court, and the money, after deducting the costs of his execution, has been certified to the registrar of that court, pursuant to Order 28, r. 2, give a similar notice to such registrar. Order II., r. 34 a (II.).
3. In any case mentioned in paragraph II. the amount paid to the registrar, after deducting costs of execution is to be paid over on request by that registrar, or any other registrar to whom the money has been certified, to the official receiver or trustee in bankruptcy —unless it has been paid out to the execution creditor, before notice of the receiving order. Order II., r. 34 a (III.).
4. A registrar paying over money pursuant to the last paragraph shall be allowed by the treasurer of his court at the audit the money so paid: money received by one registrar and certified to any other court, must be accounted for and paid over by such registrar to the treasurer of his court. Order II., r. 34 a (IV.).

A sale before notice is not illegal even if a receiving order has been made (Woolford's Trustee v. Levy (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 772; 61 L. J. Q. B. 546). If the sale take place and the receiving order be made on the same day, it is believed that the official receiver will be entitled to the proceeds, even if the completion of the sale be earlier in point of time (so held by Chalmers, J., in Lever v. Shepherd, (1891) 90 L. T. 339, following Wright v. Mills, (1859) 4 H. & N. 488; 28 L. J. Ex. 223; 118 R. R. 566; see also Clarke v. Bradlaugh (C. A.), 1881) 8 Q. B. D. 63; 51 L. J. Q. B. 1).

Where under an execution on a judgment for a sum exceeding 20*l.*, goods are sold or money is paid to avoid sale, aliter to avoid seizure (Bower v. Hett (C. A.), (1895) 2 Q. B. 337; 64 L. J. Q. B. 483, 772), and the high bailiff is by the Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 41 (2), required to retain the balance of the proceeds of the sale, or money, after deducting the costs for fourteen days, he must, within twenty-four hours of the sale or receipt of the money give notice to the registrar, and to the execution creditor as provided in Form 171. Order II., r. 35. Where the high bailiff withdraws from possession, or pays over to the official receiver or trustee in bankruptcy, the proceeds of the sale or the money received in consequence of a notice that a receiving order has been made against the debtor, he must within twenty-four hours of such withdrawal or payment send to the registrar, and to the execution creditor notice in accordance with Form 172, Order II. r. 36.

Where any process has been executed, satisfied, withdrawn or stopped, the high bailiff shall file such process and retain it, unless in case of a warrant of execution he is required to lodge same in court, or in case of a warrant of committal the same has been delivered to the gaoler (Order II., r. 36a). If within fourteen days notice is served on him of a bankruptcy petition having been presented against or by the debtor, and a receiving order is made against the debtor on it or any other petition of which the high bailiff has notice, he must pay the balance to the official receiver, or to the trustee, who may retain it as against the execution creditor (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 41); see In re Craig & Sons, Ex parte Hinchcliffe (1916) 2 K. B. 497. In ascertaining the 20*l.* the costs of the high bailiff to the time of sale must be included (Ex parte Sims, (1877) 5 Ch. D. 375; 46 L. J. Bk. 103); but not the expenses of possession money, appraisement and sale, unless they have been actually incurred (Willey v. Hucks, (1909) 1 K. B. 760; 78 L. J. K. B. 513).

This notice to be effective ought to be served on the high bailiff or at his office, and not on the bailiff in possession (Ex parte Warren ; Bellyse v. M'Ginn), ante, p. 180.

An execution levied by seizure and sale is not invalid by reason only of its being an act of bankruptcy, and a person who purchases the goods in good faith under a sale by the high bailiff acquires a good title against the trustee (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 40 (3)).

Payment of Taxes and Rent, and Priority of Landlord.]—The Queen's taxes, due at the time of seizure, to the extent of one year's arrears, must be paid by the bailiff to the collector before sale or removal, except where the process is at the suit of the landlord for rent (43 & 44 Vict. c. 19, s. 88). This provision would, it is believed, also entitle the landlord to be paid in priority to taxes, in case he gave notice of his claim under the provisions mentioned in the next paragraph.

The statute 8 Anne, c. 14, s. 1, does not apply to executions under process of the county court; but the landlord of a tenement in which goods are taken in execution may claim the rent at any time within five clear days from the date of the taking, or before the removal of the goods, by delivering to the bailiff making the levy a writing signed by himself or his agent, stating the rent in arrear, and the time for which it is due. The bailiff in addition to the levy must distrain for the rent and costs, but may not, within five days next after the distress, sell any part of the goods taken unless they are of a perishable nature, or upon the request in writing of the party whose goods have been taken. The bailiff must afterwards sell enough to satisfy, first, the costs of and incident to the sale, next the claim of the landlord, not exceeding the rent of four weeks where the tenement is let by the week, the rent of two terms of payment where it is let for any other term less than a year, and the rent of one year in any other case, and lastly the amount for which the warrant issued. If any replevin is made of the goods, the bailiff must still sell enough to satisfy the costs of and incident to the sale under the execution, and the amount for which the warrant issued; and in either event, the overplus of the sale, if any, and the residue of the goods, must be returned to the defendant. The poundage of the high bailiff and broker for keeping possession, appraisement and sale under the distress, will be the same as would have been payable if the distress had been an execution of the county court, and no other fees may be demanded or taken (see sect. 160); and the high bailiff is entitled to a separate set of possession fees in respect of each proceeding, viz., under the execution and under the distress (In re Broster, (1897) 2 Q. B. 529; 66 L. J. Q. B. 766. Section 160 of the County Courts Act, 1888, applies only to sect. 1 of 8 Anne, c. 14, see Lewis v. G. Davies, (1914) 83 L. J. K. B. 598).

If the bailiff wrongfully seizes goods of a stranger on the defendant's premises, the landlord is not entitled to require the bailiff under this section to levy upon them for rent (Beard v. Knight, (1858) 8 E. & B. 865; 27 L. J. Q. B. 359; 112 R. R. 810; Foulger v. Taylor, (1860) 5 H. & N. 202; 29 L. J. Ex. 154; 120 R. R. 542); but if he rightfully seizes the defendant's goods on the premises of another, the landlord of the premises is so entitled (Hughes v. Smallwood, (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 306; 59 L. J. Q. B. 503). It seems extremely doubtful whether the bailiff could sell for rent if the execution creditor instructed the bailiff to withdraw, and abandoned his execution.

Sale.]—Until the sale, the goods must be deposited by the bailiff in some fit place, or they may remain in the custody of a fit person approved by the high bailiff, and put in possession by the bailiff (see sect. 154).

Where goods are removed for deposit, the high bailiff, at or immediately after the removal, must give to the execution debtor a sufficient inventory of the goods removed; and at least twenty-four hours before the time fixed for the sale, a notice in writing signed by the high bailiff of the time when, and the place where, such goods will be sold. The inventory and notice are to be given to the execution debtor personally or sent to him by post to his residence, if known; if not known, to him at the place from which the goods are removed (Order XXV. r. 22). Section 146 Notes.

For keeping possession the bailiff is entitled to sixpence in the pound (not exceeding 10*s.* a day) for each day, not exceeding seven, calculated on the value of the goods seized; but if the execution is paid out at the time of the levy, or within half an hour thereof, no possession fee is chargeable (Order XXV. r. 20). Where execution is levied under several warrants, and the same goods are seized to satisfy all the warrants, only one possession fee can be charged; but if different goods are seized and appropriated to each warrant, a possession fee is chargeable under each warrant, although possession is held simultaneously under all the warrants by one person only (In re Morgan, Ex parte Board of Trade, (1904) 1 K. B. 68; 72 L. J. K. B. 948; see Glasbrook v. David, (1905) 1 K. B. 615; 74 L. J. K. B. 492, as to sheriff's right to possession money in High Court). The sale must not take place until after the end of five days at least next following the day on which the goods were taken, unless they are of a perishable nature, or on the request in writing of the party whose goods are taken. The goods must be sold or valued by sworn brokers and appraisers appointed by the high bailiff, who are entitled out of the produce to sixpence in the pound on their value for appraisement, whether there be one broker or more, over and above stamp duty, and one shilling in the pound on the net produce of the sale for advertisements, catalogues, sale, commission and delivery of goods (see sect. 154). No appraisement may take place until the fifth day of the bailiff's having possession, unless the goods are of a perishable nature, or are sold at the request of the debtor within four days, or are removed (Order XXV. r. 21).

The judge may, in writing, authorise any bailiffs appointed by the high bailiff to act as brokers or appraisers for the purpose of selling or valuing; and bailiffs so appointed may perform all the duties, and will be entitled to the same poundage, as sworn brokers or appraisers (see sect. 159).

The bailiff must not sell more than is necessary to satisfy the execution: if he does he is liable in trover (Stead v. Gascoigne, (1818) 8 Taunt. 527); nor when he has sold sufficient, may he sell more on the supposition that by some event for which he is not answerable the amount levied may become insufficient (Aldred v. Constable, (1844) 6 Q. B. 370; 66 R. R. 421).

By the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, where the execution is for a sum exceeding 20*l.*, including legal incidental expenses, the sale must, unless the court from which the process issues otherwise orders, be made by public auction, and not by bill of sale or private contract, and must be publicly advertised on and during three days next preceding the day of sale (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 145). (Not repealed by the Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59), see Sched. VI.)

An application for a sale otherwise than by auction must be made to the court on notice (Form 170), stating the grounds of application. The high bailiff must deliver to any applicant a list of the names and addresses of every person at whose instance any warrant or writ of execution has been lodged with him. This list must be produced to the court on the hearing. The notice must be served on every person named in the list except the applicant, four clear days at least before the return day of the notice (Order XXV. r. 24).

If the high bailiff has notice of another execution or executions the court may not consider an application to sell privately until notice has been given to the other execution creditors (53 & 54 Vict. c. 71, s. 12; see p. 274). Every person on whom notice is served may attend the hearing and be heard. The court may order all or any part of the costs to be paid by any of the persons who attend (Order XXV. r. 24).

The high bailiff must, on the request of the execution debtor, furnish him with a detailed account in writing of the sale and of the application of the proceeds thereof (Order XXV. r. 23).

The following provisions apply where, after the issue of the warrant, but before sale, money is paid into the court out of which the warrant is issued, or into a foreign court to which the warrant has been sent for re-issue under sect. 158 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or to the bailiff holding the warrant (Order XXV. r. 23A (1)). If payment is made into the court in the district of which the warrant is to be executed, the fact and amount of the payment must forthwith be notified by the registrar, if he is also high bailiff, to the bailiff holding the warrant; if he is not high bailiff, the notification must be made to the high bailiff, who must as soon as may be notify the bailiff holding the warrant (Order XXV. r. 23A (2)). If payment is made into the court out of which the warrant issued (otherwise the home court) after it has been sent for re-issue to a foreign court, the notification is to be made as soon as may be after receipt by post by the registrar of the home court to the high bailiff of the foreign court, who in his turn must as soon as may be make the same notification to the bailiff holding the warrant (Order XXV. r. 23A (3)). If any payment, or notice of any payment, is received by the bailiff holding the warrant, he must forthwith indorse on the warrant the amount of the payment and sign the indorsement; if the amount is not sufficient to satisfy the amount to be levied and the costs of execution incurred before payment or notice of payment is received, the execution, unless withdrawn by the plaintiff, is to proceed only for the balance of the original amount to be levied and the costs of execution calculated on that amount, less the amount so paid (Order XXV. r. 23A (4)). Where money is paid in part satisfaction of an execution or in order to avoid a sale, but is paid into court instead of to the high bailiff, it is deemed to have been received by the high bailiff. The following provisions then apply:—

(a) Where, if it would have been his duty, if the money had been received by him, to pay it to the registrar of his court, the money is to be dealt with as if it had been so received and paid over, and the provisions of Order II. r. 34a, paragraphs (II.), (III.) and (IV.) shall apply: see ante, p. 181.

(b) Where, if he had received it, it would be his duty to retain it under section 41 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, the money shall be retained in court.

(c) Where the execution creditor becomes entitled to receive the amount so retained, the money in court shall be dealt with as if it had been received by the high bailiff and paid over by him to the registrar of his court.

(d) Where, if he had received it, it would be his duty to pay it, after deducting costs, to the official receiver or trustee in bankruptcy, he shall, after deducting the costs, pay it to the official receiver or trustee in bankruptcy. The registrar of his court shall pay the amount in court to him, and shall be allowed it by the treasurer at the audit, and if any part of such amount was paid into the home court, the registrar of such court shall account for and pay over such amount to the treasurer at such time as the treasurer shall require (Order XXV. r. 23b).

Costs.]—Costs of warrants, whether executed, unexecuted, or unproductive, will be allowed against the execution debtor, unless the judge otherwise orders (Order XXV. r. 19); but costs of an abortive execution are not to be included for the purposes of a judgment summons or of an application for a fresh order for payment under Order XXIII. r. 14. Nor is money paid into court otherwise than under execution to be attributed to payment of such costs (Order XXV. r. 56).

Return of Warrant and Payment of Money levied.]—The mode in which the high bailiff must make a return of what he has done under warrants of execution and pay over to the registrar moneys he has received thereunder is dealt with by Order II. rr. 33, 34, 34A, 35 and 36 (ante, p. 180). It should be noticed here, however, that the statement made by the bailiff to the registrar, of what has been done under the warrant, has not the same effect as the return of a writ issued from the High Court. In the latter case, when once the writ is returned by the sheriff it is exhausted, and no further levy can be made under it; but in the case of the county court warrant it remains in the hands of the bailiff, and if a portion only of the amount, for which the warrant issued, is realised by the first levy, he may at any time before the expiration of the warrant, namely, one year, or of the renewed warrant, if renewed, make further levies under the same writ until the judgment is satisfied (see Order XXV. r. 6, and Jordan v. Binckes, (1849) 13 Q. B. 757; 18 L. J. Q. B. 277; 78 R. R. 507).

Execution out of Jurisdiction of Home Court.]—A writ of execution out of an inferior court could not at common law be executed out of the jurisdiction (Com. Dig. "Execution," I. 2); but by a special provision in the Act (sect. 158), where a warrant of execution has issued against the goods and chattels of any person, or an order for his commitment has been made, and he or his goods and chattels are out of the jurisdiction of the court, the warrant of execution may be sent by the high bailiff to the registrar of any other court within the jurisdiction of which the person or his goods and chattels may then be or be believed to be, with a warrant annexed, under the hand of the high bailiff and seal of the court from which the original warrant or order issued, requiring execution of the same (Form 173. The warrant might, it is believed, be sent under those provisions for execution to the City of London Court. There are, however, express statutory provisions to that effect; 15 Vict. c. lxxvii. s. 95; post, p. 260). The registrar of the court to which it is sent must seal or stamp it with the seal of his court, enter it in a book (Order XXVIII. r. 1) and re-issue it to the high bailiff of his court, and thereupon the high bailiff is to act in all respects as if the original warrant of execution or order of commitment had been directed to him by his own court.

In all cases of executions issued into a foreign district, where money has been received by the bailiff of the foreign court, he must within twenty-four hours from the receiving of it pay it over to the registrar of the foreign court, and unless an interpleader summons as to such money is pending he must make a return in writing of the amount received. In the case of a levy having been made, the bailiff must state in the return the gross amount produced by such levy, the particulars of the appraiser's and broker's charges, and the fees allowed for keeping possession, and pay over to the registrar of the foreign court the amount levied, less such charges and fees; and the registrar of the foreign court must certify therein the amount paid into court, and the correctness of the said charges, and pay over such amount to the treasurer of his court, at such time as the treasurer requires; and the high bailiff must thereupon transmit such return to the high bailiff of the home court, and such latter bailiff must, within twenty-four hours from the receipt of such return, deliver the same to the registrar of his court, who must file it and thereupon pay out of any money in his hands to the plaintiff in the action the amount certified in such return to have been received by the registrar of the foreign court as the proceeds of the execution, and enter in a book the amount so certified, and the amount so paid must be allowed him by the treasurer of his court at his audit (see sect. 158; Order XXVIII. r. 2; Form 175).

If the warrant is not executed within one calendar month from the day of delivery, the high bailiff of the foreign court must make a return to the registrar of the home court within twenty-four hours, and send a copy thereof to the execution creditor, and where not executed whilst in force return the same within a like time and indorse on the warrant the reason why it could not be executed, and sign the same. He must also return the warrant, executed or not, to the home court whenever so directed by the registrar of the home court, and give all such information as may be required of him in regard to the warrant (Order II. r. 37; Form 174).

As to the procedure in cases of part payment after issue of the warrant of execution, see Order XXV. r. 23A, post, p. 542.

Execution in Scotland and Ireland.]—Under the Inferior Courts Judgment Extension Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31) (see post, p. 264), execution may be obtained under an unsatisfied judgment for debt, damages, or costs against the goods of the judgment debtor within the jurisdiction of any sheriff's court in Scotland, or any civil bill court in Ireland (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, ss. 4, 5), so long as the amount of the judgment does not exceed the amount for which an action for the same cause might have been brought in such court (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 9).

The Act will not apply to a judgment obtained against a person domiciled in Scotland or Ireland at the time of the commencement of the action, unless the whole cause of action arose, or the obligation to which the judgment related ought to have been fulfilled within the county court district, and unless personal service of the summons has been made within the district (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 10). In the interpretation of the section it is presumed that the words "whole cause of action" will receive the narrower interpretation placed upon the words "cause of action" in the repealed sect. 60 of the County Courts Act, 1846 (9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 60), rather than the wider one ultimately held to be the proper interpretation of the words in the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 76, s. 18; Vaughan v. Weldon (1874) L. R. 10 C. P. 47; 44 L. J. C. P. 64). In this view every material part of the cause of action must arise within the district (see ante, p. 74). Whether the alternative words, or the obligation to which the judgment relates ought to have been fulfilled, give wider facilities must remain in doubt. The obligation to pay a debt due would be literally within these words; but they are intended probably to apply to express contracts to do certain things.

In order to obtain execution under the Act, when the judgment has become final and not subject to appeal, the judgment creditor must obtain a certificate of the unsatisfied judgment in accordance with the Act and the rules of practice (see 45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s 3; Order XLV. rr. 1, 3, 4, 5; Form 430).

The certificate will not be granted if an order has been made for payment by instalments and no instalment is in arrear, or for payment within a time which has not expired (Order XLV. r. 2).

When granted, no further proceeding can be had in the court in which the certificate is issued until the judge or registrar, on being satisfied that the execution issued under the certificate has been unproductive, shall so order (Order XLV. r. 5).

As to costs, see sect. 4 of the Act and Order XLV. rr. 6, 7.

The certificate when so obtained may be registered in any of the courts named above pursuant to the regulations of such courts (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, ss. 4, 11); so long as the certificate be presented for registration not more than twelve months from the date of the judgment (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 4). Execution against such of the goods of the judgment debtor as are within the jurisdiction of the courts will then issue as on a judgment of such court (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 5). The courts will have the same control over the execution as over executions under any judgments of such courts (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 6). The court may cancel the registration on proof that the original judgment has been set aside or satisfied (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 7).

If instead of availing himself of the provisions of the Act the judgment creditor brings an action on the judgment, he will not be entitled to recover any costs without the order of the court in which the action is brought (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 8).

Enforcing the Judgment in the High Court.]—If the judgment is for a sum exceeding 20*l.*, without costs, and there are no goods or chattels which can be conveniently taken to satisfy the judgment, a judge of the High Court may, on terms, order a writ of certiorari to issue to remove the judgment into the High Court; and when removed it will have the same force and effect as a judgment of the High Court, but no action may be brought upon it (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 151; see Austin v. Mills, (1854) 9 Ex. 288; 23 L. J. Ex. 40; 96 R. R. 717). It is only under these circumstances that the judgment can be removed into the High Court (Moreton v. Holt, (1855) 10 Ex. 707; 24 L. J. Ex. 169). When so removed, land may be extended to satisfy the judgment. As to the effect of the registration of a Writ of Elegit on the judgment debtors' land, see Ashburton (Lord) v. Nocton, (1915) 1 Ch. 274; 84 L. L. Ch. 193. The judgment of a county court will be aided against the equitable estate of the debtor (Bennett v. Powell, (1855) 3 Drew. 326; 24 L. J. Ch. 736).

Aiding the Judgments of other Courts.]—By statutes relating to the City of London Court, and local courts of record, power is given to the officers of those courts, under conditions, to send process for execution to a county court (the City of London Court being now a county court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 84, 185, 186), and subject to the general provisions applicable to county courts, it is believed that no provision in aid of that court is necessary; the provisions of the 15 Vict. c. lxxvii. s. 94, are printed at p. 261 in case of need). New provisions have been made for aiding Scotch and Irish judgments. The whole may conveniently be noticed here.

Local Courts of Record.]—Where final judgment has been obtained in an action brought in a borough or local court of record for not more than 20*l.*, exclusive of costs; or where a rule or order of the judge has been made for payment of money, or costs, charges or expenses, not exceeding 20*l.*, the court may send a writ or precept for the recovery of the same to the registrar of any county court within the jurisdiction of which the defendant may possess any goods or chattels. The registrar must stamp or seal the writ or precept, and thereupon it must be executed by the high bailiff as if it had been issued out of the county court. The high bailiff must take all the usual and proper fees thereupon, and make a return of what he has done thereunder to the bailiff or serjeant-at-mace of the court. In all matters done under such writ or precept or in relation thereto, the high bailiff will be under the direction and control of the judge of the county court of which he is high bailiff, as if the writ or precept had issued out of the county court. The costs of more than one writ, precept, or warrant, will not be allowed against the execution debtor unless by order of the judge (the judge of the borough or other local court is probably intended, and not the judge of the county court, sed qu.) of the "said court" (35 & 36 Vict. c. 86, s. 6; see p. 263).

Scotch and Irish inferior Courts.]—The certificates of unsatisfied judgments for debts, damages, or costs, of the sheriffs' courts of Scotland, and the civil bill courts of Ireland, may, under the provisions of the Inferior Courts Judgment Extension Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 31, s. 4), be registered in county courts in the district of which the judgment debtor then has goods; and after registration execution will issue as on an ordinary judgment of the court. The provisions of the Act, as already explained in reference to the registration of county courts' judgments in Scotland and Ireland, apply equally to the cases now under consideration (ante, p. 186). Provision is also made by the rules for the delivery of particulars of the place where the goods of the debtor are, and for the sealing of a copy of the certificate, and for the costs (see Order XLV. rr. 8, 9, 10). A special form of warrant of execution is provided (Form 431).

Money will not be paid out of court without production of the sealed copy of the certificate, or a copy to be obtained in the prescribed manner (Order XLV. r. 11).

Section 146 Notes.

It has been held in the High Court that where a certificate of a decreet of the court of session in Scotland has been registered in the High Court under the Judgments Extension Act, 1868, that court has the same jurisdiction to appoint a receiver by way of equitable execution as if the judgment had been originally obtained in the High Court (Thompson v. Gill (C. A.), (1903) 88 L. T. 714).

Suspension of Execution.]—The judge may, at any time, if satisfied that the defendant is unable from sickness or other sufficient cause to pay, suspend or stay any judgment, order, or execution for such time and on such terms as he thinks fit, and so from time to time, until it is proved that the temporary cause of disability has ceased (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 153). Mere inability to pay owing to want of means is not a sufficient cause (Attenborough v. Henschel, (1895) 1 Q. B. 833; 64 L. J. Q. B. 255).

What goods may be taken in execution. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 96.

147. Every bailiff or officer executing any process of execution issuing out of the court against the goods and chattels of any person may by virtue thereof seize and take any of the goods and chattels of such person (excepting the wearing apparel and bedding of such person or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade, to the value of five pounds, which shall to that extent be protected from such seizure), and may also seize and take any money or bank notes (whether of the bank of England or of any other bank), and any cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, specialties, or securities for money, belonging to any such person against whom any such execution shall have issued as aforesaid.

See notes to sect. 146.

Securities seized to be held by high bailiff. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 97.

148. The high bailiff shall hold any cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, specialties, or other securities for money which shall have been seized or taken under the last preceding section, as a security for the amount directed to be levied by such execution, or so much thereof as shall not have been otherwise levied or raised, for the benefit of the plaintiff; and the plaintiff may sue in the name of the defendant, or in the name of any person in whose name the defendant might have sued, for the recovery of the sum or sums secured or made payable thereby, when the time of payment thereof shall have arrived.

Execution after default in instalment may issue for whole sum. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 95.

149. If the court shall have made any order for payment of any sum of money by instalments, execution upon such order shall not issue against the party until after default in payment of some instalment according to such order, and execution or successive executions may then issue for the whole of the said sum of money and costs then remaining unpaid, or for such portion thereof as the court shall order, either at the time of making the original order or at any subsequent time.

150. If there shall be cross judgments between the parties, execution shall be taken out by that party only who shall have obtained judgment for the larger sum, and for so much only as shall remain after deducting the smaller sum, and satisfaction for the remainder shall be entered, as well as satisfaction on the judgment for the smaller sum; and if both sums shall be equal satisfaction shall be entered upon both judgments.

Section 150. Cross judgments. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 93.

These provisions apply where there are cross judgments in separate actions as well as to cross judgments on claim and counterclaim in the same action (Ward v. Haddrill, (1904) 1 K. B. 399; 73 L. J. K. B. 277).

151. If a judge of the High Court shall be satisfied that a party against whom judgment for an amount exceeding twenty pounds, exclusive of costs, has been obtained in a county court, has no goods or chattels which can be conveniently taken to satisfy such judgment, he may, if he shall think fit, and on such terms as to costs as he may direct, order a writ of certiorari to issue to remove the judgment of the county court into the High Court, and when removed it shall have the same force and effect, and the same proceedings may be had thereon, as in the case of a judgment of the High Court; but no action shall be brought upon such judgment.

Judgment may be removed into the High Court if there are no goods to be taken under it. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 49.

See ante, p. 186.

It is only under these circumstances that the judgment can be removed into the High Court (Moreton v. Holt, (1855) 10 Ex. 707; 24 L. J. Ex. 169).

When so removed land may be extended to satisfy the judgment (Bennett v. Powell, (1855) 3 Drew. 326; 24 L. J. Ch. 736).

152. When a writ against the goods of a party has issued from the High Court, and a warrant against the goods of the same party has issued from a county court, the right to the goods seized shall be determined by the priority of the time of the delivery of the writ to the sheriff to be executed, or of the application to the registrar for the issue of the warrant to be executed; and the sheriff, on demand, shall, by writing signed by any clerk in the office of the under-sheriff, inform the high bailiff of the precise time of such delivery of the writ, and the bailiff, on demand, shall show his warrant to any sheriff's officer, and such writing purporting to be so signed, and the endorsement on the warrant, shall respectively be sufficient justification to any high bailiff or sheriff acting thereon.

Priority of executions issuing out of High Court and county court. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 47.

153. If it shall at any time appear to the satisfaction of the judge that the defendant in any action or matter is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay and discharge the debt or damages recovered against him, or any instalment thereof, it shall be lawful for the judge, in his discretion, to suspend or stay any judgment, order, or execution given, made, or issued in such action or matter for such time and on such terms as the judge shall think fit, and so from time to time until it shall appear that such cause of inability has ceased, or to order the discharge of any debtor confined in prison by order of a court, who, on account of sickness, insanity, or other sufficient cause, ought, in the opinion of the judge, to be discharged.

Mere inability to pay owing to want of means is not a sufficient cause (Attenborough v. Henschel, (1895) 1 Q. B. 833; 64 L. J. Q. B. 255).

Except as above, and the provisions in sect. 93 as to staying execution pending an application for a new trial, the County Courts Act contains no express power to stay proceedings. A stay of proceedings may, however, be ordered under R. S. C., Order LIX. r. 14, pending an appeal.

Regulating the sale of goods taken in execution.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 106.

154. No sale of any goods which shall be taken in execution shall be made until after the end of the five days at least next following the day on which such goods shall have been so taken, unless such goods be of a perishable nature, or upon the request in writing of the party whose goods shall have been taken; and until such sale the goods shall be deposited by the bailiff in some fit place, or they may remain in the custody of a fit person approved by the high bailiff to be put in possession by the bailiff; and it shall be lawful for the high bailiff from time to time, as he shall think proper, to appoint such and so many persons for keeping possession, and so many sworn brokers and appraisers for the purpose of selling or valuing any goods, chattels, or effects taken in execution under this Act as shall appear to him to be necessary, and to direct security to be taken from each of them, for such sum and in such manner as he shall think fit, for the faithful performance of their duties without injury or oppression, and the judge or high bailiff may dismiss any person, broker, or appraiser so appointed; and no goods taken in execution under this Act shall be sold for the purpose of satisfying the warrant of execution except by one of the brokers or appraisers so appointed, and the brokers or appraisers so appointed shall be entitled to have, out of the produce of the goods so distrained or sold, sixpence in the pound on the value of the goods for the appraisement thereof, whether by one broker or more, over and above the stamp duty, and for advertisements, catalogues, sale and commission, and delivery of goods one shilling in the pound on the net produce of the sale.

Where goods are removed for deposit, the high bailiff, at or immediately after the removal, must give to the execution debtor a sufficient inventory of the goods removed; and at least twenty-four hours before the time fixed for the sale, a notice in writing signed by the high bailiff of the time when, and the place where, such goods will be sold. The inventory and notice are to be given to the execution debtor personally, or sent to him by post to his residence, if known; if not known, to him at the place from which the goods are removed (see Order XXV. r. 22).

Execution to be superseded on payment of debt and costs.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 109.

155. In or upon every warrant of execution issued against the goods and chattels of any person whomsoever, the registrar of the court shall cause to be inserted or indorsed the sum of money and costs adjudged and the fees for the execution of such warrant; and if the party against whom such execution shall be issued shall, before an actual sale of the goods and chattels, pay or cause to be paid or tendered unto the registrar of the court out of which such warrant of execution has issued, or to the bailiff holding the warrant of execution, such sum of money and costs as aforesaid, or such part thereof as the person entitled thereto shall agree to accept in full of his debt or damages and costs, together with the fees inserted or indorsed as aforesaid, the execution shall be superseded, and the goods and chattels of the said party shall be discharged and set at liberty.

For form of receipt, see Form 166.

Claimant of goods taken in execution must deposit their values or pay costs of keeping possession, otherwise goods shall be sold.
19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 72.

156. Where any claim shall be made to or in respect of any goods taken in execution under the process of the court, the claimant may deposit with the bailiff either the amount of the value of the goods claimed, such value to be affixed by appraisement in case of dispute, to be by such bailiff paid into court, to abide the decision of the judge upon such claim, or the sum which the bailiff shall be allowed to charge as costs for keeping possession of such goods until such decision can be obtained, or may give to the bailiff in the prescribed manner security for the value of the goods claimed, and in default of the claimant so doing, the bailiff shall sell such goods as if no such claim had been made, and shall pay into court the proceeds of such sale to abide the decision of the judge.

High bailiff may interplead where claims as to goods taken in execution are made.
30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 31.

157. If any claim shall be made to or in respect of any goods or chattels taken in execution, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, by any person, it shall be lawful for the registrar upon application of the high bailiff, as well before as after any action brought against him, to issue a summons calling before the court as well the party issuing such process as the party making such claim, and the judge shall adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order between the parties in respect thereof and of the costs of the proceedings, as he shall think fit, and shall also adjudicate between such parties, or either of them, and the high bailiff, with respect to any damage, or claim of or to damages, arising or capable of arising out of the execution of such process by the high bailiff, and make such order in respect thereof, and of the costs of the proceedings, as to him shall seem fit; and such orders shall be enforced in like manner as any order in any action brought in such court, and shall be final and conclusive as between the parties, and as between them or either of them and the high bailiff, unless the decision of the court shall be in either case appealed from; and upon the issue of the summons any action which shall have been brought in any court in respect of such claim, or of any damage arising out of the execution of such process, shall be stayed.

Interpleader on Execution.]—When any claim is made by any person to or in respect of any goods or chattels taken in execution, or their proceeds or value, the high bailiff, by means of the following provisions, may, whether any action has been brought against him or not, relieve himself from the claim by applying to the registrar for an interpleader summons (see sect. 157; Order XXVII. rr. 1, 3, 4).

Where a claim, which must be in writing, is made, the high bailiff must forthwith send notice to the execution creditor (Form 203A), and to the claimant, requiring him to make deposit or give security in accordance with sect. 156 (Form 205); if the execution creditor admits the title of the claimant to the goods or chattels, and gives notice (Form 204A) to the high bailiff of such admission within four days after receipt of the high bailiff's notice, or if within the same time he requests the high bailiff to withdraw from possession, he will only be liable to the high bailiff for any fees for possession or expenses incurred by him prior to the receipt of such notice; and the judge may order the payment of such fees or expenses, on application in writing intituled in the matter of the execution, of which three clear days' notice in writing must be given by the high bailiff to the execution creditor (Order XXVII. r. 1. This rule enables the judge to order payment of the fees and expenses which Thomas v. Peck, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 727; 57 L. J. Q. B. 497, decided he had power to award. Where the execution creditor does not in due time admit the title of the claimant, and the claimant persists in his claim, the high bailiff must apply for an interpleader summons (Order XXVII. r. 3).

Where any claim is made, the claimant may deposit with the bailiff either the amount of the value of the goods claimed (such value to be fixed by appraisement in case of dispute (this does not mean a dispute between the bailiff and the claimant, but between parties interested, e.g., the claimant and the execution creditor: Miller & Co. v. Solomon, (1906) 2 K. B. 91; 75 L. J. K. B. 671)), to be by the bailiff paid into court, to abide the decision of the judge upon the claim, or the sum which the bailiff is allowed to charge as costs for keeping possession of the goods until the decision can be obtained, or may give security for the value of the goods; and in default of the claimant so doing, the bailiff must sell the goods as if no claim had been made, and pay into court the proceeds to abide the decision (see sect. 156); the bailiff so selling gives the purchaser a good title to the goods, although they were the property of the claimant at the time of the seizure (Goodlock v. Cousins (C. A.), (1897) 1 Q. B. 558; 66 L. J. Q. B. 360). But the purchaser will only acquire a good title to goods not the property of the execution debtor where a claim is made to them under sect. 156 and they are sold under that section; where the bailiff sells goods to which no claim has been made, but which subsequently turn out not to have been the property of the execution debtor at the time of the seizure or sale, the purchaser acquires no title to them as against the true owner (Crane v. Ormerod, (1903) 2 K. B. 37; 72 L. J. K. B. 507). In the latter case, if the true owner has the right to retake possession of the goods at the date of their being sold, the sale is an act of conversion, in respect of which he can obtain damages against the high sheriff (Jelks v. Hayward, (1905) 2 K. B. 460; 74 L. J. K. B. 717). The bailiff will be entitled to sell without applying for an interpleader summons under sect. 157, and will not be responsible in damages, if the goods be sold for less than their real value, although the claimant may establish his title to them (Cramer v. Matthews, (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 425; S. C., Davies v. Wise, 50 L. J. Q. B. 651). The bailiff may, nevertheless, if no deposit has been made or security given, delay the sale until the claim has been adjudicated upon (Order XXVII. r. 7). When the bailiff pays into court the sum of money deposited with him by the claimant, he must be deemed to have taken it on the assumption that it represented the value of the goods, and he has therefore no right to remain in possession, or to possession fees, after the date of the deposit (Newsum, Sons & Co. v. James, (1909) 2 K. B. 384; 78 L. J. K. B. 761). Where a creditor, who has assigned a debt together with all securities for the same, subsequently recovers judgment against his debtor in the county court, and the goods of the judgment debtor are taken in execution, the assignee of the debt cannot claim the proceeds of sale under sects. 156 and 157 of the Act (Plant v. Collins, (1912) 2 K. B. 459; 81 L. J. K. B. 868; (C. A.), (1913) 1 K. B. 242; 82 L. J. K. B. 467).

The claimant may, at any time before the return-day of the summons, file notice that he withdraws his claim, at the same time giving notice of withdrawal to the execution creditor, and the execution creditor, if he has not admitted the claim as above mentioned, may at any time before the return-day file an admission of the title of the claimant, and give notice (Form 204A) to him of such admission; the goods and chattels seized or the proceeds of their sale, or the money paid into court (as the case may be), will be dealt with as if the claim had not been made or the execution had been withdrawn; in either case the claimant or execution creditor (as the case may be) will be liable to be ordered to pay such costs, fees, charges, and expenses as the judge may think just (Order XXVII. r. 3). The high bailiff can get protection where the execution creditor abandons before interpleader; the application must be made in writing, and three clear days' notice in writing given to the claimant, who may attend the hearing (Order XXVII. r. 2).

Security for Costs when Claimant out of the Jurisdiction.]—When the claimant does not reside in England or Wales, either the execution creditor or the high bailiff may apply to the court on notice in writing for an order for security for costs. If the order is made, and security not given within the time limited, the claimant is debarred from appearing in support of his claim, unless the judge otherwise orders. An undertaking by the claimant's solicitor to be responsible for the costs is sufficient (Order XXVII, r. 3A).

Summons.]—Upon the application of the high bailiff, the registrar must issue a summons, without fee or leave of the judge, calling before the court the party who issued the process under which the goods were seized, and also the claimant (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 157; Order XXVII. r. 11; Forms 206—210). The summons must be issued from, and the execution creditor and claimant summoned to, the court of the district in which the levy was made (Order XXVII. rr. 11, 12). It must be served like an ordinary summons, except that if a party acts by solicitor service must be made on him. The claimant is deemed to be the plaintiff, and the execution creditor the defendant, but where the claimant has not made deposit or given security under sect. 156 (supra), the time of service may, if the high bailiff so desires, by leave of the judge or registrar, be such as will obtain a speedy decision of the claim (Order XXVII. rr. 4, 11).

The bailiff is not required by the mere fact of the issue of the summons to withdraw from possession (Ex parte Summers, (1852) 18 Jur. 522).

Upon the issue of the summons any action which has been brought in any court in respect of the claim or of any damage arising out of the execution of the process must be stayed (see sect. 157); but these provisions apply only as between the execution creditor, the claimant, and the high bailiff, or one of them. So an action brought against a person who has purchased goods from the high bailiff cannot be stayed (Hills v. Renny (C. A.), (1880) 5 Ex. D. 313; 49 L. J. Ex. 710).

Section 157 Notes.

Particulars.]—The claimant, five clear days at least before the return-day, must deliver to the high bailiff, or leave at the office of the registrar, two copies of the particulars of any goods or chattels alleged to be the property of the claimant, and the grounds of his claim, or, in case of a claim for rent, of the amount thereof, and for what period and in respect of what premises it is claimed to be due; and the name, description, and address of the claimant must also be fully set forth in the particulars; and any money paid into court under the execution must be retained by the registrar until the claim is adjudicated on. The high bailiff must forthwith send one of the copies of the particulars by post to the execution creditor or his solicitor. By consent an interpleader claim may be tried, although this rule has not been complied with (Order XXVII. r. 5; Forms 211, 212; see as to an infant claimant, Order V. r. 16). The particulars ought to state how and by what right the claimant asserts his title; and where a notice stated only that the goods were the property of the claimant, but omitted to state any grounds of claim, it was held insufficient (R. v. Chilton, (1850) 15 Q. B. 220; S. C., Ex parte Tanner, 19 L. J. Q. B. 318; 81 R. R. 564). Where, however, the particulars stated that the goods were assigned to the claimant by an indenture (giving the date and the parties), but without specifying them in a schedule, it was held sufficient (R. v. Richards, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 263; 20 L. J. Q. B. 351; 86 R. R. 898). It is not necessary that the claim should specify the goods or set them forth in the schedule (Heslop v. M'George, (1851) 18 L. T. O. S. 109). The court was equally divided as to whether particulars describing the goods, etc., seized, as "the goods and money seized by virtue of the warrant," were sufficient or not (Richardson v. Wright, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. 367; 44 L. J. Ex. 230). Where the address of the claimant was stated as "Elizabeth Street," instead of "Terrace, Islington," it was held that, not being calculated to mislead, it was sufficient (Ex parte M'Fee, (1854) 9 Ex. 261; 23 L. J. Ex. 57; 96 R. R. 700).

In all cases the judge is bound to adjudicate at some time upon a claim, although the particulars delivered by the claimant are insufficient, or have not been delivered in time. In such a case the judge should amend the particulars, or, if the particulars have not been delivered in time, order a new summons to issue, so that he may decide the case on the merits (Beswick v. Boffey, (1855) 9 Ex. 315; 23 L. J. Ex. 89; R. v. Stapylton, (1851) 2 L. M. & P. 603; 21 L. J. Q. B. 8; Fraser v. Fothergill, (1854) 14 C. B. 298; 23 L. J. C. P. 53). Still the insufficiency justifies the judge in refusing to hear it in its then form (R. v. Chilton, supra).

Where a judge of a county court, upon an interpleader summons, erroneously decides against a claimant, on the ground that the notice of claim is insufficient, the high court may direct him to hear and adjudicate upon the claim (Churchward v. Coleman, (1866) L. R. 2 Q. B. 18; 36 L. J. Q. B. 57).

So the high court may in such a case, by writ of prohibition, prohibit him from proceeding on the original plaint until the interpleader has been determined (Ex parte M'Fee, (1854) 9 Ex. 261; 23 L. J. Ex. 57; 96 R. R. 700).

Claim for Damages.] — Where the claimant claims damages from the execution creditor or the high bailiff for or in respect of the seizure, he must state in his particulars the amount he claims for damages, and the grounds upon which he claims them (Order XXVII. r. 8 (1)). If he has not claimed damages before the issue of the interpleader summons, but claims them in his particulars of claim, he may be ordered to pay the costs of any adjournment necessary to enable the execution creditor or high bailiff to prepare his defence to the claim so made (Order XXVII. r. 8 (2)).

Where the execution creditor claims damages against a high bailiff, he must deliver to him, five clear days at least before the return-day, a notice of the claim, stating the amount and grounds thereof; he may apply to the judge at the hearing of the interpleader summons to adjudicate upon his claim, which, for the purpose of fees and costs, will be deemed to be a claim in an interpleader (Order XXVII. r. 9. For orders, see Forms 223—225; and warrant of execution, Form 221).

Though the seizure was made in good faith and there was no misconduct, the high bailiff may be liable in damages (London, Chatham, and Dover Rail. Co. v. Cable, (1899) 80 L. T. 119).

Either the high bailiff or the execution creditor may pay money into court in satisfaction, as if an action had been brought, and the high bailiff may pay money into court in satisfaction of a claim made against him by an execution creditor (Order XXVII. r. 10).

Money in Court.]—Money in court under the execution must be retained until the claim is adjudicated upon (Order XXVII. r. 5), when the court should order to whom it is to be paid (Forms 213, 214).

Hearing and Order.]—The hearing in cases of interpleader is the same as in ordinary actions, the claimant being considered as plaintiff, and the execution creditor as defendant (Order XXVII. r. 4); at the instance of either party, a jury may be summoned as in other cases (Order XXII. r. 3).

If there is no jury, the judge must adjudicate upon the claim, and make such order between the parties, and as to the costs, as to him seems fit. He must also adjudicate between the execution creditor and the claimant, or either of them, and the high bailiff, with respect to any damage or claim of or to damages, arising or capable of arising out of the execution of the process by the high bailiff, and make such order in respect thereof and of the costs of the proceedings as to him seems fit; and subject to the right of appeal mentioned below, the order will be final and conclusive between the execution creditor, the claimant, and the high bailiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 157; Forms 213—221, 223—225). The order must contain directions as to how any money paid into court in the proceeding is to be disposed of. A minute of the order is entered in the minute book, but the order need not be drawn up, unless required by one of the parties or ordered by the court; if drawn up, it must be in accordance with the prescribed form (Order XXVII. r. 14). And, as between the execution creditor, the claimant, and the high bailiff, the order will not only dispose of claims actually brought forward, but will also bar claims which might have been brought forward and adjudicated upon (Death v. Harrison, (1871) L. R. 6 Ex. 15; 40 L. J. Ex. 26; Hills v. Renny, (1880) 5 Ex. D. 313; 49 L. J. Ex. 710), whether they exceed 50*l.* or not, the judge's jurisdiction as to them being unlimited (Smith v. Benskin, (1893) 94 L. T. (Journal) 285).

Where the execution creditor is successful, he will be entitled to the whole sum deposited by the claimant with the bailiff and paid into court by the latter, although some of the goods seized may admittedly be the property of another and subsequent claimant (Wells v. Hughes, (1907) 2 K. B. 845; 76 L. J. K. B. 1125).

In Flude v. Goldberg, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 219, it was decided that a claimant who claimed the goods as his absolute property but only satisfied the jury that they belonged to a partnership of which he was a member was not entitled to succeed against the execution creditor (a).

(a) Decision of Divisional Court reported (1915) 2 K. B. 157; 84 L. J. K. B. 511, reversed, but see now Peake v. Carter, (1916) 1 K. B. 652; 85 L. J. K. B. 761, where Flude v. Goldberg was explained as a case depending upon the particular issues insisted upon by the parties at the trial, and the absence of any amendment of the particulars of demand. The decision in Peake v. Carter was that the rule upon the trial of an interpleader issue is, that where a claimant claims under a title which he fails to prove, he is not thereby precluded from relying on the title in fact found to exist.

Goods were claimed by a claimant who paid their value (25*l.*) into Court. In an interpleader the judge found for the execution creditor and the 25*l.* was paid to him. He levied on the same goods again for a balance. The claimant again claimed and paid 25*l.* The judge again found for the execution creditor. Held on appeal that the execution creditor was estopped from denying that the goods were the property of the claimant (Haddow v. Morton (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 565; 63 L. J. Q. B. 431).

But by payment into court a claimant acquires no absolute property in the goods, and if they are again seized by a different creditor must again pay the full value into court as the condition of an interpleader issue (Kotchie v. Golden Sovereigns, Ltd., (1898) 2 Q. B. 164; 67 L. J. Q. B. 722).

Costs of Bailiff.] — The judge must also adjudicate upon any claim of the high bailiff for the fees, and he may, if he think fit, order the same, or such part thereof as he may think just, to be paid by the claimant or by the execution creditor (Order XXVII. r. 6; see post, p. 587, and Goodman v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 77; 56 L. J. Q. B. 441).

It was formerly held that if the bailiff neglected to retain his costs, he could not, after paying over the proceeds, recover them from the execution creditor (Bloor v. Huston, (1854) 15 C. B. 266; 24 L. J. C. P. 26).

The order of the judge may be enforced in the same manner as any order in an action in the court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 157; Forms 213—221, 223—225).

To ascertain the scale upon which costs are to be taxed, the "subject matter" in an interpleader means, (1) in the case of a claimant, the value of the goods to which he establishes his claim, plus damages, if any (Order LIII. r. 15). The value of the goods is the value as found by the judge, not the amount of deposit made to avoid a sale (Studham v. Stanbridge, (1895) 1 Q. B. 870; 64 L. J. Q. B. 473), nor necessarily the sum of money which may have been ordered to be paid into court as representing the value of the goods (Tarry v. Witt, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 950). (2) In the case of an execution creditor, the value of the goods seized, plus the damages claimed; (3) in the case of a high bailiff, the damages claimed (Order LIII. r. 15).

Order for Sale.]—Where it appears that the claim is founded on a bill of sale, or otherwise, by way of security for a debt, the judge may order a sale of the whole or part of the goods or chattels, and may direct the proceeds of the sale to be applied in such manner and upon such terms as may be just (Order XXVII. r. 13). The order will be according to Form 212A, with such modifications as may be necessary and as the judge shall direct (Order XXVII. r. 13). The costs of the application for sale are borne as between the parties as the judge may direct (Order XXVII. r. 13). The order may be made although the execution creditor cannot contest the title of the bill of sale holder (Miller & Co. v. Solomon, (1906) 2 K. B. 91; 75 L. J. K. B. 671).

This provision is intended to prevent an execution from being defeated by a claimant under a bill of sale by way of security for a sum less than the value of the goods. It appears that there is no obligation on the bailiff to apply for an order for sale under these provisions. He may withdraw, if satisfied that the bill of sale or security is valid, and return nulla bona without exposing himself to an action. If he interpleads, it appears that the order for the sale may be made on the hearing of the interpleader summons (Scarlett v. Hanson (C. A.), (1884) 12 Q. B. D. 213; 53 L. J. Q. B. 62).

Where a sale is directed, a duplicate of the order is given by the registrar to the high bailiff, who must forthwith sell the goods or chattels, and after deducting the expenses pay the balance into court, and such balance will be applied by the registrar in accordance with the order (Order XXVII. r. 13). A secured claimant is not entitled to receive out of the balance any sum not included in his particulars or mentioned in the order (Hockey v. Evans (C. A.), (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 390; 56 L. J. Q. B. 253).

Appeal.]—An appeal lies on the same grounds as in other cases where the money claimed, or the value of the goods claimed, or of the proceeds thereof, exceeds 20*l.* (see sect. 120). If it does not exceed 20*l.*, there may still be an appeal by leave of the judge (the wording of s. 120 of 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43 displaces the grounds upon which the court held in Collis v. Lewis, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 202; 57 L. J. Q. B. 167, that no appeal would lie).

Section 157 Notes.

If the goods are appraised and a deposit made in accordance with the appraisement, the appraised value is the value for the purpose of appeal (White v. Milne, (1888) 58 L. T. 225), but see Tarry v. Witt, supra. If the value exceeds 20*l*., an appeal lies, although the claim in the original plaint is below 20*l*. (Vallance v. Nash, (1858) 2 H. & N. 712; 27 L. J. Ex. 142; 115 R. R. 759). If the value does not exceed 20*l*., there can be no appeal, without leave, even though damages may be claimed exceeding 20*l*. (Lumb v. Teal, (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 675; 58 L. J. Q. B. 298).

The claimant or the execution creditor, or a landlord who appears on the summons (Foulger v. Taylor, (1860) 1 H. & N. 202; 29 L. J. Ex. 154; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 120, 186), may appeal if his rights are prejudiced.

If the court reverse the judgment and order a new trial, the order of the county court for costs will be also reversed (Gage v. Collins, (1867) L. R. 2 C. P. 381; 36 L. J. C. P. 144).

158. In all cases where a warrant of execution shall have issued against the goods and chattels of any person or an order for his commitment shall have been made, and such person, or his goods and chattels, shall be out of the jurisdiction of the court, it shall be lawful for the high bailiff of the court to send the warrant of execution or order of commitment to the registrar of any other court within the jurisdiction of which such person, or his goods and chattels, shall then be or be believed to be, with a warrant thereto annexed, under the hand of the high bailiff and seal of the court from which the original warrant or order issued, requiring execution of the same, and the registrar of the court to which the same shall be sent shall seal or stamp the same with the seal of his court and issue the same, to the high bailiff of his court; and thereupon such last-mentioned high bailiff shall be authorised and required to act in all respects as if the original warrant of execution or order of commitment had been directed to him by the court of which he is the high bailiff, and shall, within such time as shall be prescribed, return to the high bailiff of the court from which the same originally issued what he shall have done in the execution of such process, and shall, within such time as shall be prescribed, pay over all moneys received in pursuance of the warrant or order; and where any order of commitment shall have been made and the person apprehended, he shall be forthwith conveyed, in custody of the bailiff or officer apprehending him, to the prison of the court within the jurisdiction of which he shall have been apprehended, and kept therein for the time mentioned in the order of commitment, unless sooner discharged by law; and all constables and other peace officers shall be aiding and assisting within their respective districts in the execution of such order of commitment.

How execution may be had out of the jurisdiction of the court.

Execution out of Jurisdiction in England and Wales.]—A writ of execution out of an inferior court could not at common law be executed out of the jurisdiction (Com. Dig. "Execution," I. 2). By the section (supra), where a warrant has issued against the goods and chattels of any person, or an order for his commitment has been made, and he or his goods and chattels are out of the jurisdiction, the warrant may be sent by the high bailiff to the registrar of any other court within the jurisdiction of which the person or his goods and chattels may then be or be believed to be, with a warrant annexed, under the hand of the high bailiff and seal of the court from which the original warrant or order issued, requiring execution of the same (Form 173); and the registrar of the court to which it is sent must seal or stamp it with the seal of his court, enter it in a book (Order XXVIII. r. 1), and re-issue it to the high bailiff of his court. When the warrant is against goods, the high bailiff of the court from which it issues must annex to the notice to be left with the debtor (pursuant to Order XXV. r. 17) a notice under his hand and seal, that all payments under the warrant should be made, and all notices or claims in respect of the execution or the goods, should be given or sent to the high bailiff of the court of the district in which the levy is made, and not to the high bailiff of the court out of which the warrant originally issued. Order XXVIII. r. 1 (2); Form 173A. Thereupon the high bailiff is to act in all respects as if the original warrant of execution or order of commitment had been directed to him by his own court (sect. 158). This procedure includes City of London Court: see 15 Vict. c. lxxvii. s. 42.

Transmission of Money Levied.]—Subject to Order II., Rules 34A, 35 and 36, where by virtue of any warrant against goods sent to a foreign district any money has been received by the bailiff of the foreign court, he must within twenty-four hours from the receiving of it pay it over to the registrar of the foreign court, and unless an interpleader summons as to such money is pending he must make a return in writing of the amount received according to Form 175. In the case of a levy having been made, the bailiff must state in the return the gross amount produced by such levy, the particulars of the appraiser's and broker's charges, and the fees allowed for keeping possession, and pay over to the registrar of the foreign court the amount levied, less such charges and fees; and the registrar of the foreign court must certify therein the amount paid into court, and the correctness of the said charges, and shall account for and pay over such amount to the treasurer of his court at such time as the treasurer shall require; and the high bailiff must thereupon transmit such return to the high bailiff of the home court, as directed by sect. 158 of the Act, and such latter bailiff must, within twenty-four hours from the receipt of such return, deliver the same to the registrar of his court, who must file it and shall (subject to Order II. r. 34A) pay out of any money in his hands to the execution creditor the amount certified in such return to have been received by the registrar of the foreign court as the proceeds of the execution, and enter in a book the amount so certified according to the form in the Appendix (Appendix Part II., Form M), and the amount so paid must be allowed him at his audit (see sect. 158; Order XXVIII. r. 2; Form 175).

Where the bailiff is by the Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 41 (2)) required to hold the proceeds of sale, or the money paid in order to avoid sale for fourteen days, he must proceed in accordance with Order II. r. 35 and not under Order XXVIII. r. 2 (1) until the fourteen days have expired. Order XXVIII. r. 2 (2).

Where an interpleader as to the amount received is pending, the high bailiff postpones the return required by Order XXVIII. r. 2 (1) until it is disposed of, and then shall make a return showing how the money received is to be disposed of, and the amount (if any) payable to the execution creditor, and the return is certified and the amount payable to the execution creditor dealt with as provided in Order XXVIII. r. 2 (1). Order XXVIII. r. 2 (3).

If the warrant is not executed within one calendar month from the day of delivery, the high bailiff of the foreign court must make a return to the registrar of the home court within twenty-four hours, and send a copy thereof to the execution creditor, and where not executed whilst in force return the same within a like time, and indorse on the warrant the reason why it could not be executed, and sign the same. He must also return the warrant, executed or not, to the home court whenever so directed by the registrar of the home court, and give all such information as may be required of him in regard to the warrant (Order II. r. 37; Form 174).

As to the procedure in cases of part payment after issue of the warrant of execution, see p. 542.

Judge may authorise bailiffs to act as brokers. 12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, s. 10.

159. It shall be lawful for the judge, by any writing under his hand, to authorise any of the bailiffs appointed by the high bailiff to act as brokers or appraisers for the purpose of selling or valuing any goods, chattels, or effects taken in execution under this Act; and the bailiffs so authorised by the judge may, without other licence in this behalf, do and perform all the duties and shall be entitled to the poundage which sworn brokers or appraisers may do and perform and are entitled to under this Act.

When goods seized under process of the court landlord may claim certain rent in arrear. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 75.

160. Section one of the Act of the eighth year of the reign of Queen Anne, chapter fourteen, shall not apply to goods taken in execution under the warrant of the court, but the landlord of any tenement in which any such goods shall be so taken may claim the rent thereof at any time within five clear days from the date of such taking, or before the removal of the goods, by delivering to the bailiff or officer making the levy any writing signed by himself or his agent, which shall state the amount of rent claimed to be in arrear, and the time for and in respect of which such rent is due; and if such claim be made, the bailiff or officer making the levy shall, in addition thereto, distrain for the rent so claimed and the costs of such distress, and shall not within five days next after such distress sell any part of the goods taken unless they be of a perishable nature, or upon the request in writing of the party whose goods shall have been taken; and the bailiff shall afterwards sell such of the goods under the execution and distress as shall satisfy, first, the costs of and incident to the sale, next the claim of such landlord, not exceeding the rent of four weeks where the tenement is let by the week, the rent of two terms of payment where the tenement is let for any other term less than a year, and the rent of one year in any other case, and lastly, the amount for which the warrant was issued; and if any replevin be made of the goods so taken, the bailiff shall, notwithstanding, sell such portion thereof as will satisfy the costs of and incident to the sale under the execution, and the amount for which the warrant issued; and in either event the overplus of the sale, if any, and the residue of the goods, shall be returned to the defendant, and the poundage of the high bailiff and broker for keeping possession, appraisement, and sale under such distress shall be the same as would have been payable if the distress had been an execution of the court, and no other fees shall be demanded or taken in respect thereof.

The provisions of this section do not extend to ss. 6 and 7 of 8 Anne, c. 14, but are confined to s. 1 of that statute; therefore where the goods of a former tenant who has surrendered are taken in execution, the landlord cannot claim arrears of rent as against the execution creditor. Neither in such circumstances does sect. 160 (supra) apply, as this section is a substitute alone for sect. 1 of 8 Anne, c. 14, which is only applicable where the relation of landlord and tenant is a subsisting one: Lewis v. Davies, (1914) 2 K. B. 469; 83 L. J. K. B. 598.

The high bailiff is entitled to a separate set of possession fees in respect of each proceeding, viz., under the execution and under the distress (In re Broster, (1897) 2 Q. B. 529; 66 L. J. Q. B. 766).

If the bailiff wrongfully seizes goods of a stranger on the defendant's premises, the landlord is not entitled to require the bailiff under this section to levy upon them for rent, the bailiff can only sell for rent under this section such goods as he can sell under the execution (Beard v. Knight, (1858) 8 E. & B. 865; 27 L. J. Q. B. 359; 112 R. R. 810; Foulger v. Taylor, (1860) 5 H. & N. 202; 29 L. J. Ex. 154); but if he rightfully seizes the defendant's goods on the premises of another, the landlord of the premises is so entitled (Hughes v. Smallwood, (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 306; 59 L. J. Q. B. 503). It seems extremely doubtful whether the bailiff could sell for rent if the execution creditor instructed the bailiff to withdraw, and abandoned his execution. Although there may be goods on the premises which the landlord could distrain, they may in fact be exempt when the bailiff levies.

Mode of issuing and executing orders of commitment.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 102.

161. Whenever any order of commitment under the Debtors Act, 1869, shall have been made, or any warrant of attachment shall have been ordered to be issued, such order or warrant, under the seal of the court, shall be directed to the high bailiff of any court, who by such order or warrant shall be empowered to take the body of the person against whom such order shall be made or warrant issued; and all constables and other peace officers within their several jurisdictions shall aid in the execution of every such order or warrant; and the governor of every prison mentioned in any such order or warrant shall be bound to receive and keep the person therein mentioned until discharged under the provisions of this Act or otherwise by due course of law.

See 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5; Order II. r. 4. No warrant is prepared. The order is the authority under which the high bailiff acts.

The judge may refuse to make the order, or may make a fresh order for payment at a specified time or by instalments (Order XXV. r. 46 (1)). The execution of an order of commitment may be suspended by direction of the judge, notice of any such direction being given to the judgment debtor (Order XXV. r. 46 (2); Form 191A). Subject to the provisions of Order XXV. rr. 48 and 49, all payments under a fresh order or order of commitment must be paid into court (Order XXV. r. 46 (3)).

On the making of the order by the judge, the registrar makes a minute of it. The court will not grant a prohibition on the ground that the minute does not show the ground on which the order is made (Harris v. Slater, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 359; 57 L. J. Q. B. 539).

Section 161 Notes.

Execution of Order.]—The order of commitment authorises the high bailiff and his bailiffs to arrest the judgment debtor, and lodge him in gaol (Order XXV. r. 46A; see Form 187). The Sheriffs Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 55, s. 14), does not prevent an immediate taking to prison (Mitchell v. Simpson (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 183; 59 L. J. Q. B. 355). The ordinary rules as to the mode and place of execution apply (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 77; Order LIV. r. 19; Order I. r. 5; see ante, p. 172). All constables and other peace officers must aid in executing the order, and the governor of the prison mentioned in it must receive and keep the debtor until discharged by due course of law (sect. 161). The extreme term of imprisonment is six weeks (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5), computed from the date of lodging in prison (Ex parte Foulkes, (1846) 15 M. & W. 612).

If the plaintiff directs the execution of the order against a person not named in it, he is liable in trespass (Watley v. M'Connell, (1849) 13 Q. B. 903; 19 L. J. Q. B. 162; 78 R. R. 552).

The high bailiff must make returns as in case of execution against goods, and pay over moneys and give information to suitors (see Order II. rr. 33, 34, 37).

The order must set out the particular ground of committal, in order that the person committed may know exactly what he ought to do to purge his contempt (R. v. Lambeth C. C. (2), (1887) 36 W. R. 475).

Power of committal for contempt. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 113.

162. If any person shall wilfully insult the judge, or any juror or witness, or any registrar, bailiff, or officer of the court for the time being during his sitting or attendance in court, or in going to or returning from the court, or shall wilfully interrupt the proceedings of the court, or otherwise misbehave in court, it shall be lawful for any bailiff or officer of the court, with or without the assistance of any other person, by the order of the judge, to take such offender into custody, and detain him until the rising of the court; and the judge shall be empowered, if he shall think fit, by a warrant under his hand, and sealed with the seal of the court, to commit any such offender to any prison to which he has power to commit offenders for any time not exceeding seven days, or to impose upon any such offender a fine not exceeding five pounds for every such offence, and in default of payment thereof to commit the offender to any such prison as aforesaid for any time not exceeding seven days, unless the said fine be sooner paid.

See Order LII. r. 8; Forms, of order, 365; of warrant of commitment, 366; of warrant of commitment in default of payment of fine, 367.

Where a fine, or an instalment of a fine made payable by instalments, is not paid in accordance with the order, the registrar must forthwith report the matter to the judge, and act on any orders given for the enforcement of such fine (Order LII. rr. 9, 10). Payment of the fine may also be enforced in the same manner as a judgment debt, or in the same manner as money adjudged to be paid under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (see these statutes, post, p. 866). Though a limited company cannot be committed for contempt of court on a return to a writ of attachment an appropriate penalty other than imprisonment may be inflicted (Rex v. J. G. Hammond & Co., Ltd., (1914) 2 K. B. 866; 83 L. J. K. B. 1221). The section confines the power to commit for contempts committed in court and to the particular cases therein specified. The judge has no power to proceed under this section, or by virtue of his authority as a judge, against a person for contemptuous and insulting writing published out of court (R. v. Lefroy, (1873) L. R. 8 Q. B. 134; S. C., Ex parte Jolliffe, 42 L. J. Q. B. 121); nor can he commit a person for contempt in practising as a solicitor without being duly qualified (R. v. Brompton C. C. (2), (1893) 2 Q. B. 195; 62 L. J. Q. B. 604).

A county court judge could possibly exercise this authority when exercising under sect. 67 of the County Courts Act, 1888, the powers of a Chancery judge.

The judge has jurisdiction to decide conclusively whether any particular act amounts to an insult, interruption or misbehaviour, if there be any evidence on which he could reasonably hold it to be so; nor need the warrant of commitment state more than that the judge has been wilfully insulted. To say to a judge, in reference to an observation in his judgment, "that is a most unjust remark," is a wilful insult within the section (Reg. v. Jordan (C. A.), (1888) 57 L. J. Q. B. 483). The recital that the plaintiff had insulted the judge is a sufficient adjudication of the offence in the warrant of committal. It is not necessary that it should go further and describe the nature of the insults (Levy v. Moylan, (1850) 1 L. M. & P. 307; 10 C. B. 189; 19 L. J. C. P. 308; 84 R. R. 524; and see Ex parte Pater, (1864) 5 B. & S. 299; 33 L. J. M. C. 142; 136 R. R. 538).

Various contempts, punishable by attachment, will hereafter be mentioned, e.g., under Order XVI. r. 21. The above provisions do not extend to them.

To what prisons committals may be made.

12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, ss. 1, 2, 3.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 74.

163. If a judge orders any person to be committed to prison either for contempt or in pursuance of the Debtors Act, 1869, he shall order such person to be committed to a prison which shall from time to time, by order of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, be allowed as a place of imprisonment for persons committed by the judge of such court: Provided that, until such order of a Secretary of State has been made, the person may be committed to any prison to which the judge now has power to commit him.

To what Prison.]—The debtor against whom an order of commitment is made, must be committed to the particular prison designated by various orders of the Home Secretary. The orders apply to all commitments whatsoever, and will be found in Appendix D, post, p. 893.

PART VIII.

Rules; Fees; Fines; Unclaimed Money in Court.

Rules, etc., and forms of proceedings and scale of costs to be framed by judges appointed by Lord Chancellor.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, ss. 5, 32.

164. The Lord Chancellor may appoint five judges and from time to time fill up any vacancies in their number, to frame rules and orders for regulating the practice of the courts and forms of proceedings therein, and scales of costs to be paid to counsel and solicitors, and from time to time to amend such rules, orders, forms, and scales; and such rules, orders, forms, and scales, or amended rules, orders, forms, and scales, certified under the hands of such judges, or any three or more of them, shall be submitted to the Lord Chancellor, who may allow or disallow, or alter the same; and the rules, orders, forms, and scales, or amended rules, orders, forms, and scales, so allowed or altered, subject to the concurrence of the authority for making rules of the Supreme Court, as in the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884, provided, shall, from a day to be named by the Lord Chancellor, be in force in every court. Such power of making rules and orders shall extend to all matters of procedure or practice, or relating to or concerning the effect or operation in law of any procedure or practice, in any case within the cognizance of county courts, as to which rules of the Supreme Court have been or might lawfully be made for cases within the cognizance of the High Court of Justice. The rules, orders, forms, and scales of costs in force at the commencement of this Act shall continue to be in force unless and until otherwise provided. In any case not expressly by this Act or in pursuance thereof provided for the general principles of practice in the High Court of Justice may be adopted and applied to actions and matters.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, ss. 16, 17.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, ss. 15, 27.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 8.

44 & 45 Vict. c. 68, s. 27.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 78.

Rules of Practice.]—This power extends to the making of rules to carry into effect the County Courts Act, 1903.

The rules and forms at present in force are framed under this section. They supersede all other rules.

Rules must not be ultra vires.]—It seems that rules of practice must not be inconsistent with or repugnant to the provisions of the Act of Parliament under which they are framed. The rules made under the 12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, s. 12, were to have the same force and effect as if enacted by Parliament, but it was nevertheless held that a rule providing that seven days' notice should be given of an intended application for a new trial did not take away the discretion which the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 89, gave the judge to grant a new trial, and that he might grant it though the rule had not been complied with (In re Carter, (1855) 4 E. & B. 696; 24 L. J. Q. B. 141; 99 R. R. 699). So a rule under the 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 32, which provided that an appeal case should be presented for signature at the first court held after twelve clear days from the date of the judgment, was held not to take away the appellant's right to have the case signed at a later day (Hacking v. Lee, (1860) 2 E. & E. 906; 29 L. J. Q. B. 204). In Irving v. Askew ((1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 208, 211; 39 L. J. Q. B. 118), Hannen, J., delivering the judgment of the court, said: "If the rule were really repugnant to the provisions of the Act of Parliament, I should think that the rule, though made under the powers of the Act, would not override its enactments." So a rule similar to Order II. r. 1, of the present rules was doubted by the judges, and an opinion expressed that it was ultra vires (Wetherfield v. Nelson, (1869) L. R. 4 C. P. 571; 38 L. J. C. P. 220; see also an example of an invalid rule of quarter sessions, R. v. Pawlett, (1873) L. R. 8 Q. B. 491; 42 L. J. M. C. 157. See A.-G. v. Sillem, (1864) 10 H. L. C. 704; 33 L. J. Ex. 92, 209; 138 R. R. 382).

Forms.]—All proceedings and documents must be in form similar to the prescribed forms, where they are applicable; and in cases where the forms are not applicable or no forms are provided, parties must frame the proceedings or documents, using as guides those contained in the Appendix to the Rules (Order LIV. r. 22). By a recent rule provision is made for the printing and supply by the Treasury of forms which are marked as "not to be printed," but which experience has shown to be in common use (Order LIV. r. 22A).

Section 164 Notes.

Practice.]—No practice may prevail in any court which is inconsistent with the rules, nor may any matter be added to or taken from any form in the Appendix, whereby any obligation is imposed upon any suitor or any officer of the court to which he is not liable under statute or the rules or otherwise by law (Order LIV. r. 23). In many cases the rules leave the determination of particular matters in the discretion of the judge, and he is not permitted to prescribe for his own guidance, or that of the officers of the court, general rules to be applied to cases as they arise, instead of exercising his discretion in the particular case. Thus, where a judge made a general rule that solicitors' costs should not be allowed in certain cases, and refused them in a particular case in obedience to his general rule, it was held that he had not exercised his discretion, and he was ordered to hear and determine the application (R. v. Marylebone C. C., (1890) 34 S. J. 459; see also The Cashmere, (1890) 15 P. D. 121; 59 L. J. P. 57).

The general practice of the court prescribed by the rules, applies to all proceedings whatsoever authorised by any existing or future Act to be commenced or taken in any county court, except and so far as such practice may be inconsistent with the provisions of any such Act or of any rules made as to the procedure under such Act (Order L. r. 36).

The last words of the section (supra) empower the judge to allow a pauper plaintiff to sue in formâ pauperis; see Chinn v. Bullen, (1849) 8 C. B. 447; 19 L. J. C. P. 42; 79 R. R. 566, decided upon similar words in 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 78. Phillimore, L.J., in Perry v. London General Omnibus Co., (1916) 2 K. B. p. 346; also to dismiss a case as being frivolous and vexatious (Norman v. Matthews, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 857).

Order as to fees.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 79. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 13.

165. The Treasury from time to time, with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor, may make orders as to the fees to be paid on any proceedings which are now or shall hereafter be authorised to be taken in the courts, whether any fee is now payable thereon or not: Provided always, that every such order shall be notified to both houses of Parliament within ten days from the commencement of the session next after the making thereof.

How regulated.]—The fees now taken on proceedings in the courts are regulated by an order made December 30th, 1903, as amended by an order of February 22nd, 1906. By sect. 165, the Treasury may from time to time, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, make orders as to the fees to be paid on any proceedings which were then or should thereafter be authorised to be taken in the courts.

A fee may be charged for making a return to a certiorari; and, semble, an action will lie to recover all fees duly authorised (Batt v. Price, (1875) 1 Q. B. D. 264; 45 L. J. Q. B. 170), or they may be recovered in the same manner as a judgment debt. A table of all fees must be posted in some conspicuous place in every court house and in every registrar's office (see sect. 166).

Fees; how payable, and where to be exhibited.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 78.

166. The fees payable on the proceedings in the courts shall, except in interpleaders, or where such fees shall be payable in respect of keeping possession, appraising or selling goods seized, be paid in the first instance by the party on whose behalf any such proceeding is to be taken before such proceeding is taken; and in default of the payment of any fees, payment thereof shall, by order of the judge, be enforced in like manner as payment of any debt adjudged by the court to be paid; and a table of all fees shall be posted in some conspicuous place in every court house and registrar's office. Section 166.

Court Fees.]—The costs which a successful plaintiff incurs necessarily include court fees, which are always in the first instance payable by the party on whose behalf any proceeding is taken, except in interpleaders, or where fees are payable in respect of keeping possession, appraising, or selling goods seized (see sect. 166). In all cases in which costs abide the event (i.e., in default of an order by the judge), or where the judge makes an order for costs generally, a successful plaintiff will be entitled to recover from the defendant, as part of his costs, the court fees which he has paid, subject, however, to this proviso, that if the plaintiff or defendant recovers less than the amount of his claim or counterclaim, so as to reduce the amount of court fees recoverable by him, he will have to pay the difference himself (Order LIII. r. 19).

167. Payment of any fine imposed by any court under the authority of this Act may be enforced upon the order of the judge, in like manner as payment of any debt adjudged by the court to be paid, or in such manner as payment of a sum adjudged to be paid on summary conviction may be enforced under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts. Fines, how to be enforced. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 87.

Where a fine, or an instalment of a fine made payable by instalments, is not paid in accordance with the order imposing such fine, the registrar must forthwith report the matter to the judge, and act on any orders given for the enforcement of such fine (Order LII. rr. 9, 10). Forms 355, 356. Payment of the fine may also be enforced in the same manner as a judgment debt, or in the same manner as money adjudged to be paid under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (ante, p. 23). See these statutes, post, p. 866.

168. The moneys arising from any penalties, forfeitures, and fines inflicted or authorised to be imposed by this Act, when paid and levied, shall (if not by this Act directed to be otherwise applied) be from time to time paid to the registrar of the court, and accounted for by him to the treasurer. Penalties to be paid to registrar and accounted to treasurer. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 133.

169. The registrar of every court from time to time, as often as he shall be required so to do by the Treasury, and in such form as the Treasury shall require, shall deliver to the treasurer a full account in writing of the fees received in that court under the authority of this Act, and a like account of all fines levied by the court, and of the expenses of levying the same. Account of fees and fines. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 41. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, ss. 8, 9.

170. The registrar of every court shall, once in every year, and oftener if required, on such day as shall be appointed by the Treasury, make out and send to the comptroller and auditor-general an account of all sums paid over by him to the treasurer of the court; and every such account, duly vouched by receipts given under the hand of the treasurer, shall be a voucher to charge the treasurer in his account before the said comptroller and auditor-general. Account to auditor-general. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 46. 29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, s. 10.

Section 171.

Audit of registrar's accounts.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 42.

171. The treasurer of every court shall from time to time audit and settle the accounts of the registrar and other officers of the court, and shall receive the balance of the various moneys which such registrar and other officers shall have received under this Act; and the registrar shall pay over to the treasurer of the court, at such times as may be directed by the Treasury, the moneys received by him as a registrar.

In Burridge v. Nicholetts, (1861) 6 H. & N. 383; 30 L. J. Ex. 145; 123 R. R. 582, it was held that where a registrar, to whom notice of the treasurer's intention to audit the books had been given, locked up his office and left at the time for closing appointed by the then 6th Rule of Practice, the treasurer was justified in breaking open the office to get at the books.

The books of the court, including the bankers' book and cash book, must be at all times open to his inspection (Order II. r. 12).

Rules as to balances.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 44.
29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, s. 5.

172. The Treasury shall from time to time make such rules as they shall think fit for securing the balances and other sums of money in the hands of any officers of every court, and for the due accounting for and application of all such balances and other sums of money.

Suitors' money unclaimed in six years to be forfeited.
9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 112.

173. The registrar of every court shall, in the month of March in each year, make out a correct list of all sums of money belonging to suitors in the court which shall have been paid into court, and which shall have remained unclaimed for five years before the first day of January then last past, specifying the names of the parties for whom or on whose account the same were so paid into court; and a copy of such list shall be put up and remain during court hours in some conspicuous part of the court house, and at all times in the registrar's office, and all sums of money which shall have been paid into any such court to the use of any suitors thereof, and which shall have remained unclaimed for the period of six years on the first day of January next after the said list shall have been put up as aforesaid, shall be accounted for by the registrar to the treasurer, and no person shall be entitled to claim any sum which shall have remained so unclaimed; but no time during which the person entitled to claim such sum shall have been an infant or feme covert, or of unsound mind, or beyond the seas, shall be taken into account in estimating the said period of six years.

PART IX.

Miscellaneous Provisions.

Section 174.

Publication of Orders in Council.

174. Any Order in Council made for the purposes of this Act shall be published in the London Gazette.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 8.

175. No privilege, except as hereinafter excepted, shall be allowed to any solicitor or other person to exempt him from the jurisdiction of the court.

No privilege allowed.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 67.

12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, s. 18.

Privilege.]—No privilege, except as stated below, is allowed to any solicitor or other person to exempt him from the jurisdiction of the court (see sect. 175; see per Jervis, C.J., Borradaile v. Nelson, (1854) 14 C. B. 655; 23 L. J. C. P. 159; and see Blair v. Eisler, (1888) 57 L. J. Q. B. 512; 21 Q. B. D. 185, where it was held that s. 5 of the County Courts Act, 1867, which deprived plaintiffs in actions commenced in the High Court of costs if less than £20 in contract, or £10 in tort, was recovered, applied to an action in which a solicitor was plaintiff). But a privileged person, as a Queen's priest, cannot be arrested under process issued from a county court (Ex parte Dakins, (1855) 16 C. B. 77; 24 L. J. C. P. 131; 100 R. R. 620).

Universities.]—The jurisdiction of the courts of the chancellors or vice chancellors of Oxford and Cambridge is not affected by the County Courts Act, and the chancellors, masters and scholars of those universities enjoy an absolute immunity from county court proceedings in cases within their privileged jurisdiction (see sect. 176).

Justices.]—Justices of the peace have, in certain cases, a power to oust the jurisdiction of the county courts, on giving notice of objection in a specified manner (11 & 12 Vict. c. 44, s. 10). See ante, p. 42.

Defendants.]—Where a claim in a personal action exceeds a certain sum, a defendant may generally object to the jurisdiction, and obtain the removal of the cause into the High Court (see sect. 62). In these cases the county courts have, therefore, jurisdiction, unless the defendant determines it in the proper manner.

Stannaries Court.]—This court has since January 1st, 1897, ceased to exist (59 & 60 Vict. c. 45). Jurisdiction transferred to County Courts of Cornwall, post, p. 2264.

Saving for universities of Oxford or Cambridge.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 140.

176. Nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to alter or affect the rights or privileges of the chancellor, masters, and scholars of the universities of Oxford or Cambridge respectively as by law possessed, or the jurisdiction of the courts of the chancellors or vice-chancellors of the said universities as holden under the respective charters of the said universities or otherwise.

Saving for court of vice-warden of Stannaries.

9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 141.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 6.

177. Nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to affect the court of the vice-warden of the Stannaries; but this provision shall not be deemed to prevent the establishment of any court under this Act within the Stannaries, or to limit or affect the jurisdiction of any court so established under this Act: Provided that no judge shall have authority to entertain jurisdiction in any Section 177. case to which the equitable jurisdiction of the said court of the vice-warden of the Stannaries at present extends.

See p. 207.

When treasurer's clerk to be deemed a civil servant. 29 & 30 Vict. c. 14, s. 5.

178. If the Treasury shall think fit to employ in the examination of the accounts of the courts any person whom they may think it desirable so to employ on account of knowledge acquired by him as clerk to any treasurer of a court, such clerk shall, if after one year the Treasury shall continue to employ him, be deemed a servant in the permanent civil service of the State, and be entitled to superannuation.

Townhalls used for sittings. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, s. 24.

179. In every town or place where there shall be a court the townhall, court house, or other public building belonging to any county, city, borough, town, or place, or vested in any public body, shall, with all necessary rooms, furniture, and fittings in any such public building, be used for the purposes of holding the court, without any charge for rent or other payment save and except the reasonable and necessary charges for lighting, warming, and cleaning, when such public building is used for the purpose of the court: Provided always, that the necessary arrangements shall be made so that the sittings of the court shall not interfere with the business of the county, city, borough, or town usually transacted in such townhall, court house, or other public building, or with any purposes for which such townhall, court house, or other public building may be used by virtue of any local act in that behalf: Provided also, that this enactment shall not apply to any city, borough, or town in which a building shall have been heretofore erected for the purposes of holding the court, and for the business connected with such court.

Process of the court to be under seal. 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 57.

180. For every court there shall be a seal of the court, and all summonses and other process issuing out of the said court shall be sealed or stamped with the seal of the court, and all such summonses and other process purporting to be so sealed shall in England be received in evidence without further proof thereof; and every person who shall forge the seal or any process of the court, or who shall serve or enforce any such forged process, knowing the same to be forged, or deliver or cause to be delivered to any person any paper falsely purporting to be a copy of any summons or other process of the said court, knowing the same to be false, or who shall act or profess to act under any false colour or pretence of the process or authority of the said court, shall be guilty of felony.

A., a creditor of J. R., sent a letter, purporting to have been signed by the clerk of a county court, demanding payment, and in default threatening proceedings in a county court; J. R.'s wife then went to A., and he told her that he had ordered the county court to send the letter. She then paid him the amount, and he then demanded, but did not receive, 1*s.* 3*d.* for the county court expenses: it was held, on these facts, that A. was guilty of a felony under the latter part of the section (R. v. Evans, (1857) 1 Dears. & B. C. C. 236; 26 L. J. M. C. 92). So was a person who filled up a blank form of application for a summons, and signed it "W. G., registrar of the Taunton Court," and indorsed a notice on the back of it stating that execution would be issued unless the amount were immediately paid, and signed it "W. G." (R. v. Richmond, (1859) 1 Bell, C. C. 142; 28 L. J. M. C. 188). But where a notice to produce documents at the hearing of a cause in a county court was sent by post to the prosecutor, no plaint having been entered, it was held that the paper was only a notice to produce and did not purport to be a process of the court (R. v. Castle, (1857) 1 Dears. & B. C. C. 363; 27 L. J. M. C. 70). Section 180 Notes.

181. The expense of supplying the courts and offices with law and office books and stationery, and of postage stamps, and the disbursements of the high bailiffs, in conveying to prison persons committed by the courts, and all other expenses arising out of any jurisdiction now or hereafter conferred on such courts or any officer thereof, shall be paid by the Treasury out of any moneys to be from time to time provided by Parliament for such purposes. Incidental expense. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 85. 50 & 51 Vict. c. 3, s. 3.

182. No action shall be brought or be maintainable in any county or other court to recover any debt or sum of money alleged to be due in respect of the sale of any ale, porter, beer, cider, or perry which was consumed on the premises where sold or supplied, or in respect of any money or goods lent or supplied, or of any security given for, in, or towards the obtaining of any such ale, porter, beer, cider, or perry. No action for beer, etc., consumed on the premises to be brought. 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 4.

The 24 Geo. II. c. 40, s. 12, as amended by 25 & 26 Vict. c. 38, prevents the recovery of sums under 20*s.* for spirituous liquors, unless delivered at the purchaser's residence in reputed quart bottles.

183. A register of every judgment entered in the courts for the sum of ten pounds and upwards, and of every such other judgment or order as may be prescribed, shall be kept in such manner, in such place, and under such regulations as the Treasury shall appoint, and for the inspection of the said register when formed such fees shall be charged to persons desirous of inspecting the same as shall be appointed by the Treasury, and the proceeds of such fees shall be applied, in such manner as the Treasury shall appoint, in paying the expenses incurred in maintaining the said register; and the surplus of such fees, after providing for the payment of such expenses, shall be paid over to the credit of the consolidated fund. Register of judgments. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 18. 28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 15.

Persons in the country may obtain information through the registrar of the court in the district where they reside, or by writing to the registry. In these cases the fee is 1*s.* for each name. When a judgment has been satisfied, the name of the defendant may be removed from the registry on payment to the registrar of the court of 6*d.*

Section 183 Notes.

A return of every judgment entered in the City of London Court for 10*l.* or upwards has to be transmitted to the registry of County Courts judgments (Order XXXVI. r. 1), and also of Admiralty judgments and orders, and judgments and orders in actions or matters commenced under the equitable jurisdiction of the court (Order XXXVI. r. 2).

The publication of extracts from the register of judgments is privileged (Searles v. Scarlett (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 56; 61 L. J. Q. B. 573).

Acknowledgments by married women to be received by judge.

19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 73.

184. Any acknowledgment to be made by any married woman of any deed under the Act of the third and fourth years of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, chapter seventy-four, may be received by a judge in the same manner as such acknowledgment may be received by a judge of the High Court.

Acknowledgments by Married Women.]—Any acknowledgment to be made by any married woman of any deed, under the Fines and Recoveries Act, may be received by a judge of a county court, in the same manner as the acknowledgment may be received by a judge of the High Court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 184; 3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 74, s. 79); the sections of the 3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 74, relating to such acknowledgments, and still unrepealed, and also the High Court rules in reference thereto, will be found at p. 306.

Before receiving the acknowledgment, the judge must examine the married woman apart from her husband and the solicitor employed, touching her knowledge of the deed, and must ascertain whether she freely and voluntarily consents to it; and unless she does so, he must not permit her to acknowledge it; and the deed will then, so far as her execution is concerned, be void (3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 74, s. 80; and see Rule 2, p. 307). The judge must, after acknowledgment, sign a memorandum of the acknowledgment, which should have been previously indorsed on, or written at the foot or in the margin of, the deed (3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 74, s. 84; Rules 3, 5, p. 308).

When the above formalities have been performed all the legal requirements at present in operation will have been satisfied. Until the Conveyancing Act of 1882 came into operation, it was necessary, in addition, to prepare a certificate of the acknowledgment; and it, and an affidavit by the solicitor, verifying the certificate and the acknowledgment, and also containing statements of his opinion as to the age and understanding of the married woman, had to be filed at the central office of the Royal Courts of Justice. This cumbersome machinery has now disappeared, and mere acknowledgment in the mode above described suffices (see 45 & 46 Vict. c. 39, s. 7).

City of London Court.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 4.
30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 35.

185. The courts held by virtue of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852, shall be held by the name of the City of London Court and shall be a court of record, and its decisions shall be subject to appeal in the same way and on the same conditions as the decisions of a county court are subject for the time being. The judge and officers of the City of London Court shall respectively have and exercise the like jurisdiction, power, and authority in all respects, except the power of appointing officers, as are for the time being possessed and exercised by the judge and officers respectively of a county court. The rules and orders in force for the time being for regulating the practice of and costs in the county courts, and forms of proceedings therein, shall be in force in the said City of London Court, to the exclusion of any other rules and orders; and the same fees shall be taken for proceedings in which jurisdiction is hereby given to the court as upon similar proceedings in the county courts, and such fees shall be applied in the same manner as the fees taken under the provisions of the said London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852; provided that nothing in this Act shall take away, lessen, or diminish any of the powers, rights, or privileges of the judge of the said court, or the authority of the mayor, aldermen, and commons of the city of London in common council assembled in relation to such court, or to the judge or officers thereof, or to the fees taken therein, as such powers or authority heretofore existed.

15 & 16 Vict. c. lxxvii.

City of London Court.]—The City of London Court is substantially a county court, and is subject to the same provisions as other county courts; nothing in the County Courts Act is, however, to take away or diminish any of the powers, rights, or privileges of the judge, or the authority of the mayor, aldermen, and commons of the city of London in council assembled in relation to such court, or to the judge or officers thereof, or to the fees taken therein, as such powers or authority previously existed (see sect. 185). The powers, rights, and privileges reserved by this proviso appear to have reference to salary, fees, and compensation only, though the meaning is obscure; and the proviso does not, at any rate, operate to exempt the judge from the provisions of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 131; and if he refuses to perform his duty, a rule to compel him to do so will lie under the last-mentioned section (Blades v. Lawrence, (1874) L. R. 9 Q. B. 374; 43 L. J. Q. B. 133). The power to remove the registrar is reserved to the common council, and is not vested in the Lord Chancellor, as in other cases (Osgood v. Nelson, (1871) L. R. 5 H. L. 636; 41 L. J. Q. B. 239). Sect. 47 of 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, as to additional remuneration of officers, does not extend to the City of London Court.

Sect. 39 of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. lxxvii.), is not repealed by sect. 74 of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, hence the City of London Court has jurisdiction if the defendant has "employment" within the City (Kutner v. Phillips, (1891) 2 Q. B. 267; 60 L. J. Q. B. 505), and without leave of judge or registrar, where the cause of action wholly or in part arose therein (Felton v. Bower, (1900) 1 Q. B. 598; 69 L. J. Q. B. 351).

For express provisions as to the service of process from the City of London court, see 15 & 16 Vict. c. lxxvii. s. 41, at p. 260; it seems obsolete since 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 84, 185, 186.

The City of London Court being now in effect a county court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 84, 185, 186), and subject to the general provisions applicable to county courts, it is believed that no provision in aid of the judgments of that court is necessary. The provisions of the 15 & 16 Vict. c. lxxvii. s. 94, are, however, printed at p. 260 in case of need.

Supplementary.

50 & 51 Vict. c. 3. An Act to amend the Acts relating to county courts, so far as regards the payment of certain expenses connected with the county courts.	"The County Courts (Expenses) Act, 1887."

Construction of Acts and Rules.—Any reference in any Act passed since 1846 to a county court must be construed as referring to a court under the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, unless a contrary intention appears (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 6). Any reference to an inferior court in any of the Judicature Acts or the Statute Law Revision Act, 1883, must be construed as referring to courts under the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, as well as to other inferior courts (see sect. 187). The County Courts Acts of 1888 and 1903 are to be construed as one Act (3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 8).

Before the Act of 1888 there was an appeal in Admiralty actions, by virtue of sect. 10 of the County Courts Act, 1875, without leave, if the divisional court altered the judgment of the county court, notwithstanding the provisions of sect. 45 of the Judicature Act, 1873 (The Lydia (C. A.), (1888) 14 P. D. 1; 58 L. J. Adm. 37); and it has been held that although sect. 10 of the Act of 1875 is repealed by the Act of 1888, the provision in it that the repeal of the Acts repealed by it shall not revive any enactment not in force at the commencement of the Act (see sect. 188), prevents the application of sect. 45 of the Judicature Act to such appeals, and continues the right of appeal without leave (The Dart (C. A.), (1893) P. 33; 62 L. J. P. 32).

Unless a contrary intention appears, all words importing the masculine gender must be construed to include females, the singular to include the plural, and the plural the singular (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 1). Month means calendar month, although in the registrar's minute of the order upon a judgment summons it means a lunar month (Saunders v. Swansea Finance Co., (1905) 21 T. L. R. 317). Land includes messuages, tenements and hereditaments, houses and buildings of any tenure. Oath and affidavit, in the case of persons allowed to affirm or declare instead of swearing, include affirmation and declaration, and swear includes, in the like case, affirm and declare (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 3).

The meaning of various particular words defined by the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186, will be found in that section.

The same words when used in the rules have the same meaning as in the Act, unless there is something in the subject or context repugnant to such meaning (see Order LV.).

The meaning of other particular words in the rules will be found in Order LV.

THE COUNTY COURTS ACT, 1903.

[3 Edw. VII. c. 42.]

The portions of the fifty-sixth, fifty-seventh, fifty-eighth, fifty-ninth, sixtieth, eighty-first, ninety-sixth, one hundred and sixteenth, one hundred and thirty-eighth, and one hundred and thirty-ninth sections of the County Courts Act, 1888, containing the words "fifty pounds" are hereby repealed, and in lieu thereof there shall be substituted the words "one hundred pounds." Extension of jurisdiction of court. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43.

Section 4.

Juries.

4. Section one hundred and two of the County Courts Act, 1888, shall be read as if the word "eight" were substituted for the word "five."

This section increases the number of jurors to be impanelled to try a case from five to eight.

Transference of actions in which the plaintiff claims more than fifty pounds by virtue of this Act.

5. It shall be lawful for His Majesty by Order in Council to provide that the actions in which the plaintiff claims a sum exceeding fifty pounds by virtue of this Act shall be tried in any court, where His Majesty is satisfied that due provision has been made for carrying on the business of the court without interference with the ordinary jurisdiction of the court, and of which the judge of the court in which such actions may be commenced is the judge (a), and that the court to which such actions may be transferred for trial shall have the same jurisdiction in such actions as it would have had in case they had been commenced therein, and that the judgment of the court in which such actions are tried shall have the same effect as if the judgment therein had been the judgment of the court in which they were commenced.

NOTE.—(a) See Order in Council, post, p. 217.

Where actions are so transferred for trial under Order in Council, the special procedure prescribed by Order XXIIA. rr. 22—26 must be followed.

Registrars.

6.—(1) Where two or more districts are consolidated, notwithstanding anything in section forty-five of the County Courts Act, 1888, contained, the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the Treasury, may make such provision for the duties of the registrar and otherwise as he may think fit.

(2) Where an order has been made as to a registrar under section forty-five of the County Courts Act, 1888, he shall account for and pay over to the Exchequer all fees whatsoever received by him after the date of such order in such manner as the Lord Chancellor, with the concurrence of the Treasury, may direct.

Rules.

7. The power to make rules of court in accordance with the one hundred and sixty-fourth section of the County Courts Act, 1888, shall extend to making rules for carrying this Act into effect.

(See these Rules contained in Order XXIIA.)

Construction.

8. This Act and the County Courts Act, 1888, shall be construed as one Act.

The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Pursuant to section 5 of the County Courts Act, 1903, His Majesty is pleased by and with the advice of his Privy Council to order and it is hereby ordered as follows :—

1. This order may be cited as the County Courts Order in Council, 1904.

2. As respects the county court circuits mentioned in the first column of the schedule hereto, the county courts named in the second column of the schedule opposite to the names of those circuits respectively shall be the courts in which shall be tried the actions in which by virtue of this Act the plaintiff claims a sum exceeding 50*l.* commenced in the courts named in the third column of the schedule opposite to the names of those courts so respectively mentioned in the second column.

3. Every court to which actions are transferred by virtue of this order shall have the same jurisdiction in such actions as it would have had in case they had been commenced therein, and the judgment of the court in which such actions are tried shall have the same effect as if the judgment therein had been the judgment of the court in which they were commenced.

THE COUNTY COURTS (BUILDINGS) ACT, 1870.

[33 & 34 VICT. c. 15.]

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as "The County Courts (Buildings) Act, 1870."

* * * * *

Transfer of property from treasurers to commissioners.

3. All property, real and personal (other than money and securities for money, books, papers, and records), belonging to any county court of or to which the treasurer of any county court or any other person is seised, possessed, or entitled in trust for a county court, under the sections of the Acts mentioned in the schedule to this Act, shall, . . . pass to and be vested in the Commissioners of Works, for the same estate and interest, and subject to the same covenants, conditions, agreements, and liabilities, for and subject to which the same were held by the said treasurer or other person.

As to providing courts, offices, etc.

4. The Commissioners of Works, with the approval of the Treasury, shall from time to time build, purchase, hire, or otherwise provide such court-house, offices, and buildings as may be necessary for carrying on the business of any county court, and cause the same to be furnished, cleaned, lighted, and warmed, and give such directions to the registrar of each court with regard to the hiring and dismissing of servants as shall seem fit. Section 4

For the purposes of any such purchase, "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," and the Acts amending the same (except so much thereof as relates to the purchase of land otherwise than by agreement), are hereby incorporated with this Act, and in construing those Acts for the purposes of this Act the special Act shall be construed to mean this Act, and the promoters of the undertaking shall be construed to be the Commissioners of Works.

Repealed except as above, 56 & 57 Vict. c. 54.

A building which was leased by a treasurer of a county court for the purposes of the court was held not to be rateable to the relief of the poor; since there was no beneficial occupier of it, nor were any profits derived from this occupation (R. v. Overseers of Manchester, (1854) 18 Jur. 267; 23 L. J. M. C. 48; 97 R. R. 511).

Town Halls and Public Buildings.]—A greater facility for obtaining court-houses is afforded by a provision that in every town or place where a county court is held, and no court has been already erected, the town-hall, court-house, or other public building belonging to the county, city, borough, town, or place, or vested in any public body, may, with all necessary rooms, furniture, and fittings in such public building, be used for the purposes of holding the courts, without any charge for rent or other payment except reasonable charges for lighting, warming and cleaning when the building is used for the purposes of the courts: arrangements must, however, be made, so that the sittings of the courts shall not interfere with the business of the county, etc., usually transacted in the building used, or with any purposes for which it may be used by virtue of any local act (see County Courts Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 179).

COUNTY COURTS (INVESTMENT) ACT, 1900.

1.—(1) The provisions of section seventy-one of the County Courts Act, 1888, shall extend to all money paid into a county court (whether before or after the passing of this Act) in any proceeding, and ordered by the judge to be invested for the benefit of any infant or person of unsound mind. Extension of 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 71, to all proceedings.

Section 1.

For the practice as to orders for the investment of moneys awarded to infants, etc., see Order IX. r. 24.

See also War Loan (Trustees) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V. c. 56, s. 2), "Emergency Legislation."

61 Vict. c. 37.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897, with regard to the investment of money agreed or ordered to be invested under that Act in the name of the registrar.

For the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, as to the investment of money, see Schedule I. pars. 5, 10, 11 and 12, and Rules 60, 61, 62, 63.

Final determination of matters in controversy.

24.—(7) The High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal respectively in the exercise of the jurisdiction vested in them by this Act in every cause or matter pending before them respectively, shall have power to grant, and shall grant, either absolutely or on such reasonable terms and conditions as to them shall seem just, all such remedies whatsoever as any of the parties thereto may appear to be entitled to in respect of any and every legal or equitable claim properly brought forward by them respectively in such cause or matter; so that, as far as possible, all matters so in controversy between the said parties respectively may be completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of such matters avoided.

A mere licence, which would have been revocable in law as not being coupled with a grant, but which could have been enforced in equity, is now enforceable at law (Hurst v. Picture Theatres, Ltd., (1914) 83 L. J. K. B. 1837, overruling Wood v. Ledbitter, 13 M. & W. 838; 67 R. R. 831).

Injunction and receivers.

25.—(8) A mandamus or an injunction may be granted or a receiver appointed by an interlocutory order of the court in all cases in which it shall appear to the court to be just or convenient that such order should be made; and any such order may be made either unconditionally or upon such terms and conditions as the court shall think just; and if an injunction is asked, either before, or at, or after the hearing of any cause or matter, to prevent any threatened or apprehended waste or trespass, such injunction may be granted, if the court shall think fit, whether the person against whom such injunction is sought is or is not in possession under any claim of title or otherwise, or (if out of possession) does or does not claim a right to do the act sought to be restrained under any colour of title; and whether the estates claimed by both or by either of the parties are legal or equitable.

Appeals from inferior court to be determined by divisional courts.

45. All appeals from petty or quarter sessions, from a county court, or from any other inferior court, which might before the passing of this Act have been brought to any court or judge whose jurisdiction is by this Act transferred to the High Court of Justice, may be heard and determined by divisional courts of the said High Court of Justice, consisting respectively of such of the judges thereof as may from time to time be assigned for that purpose, pursuant to rules of court, or (subject to rules of court) as may be so assigned according to arrangements made for the purpose by the judges of the said High Court. The determination of such appeals respectively by such divisional courts shall be final unless special leave to appeal from the same to the court of appeal shall be given by the divisional court by which any such appeal from an inferior court shall have been heard.

Powers of inferior courts having equity and admiralty jurisdiction.

89. (a) Every inferior court which now has, or which may after the passing of this Act have jurisdiction in equity, or at law and in equity, and in admiralty respectively, shall, as regards all causes of action within its jurisdiction, for the time being, have power to grant, and shall grant in any proceeding before such court, such relief, redress, or remedy, or combination of remedies, either absolute or conditional, and shall in every such proceeding give such and the like effect to every ground of defence or counterclaim, equitable or legal (subject to the provision next hereinafter contained), in as full and ample a manner as might and ought to be done in the like case by the High Court of Justice.

NOTE.—(a) This section has rendered it unnecessary to rely any longer on the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Acts, 1854 and 1860, extended to county courts by Orders in Council dated respectively November 18th, 1867, May 18th, 1870, and August 14th, 1879.

As to the equitable doctrine of "time when or when not the essence of a contract," see Stickney v. Keeble, (1915) A. C. 386; 84 L. J. Ch. 259.

Counterclaims in inferior

90. Where in any proceeding before any such inferior court any defence or counterclaim of the defendant involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the court, such defence or counterclaim shall not affect the competence or the duty of the court to dispose of the whole matter in controversy so far as relates to the demand of the plaintiff and the defence thereto, but no relief exceeding that which the court has jurisdiction to administer shall be given to the defendant upon any such counterclaim: provided always, that in such case it shall be lawful for the High Court, or any division or judge thereof, if it shall be thought fit, on the application of any party to the proceeding, to order that the whole proceeding be transferred from such inferior court to the High Court, or to any division thereof; and in such case the record in such proceeding shall be transmitted by the registrar, or other proper officer of the inferior court, to the said High Court; and the same shall thenceforth be continued and prosecuted in the said High Court as if it had been originally commenced therein. Section 90. courts, and transfers therefrom.

91. The several rules of law enacted and declared by this Act shall be in force and receive effect in all courts whatsoever in England, so far as the matters to which such rules relate shall be respectively cognisable by such courts. Rules of law to apply to inferior courts.

THE JUDICATURE ACT, 1875.

[38 & 39 Vict. c. 77. August 11, 1875.]

10. (a) In the administration by the court of the assets of any person who may die after the commencement of this Act, and whose estate may prove to be insufficient for the payment in full of his debts and liabilities, and in the winding-up of any company under the Companies Acts, 1862 and 1867, whose assets may prove to be insufficient for the payment of its debts and liabilities and the costs of winding-up, the same rules shall prevail and be observed as to the respective rights of secured and unsecured creditors, and as to debts and liabilities proveable, and as to the valuation of annuities and future and contingent liabilities respectively, as may be in force for the time being under the law of bankruptcy with respect to the estates of persons adjudged bankrupt; and all persons who in any such case would be entitled to prove for and receive dividends out of the estate of any such deceased person, or out of the assets of any such company, may come in under the decree or order for the administration of such estate, or under the winding-up of such company, and make such claims against the same as they may respectively be entitled to by virtue of this Act. Amendment of 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 25, as to rules of law upon certain points.

[47 & 48 Vict. c. 61. October 24, 1884.]

Power to transfer interpleader proceedings to county court.

17. If it shall appear to the court or a judge that any proceeding now pending or hereafter commenced in the High Court of Justice by way of interpleader, in which the amount or value of the matter in dispute does not exceed the sum of 500*l.* (being the limit of the equitable jurisdiction given to county courts by the County Courts Act, 1865), (a) may be more conveniently tried and determined in a county court, the court or judge may at any time order the transfer thereof to any county court in which an action or proceeding might have been brought by any one or more of the parties to such interpleader against the others or other of them, if there had been a trust to be executed concerning the matter in question; and every such order shall have the same effect as if it had been for the transfer of a suit or proceeding under sect. 8 of the County Courts Act, 1867; and the county court shall have jurisdiction and authority to proceed therein, as may be prescribed by any county court rules for the time being in force.

Note.—(a) Now County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43).

For practice rules with regard to remitted interpleader proceedings, see Order XXXIII.

Jurisdiction of inferior courts in counter-claims.

18. The jurisdiction of an inferior court in cases of counterclaim under sects. 89 and 90 of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, shall not be excluded by reason—(1) that any such counterclaim involves matter not within the local jurisdiction of such inferior court, but within the jurisdiction of any other inferior court in England; or (2) that, where the counterclaim involves more than one cause of action, as to each of which the defendant might have maintained a separate action, each such cause of action being within the jurisdiction of the court, the aggregate amount of the counterclaim exceeds the jurisdiction of the court; or (3) that the counterclaim is for an amount of money exceeding the jurisdiction of the court, provided that the plaintiff does not object in writing, within such time as may be prescribed by any rules, to the court giving relief exceeding that which the court would have had jurisdiction to administer prior to the commencement of this Act. In any case where the counterclaim involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the court, notwithstanding the provisions of this section, the court may, on such terms (if any) as the court may think just, either adjourn the hearing of the case or stay execution on the judgment, for such time as may be necessary to enable any party to apply to remove the proceedings into the High Court of Justice or to enable the defendant to prosecute in a court of competent jurisdiction an action for the purpose of establishing his counterclaim; and in default of any such application being made, or action brought, the court shall, after the expiration of the time limited, have jurisdiction to hear and determine the whole matter in controversy, to the same extent as if all parties had consented thereto. Section 18.

* * * * *

23. The power to make rules conferred by sect. 17 of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, and enactments amending the same, shall be deemed to include the power to make rules for regulating the procedure on appeals from inferior courts to the High Court. Power to make rules.

RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Appeals—Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, and Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908.

ORDER LIV. Rule 1a.

3. An application for the appointment of a new arbitrator, under paragraph 7 of the second schedule to the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897, shall be made by summons.

Obsolete. See Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, Sched. II. (8).

ORDER LVIII. Rule 20.

The following provisions shall apply to appeals to the Court of Appeal from decisions of judges of the county courts on questions of law under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897, and appeals under the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1900 (a):—

(a) Every such appeal shall be by notice of motion in accordance with Order LIX. Rule 10; and such notice of motion shall be served and the appeal set down under Order LVIII. Rule 8, within the time limited by Order LIX. Rule 12.

Note.—(a) Now, 1908.

The time for giving the notice of motion runs from the date of the signing of the award, and not from the date on which the decision of the tribunal was pronounced (Clayton v. Jones' Sewing Machine Co., (1908) W. N. 253).

(b) It shall be the duty of the party appealing to apply to the judge of the county court for a signed copy of the note made by him of any question of law raised before him, and of the facts in evidence in relation thereto, and of his decision thereon, and of his decision on the question or matter submitted to him, and to furnish such copy for the use of the Court of Appeal : and such copy shall be used and received at the hearing of the appeal. If such notes are not produced the Court of Appeal shall have power to hear and determine the appeal upon any other evidence or statement of what occurred before the judge of the county court which the Court of Appeal may deem sufficient.

Security for Costs of Appeal.]—It has been held, under the Act of 1897, that the ordinary rule of practice of the Court of Appeal as to ordering security for the costs of an appeal is applicable to appeals under the Workmen's Compensation Act (Hall v. Snowden, Hubbard & Co., (1889) 1 Q. B. 593 ; 68 L. J. Q. B. 363) ; if the county court judge invite an appeal, e.g., by staying execution pending an appeal, the case may be treated as exceptional (Hubball v. Everitt & Sons, (1900) 16 T. L. R. 168), although in a proper case security will still be ordered (Shea v. Drolenvaux, (1903) 88 L. T. 679). Application for security ought first to be made to the appellant before it is made to the court (Stanland v. North Eastern Steel Co., (1906) 23 T. L. R. 1). A workman may appear in formâ pauperis as respondent to an appeal upon filing the usual affidavit, without the addition of a case and opinion of counsel.

(c) Order LIX. Rules 14 and 16, shall apply to any such appeal, with the substitution of the Court of Appeal for the High Court.

(d) Subject to the foregoing provisions, the rules for the time being in force with respect to appeals from the High Court to the Court of Appeal shall, so far as practicable, apply to and govern appeals under the said Act to the Court of Appeal.

ORDER LIX.

Appeals from County Courts.

Appeals from inferior Courts.

4. Every judge of the High Court of Justice for the time being shall be a judge to hear and determine appeals from inferior courts, under section 45 of the principal Act. All such appeals (except Probate and Admiralty appeals from inferior courts, and from justices, which shall be to a divisional court of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty Division) shall be entered in one list by the officers of the Crown Office Department of the Central Office, and shall be heard by such divisional court of the Queen's Bench Division as the Lord Chief Justice of England shall from time to time direct.

7. On any motion by way of appeal from an inferior court, the court to which any such appeal may be brought shall have power to draw all inferences of fact which might have been drawn in the court below, and to give any judgment and make any order which ought to have been made. No such motion shall succeed on the ground merely of misdirection or improper reception or rejection of evidence, unless in the opinion of the court, substantial wrong or miscarriage has been thereby occasioned in the court below. Rule 7.

8. On any motion by way of appeal from an inferior court, the court to which any such appeal may be brought shall have power, if the notes of the judge of such inferior court are not produced, to hear and determine such appeal upon any other evidence or statement of what occurred before such judge which the court may deem sufficient.

8A. Every application for a prohibition to a county court other than an application by the Attorney-General shall be brought by notice of motion served on the parties to the proceedings in the county court, or such of them as may not be applicants for the prohibition.

9. The following rules of this order shall apply to appeals to the Queen's Bench Division from county courts and other inferior courts of record of civil jurisdiction in all proceedings other than proceedings in bankruptcy.

10. Every such appeal shall be by notice of motion, and no rule nisi or order to show cause shall be necessary. The notice of motion shall state the grounds of the appeal, and whether all or part only of the judgment, order, or finding is complained of. The notice of motion shall be an eight days' notice, and shall be served on every party directly affected by the appeal entered.

11. Every appeal shall be entered at the Crown Office Department of the Central Office, and the entry shall be made by lodging a copy of the notice.

12. The notice of motion shall be served and the appeal entered within twenty-one days from the date of the judgment, order, or finding complained of; such period shall be calculated from the time at which the judgment or order is signed, entered, or otherwise perfected, or from the time at which the finding or any refusal is made or given.

Rule 13 is superseded by 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 121.

14. The appeal shall not operate as a stay of proceedings under the decision appealed from unless the inferior court shall so order, or unless within ten days after the decision a deposit shall be made of or security given to the satisfaction of such inferior court for a sum to be fixed by the said court, not exceeding the amount of the money or the value of the property affected by the judgment, order, or finding appealed from.

Rule 15.

15. Every appeal from an inferior court shall be entered in the proper list for hearing on such days as the Lord Chief Justice of England may direct, and shall come on to be heard in its order, unless the High Court shall otherwise direct.

16. The High Court shall have power to extend the time for appealing, or to amend the grounds of appeal, or to make any other order, on such terms as the court shall think just, to insure the determination on the merits of the real questions in controversy between the parties.

17. Subject to these rules, the rules for the time being in force with respect to appeals from the High Court to the Court of Appeal shall, so far as practicable, apply to and govern appeals from county courts and other inferior courts of record of civil jurisdiction to the High Court.

18. Appeals from inferior courts shall in the construction of Order LIX. include every appeal, motion, or application to set aside or vary any verdict or judgment in or of any county court, or for a new trial in action in the High Court remitted to such county court for trial or otherwise.

THE PERJURY ACT, 1911.

[1 & 2 Geo. V. c. 6.]

Power to direct a prosecution for perjury.

9.—(1) Where any of the following authorities, namely, a judge of, or person presiding in, a court of record (a), or a petty sessional court, or any justice of the peace sitting in special sessions, or any sheriff or his lawful deputy before whom a writ of inquiry or a writ of trial is executed, is of opinion that any person has, in the course of a proceeding before that authority, been guilty of perjury, the authority may order the prosecution of that person for such perjury, in case there shall appear to be reasonable cause for such prosecution, and may commit him, or admit him to bail, to take his trial at the proper court, and may require any person to enter into a recognizance to prosecute or give evidence against the person whose prosecution is so ordered, and may give the person so bound to prosecute a certificate of the making of the order for the prosecution, for which certificate no charge shall be made.

(2) An order made or a certificate given under this section shall not be given in evidence for the purpose or in the course of any trial of a prosecution resulting therefrom.

Note (a).—County Courts are courts of record.

THE STAMP ACT, 1891.

14.—(1) Upon the production of an instrument chargeable with any duty as evidence in any court of civil judicature in any part of the United Kingdom . . . notice shall be taken by the judge . . . of any omission or insufficiency of the stamp thereon, and if the instrument is one which may legally be stamped after the execution thereof, it may, on payment to the officer of the court whose duty it is to read the instrument . . . of the amount of the unpaid duty, and the penalty payable on stamping the same, and of a further sum of one pound, be received in evidence, saving all just exceptions on other grounds. Terms upon which instruments not duly stamped may be received in evidence.

(2) The officer . . . receiving the duty and penalty shall give a receipt for the same and make an entry in a book kept for that purpose of the payment and of the amount thereof, and shall communicate to the commissioners the name or title of the proceeding in which, and of the party from whom, he received the duty and penalty, and the date and description of the instrument, and shall pay over to such person as the commissioners may appoint the money received by him for the duty and penalty. The officer of the court to account for duties and penalties.

(3) On production to the commissioners of any instrument in respect of which any duty or penalty has been paid, together with the receipt, the payment of the duty and penalty shall be denoted on the instrument.

Unstamped Document.]—Where an unstamped or insufficiently stamped document is tendered in evidence, the judge should notice the defect. If the document may be legally stamped after execution, upon the receipt of the registrar for the unpaid duty, the penalty, and a further sum of 1*l.* being produced, it may be admitted, but otherwise if it cannot be legally stamped after execution. No appeal lies from the ruling of a county court judge holding that the stamp on a document is sufficient (Mander v. Ridgway, (1898) 1 Q. B. 501; 67 L. J. Q. B. 335); nor from the admission of an unstamped document without exacting a penalty (Lowe v. Dorling, (1905) 2 K. B. 501; 74 L. J. K. B. 794; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 772; 75 L. J. K. B. 1019). The penalty, or part thereof, is sometimes remitted upon petition to the proper authority.

THE CHANCERY RELIEF ACT, 1852.

[15 & 16 Vict. c. 87.]

42. Whereas by the Act of the session holden in the eighth and ninth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter fifteen, a certain duty of excise is imposed upon every licence to be taken Persons may sell by auction under an order of the Court of Chancery without being liable to duty imposed by 8 & 9 Vict. c. 15.

out by every person exercising or carrying on the trade or business of an auctioneer in any part of the United Kingdom; and it is thereby enacted, that every person who exercises or carries on the business of an auctioneer, or who acts in such capacity at any sale or roup, and every person who sells or offers for sale any goods or chattels, lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any interest therein, at any sale or roup where any person or persons become the purchaser of the same by competition, and being the highest bidder, or by any other mode of sale by competition, shall, except as hereinafter mentioned, be deemed to carry on the trade or business of an auctioneer, and shall be required to take out such licence as thereby directed; and that every person who carries on the trade or business of an auctioneer as aforesaid, without taking out such licence shall, except as therein after mentioned, forfeit one hundred pounds: and whereas doubts have arisen whether any sale or sales by way of auction can now be made under any order or decree of the Court of Chancery before any officer of the said court, or the persons by such officer in that behalf appointed, without rendering such officer or other person liable to take out such licence as by the said last-mentioned Act is directed to be taken out by all persons acting as auctioneers; and it is expedient that such doubts should be removed: Be it therefore enacted, that it shall be lawful for any master in ordinary of the Court of Chancery, and for the chief clerk of any such master, and for every other person appointed in that behalf by any such master, to sell any goods or chattels, lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any interests therein, under any decree or order of the said court, by auction, or by any other mode of sale by competition, without any licence as an auctioneer, and without being liable to the duty imposed by the said last-mentioned Act, or any other Act or Acts now in force.

Sale of Personal Property.]—Where an order directs any personal property to be sold, it must be sold under the superintendence of the high bailiff, by public auction, unless the court otherwise directs (Order XXIII. r. 23; Form 305).

Where any personal property is directed to be sold by auction, detained, or preserved, the high bailiff must, if the court so direct, superintend such sale, detention, or preservation; and where property is to be sold by private contract, he must carry out the directions of the court in respect of such sale. This rule does not of course apply to a sale of goods in an ordinary execution under sect. 146 of the Act (Order II. r. 38).

THE WAGES ATTACHMENT ABOLITION ACT, 1870.

No order of attachment of wages after passing of Act.

1. No order for the attachment of the wages of any servant, labourer, or workman shall be made by the judge of any court of record or inferior court.

The wages of servants, labourers or workmen cannot be attached (see Jones v. Thompson, (1858) 27 L. J. Q. B. 234; Dresser v. Jones, (1859) 28 L. J. C. P. 281). This will not prevent the attachment of the quarterly salary of a secretary to a company (Gordon v. Jennings, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 45; 51 L. J. Q. B. 417), nor of a superannuation allowance (Booth v. Trail, (1880) 12 Q. B. D. 8; 53 L. J. Q. B. 24), nor of a pension (Willcock v. Terrell (C. A.), (1878) 3 Ex. D. 323). By the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, seamen's wages, whether due or accruing, cannot be attached (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 163).

THE DEBTORS ACT, 1869.

[32 & 33 Vict. c. 62. August 9, 1869.]

Abolition of Imprisonment for Debt.

Abolition of imprisonment for debt, with exceptions.

4. With the exceptions hereinafter mentioned, no person shall, . . . be arrested or imprisoned for making default in payment of a sum of money (a).

Note.—(a) Amended, 56 & 57 Vict. c. 54.

There shall be excepted from the operation of the above enactment:

1. Default in payment of a penalty, or sum in the nature of a penalty, other than a penalty in respect of any contract:
2. Default in payment of any sum recoverable summarily before a justice or justices of the peace:
3. Default by a trustee or person acting in a fiduciary capacity and ordered to pay by a court of equity any sum in his possession or under his control.
4. Default by an attorney or solicitor in payment of costs when ordered to pay costs for misconduct as such, or in payment of a sum of money when ordered to pay the same in his character of an officer of the court making the order.
5. Default in payment for the benefit of creditors of any portion of a salary or other income in respect of the payment of which any court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy is authorized to make an order:

Section 4.

6. Default in payment of sums in respect of the payment of which orders are in this Act authorized to be made:

Provided, first, that no person shall be imprisoned in any case excepted from the operation of this section for a longer period than one year; and, secondly, that nothing in this section shall alter the effect of any judgment or order of any court for payment of money except as regards the arrest and imprisonment of the person making default in paying such money.

[The above section has been amended, as follows, by the Debtors Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 54):—

Court or judge to have discretion in cases within exceptions 3 and 4 in 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 4, and 35 & 36 Vict. c. 57, s. 5, respectively.

1. In any case coming within the exceptions numbered 3 and 4 in the fourth section of the Debtors Act, 1869, and in the fifth section of the Debtors Act (Ireland), 1872, respectively, or within either of those exceptions, any court or judge, making the order for payment, or having jurisdiction in the action or proceeding in which the order for payment is made, may inquire into the case, and (subject to the provisoes contained in the said sections respectively) may grant or refuse, either absolutely or upon terms, any application for a writ of attachment, or other process or order of arrest or imprisonment, and any application to stay the operation of any such writ, process, or order, or for discharge from arrest or imprisonment thereunder].

Non-payment of Money.]—Where the order or judgment is for payment of money, the court may, in the cases to be presently mentioned, attach the person making default, and commit him to prison for a period not exceeding a year. The creditor may, however, pursue his ordinary remedies if he pleases, and is not bound to apply for an attachment (Order XXV. r. 1; Sykes v. Dyson, (1870) L. R. 9 Eq. 228; 39 L. J. Ch. 288; see Drewitt v. Edwards, (1877) 26 W. R. 122). A member of Parliament is not privileged from attachment under this head (Re Gent, (1889) 40 Ch. D. 190; 58 L. J. Ch. 162).

The cases referred to are (1) default by a trustee or person acting in a fiduciary capacity and ordered to pay any sum in his possession or control; (2) default by a solicitor in payment of costs, when ordered to pay them for misconduct as a solicitor, or in payment of any sum of money when ordered to pay the same in his character of an officer of the court making the order.

The power to attach in cases under sect. 4 is not limited, as it is under sect. 5, to those cases in which means to pay are proved: the attachment has a double object—to enforce payment, and to punish (In re Smith (C. A.), (1893) 2 Ch. 1; 62 L. J. Ch. 336; Crowther v. Elgood (C. A.), (1887) 34 Ch. D. 691; 56 L. J. Ch. 416). The judge must inquire into the facts and exercise a judicial discretion in granting or refusing the attachment (41 & 42 Vict. c. 54, s. 1). Mere default in payment will not necessarily subject the defaulter to attachment (Aylesford v. Poulett, (1892) 2 Ch. 60; 61 L. J. Ch. 406; Holroyde v. Garnett, (1882) 20 Ch. D. 532; 51 L. J. Ch. 663); misconduct, dishonesty and fraud are the main grounds which justify an attachment when means to pay are absent (In re Smith (C. A.), (1893) 2 Ch. 1; 62 L. J. Ch. 336; Crowther v. Elgood (C. A.), (1887) 34 Ch. D. 691; 56 L. J. Ch. 416).

The first class of cases above referred to includes that of a son, who after the death of his father, failed to pay, under the order of a court, moneys received by him in his father's life as manager of his father's estate (Marris v. Ingram, (1879) 13 Ch. D. 338; 49 L. J. Ch. 123); also of an auctioneer who receives the proceeds of property entrusted to him for sale (Crowther v Elgood, supra); also that of a borrower of money who in an action by the lender submits to an order that he shall thereafter hold the money lent on certain trusts (Preston v. Etherington (C. A.), (1887) 37 Ch. D. 104; 57 L. J. Ch. 176); also that of a London agent who receives money on behalf of a country solicitor (Litchfield v. Jones, (1888) 36 Ch. D. 530; 57 L. J. Ch. 100); also that of a receiver who receives money in his capacity of receiver (Re Gent, (1889) 40 Ch. D. 190; 58 L. J. Ch. 162). A judgment creditor who, in interpleader proceedings, gives an undertaking to make good any deficiency on the sale of goods seized under an execution cannot be attached under sect. 4 (Buckley v. Crawford, (1893) 1 Q. B. 105; 62 L. J. Q. B. 87), nor can a partner who receives partnership money, and fails to pay it to a receiver, under an order of the court (Piddocke v. Burt, (1894) 1 Ch. 343; 63 L. J. Ch. 246).

Corporations.]—A judgment or order against a corporation wilfully disobeyed may, by leave of the judge, be enforced against the directors or other officers (Order XXV. r. 3).

Saving of power of committal for small debts.

5. Subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, and to the prescribed rules, any court may commit to prison for a term not exceeding six weeks, or until payment of the sum due, any person who makes default in payment of any debt or instalment of any debt due from him in pursuance of any order or judgment of that or any other competent court: Provided—

1. That the jurisdiction by this section given of committing a person to prison shall, in the case of any court other than the superior courts of law and equity, be exercised only subject to the following restrictions; that is to say,—
   (a) Be exercised only by a judge or his deputy, and by an order made in open court and showing on its face the ground on which it is issued.
   (b) [Be exercised only as respects a judgment of a superior court of law or equity, when such judgment does not exceed fifty pounds, exclusive of costs.]

Repealed by sect. 169 (1) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883.

   (c) Be exercised only as respects a judgment of a county court by a county court judge or his deputy.
2. That such jurisdiction shall only be exercised where it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the person making default either has or has had since the date of the order or judgment the means to pay the sum in respect of which he has made default, and has refused or neglected, or refuses or neglects, to pay the same.

   Proof of the means of the person making default may be given in such manner as the court thinks just; and for the purposes of such proof the debtor and any witnesses may be summoned and examined on oath, according to the prescribed rules.

Section 5. Any jurisdiction given by this section to the superior courts may be exercised by a judge sitting in chambers, or otherwise, in the prescribed manner.

For the purposes of this section any court may direct any debt due from any person in pursuance of any order or judgment of that or any other competent court to be paid by instalments, and may from time to time rescind or vary such order.

Persons committed under this section by a superior court may be committed to the prison in which they would have been confined if arrested on a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum, and every order of committal by any superior court shall, subject to the prescribed rules, be issued, obeyed and executed in the like manner as such writ.

This section, as far as it relates to any county court, shall be deemed to be substituted for sections ninety-eight and ninety-nine of the County Courts Act, 1846, and that Act and the Acts amending the same shall be construed accordingly, and shall extend to orders made by the county court with respect to sums due in pursuance of any order or judgment of any court other than a county court.

No imprisonment under this section shall operate as a satisfaction or extinguishment of any debt or demand or cause of action, or deprive any person of any right to take out execution against the lands, goods or chattels of the person imprisoned, in the same manner as if such imprisonment had not taken place.

Any person imprisoned under this section shall be discharged out of custody upon a certificate signed in the prescribed manner to the effect that he has satisfied the debt or instalment of a debt in respect of which he was imprisoned together with the prescribed costs (if any).

Jurisdiction to commit under Debtors Act.]—By sect. 5 of the Debtors Act, 1869, the court has power to commit to prison for a period not exceeding six weeks any judgment debtor who makes default in payment of any debt or instalment of any debt due from him in pursuance of any order or judgment of that, or of any other competent court, whether superior or inferior. The jurisdiction to commit is unlimited as to amount in all cases in which application is made to the court in which the debtor is or resides (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 103. Sect. 5, sub-s. 1 (b) of the Debtors Act, 1869, is repealed by sect. 169 (1) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883. The section does not make it clear whether the jurisdiction is in the court in which the debtor was or resided at the date of the application or at the date of the hearing; see Appendix B.), and it remains to be seen whether any proceeding for committal can be taken on a High Court judgment in any other case. As regards judgments of county courts, this section of the Debtors Act enables the court in which judgment was obtained to commit whether the debtor does or does not dwell or carry on business within the district at the date of the judgment summons, but it prescribes no limit as to amount, and it appears to be unlimited.

Section 5 Notes.

Order for payment by instalments.]—The court may, instead of committing, make an order for payment by instalments, and may from time to time rescind or vary such order. (An application for an order to pay by instalments ought now to be made under Order XXIII. r. 14; Order XXV. r. 55; see post, p. 561.) But the county court cannot rescind or vary an order for payment by instalments made by a judge of the High Court on a judgment of the latter (Washer v. Elliott, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 169; 45 L. J. C. P. 144; Re Ives, (1886) 16 Q. B. D. 665; 55 L. J. Q. B. 246).

After obtaining in a county court an order for payment by instalments upon a judgment of the High Court, the creditor cannot, so long as that order is in force, issue execution upon his judgment in the High Court (Jones v. Jenner, (1856) 25 L. J. Ex. 319; 105 R. R. 353; Montgomery v. De Bulmes, (1898) 2 Q. B. 420; 67 L. J. Q. B. 768), and it may be that he can only obtain the assistance of the High Court in the manner already described (ante, p. 187).

Receiving Order.]—Instead of committing, the court may, if it has jurisdiction in bankruptcy, make a receiving order. See Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59), s. 107 (post, p. 279).

Administration Order.]—Instead of committing the court, if it appears that the total liabilities of the judgment debtor do not exceed £50, may make an administration order under s. 122 of the Act (Bankruptcy Act, 1883, not repealed by Bankruptcy Act, 1914), post, p. 268. See Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 358, post, p. 281, not repealed by Bankruptcy Rules of 1914. See Bankruptcy (Administration Order) Rules, 1902, as amended by rules dated April 4, 1914, post, p. 283.

Means to pay.]—The jurisdiction to commit can only be exercised where it is proved that the debtor has or has had since the date of the order or judgment the means to pay the sum as to which he is in default. (In Ex parte Fryer (C. A.), (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 718; 55 L. J. Q. B. 478, it is said that the power to commit for a particular sum in default arises if it be shown that the debtor has had means to pay part of it only; but as the court itself made an order for payment by instalments only, it is clear that it did not consider that the power ought to be exercised under such circumstances.) An order to pay by instalments may be made without proof of means (Dillon v. Cunningham, (1873) L. R. 8 Ex. 23; 42 L. J. Ex. 11). On failure to pay any instalment, a committal may be applied for, and proof of means will then be requisite.

An order for the payment of costs merely is within this enactment (Hewitson v. Sherwin, (1870) L. R. 10 Eq. 53), as is an order of the Probate and Divorce Division for payment of alimony; but a commitment can be made only in respect of arrears (Linton v. Linton (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 239; 54 L. J. Q. B. 529).

Married Women.]—Married women are subject to the Debtors Act, and may be committed on a judgment obtained against them personally, and not made enforceable against separate estate, in respect of contracts made before marriage, or of torts committed during marriage (Dillon v. Cunningham, (1873) L. R. 8 Ex. 23; 42 L. J. Ex. 11; Scott v. Morley (C. A.), (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 120; 57 L. J. Q. B. 43). Nevertheless in such cases proof of means to pay will be necessary, and if the woman's only property be separate property which she is restrained from anticipating, no part of the income of which has accrued due since the judgment, no order can be made (Meager v. Pellew (C. A.), (1885) 14 Q. B. D. 973). If the judgment be drawn up, and limited as enforceable against her separate estate only no order under the Debtors Act can be made (Draycott v. Harrison (C. A.), (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 147).

A married woman is not subject to the Debtors Act in respect of contracts made during marriage for breach of which her separate property is made liable by the Married Women's Property Act, 1882 (Scott v. Morley (C. A.), (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 120).

Section 5 Notes.

Soldiers.]—Under the proviso to sect. 144 of the Army Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 144), a judgment creditor cannot have execution against the person of a soldier of the regular forces unless the debt exceeds £30 without costs. This does not apply to officers.

Seamen.]—Under sect. 97 of the Naval Discipline Act, 1866 (29 & 30 Vict. c. 109), no petty officer or seaman, non-commissioned officer or marine belonging to any of Her Majesty's ships can be arrested for any debt contracted after he entered the service of the Crown.

Judgment summons, when and how issued.]—A judgment creditor who desires to have this jurisdiction exercised against his debtor must proceed by judgment summons, for which he must apply to the registrar (Order XXV. r. 25 (1); Forms 178, 181), filing a præcipe in the proper form (Order XXV. r. 25 (2); Form 176). The præcipe must state the full names and address of, or otherwise identify, every person against whom the judgment summons is to be issued, and where the judgment summons is to be issued against a person under a description different from that given in the judgment, both descriptions must be inserted in the judgment summons and in the order of commitment (if any) made upon it (Order XXV. r. 25 (2); Form 176). A judgment summons may issue against all or any one or more of joint defendants (Order XXV. r. 25 (3)). On a county court judgment a summons may issue from the court in which the judgment was obtained, if leave is granted, though the debtor does not reside or carry on business within its district (Order XXV. r. 26 (2)), or it may issue from the court in which the debtor is or resides (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 103, sub-s. 4).

A judgment summons may be issued by post, but only where leave to issue a judgment summons or payment of or an undertaking to pay travelling expenses for the debtor's attendance is not required. The plaintiff or his solicitor (if the latter has no office within the district) must transmit to the registrar (a) the plaint note or summons, or a duplicate; (b) a præcipe in accordance with Order XXV. r. 25 (2); (c) in cases within Order XXV. rr. 27, 29, 30, the affidavit and copy, certified copy, or office copy and affidavit, required by those rules respectively; (d) a money order for the fees payable on issue of the judgment summons; and (e) a stamped addressed envelope. The registrar must, on written request, forward to the party or his solicitor information to enable him to ascertain whether a judgment summons may be issued, and personal attendance of the party or his solicitor may be required by the registrar where judgment summonses are desired, or information is asked for, in more than twenty actions at the same time. The districts of the Metropolitan courts are considered inter se as one district for this purpose (Order XXV. r. 30A).

When obtained without leave.]—When applied for in the court in which judgment has been obtained, no leave will be required if the debtor then resides or carries on business or is employed in the district of that court (Order XXV. r. 26 (1)). So if the judgment be in one of the metropolitan courts, and the debtor reside or carry on business in the district of another of such courts, the summons will be issued if applied for in the court in which judgment was obtained, in the same manner, without leave (Order XXV. r. 26 (2); 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 84).

It appears that the summons may issue without leave, no matter where the judgment has been obtained, so long as the debtor resides or carries on business or is employed in the district of the court in which the summons is applied for at the date of the application (Order XXV. r. 26 (1)).

When leave required.]—Leave is required if the application be made to the court in which judgment was obtained, and the debtor does not (except in the metropolitan courts above mentioned) then reside or carry on business or is not employed in the district of the court (Order XXV. r. 26 (2)). The application for leave must be made to the judge upon affidavit (Form 177); that affidavit must strictly follow the form, and is insufficient unless it states where a business is being carried on by the debtor, circumstances showing that the business was profitable, also whether the debtor is unmarried or a married man with children (McIntosh v. Simpkins (C. A.), (1901) 1 K. B. 487; 70 L. J. K. B. 268), and the debtor cannot waive the objection to the sufficiency of the affidavit (Alderson v. Palliser (C. A.), (1901) 2 K. B. 833; 70 L. J. K. B. 935). Leave must not be granted unless the judge is satisfied that the evidence before him, if uncontradicted, would justify a commitment. If the leave be granted a copy of the affidavit must be lodged with the registrar and annexed to the summons and served with it (Order XXV. r. 26 (2); Forms 177, 178, 179). No affidavit or leave is required if the person requiring the judgment summons deposits or undertakes to pay or tender a sum reasonably sufficient to cover the travelling expenses of the debtor in attending the court, the amount to be fixed by the registrar. Where the summons is to be served by a bailiff, the money will be deposited with the registrar to be paid or tendered to the judgment debtor with the summons; when it is to be otherwise served, an undertaking in writing must be given to pay or tender the amount to the judgment debtor with the summons (Order XXV. r. 26 (3); Form 178A).

Leave is also required where no payment has been made under the judgment for four months, unless the delay in applying has been occasioned by an abortive attempt to levy the goods. An affidavit must be filed stating the facts mentioned in the rule, and if they do not satisfy the registrar that the debtor might be thereon committed, he must refuse to issue the summons and refer the applicant to the judge. The judge may make such order as he may think right. If the registrar considers the facts sufficient he may grant leave. No affidavit under this rule is necessary where a deposit has been made or an undertaking given in respect of travelling expenses (Order XXV. r. 28).

A minute of any leave granted by the judge in any of the cases above mentioned ought, it is believed, to be taken by the registrar and duly recorded (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 28). No notice to the debtor of the application for leave is necessary. No order will be drawn up or served unless it is so ordered (Order XXIII. r. 5).

Change of plaintiff after judgment.]—Where the interest of the plaintiff has passed either by death, assignment or otherwise to another person after judgment, and such other person wishes to enforce the judgment by judgment summons, he must apply to the judge or registrar, on affidavit, pursuant to Order XXV. r. 14 for leave to issue the judgment summons (East End Building Society v. Slack, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 359). The title of the action ought, it is believed, to be altered in accordance with the fact.

Judgments against firms, etc.]—If the original judgment has been obtained against a firm, or against a person who is carrying on business in a name other than his own, in such name, the plaintiff may proceed by judgment summons (Form 184) against each or any of the individuals whom he alleges to be liable, on filing an affidavit in the prescribed form (Order XXV. r. 27; Forms 182, 183) and serving a copy thereof with the judgment summons. Even where one of two or more persons jointly and severally liable has, subject to suspension, been committed, the plaintiff may so proceed against the other person or persons liable on the judgment (Rex v. Birmingham C. C. Judge, (1902) 2 K. B. 283; 71 L. J. K. B. 881). The forms must be strictly followed; thus, par. 2 of Forms 182 and 183 requiring a statement of the plaintiff's sources of information and belief (Lumley v. Osborne, (1901) 1 K. B. 532; 70 L. J. K. B. 416), and par. 4 of Form 183 of facts showing that the business is profitable (McIntosh v. Simpkins, (1901) 1 K. B. 487; 70 L. J. K. B. 268), are essential parts of the forms. As against each individual a separate affidavit should be made and filed, and a separate summons issued (note to Form 184). If the individual said to be liable is within the jurisdiction no leave is required; but if he neither resides nor carries on business within the jurisdiction, the leave of the judge must be obtained, in accordance with Order XXV. r. 26 (2) mentioned above (unless the provision as to travelling expenses is complied with), and a special form of affidavit must be made (Form 183). A copy of the affidavit must, in any case, be annexed to the summons and served with it (Order XXV. r. 27; Form 184).

Where the summons is applied for to a county court other than that in which the judgment or order was obtained, the applicant must obtain from the registrar of the court in which the judgment or order was obtained a certified copy of the judgment or order (Form 155), and file it with his application; the copy must state the date on which the last payment into court (if any) was made, or if no payment has been made, the date of default. The issue of such judgment summons is subject to the provisions, as the case may be, of Rules 27 and 28 of Order XXV. (Order XXV. r. 29; see also Order XXIII. r. 10). The registrar issuing the copy must make a minute of it, and no execution or summons on the judgment or order may then issue from his court, nor may any fresh order for payment by instalments be made unless it be shown that no order has been made in any other court upon such copy. The bailiff issuing the certified copy must lodge in court any warrant of execution, judgment summons or order of commitment issued by the court upon the judgment or order, and no such warrant, summons or order may be re-issued unless it be shown, as above, that no order has been made in any other court upon such copy (Order XXV. r. 39).

If the summons is applied for on a judgment or order of any competent court other than a county court the applicant must obtain from such other court an office copy of the judgment or order, and file it, together with an affidavit (Form 180) of the sum then due, with the registrar of the court of the district in which the debtor resides or carries on business or is employed, and the registrar will thereupon issue a judgment summons, the issue of which will be subject to the provisions of Rule 27 of Order XXV., ante, in cases to which that rule applies (Order XXV. r. 30). Where more persons than one are liable under the judgment or order, the office copy may be filed with the registrar of the court of the district in which any one of such persons resides or carries on business or is employed. A judgment summons must not be issued in that court against a person who does not reside or carry on business or who is not employed in the district unless the leave of the judge is obtained in accordance with Order XXV. r. 26, or the proviso to that rule is complied with (Order XXV. r. 30 (2)).

Where a judgment summons is heard in a county court on a judgment or order of any competent court other than a county court, a memorandum of the result of the hearing must be sent by the registrar to the registrar or other proper officer of the court in which the judgment or order was obtained. If on such hearing an order of commitment or an order altering the terms of the judgment or order is made, then until such order is discharged, all payments, whether under the order of commitment or under the new order, must be made into, and execution or other process for enforcing either the order of commitment or the new order may be issued by, the court making the order of commitment or the new order. The office copy of the judgment or order filed in the court pursuant to Order XXV. r. 30, is deemed to be a judgment or order of the court in which the judgment summons is heard; and if the judgment creditor subsequently desires to apply for a judgment summons to another court pursuant to Order XXV. r. 29, he must obtain from the registrar of the court in which the order of commitment or new order was made a copy, certified by the registrar to be a correct copy, of the office copy of the judgment or order filed in that court pursuant to Order XXV. r. 30, and a certified copy of the order made on the hearing of the judgment summons, containing the particulars required by Order XXV. r. 29, according to Form 155 in the Appendix, and must file the same with his application (Order XXV. r. 40A).

A judgment summons will not issue on the judgment of an Irish court, even if duly registered under the Judgments Extension Act, 1868 (Johnston v. Watson (C. A.), (1893) 1 Q. B. 21; 62 L. J. Q. B. 85).

Every judgment summons must be in the prescribed form, and be issued not less than ten clear days before the day on which the judgment debtor is required to appear, except in the case about to be mentioned (Order XXV. r. 31 (1); Forms 178, 181, 184). Where the person applying for the judgment summons states to the registrar that the judgment debtor is about to remove from his residence or place of business, or is keeping out of the way to avoid service, then the judgment summons may be issued and served at any time before the hearing. But the court cannot act upon such a summons in the absence of the judgment debtor, unless at the hearing the judge is satisfied, by evidence on oath, that at the time of the application for the summons the debtor was about to remove from his dwelling or place of business, or was keeping out of the way to avoid service (Order XXV. r. 32).

The amount for which a judgment summons may issue should not include any amount, remaining due on the judgment, for non-payment of which the defendant has already been imprisoned (Order XXV. r. 55); nor should it include costs incurred in endeavouring to enforce a judgment or order by way of execution against goods and not recovered under such execution (Order XXV. r. 56).

When and how served.]—The summons must be served personally (Order XXV. r. 25 (1)), not less than five clear days before the day on which the party is required to appear (Order XXV. r. 31 (1); Forms 178A, 181, 184), unless service is made under the provisions just mentioned. It may be served in accordance with the provisions of Order VII. r. 33, as to the service of default summonses, the words "on the filing of the præcipe" being substituted for "on the entry of the plaint under Order V. r. 9." If served otherwise than by the bailiff, an affidavit of service must be lodged with the registrar before the return-day (Order XXV. r. 31 (2); Form 185). A judgment summons is deemed to be a summons to a witness within sect. 111 of the Act of 1888, and where at the time of service payment or tender of payment of his expenses is made to the judgment debtor, a notice according to the prescribed form is to be printed at the foot of or annexed to the summons (Order XXV. r. 31 (3A); Forms 124, 178B). Although personal service of the judgment summons is required, it is not necessary that the order of the court for payment shall be served personally on the judgment debtor (Haydon v. Haydon, (1911) 2 K. B. 191; 80 L. J. K. B. 672).

If a summons requiring service in the home district has not been served, the high bailiff must give notice to the plaintiff forthwith (Order II. r. 24; Form 30). If a summons requires service in a foreign district, the high bailiff of the foreign court must, three clear days at least before the return-day, transmit the copy summons to the registrar of the home court duly indorsed and signed by the bailiff (who must name the court of which he is bailiff), and also the summons itself when not served (Order II. r. 28; as to the penalty for non-observance of this rule, see Order II. r. 29).

Where service has not been made in due time a successive summons may be issued at any time within three months without fee, and it may be served by any person the court may direct. If this latter summons is not served in due time no further summons is to issue without payment of a fee. When not served by bailiff, an affidavit of service (Form 185), by the person who actually effected it must be lodged with the registrar before the return-day (Order XXV. r. 33).

On the issue of the summons by the court in which the judgment or order was obtained, the bailiff is to lodge in court any warrant against the goods issued in the action, whether executed or not; if not fully executed, any such warrant may be re-issued by leave of the judge (Order XXV. r. 38). Where a judgment summons or order of commitment is outstanding, a warrant of execution may not be issued in the same action without the leave of the judge (Order XXV. r. 10A).

Section 5 Notes.

Hearing.]—The order must be made in open court by the judge or his deputy. When the judge sits in a room apart from the court it is not open court, even if he hears other cases there and the public and reporters are admitted (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5; Kenyon v. Eastwood, (1888) 57 L. J. Q. B. 455). If the debtor does not appear on the return-day, an order to commit may be made against him if proof of means be given (Davies v. Fletcher, (1853) 2 E. & B. 271; 22 L. J. Q. B. 429; 95 R. R. 538). If he appears, he may be examined upon oath touching the means he has, or since the date of the judgment has had, of paying the debt; and witnesses may also be examined on oath to prove the means of the debtor. Witnesses may be summoned in the same way as in the case of ordinary plaints, and the expenses of any person examined by the judge, whether summoned or not, may be allowed by the judge. If the judgment debtor does not appear at the hearing, or pays into court the amount in payment of which he is in default, expenses paid to him with the judgment summons or with a summons to appear as a witness may be allowed if the judge so directs, as expenses of a witness; if he does appear, such expenses may, if the judge directs, be allowed as expenses of a witness in any case in which the costs of witnesses may be allowed under the rules (see Order XXV. r. 35). The name of every witness who has been examined as to the means of the debtor must be entered in a book, and whenever an order of commitment has been made there must also be entered in the column "order" of the said book a note or minute showing whether such order has been made on account of the past or the present ability of the debtor to obey the order of the court (Order XXV. r. 36).

It is utterly immaterial how the debtor obtains, or has obtained, the means to pay, whether by gift, charity, or otherwise. Mere proof of an allowance of 5*l.* per week did not, however, satisfy the Court of Appeal that a debtor had had means to pay a judgment debt (Ex parte Koster (C. A.), (1885) 14 Q. B. D. 597; 54 L. J. Q. B. 389). Nor was the same court satisfied as to the existence of means where a debtor was living with his wife in a quiet way on her separate estate (Chard v. Jervis (C. A.), (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 178; 51 L. J. Q. B. 442); but where the establishment was a large one, and horses, carriages, and men-servants were kept, it was held that a committal was right, although the debtor swore that the whole was kept up by his wife out of her separate property (Harper v. Scrimgeour, (1879) 5 C. P. D. 366. In Dunn v. Rigby, (1871) 15 S. J. 492, Judge Pitt-Taylor held that refusal to produce her marriage settlement was evidence of means against a married woman). Sed quære.

Where a judgment creditor at whose instance a judgment summons is issued, or the judgment debtor, does not reside within the district of the court in which the summons is to be heard, he may forward to the registrar of the court from which the summons issued an affidavit setting forth any facts which he may wish to be before the court prior to any order being made on the summons. The judge may, if he think fit, on the hearing of the judgment summons, admit the affidavit as the evidence of the person by whom the same is made. Notice of this rule must be printed at the foot of, or annexed to, every judgment summons issued pursuant to leave granted under Order XXV. r. 26 (Order XXV. r. 37; Form 179).

If the judgment debtor appears on the return-day, but the creditor does not, the judge may award costs to the former (Order XXV. r. 52).

By leave of the judge the hearing of the summons may be adjourned from time to time (Order XXV. r. 34). As to married women, see ante, p. 239.

As to the effect of bankruptcy, etc., see post, pp. 248—249.

Where the special form of judgment summons (Form 184), hereinbefore mentioned, has been issued under a judgment against a firm or a person carrying on business in a name other than his own, in such other name (ante, p. 241), if the person summoned does not appear and deny it, he will be deemed to admit his liability as a partner in or sole member of the firm, or as the person carrying on business under such other name, to pay the debt.

Section 5 Notes.

But if he does appear and deny his liability the judge may decide the question on the evidence before him, or order it to be determined in an action to be commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way. Where the person neither resides nor carries on business within the district the summons can only be issued by leave of the judge under Order XXV. r. 26, unless a sum to cover his travelling expenses is deposited, or an undertaking given to pay or tender them (Order XXV. r. 26 (3)).

Order.]—If the judge is satisfied by the evidence adduced before him that the debtor either then has, or since the date of the order or judgment has had, the means to pay the sum (ante, p. 239) in respect of which the commitment is applied for, and that he has refused or neglected or refuses or neglects to pay it, he may make an order committing the debtor to prison for any term not exceeding six weeks (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161; Order II. r. 4; no warrant is prepared. The order is the authority under which the high bailiff acts).

If he is of opinion that an order of commitment ought not to be made, the judge may refuse to make it, or may make a fresh order for payment at a specified time or by instalments (Order XXV. r. 46 (1)). The execution of an order of commitment may be suspended by direction of the judge, notice of any such direction being given to the judgment debtor (Order XXV. r. 46 (2); Form 191A). Subject to the provisions of Order XXV. rr. 48 and 49, all payments under a fresh order or order of commitment must be paid into court (Order XXV. r. 46 (3)).

On the making of the order by the judge, the registrar makes a minute of it in the minute-book, and the court will not grant a prohibition to restrain further proceedings merely on the ground that the minute does not show the ground on which the order of commitment is made (Harris v. Slater, (1888) 21 Q. B. D. 359; 57 L. J. Q. B. 539).

As already explained, the court may, if it sees fit, direct the amount due to be paid by instalments (ante, p. 239); but it cannot add to an order to pay by instalments, which it makes instead of committing, a direction that in default of payment the debtor do stand committed; it may, however, make an order of commitment, and direct that it shall not issue for a certain time, or at all, if the debtor pays the debt by certain instalments (R. v. Brompton C. C. (C. A.), (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 213; 56 L. J. Q. B. 49. This judgment was reversed on the facts in the House of Lords, but the decision of the Lords confirms the propositions above stated (Stonor v. Fowle, (1888) 13 App. Cas. 20; 57 L. J. Q. B. 387)).

Where there is a judgment or order for payment by instalments, and an order of commitment is made in respect of the non-payment of an instalment before the whole have become due, then, if the judge orders the execution of the order of commitment to be suspended to enable the debtor to pay the amount in respect of which it is made, he may also order that the judgment or order for payment by instalments shall also be suspended as long as the execution of the order of commitment is suspended or for any less period. If he makes such last-mentioned order, he may at any subsequent time order that the suspension of the judgment or order for payment of instalments shall cease; and if the plaintiff withdraws or abandons the order of commitment, the suspension of the judgment or order for payment of instalments will thereupon cease (Order XXV. r. 47).

Where in lieu of an order of commitment a fresh order is made for payment of the amount due or for payment by instalments under Order XXIII. r. 14, there is to be included in the amount payable otherwise than by way of judgment summons the amount in respect of which an order of commitment has been made and the debtor has been imprisoned, but so that the debtor shall not be liable to be imprisoned a second time for non-payment of the last-mentioned amount. On any subsequent judgment summons in default of payment of an instalment the amount in respect of which the debtor has been imprisoned is to be deducted on the face of the summons from the amount payable under the order, but in calculating for the purposes of the summons the amount in respect of which the debtor has made default, the instalments payable under the order are to be attributed in the first instance to the discharge of the amount payable under the order other than the amount in respect of which the debtor has been imprisoned, and the summons may be issued for the full amount of the instalments in arrear if that amount does not exceed the balance remaining payable under the order after deducting the amount in respect of which the debtor has been imprisoned, or if the instalments in arrear exceed such balance, then for the amount of such balance (Order XXV. r. 55).

If the summons is heard in a different court from that in which the order or judgment was obtained, a memorandum of the result of the hearing must be sent by the registrar of the former to the registrar of the latter court, and entered by the last-named registrar on the minute of the judgment or order (Order XXV. r. 40 (1)). If on the hearing an order of commitment or an order altering the terms of the judgment or order is made, the proceedings are thereby transferred to the court making such order ; and all payments, whether under the order of commitment or under the original judgment or order, are to be made into the court making the order of commitment or new order, and execution or other process for enforcing either the order of commitment or the original judgment or order or the new order, must be issued by the same court (Order XXV. r. 40 (2) ; Form 186). In any such case the certified copy of the judgment or order filed in the court pursuant to Order XXV. r. 29, is for all purposes deemed to be a judgment or order of the court in which the judgment summons is heard ; and if the judgment creditor subsequently desires to apply for a judgment summons to another court pursuant to that rule, he must obtain from the registrar of the court in which the order of commitment or new order was made a copy, certified by the registrar to be a correct copy, of the certified copy of the judgment or order filed in that court pursuant to that rule, and a certified copy of the order made on the hearing of the judgment summons, containing the particulars required by the said rule, according to Form 155 in the Appendix, and must file the same with his application (Order XXV. r. 40 (3)). If no order is made on the hearing, the judgment or order remains in the court in which it was obtained, and the certified copy is returned to that court; subsequent payments thereunder, and subsequent proceedings for its enforcement, may be taken in that court (Order XXV. r. 40 (4)). If the judgment or order has been made in any other court, not being a county court, the provisions of Order XXV. r. 40A apply.

A judgment debt is now barred in twelve years, unless some payment has been made, or some acknowledgment in writing given (Hebblethwaite v. Peever, (1892) 1 Q. B. 124).

The registrar draws up the order. It will not be issued until applied for (Order II. r. 4), and the court fees paid. The order must be issued for execution to the high bailiff, under seal of the court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161), and must be in the prescribed form (Forms 187, 189, and 191). It must show on its face the ground on which it is issued, and, on whatever day it may be issued, must bear the date on which the order was made by the judge (Order XXV. r. 46 ; see Form 187). The order itself is the high bailiff's authority (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161), there is no warrant. If unexecuted, the order remains in force for one year only from and exclusive of its date ; but this time may be extended for not more than a year by an order of the judge made either before or after the expiration of the year, and so on from time to time ; the order of extension may be made either before or after the commitment order is issued. The fact of any such order must be indorsed on the order of commitment (Order XXV. r. 46 ; see Form 187 ; and see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161 ; as to execution out of the jurisdiction, see ante, p. 243).

Fees payable on renewal of an order of commitment may be allowed as costs of the order, and, if allowed, their amount and the fact of the allowance must be entered on the order (Order XXV. r. 46B).

Section 5 Notes.

Orders of commitment may issue by post. The party or his solicitor (if the latter has no office within the district) must transmit to the registrar (a) a præcipe containing the number of the plaint, and stating the full names and address of or otherwise sufficiently identifying every person against whom the order is to be issued; (b) a money order for the fees payable upon the issue of the order; and (c) a stamped addressed envelope. Order XXV. r. 30A, applies to the issue of orders of commitment under this rule (Order XXV. r. 47A).

Execution of Order.]—The order of commitment authorises the high bailiff and his bailiffs to arrest the judgment debtor and lodge him in gaol (Order XXV. r. 46; see Form 187, and see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161). The Sheriffs Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 55, s. 14), does not prevent an immediate taking to prison (Mitchell v. Simpson (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 183; 59 L. J. Q. B. 355). The ordinary rules as to the mode and place of execution apply (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 77; Order LIV. r. 19; Order I. r. 5). All constables and other peace officers must aid in executing the order, and the governor of the prison mentioned in it must receive and keep the debtor until discharged by due course of law (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 161). The extreme term of imprisonment is six weeks (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5), computed from the date of lodging in prison (Ex parte Foulkes, (1846) 15 M. & W. 612; 15 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 300).

Care must be taken to execute the order against the right person; if the plaintiff directs its execution against a person not named in it, he is liable in trespass (Walley v. M'Connell, (1849) 13 Q. B. 903; 19 L. J. Q. B. 162; 78 R. R. 552).

The high bailiff must make returns as in case of execution against goods, and pay over moneys and give information to suitors (see Order II. rr. 33, 34, 37).

Effect of Order.]—It has been shown above that an order of commitment remains in force for a year only; and it was held under a similar provision that if the order were executed within a year from the date of it the debtor might be imprisoned for the full term for which he was committed, although it might expire at a time beyond a year from the date of the order (Hayes v. Keene, (1852) 12 C. B. 233; 21 L. J. C. P. 204; 92 R. R. 707; and see Ex parte O'Neill, (1850) 10 C. B. 57; 20 L. J. C. P. 69). So long as the order remains in force there is no power to make a fresh order. Where a debtor was arrested, and, after imprisonment for seven days, was discharged, on the ground of privilege, the court restrained by prohibition proceedings on a new judgment summons obtained by the creditor (Horsnail v. Bruce, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 378; 42 L. J. C. P. 140). As long as the order stands, an action does not lie by the judgment debtor against the high bailiff for not having served him with the judgment summons (Turley v. Daw, (1906) 94 L. T. 216).

Where a debtor has once been imprisoned, although for a period of less than six weeks, no second order of commitment can be made against him in respect of the same debt (Order XXV. r. 55). But if the order or judgment be for payment by instalments a power of committal arises on default of payment for each instalment (Evans v. Wills, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 229; 45 L. J. C. P. 420; and Horsnail v. Bruce, supra, per Bovill, C. J., and Brett, J.). If the creditor waits, however, until after the date for payment of all the instalments, the debtor can then doubtless be committed for one term only. If the order of commitment has never been executed, and by reason of lapse of time the order is inoperative, it seems that a fresh commitment may be made (R. v. Stonor (1), (1888) 57 L. J. Q. B. 510).

Imprisonment under the order does not operate as a satisfaction or extinguishment of any debt or demand or cause of action, or deprive any person of any right to take out execution against the lands, goods, or chattels of the person imprisoned in the same manner as if there had been no imprisonment (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5).

Section 5 Notes.

A commitment has been said to be a qualified execution, and not a punishment for contempt (Ex parte Dakins, (1855) 16 C. B. 77; 24 L. J. C. P. 131; 100 R. R. 620; Evans v. Wills, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 229; Re Ryley, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 329; 54 L. J. Q. B. 420; see, however, Mitchell v. Simpson, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 373; 59 L. J. Q. B. 355, per Charles, J.); hence, on a receiving order in bankruptcy, or an administration order being made, the creditor's remedy will be suspended (Re Ryley, supra). So, if the creditors accept a composition, binding on the judgment creditor, his remedy under these provisions will be suspended; but on the debtor's failure to pay the composition, the creditor will be remitted to his original position, and may obtain a commitment for the original debt or instalment (Newell v. Van Praagh, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 96; 43 L. J. C. P. 94).

Suspension of Order.]—Where from sickness or any other sufficient cause, which mere inability to pay owing to want of means is not (Attenborough v. Henschel, (1895) 1 Q. B. 833; 64 L. J. Q. B. 255), the debtor is unable to pay any instalments ordered, the judge may suspend the order for such time or on such terms as he may think fit. He may order the discharge of any debtor who, on account of sickness, insanity, or other sufficient cause, ought in his opinion to be discharged (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 153).

Bankruptcy Acts.]—The court, on proof that a bankruptcy petition has been presented by or against the debtor, although no receiving order or adjudication has been made, may either stay proceedings or allow them to continue on such terms as it may think just (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 10). See sect. 9 (1) of Bankruptcy Act, 1914.

Where the debtor, on the return-day, satisfies the judge that a receiving order has been made, or that he has been adjudicated bankrupt, and that the debt was provable in the bankruptcy, no order of commitment may be made (Order XXV. r. 42; see Re Ryley, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 329; 54 L. J. Q. B. 420); nor can any order be made for payment by instalments (Re Nuthall (C. A.), (1891) 64 L. T. 241). A copy of the Gazette containing the order is sufficient evidence (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 132).

Where, after the making of an order of commitment, the debtor files an affidavit in the prescribed form, stating that a receiving order has been made, or that he has been adjudicated bankrupt, and that the debt was provable in the bankruptcy, and forthwith gives notice of the filing of the affidavit to the judgment creditor, the order of commitment will not be issued, and if issued but not executed it will be recalled (Order XXV. r. 43; Form 192). Where it has been sent to another court for re-issue the registrar must give notice to the registrar of the foreign court (Order XXV. r. 43).

If he has been arrested, the debtor may file a similar affidavit in the court within the district of which he is in custody, and he must thereupon be discharged out of custody upon the certificate of the registrar, who must forthwith give notice of his discharge to the judgment creditor (Order XXV. r. 44; Forms 192, 194).

Where the debtor, on the return-day, satisfies the judge that an administration order has been made under sect. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and that the debt in respect of which the summons issued has been notified to the court in which the order was made, no order can be made on the judgment summons except on proof that the creditor has obtained leave to proceed from the court in which the administration order was made and in accordance with the terms (if any) imposed by the court (Order XXV. r. 45).

Where a judgment debtor after the making of an order of commitment files an affidavit in the prescribed form stating that an administration order has been made, that the debt in respect of which the order of commitment was made has been notified to the court in which the administration order was made, and that the judgment creditor has not obtained leave to proceed from that court, and annexes to the affidavit a certificate of the registrar of the court in which the order was made, and gives notice to the judgment creditor of the filing of the affidavit, the order of commitment will not be issued, and if issued but not executed, will be recalled. Notice of the affidavit must be given by the registrar of the court in which it is filed to the registrar of a foreign court where the order has been issued to a foreign district (Order XXV. r. 45A; Forms 192A, 193).

If the judgment debtor is arrested, he may file in the court of the district in which he is in custody a similar affidavit, and will thereupon be discharged out of custody upon the certificate of the registrar of that court, who must forthwith give notice of the discharge to the judgment creditor (Order XXV. r. 45C; Forms 192B, 193A, 194).

For the purposes of Order XXV. rr. 45, 45A, and 45B, the registrar of the court in which an administration order has been made must issue to the debtor, upon his application, a certificate in the prescribed form (Order XXV. r. 45C; Form 193A).

In cases coming within Order XXV. rr. 45A, 45B, or where proceedings under a judgment summons or order of commitment are stayed under sect. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, or rules, any money received thereunder will be dealt with as provided by Order XXV. r. 24C, with respect to money received under an execution (Order XXV. r. 45D).

If in any such case the costs of the judgment summons or order of commitment incurred by the creditor are not allowed out of the money received the creditor will be liable for them; but they may be allowed as against the debtor and (on application) added to the debt (Order XXV. r. 45D).

Where the debt is not provable, such as alimony ordered to be paid by the Probate Division, on proof of means the order may still be made (Kerr v. Kerr, (1897) 2 Q. B. 439; 66 L. J. Q. B. 838).

Where the application for a commitment is made to a court having bankruptcy jurisdiction, the court may, if it thinks fit, decline to commit, and in lieu thereof, with the consent of the judgment creditor, and on payment by him of the prescribed fee, may make a receiving order against the debtor. The debtor will then be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time the order is made (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 107, sub-s. 4; see p. 279). The creditor will have to pay the same fee and deposit as are required on a bankruptcy petition, and if he does not consent to pay them, the court may dismiss the application or adjourn it on such terms as may be just (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 357). The receiving order cannot be made if there is no evidence of means before the county court judge (In re a Debtor, Ex parte the Debtor, (1905) 1 K. B. 375; 74 L. J. K. B. 362; and see In re Clark (C. A.), (1898) 1 Q. B. 20; 66 L. J. Q. B. 875), though it has been held that the absence of means is immaterial in a case where the debtor had made an assignment of the whole of his property on the morning of the day when judgment was given against him (R. v. Sussex C. C., (1888) 59 L. T. 32).

If the court has bankruptcy jurisdiction, but still is not the court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor could be properly presented, the court may make the order, but must then transfer the proceedings to the court to which a petition would be properly presented. The registrar must then transmit the proceedings and a sealed copy of the order of transfer to the registrar of the other court (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 378).

Where the application is made to a court not having bankruptcy jurisdiction, if the judge is of opinion that a receiving order should be made in lieu of a commitment, he may order the matter to be transferred to the court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor might be presented. The registrar must then transmit by post to the court to which the matter is transferred the proceedings in the matter, together with a copy of the order of transfer (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 377).

Notice of the order and of the subsequent proceedings must be served on the judgment debtor. The court to which the proceedings are transferred does not appear to be bound by the opinion of the court which transfers, but must decide on the merits (Re Andrews, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 335; 54 L. J. Q. B. 572). The order of transfer suspends the operation of any commitment previously made (Re Ryley, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 329; 54 L. J. Q. B. 420).

Section 5 Notes.

The court may also, as before stated, make an administration order, if the total liabilities of the debtor do not exceed 50*l.*, and the court thinks that an order of commitment ought not to be made (sect. 122, Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 358), post, pp. 268, 281).

To What Prison.]—The debtor against whom an order of commitment is made must be committed to the particular prison designated by various orders of the Home Secretary (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 163). The orders apply to all commitments whatsoever, and will be found, post, p. 893.

Discharge from Custody.]—The debtor may, at any time before he is delivered into the custody of the gaoler, pay to the bailiff the amount indorsed on the order as that on the payment of which he may be discharged; and on receiving it the bailiff must discharge the defendant, and must within twenty-four hours pay over the money to the registrar (Order XXV. r. 48). As to payment after, see Order XXV. rr. 48A, 49; Forms 188A, 195.

The sum indorsed on the order may be paid to the registrar of the court from which the commitment order was issued, or to the gaoler in whose custody the prisoner is, or into the foreign court to which the order has been sent for execution. Where it is paid to the registrar he must sign and seal a certificate (Order XXV. r. 51; Form 195) of payment, and upon receiving such certificate, by post or otherwise, the gaoler in whose custody the prisoner is, must forthwith discharge the prisoner. And where it is paid to the gaoler, he must, upon payment with costs sufficient to pay for transmitting the amount to the registrar of the court under the order of which the prisoner was committed, by post-office order, sign a certificate of payment and discharge the prisoner, and such costs of transmission are part of the prescribed costs (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 5; Order XXV. r. 49). Upon the judgment creditor lodging with the registrar a request in writing (Form 196) that the judgment debtor may be discharged from custody, the registrar must issue a certificate (Form 197), and transmit it by post to the gaoler; and the gaoler upon receipt of it must forthwith discharge the prisoner (Order XXV. r. 50).

In order to obtain a judgment debtor's discharge by payment the above mode of proceeding must be strictly followed; for where a judgment debtor paid the debt and costs to the execution creditor, but no application was made to the court, and he was subsequently arrested by the bailiff of the court under the warrant of commitment, it was held that the arrest was legal (Davies v. Fletcher, (1853) 2 E. & B. 271; 22 L. J. Q. B. 429; 95 R. R. 538).

The procedure for discharge on filing an affidavit as to bankruptcy or administration order has already been mentioned, ante, p. 248 (and see Order XXV. rr. 44, 45, 45A, 45B, and 45C; Forms 192A, 192B, 193, 193A, 194). It would seem that the filing of the affidavit (Form 192) is a condition precedent to the discharge (Re Edgcome, (1902) 2 K. B. 403; 71 L. J. K. B. 722; see per Vaughan Williams, L.J.). If the certificate authorizing the discharge (Form 194) were refused by the registrar, application might possibly be made to the judge by way of appeal from the order of the registrar (Order XII. r. 11), or to the High Court, to compel the registrar to grant the certificate, or in bankruptcy (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 10), or to the High Court for a habeas corpus (see Ex parte Kinning, (1847) 16 L. J. Q. B. 257; but see Ex parte Somers, (1855) 24 L. J. C. P. 185; 24 L. J. Ex. 247).

There can be no doubt that an order which has the effect of discharging a debtor from his debts takes away the power to commit on a judgment summons for a debt so discharged. A prohibition would lie at any stage of the proceedings (Copeman v. Rose, (1857) 7 E. & B. 679; 26 L. J. Q. B. 51, overruling Abley v. Dale, (1851) 11 C. B. 378; 20 L. J. C. P. 233; 87

R. R. 697. An unconditional order of discharge in bankruptcy dates from the day upon which it is granted (Ex parte Bell, (1863) 32 L. J. Bk. 50)). Section 5 Notes.

Part Payment.]—The following provisions apply where after the issue o an order of commitment for non-payment of money, but before the body of the debtor is delivered into the custody of the gaoler, money is paid into the court out of which the order issued, or into a foreign court to which the order has been sent for re-issue under sect. 158 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or to the bailiff holding the order (Order XXV. r. 48A (1)). If payment is made into the court in the district of which the order is to be executed, the fact and amount of the payment is to be forthwith notified by the registrar, if he is also high bailiff, to the bailiff holding the order; if he is not high bailiff, to the high bailiff, who must as soon as may be notify the bailiff holding the order (Order XXV. r. 48A (2)). If the payment is made into the court out of which the order issued (the home court) after the order has been sent for re-issue to any foreign court, the notification is to be as soon as may be after receipt made by post by the registrar of the home court to the high bailiff of the foreign court, who in his turn must as soon as may be notify it to the bailiff holding the order (Order XXV. r. 48A (3)). If the bailiff holding the order receives any payment or notice of any payment, he must forthwith indorse on the order the amount of the payment and deduct it from the amount indorsed on the order as that on payment of which the debtor may be discharged, and must sign the indorsement; the order of commitment, unless withdrawn by the plaintiff, will thenceforth operate as an order of commitment for non-payment of the amount remaining due after such deduction (Order XXV. r. 48A (4)).

Similar rules have been made for cases where payment or part payment is made after the debtor has been lodged in gaol. After the prisoner has been delivered into the gaoler's custody, the sum indorsed on the warrant of commitment as that upon payment of which he may be discharged may be paid either into the home court or into the foreign court or to the gaoler (Order XXV. r. 49 (1)). If paid into the foreign court, the registrar must sign and seal a certificate of the payment and send it by post or otherwise to the gaoler, who upon its receipt must forthwith discharge the prisoner (Order XXV. r. 49 (2)). If payment is made into the home court after the order has been sent for re-issue to a foreign court, the registrar of the home court must forthwith notify the fact of the payment by post to the registrar, who then sends his certificate to the gaoler (Order XXV. r. 49 (3)). If payment is made to the gaoler, he must on payment of the amount indorsed on the order of commitment, together with costs sufficient to pay for transmitting the amount, transmit it forthwith by post-office order to the registrar of the court under the order of which the prisoner was committed, and must sign a certificate of the payment and discharge the prisoner; the costs of transmission are part of the prescribed costs (Order XXV. r. 49 (4)).

Where the amount paid into the foreign court is less than that indorsed upon the order of commitment as that upon payment of which the prisoner may be discharged, the fact and amount of the payment are to be notified as soon as may be after receipt by post or otherwise by the registrar to the gaoler (Order XXV. r. 49A (1), (2)). Where such a payment is made into the home court after the order has been sent for re-issue to a foreign court, the notification is to be made as soon as may be after receipt by post by the registrar of the home court to the registrar of the foreign court, who is to notify the payment by post or otherwise to the gaoler as soon as may be after receiving such notification (Order XXV. r. 49A (1), (3)). Upon payment to the gaoler of the balance, with costs sufficient to pay for transmission, the gaoler is to transmit it forthwith by post-office order to the registrar of the court under the order of which the prisoner was committed, to sign a certificate of the payment, and discharge the prisoner; the costs of transmission are to be part of the prescribed costs (Order XXV. r. 49A (4)).

Execution out of Jurisdiction.]—Where the debtor is out of the jurisdiction, the order must be sent by the high bailiff of the home court with a sealed warrant under his hand to the registrar of the court within the jurisdiction of which the debtor is, in the same manner as a warrant of execution against goods (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 158; Form 173). The registrar of the foreign court on receiving it must make an entry of the receipt in "The Foreign Executions Re-issued Book" (Order XXVIII. r. 1), and indorse a notice (Form 188) on the order addressed to the governor of the prison used by the court, and seal the order, and issue it to the high bailiff (Order XXV. r. 41; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 158).

Every high bailiff must (except where by statute he is required to retain the same) pay over any monies received by him within twenty-four hours to his registrar (Order II. r. 34).

Where under an order of commitment to be executed in a foreign district money has been paid into the court of such district, the registrar shall transmit a certificate (Form 175) to the registrar of the home court of the amount so paid in, and account for and pay over the same to the treasurer of his court at such time as the treasurer may require, and the registrar of the home court shall file the certificate and thereupon pay out of any money in his hands to the judgment creditor the amount so certified to have been received by the foreign court, and shall enter in a book the amount so certified, and be allowed by the treasurer of his court the amount so paid (Order XXVIII. r. 3).

If the debtor is apprehended, he must be forthwith conveyed in custody of the bailiff or officer apprehending him to the prison of the court within the jurisdiction of which he was apprehended, and kept therein for the time mentioned in the order of commitment, unless sooner discharged by law; and all constables and other peace officers must aid and assist within their respective districts in the execution of the order (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 158).

As to the procedure in cases of part payment after issue of order of commitment, see ante, p. 251.

Costs.]—Except as otherwise provided by the rules (Order XXV. rr. 53—56), all costs incurred by the plaintiff in endeavouring to procure or enforce an order or judgment will be deemed to be due in pursuance of such order or judgment under these provisions unless the judge otherwise orders, hence they will be included in the amount required to be paid by the judgment debtor.

No solicitor's costs will be allowed for attending on the hearing of a judgment summons, unless the party for whom he appears resides out of the district of the court, or unless the summons is on a judgment or order of a court other than a county court, in either of which cases the judge may allow (i.) if the amount for which the summons is issued exceeds 10*l.*, the fee specified in the scale (see Item 64) for attending in court on an interlocutory application, or (ii.) where the amount is less than 10*l.*, a fee not exceeding 5*s.* (Order XXV. r. 53).

Where the judge, instead of making an order to commit, makes a fresh order for payment of the amount remaining due and unpaid under the judgment or order, no costs for fees or witnesses will be allowed to the creditor, unless the court is satisfied that the debtor has made default, and has had since the date of the original judgment or order the means to pay the sum in payment of which he has made default. If the court is so satisfied, a minute must be made in the book prescribed (Order XXV. r. 54).

Appeal.]—The order to commit is not, it is believed, subject to appeal (see Rackham v. Blowers, (1849) 15 Jur. 758; Ex parte Watkins, (1886) 3 Morrell, 146; but consult Draycott v. Harrison, (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 147; 34 W. R. 546). Even if there were an appeal the High Court could not interfere if there were any evidence of means, as it would be a decision on a question of fact (Esdaile v. Visser (C. A.), (1880) 13 Ch. D. 421). If the judge makes a commitment without evidence, or misapprehending or misapplying some rule of law, the remedy by prohibition is available, as the order is then in fact without jurisdiction (Evans v. Wills, (1876) 1 C. P. D. 229; 45 L. J. C. P. 420).

MONEY-LENDERS ACTS, 1900 AND 1911.

[63 & 64 VICT. c. 51, AND 1 & 2 GEO. 5, c. 38.]

Section 1.

1.—(1) Where proceedings are taken in any court by a money-lender for the recovery of any money lent after the commencement of this Act, or the enforcement of any agreement or security made or taken after the commencement of this Act, in respect of money lent either before or after the commencement of this Act, and there is evidence which satisfies the court that the interest charged in respect of the sum actually lent is excessive, or that the amounts charged for expenses, inquiries, fines, bonus, premium, renewals, or any other charges, are excessive, and that, in either case, the transaction is harsh and unconscionable, or is otherwise such that a court of equity would give relief, the court may re-open the transaction, and take an account between the money-lender and the person sued, and may, notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, re-open any account already taken between them, and relieve the person sued from payment of any sum in excess of the sum adjudged by the court to be fairly due in respect of such principal, interest and charges, as the court, having regard to the risk and all the circumstances, may adjudge to be reasonable; and if any such excess has been paid, or allowed in account, by the debtor, may order the creditor to repay it; and may set aside, either wholly or in part, or revise, or alter, any security given or agreement made in respect of money lent by the money-lender, and if the money-lender has parted with the security may order him to indemnify the borrower or other person sued (a).

NOTE (a).—See, further, notes on pp. 921—923.

The Act does not apply to a contract for a loan made and intended to be performed abroad (Shrichand v. Lacon, (1906) 22 T. L. R. 245).

Any court in which proceedings might be taken for the recovery of money lent by a money-lender may exercise the powers given by the section (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 1 (2)).

On the above section it was decided in Wilton v. Osborne, (1901) 2 K. B. 110; 70 L. J. K. B. 507, that the words "or otherwise is such that a court of equity would give relief" were not exclusive of the words "harsh and unconscionable," and that in order to entitle the person sued to relief the transaction must be such as a court of equity would relieve against on the ground of its being harsh and unconscionable. This decision practically limited the effect of sect. 1, sub-s. 1 of the Act to cases where the debtor could theretofore have obtained relief in a court of equity (see Nevill v. Snelling, (1880) 15 Ch. Div. 679; 49 L. J. Ch. 777). But in the case of In re a Debtor (C. A.), (1903) 1 K. B. 705; 72 L. J. K. B. 382; and see Ponciono v. Higgins, (1904) 21 T. L. R. 11), the Court of Appeal held that a transaction might be re-opened which was harsh and unconscionable, although not one in which a court of equity would have given relief before the Act, and Wilton v. Osborne, (1901) 2 K. B. 110; 70 L. J. K. B. 507, was in terms overruled. Excessive interest, having regard to the risk or absence of risk, may of itself render a transaction harsh and unconscionable (In re a Debtor, supra; Saunders v. Newbold, (1905) 1 Ch. 260; 74 L. J. Ch. 120; (H. L.), sub nom. Samuel v. Newbold, (1906) A. C. 461; 75 L. J. Ch. 705; Wells v. Allott (C. A.), (1904) 2 K. B. 842; 73 L. J. K. B. 1023; Part v. Bond, (1905) 93 L. T. 49; (C. A.) 94 L. T. 390). But a high rate of interest is not necessarily excessive (Carringtons v. Smith, (1906) 1 K. B. 79; 75 L. J. K. B. 49). Whether the loan is secured or not is a circumstance to be taken into account (Salaman v. Blair, (1914) 111 L. T. 426).

It was held at nisi prius that a transaction could be re-opened where by reason of a term of the bargain understood by the money-lender but not understood by the borrower, the rate of interest is considerably increased beyond that contemplated by the borrower (Levene v. Greenwood, (1904) 20 T. L. R. 389), and the Court of Appeal has held that in proper cases closed transactions may be re-opened (Kerman v. Wainewright, (1916) 32 T. L. R. 295). See Halsey v. Wolfe, (1915) 84 L. J. Ch. 809.

The powers of the county court under sect. 1, sub-s. 1 of the Act may be exercised at any stage of the proceedings whether notice has or has not been given by the defendant of his intention to ask the court to exercise its powers, subject, where no notice has been given, to such terms as to adjournment, furnishing particulars, costs and otherwise as may be just (Order L. r. 33 (1)).

The questions whether the interest is excessive and whether the transaction is harsh or unconscionable are not questions for the jury, but are for the judge (Abrahams v. Dimmock, (1914) 2 K. B. 372; 84 L. J. K. B. 802).

Where a transaction is re-opened under the Act and an account is taken between the parties, the payments made by the borrower must be allocated first to interest, and then towards discharge of principal (id.).

Apart from the Act, if the contract to borrow money improperly and unduly fetters the borrower's liberty to dispose of his services, and the free dealing with his earnings and property, it may be unenforceable as being opposed to public policy (Horwood v. Millar's Timber and Trading Co., Ltd., (1917) 1 K. B. 305; 86 L. J. K. B. 190.

(2) Any court in which proceedings might be taken for the recovery of money lent by a money-lender shall have and may, at the instance of the borrower or surety or other person liable, exercise the like powers as may be exercised under this section, where proceedings are taken for the recovery of money lent, and the court shall have power, notwithstanding any provision or agreement to the contrary, to entertain any application under this Act by the borrower or surety, or other person liable, notwithstanding that the time for repayment of the loan, or any instalment thereof, may not have arrived.

A substantive application to the court under sect. 1, sub-s. 2 of the Act must be by action commenced by plaint and summons. Particulars stating concisely the grounds on which the application is made and the relief claimed shall be filed (Order L. r. 33 (2), post, p. 258).

Allowances of special items of costs under Order LIII. r. 8 (1), may be made (Order LIII. r. 8 (2)).

(3) On any application relating to the admission or amount of a proof by a money-lender in any bankruptcy proceedings, the court may exercise the like powers as may be exercised under this section when proceedings are taken for the recovery of money.

Section 1 Notes.

On a bankruptcy petition presented by a money-lender on a judgment the transaction may be re-opened, but if a debt of over 50*l.* is still found to be due a receiving order must be made (In re a Debtor, Ex parte the Petitioning Creditor, (1917) 2 K. B. 60; 86 L. J. K. B. 746).

(4) The foregoing provisions of this section shall apply to any transaction which, whatever its form may be, is substantially one of money-lending by a money-lender.

(5) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this section shall affect the rights of any bonâ fide assignee or holder for value without notice.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any court.

(7) In the application of this Act to Scotland this section shall be read as if the words "or is otherwise such that a court of equity would give relief" were omitted therefrom.

Registration of money-lenders, etc.

2.—(1) A money-lender as defined by this Act—

(a) shall register himself as a money-lender in accordance with regulations under this Act, at an office provided for the purpose by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, under his own or usual trade name (a), and in no other name, and with the address, or all the addresses if more than one, at which he carries on his business of money-lender; and

(b) shall carry on the money-lending business in his registered name, and in no other name and under no other description, and at his registered address or addresses, and at no other address; and

(c) shall not enter into any agreement in the course of his business as a money-lender with respect to the advance and repayment of money, or take any security for money in the course of his business as a money-lender, otherwise than in his registered name; and (b)

(d) shall on reasonable request, and on tender of a reasonable sum for expenses, furnish the borrower with a copy of any document relating to the loan or any security therefor.

NOTE (a).—The Christian name need not be registered in full. The initial letter is sufficient (Hart v. Hungerford, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1029).

NOTE (b).—This sub-section is not violated by the money-lender taking a security—a bill of exchange—in which his name does not appear at all (Shaffer v. Sheffield and Another, (1914) 2 K. B. 1; 83 L. J. K. B. 817). See also Charles Taylor (London) Limited v. Miller and Fingard, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 49.

Sect. 2, sub-s. 1 (c) applies to an unregistered money-lender, and renders incapable of enforcement any agreement with respect to the advance and repayment of money, and any security for money taken in the course of his business as an unregistered money-lender (Victorian Daylesford Syndicate v. Bott, (1905) 2 Ch. 624; 74 L. J. Ch. 673; approved in Bonnard v. Dott, (C. A.), (1906) 1 Ch. 740; 75 L. J. Ch. 446). But an unregistered money-lender can maintain an action for damages for fraudulent misrepresentations whereby he was induced to advance money on loan (Dott v. Brickwell, (1906) 23 T. L. R. 61).

The mere fact that the loan is actually completed at the borrower's office is not an infringement of sect. 2, sub-s. 1 (b), which requires the business to be carried on at the money-lender's registered address and at no other address (King v. Massey, (1908) 24 T. L. R. 710); it may be carried on through the post (In re Seed, Ex parte King, (1910) 1 K. B. 661; 79 L. J. K. B. 421; Jackson v. Price, (1910) 1 K. B. 143; 79 L. J. K. B. 130). It is not necessary that every stage and every incident of every piece of the money-lending business should be transacted at the registered office. The question is one of fact, not of law (Kirkwood v. Gadd, (1910) A. C. 422; 79 L. J. K. B. 815; reversing Gadd v. Provincial Union Bank, (1909) 2 K. B. 353; 78 L. J. K. B. 815).

A breach of the provisions of sect. 2 (1) (b) of this Act by a registered money-lender does not render the transaction void, though it subjects the money-lender to the penalties set out in sub-sect. 2. See Finegold v. Cornelius, (1916) 2 K. B. 719; 86 L. J. K. B. 1.

(2) If a money-lender fails to register himself as required by this Act, or carries on business otherwise than in his registered name, or in more than one name, or elsewhere than at his registered address, or fails to comply with any other requirement of this section, he shall be liable on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and in the case of a second or subsequent conviction to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding three months, or to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, or to both: Provided that if the offender be a body corporate that body corporate shall be liable on a second or subsequent conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds.

(3) A prosecution under sub-section (1) (a) of this section shall not be instituted except with the consent in England of the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General, and in Ireland of the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General for Ireland.

Regulations as to registration.

3.—(1) The Commissioners of Inland Revenue, subject to the approval of the Treasury, may make regulations respecting the registration of money-lenders, whether individuals, firms, societies, or companies, the form of the register, and the particulars to be entered therein, and the fees to be paid on registration and renewal of registration, not exceeding one pound for each registration or renewal, and respecting the inspection of the register and the fees payable therefor.

(2) The registration shall cease to have effect at the expiration of three years from the date of the registration, but may be renewed from time to time, and if renewed shall have effect for three years from the date of the renewal.

Penalties for false state.

4. If any money-lender, or any manager, agent, or clerk of a money-lender, or if any person being a director, manager, or other officer of any corporation carrying on the business of a money-lender, by any false, misleading, or deceptive statement, representation or promise, or by any dishonest concealment of material facts, fraudulently induces or attempts to induce any person to borrow money or to agree to the terms on which money is or is to be borrowed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable on indictment to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding two years, or to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds, or to both. Section 4. ments and representations.

5. Where in any proceedings under section two of the Betting and Loans (Infants) Act, 1892, it is proved that the person to whom the document was sent was an infant, the person charged shall be deemed to have known that the person to whom the document was sent was an infant, unless he proves that he had reasonable ground for believing the infant to be of full age. Amendment of 55 & 56 Vict. c. 4, s. 2, as to presumption of knowledge of infancy.

6. The expression "money-lender" in this Act shall include every person whose business is that of money-lending, or who advertises or announces himself or holds himself out in any way as carrying on that business; but shall not include— Definition of money-lender.

(a) any pawnbroker in respect of business carried on by him in accordance with the provisions of the Acts for the time being in force in relation to pawnbrokers; or

(b) any registered society within the meaning of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, or any society registered or having rules certified under sections two or four of that Act, or under the Benefit Building Societies Act, 1836, or the Loan Societies Act, 1840, or under the Building Societies Acts, 1874 to 1894; or 59 & 60 Vict. c. 25. 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32.

(c) any body corporate, incorporated or empowered by a special Act of Parliament to lend money in accordance with such special Act; or 3 & 4 Vict. c. 110.

(d) any person bonâ fide carrying on the business of banking or insurance or bonâ fide carrying on any business not having for its primary object the lending of money, in the course of which and for the purposes whereof he lends money; or (e) any body corporate for the time being exempted from registration under this Act by order of the Board of Trade made and published pursuant to regulations of the Board of Trade.

7.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Money-lenders Act, 1900. Short title and commencement.

(2) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of November one thousand nine hundred.

ORDER L. RULE 33.

Proceedings under Money-lenders Act, 1900 (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51), s. 1.

The following rule of practice has been made :—

Order L. Rule 33 (1). Where proceedings are taken by a money-lender, the powers of the court under sub-sect. 1 of the Money-lenders Act, 1900, may be exercised at any stage of the proceedings, and whether notice has or has not been given by the defendant of his intention to apply to the court to exercise such powers; subject, nevertheless, where no notice or insufficient notice of such intention has been given, to such terms as to adjournment, furnishing of particulars, costs, and otherwise, as may be just.

(2) An application to the court under sub-sect. 2 of sect. 1 of the said Act, at the instance of a borrower or surety or other person liable, shall be by action commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way. Particulars of demand shall be filed in such action, stating concisely the grounds on which the application is made, and the relief which the plaintiff claims.

MONEY-LENDERS ACT, 1911.

(1 & 2 GEO. 5, c. 38.)

Rights of bonâ fide holders for value, &c., under contracts with money-lenders.

Sect. 1, sub-sect. 1. Notwithstanding anything in sect. 2 of the Money-lenders Act, 1900—

(a) any agreement with, or security taken by, a money-lender shall be, and shall be deemed always to have been, valid in favour of any bonâ fide assignee or holder for value without notice of any defect due to the operation of that section, and of any person deriving title under him (a) ;

(b) any payment or transfer of money or property made bonâ fide by any person, whether acting in a fiduciary capacity or otherwise, on the faith of the validity of any such agreement or security, without notice of any such defect, shall, in favour of that person, be, and be deemed always to have been, as valid as it would have been if the agreement or security had been valid ;

but in either such case the money-lender shall be liable to indemnify the borrower or any other person who is prejudiced by virtue of this enactment, and nothing in this enactment shall render valid an agreement or security in favour of an assignee or holder for value who is himself a money-lender.

(a) See Finegold v. Cornelius, (1916) 2 K. B. 719; 86 L. J. K. B. 1.

(2) A person shall not be deemed to have had notice of a defect in an agreement or security by reason only that a search in the register established under the Money-lenders Act, 1900, would have disclosed the defect or shown that the agreement or security was effected with a money-lender; and, for the purposes of this Act and the Money-lenders Act, 1900, the provisions of section three of the Conveyancing Act, 1882, shall apply and be deemed always to have applied as if the expression "purchaser" included a person making any such payment or transfer as aforesaid. 63 & 64 Vict. c. 51. 45 & 46 Vict. c. 39.

(3) Nothing in this section shall render valid for any purpose any agreement, security, or other transaction which would, apart from section two of the Money-lenders Act, 1900, have been void or unenforceable, nor any agreement or security which has, before the commencement of this Act, been declared void by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Prohibition on money-lenders being registered as bankers.

2.—(1) No person shall be registered as a money-lender under any name including the word "bank," or under any name implying that he carries on banking business; and, where any money-lender is registered under any such name, the name shall be removed from the register and a notification to that effect sent to the money-lender.

(2) If a money-lender, in the course of carrying on the money-lending business, issues or publishes, or causes to be issued or published, any circular, notice, advertisement, letter, account, or statement of any kind containing expressions which might reasonably be held to imply that he carries on banking business, he shall be liable on summary conviction to the like penalties as if he had failed to comply with section two of the Money-lenders Act, 1900.

Short title and construction.

3. This Act may be cited as the Money-lenders Act, 1911, and shall be construed as one with the Money-lenders Act, 1900, and that Act and this Act may be cited together as the Money-lenders Acts, 1900 and 1911.

The Borough and Local Courts of Record Act, 1872 . . . 263
The Inferior Courts Judgments Extension Act, 1882 . . . 264

THE LONDON (CITY) SMALL DEBTS EXTENSION ACT, 1852.

[15 Vict. c. lxxvii. June 17, 1852.]

Processes out of district of court may be served by bailiff of any other court holden under 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95.

41. That any summons or other process which under this Act shall be required to be served out of the city of London or the liberties thereof may be served by the bailiff of any court holden in any part of England, under an Act passed in the ninth and tenth years of the reign of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the more easy recovery of Small Debts and Demands in England," or any Act altering or amending the same; any such service shall be as valid as if the same had been made under the provisions of this Act by the bailiff of the sheriffs court within the city of London or the liberties thereof.

The provisions of this section seem obsolete since 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 84, 185, 186.

As to service of process of county courts in the city of London.

42. That any summons or other process which, under the before-mentioned Act for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in England, or under any Act altering or amending the same, shall be required to be served out of the district of the court from which the same shall have issued, may be served within the city of London or the liberties thereof by the bailiff of the sheriffs court; and such service shall be as valid as if the same had been made by the bailiff of the court out of which such summons or other process shall have issued within the jurisdiction of the court.

Section 94.

How execution may be had out of the jurisdiction of the court.

94. That in all cases where a warrant of execution shall have issued against the goods and chattels of any party, or an order for his commitment shall have been made under this Act, and such party or his goods and chattels shall be out of the jurisdiction of the court, it shall be lawful for the chief bailiff of the court to send such warrant of execution or of commitment to the clerk of any county court constituted under the before-mentioned Act for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in England within the jurisdiction of which such party or his goods and chattels shall then be or believed to be, with a warrant thereto annexed, under the hand of the chief bailiff and seal of the court holden under the provisions of this Act, requiring execution of the same; and the clerk of the county court to which the same shall be sent shall seal or stamp the same with the seal of his court, and issue the same to the high bailiff of his court; and thereupon such bailiff shall be authorized and required to act in all respects as if the original warrant of execution or commitment had been directed to him by the court of which he is the high bailiff, and shall within such time as shall be specified in the rules of practice, return to the chief bailiff of the court holden under the provisions of this Act what he shall have done in the execution of such process; and in case a levy shall have been made shall within such time as shall be specified in the rules of practice, pay over all moneys received in pursuance of the warrant to the chief bailiff of the court holden under the provisions of this Act, retaining the fees for execution of the process; and where any order of commitment shall have been made, and the person apprehended, he shall be forthwith conveyed, in custody of the bailiff or officer apprehending him, to the gaol or house of correction or other prison of the court within the jurisdiction of which he shall have been apprehended, and kept therein for the time mentioned in the warrant of commitment, unless sooner discharged under the provisions of this Act; and all constables and other peace officers shall be aiding and assisting within their respective districts in the execution of such warrant: provided always, that if such party, or his goods and chattels, shall not be within the jurisdiction of any county court constituted under the before-mentioned Act, it shall be lawful for the bailiff of the court holden under the provisions of this Act to apply to any justice of the peace acting for the county or place in which such party or his goods and chattels shall happen to be; and upon such officer producing to such justice such warrant, and making oath (which oath such justice is hereby empowered to administer) that the same has been duly issued out of the court, and that the person or goods and chattels (as the case may be) of such person is or are not to be found within the jurisdiction of the court, but is or are believed by such officer to be within the county or place where such justice acts, such justice shall sign his name on the back of such warrant, and thereupon such bailiff shall have power to take the body or goods and chattels of such person (as the case may be) wheresoever the same shall be found within such county or place, and deal forthwith in like manner as if the same had been taken within the jurisdiction of the court; and all constables and other peace officers are hereby required to be aiding, within their respective jurisdictions, in the execution of the warrant so endorsed as aforesaid.

The City of London court being now a county court (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 84, 185, 186), and subject to the general provisions applicable to coun y courts, it is believed that no provision in aid of that court is necessary.

How execution out of any county court may be had within the jurisdiction of this court.

95. That in all cases where a warrant of execution shall have issued against the goods and chattels of any party, or an order for his commitment shall have been made, under the before-mentioned Act for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in England, and such party or his goods and chattels shall be or be believed to be within the city of London or the liberties thereof, it shall be lawful for the high bailiff of the county court from which such warrant of execution shall have issued, or by which such order of commitment shall have been made, to send such warrant or order to the chief bailiff of the sheriffs court, with a warrant thereto annexed under the hand of the high bailiff and the seal of the county court from which the original warrant or order issued, requiring execution of the same, and the clerk of the sheriffs court shall seal or stamp the same with the seal of the court holden under the provisions of this Act, and shall issue the same to the chief bailiff of the court; and thereupon such chief bailiff shall be authorized and required to act in all respects as if the original warrant of execution or order of commitment had been directed to him by the court holden under the authority of this Act, and shall, within such time as shall be specified in the rules of practice, return to the high bailiff of the county court from which the same originally issued what he shall have done in the execution of such process; and in case a levy shall have been made shall, within such time as shall be specified in the rules of practice, pay over all moneys received in pursuance of the warrant to the high bailiff of the court from which the same shall have originally issued, retaining the fees for execution of the process; and where any order of commitment shall have been made, and the person apprehended mentioned in such order shall be within the city of London or the liberties thereof, he shall be forthwith conveyed in the custody of the bailiff or officer apprehending him to some gaol, house of correction or other prison within the city of London or the liberties thereof, and kept therein for the time mentioned in the warrant of commitment, unless sooner discharged under the provisions of the before-mentioned Act for the recovery of small debts and demands in England, or under any Act altering or amending the same. Section 95.

THE BOROUGH AND LOCAL COURTS OF RECORD ACT, 1872.

Sect. 6.—In all cases where final judgment shall have been obtained in any action brought in the court wherein the debt or damage does not exceed 20*l.*, exclusive of costs, and also in all cases where any rule or order shall be made by the judge for the payment of any sum of money, or any costs, charges or expenses, not exceeding the sum of 20*l.*, such court shall be at liberty to send a writ or precept for the recovery of the same to the registrar of any county court within the jurisdiction of which the defendant may possess any goods or chattels; and the registrar of such county court shall stamp or seal the same, and thereupon the high bailiff of such county court shall execute the same in the same manner as if such writ or precept had been issued out of such county court, and such high bailiff shall take all the usual and proper fees thereupon, and shall make a return of what he shall have done thereunder to the bailiff or serjeant-at-mace of the court: and in all matters done under such writ or precept, or in relation thereto, such high bailiff shall be under the direction and control of the judge of the county court of which he is high bailiff, as if such writ or precept had issued out of such county court: Provided always, that the costs of more than one writ, precept or warrant shall not be allowed against the execution debtor unless by order of the judge (a) of the said court. Power to send writs of execution to bailiffs of county court.

Note.—(a) The judge of the borough or other local court is probably intended, and not the judge of the county court; sed quære.

Section 3.

Registrar of inferior court to grant certificate of judgment.

3. Where judgment shall hereafter be obtained or entered up in any of the inferior courts of England, Scotland, or Ireland respectively for any debt, damages, or costs, the registrar of such inferior court or other proper officer shall, after the time for appealing against such judgment shall have elapsed, and in the event of such judgment not being reversed upon appeal or of execution thereunder not being stayed, upon the application of the party who has recovered such judgment, and upon proof that the same has not been satisfied, and payment of the prescribed fee, grant a certificate in the form in the schedule to this Act annexed (a).

NOTE.—(a) The form of certificate is No. 430 in the County Court Forms, and see notes on ante, pp. 185—186.

Registration of certificate shall have the effect of a judgment of the court in which it is registered.

4. On the production to the registrar or other proper officer of a county court, or, in the city of London, of the city of London court in England where a judgment has been obtained in Scotland or Ireland, or to the registrar or other proper officer of a sheriff's court in Scotland where a judgment has been obtained in England or Ireland, or to the registrar or other proper officer of a civil bill court in Ireland where a judgment has been obtained in England or Scotland of a certificate under this Act purporting to be signed by the registrar or other proper officer of the inferior court where such judgment was obtained, such certificate shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, be registered in the prescribed form by such registrar or other proper officer to whom the same shall be produced for that purpose; and all reasonable costs and charges attendant upon the obtaining and registering such certificate shall be added to and recovered in like manner as if the same were part of the original judgment. No certificate of any such judgment shall be registered as aforesaid in any inferior court in the United Kingdom more than twelve months after the date of such judgment.

Execution of judgments.

5. Where a certificate of a judgment of any of the inferior courts aforesaid has been registered under this Act, process of execution may issue thereon out of the court in which the same shall have been so registered against any goods or chattels of the person against whom such judgment shall have been obtained, which are within the jurisdiction of such last-mentioned court, in the same or the like manner as if the judgment to be executed had been obtained in the court in which such certificate shall be so registered as aforesaid.

Jurisdiction over regis-

6. The courts of Great Britain and Ireland to which this Act applies shall, in so far as relates to execution under this Act, have tered judgments limited to execution.

and exercise the same control and jurisdiction over and with respect to the execution of any judgment, a certificate of which shall be registered under this Act, as they now have and exercise over and with respect to the execution of any judgment in their own courts.

Cancellation of registry.

7. On proof of the setting aside, or satisfaction, of any judgment of which a certificate shall have been registered under this Act, the court in which such certificate is so registered may order the registration thereof to be cancelled.

Costs not to be allowed in actions on judgments unless by order of court.

8. In any action brought in any of the inferior courts aforesaid for the purpose of enforcing any judgment which might be registered under this Act in the country in which such action is brought, the party bringing such action shall not recover or be entitled to any costs or expenses, unless the court in which such action shall be brought shall otherwise order.

Existing limits of local jurisdiction shall not be exceeded.

9. Nothing contained in this Act shall authorise the registration in an inferior court of the certificate of any judgment for a greater amount than might have been recovered if the action or proceeding had been originally commenced in such inferior court.

Provided that where a judgment obtained in an inferior court in Scotland cannot be registered in an inferior court in England or Ireland, by reason of its being for a greater amount than might have been recovered if the action or proceeding had been originally commenced in such inferior court, it shall be competent to register a certificate of such judgment in the register directed to be kept in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster and Dublin respectively, to be called "The Register of Scotch Judgments," by section three of the Judgments Extension Act, 1868, in the same manner, to the same effect, and subject to the same provisions, as if the said certificate had been a certificate of an extracted decreet of the Court of Session, registered in the said register under the said Act.

Act not to apply in certain cases.

10. This Act shall not apply to any judgment pronounced by any inferior court in England against any person domiciled in Scotland or Ireland at the time of the commencement of any action, unless the whole cause of action shall have arisen, or the obligation to which the judgment relates ought to have been fulfilled, within the district of such inferior court, and the summons was served upon the defendant personally within the said district, nor to any judgment pronounced by any inferior court in Scotland against any person domiciled in England or Ireland at the time of the commencement of any action, unless the whole cause of action shall have arisen, or the obligation to which the judgment relates ought to have been fulfilled, within the district of such inferior court, and the summons was served upon the defendant personally within the said district, nor to any judgment pronounced by any inferior court in Ireland against any person domiciled in England or Scotland at the time of the commencement of any action, unless the whole cause of action shall have arisen, or the obligation to which the judgment relates ought to have been fulfilled, within the district of such inferior court, and the summons was served upon the defendant personally within the said district. Section 10.

Provided that it shall be competent to any person against whom any judgment to which this Act does not apply, as aforesaid, is sought to be enforced by registration in the register of an inferior court in England or Ireland, to apply for and obtain from one of the superior courts of England or Ireland a prohibition or injunction against the enforcement of such judgment, and of any execution thereupon; and that it shall be competent to any person against whom any judgment to which this Act does not apply, as aforesaid, is sought to be enforced by registration in the register of an inferior court in Scotland, to apply for and obtain from the bill chamber or Court of Session in Scotland suspension or suspension and interdict of or against the enforcement of such judgment and any diligence thereon, and in any such proceeding as aforesaid the unsuccessful party may be found liable in costs.

11. Rules for the purposes of this Act may be made and altered from time to time by the like persons and in the like manner in which rules and regulations may be respectively made under and for the purposes of the County Courts Acts in England; of the Sheriffs Courts Acts in Scotland, and of the Civil Bill Courts Acts in Ireland; provided that the said rules and regulations shall not extend the jurisdiction of any inferior court. Rules.

Provision is made by the rules for the delivery of particulars of the place where the goods of the debtor are, and for the sealing of a copy of the certificate, and for the costs (see Order XLV. rr. 8, 9, 10). A special form of warrant of execution is provided (Form 431).

Money will not be paid out of court without production of the sealed copy of the certificate, or a copy to be obtained in the prescribed manner (Order XLV. r. 11).

It has been held in the High Court that where a certificate of a decreet of the Court of Session in Scotland has been registered in the High Court under the Judgments Extension Act, 1868, that court has the same jurisdiction to appoint a receiver by way of equitable execution as if the judgment had been originally obtained in the High Court (Thompson v. Gill (C. A.), (1903) 88 L. T. 714).

THE BANKRUPTCY ACT, 1883.

PART VII.

Small Bankruptcies (Administrations).

Power for county court to make administration order instead of order for payment by instalments.

122.—(1) Where a judgment has been obtained in a county court and the debtor is unable to pay the amount forthwith, and alleges that his whole indebtedness amounts to a sum not exceeding fifty pounds, inclusive of the debt for which the judgment is obtained, the county court may make an order providing for the administration of his estate, and for the payment of his debts by instalments or otherwise, and either in full or to such extent as to the county court under the circumstances of the case appears practicable, and subject to any conditions as to his future earnings or income which the court may think just.

This section is preserved by Sched. 6 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914.

It is presumed that the judge alone has jurisdiction to make the order (see, however, Rule 28 and 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186).

The order is a "composition" or "arrangement with creditors," and as such operates to disqualify the debtor for certain public offices (Bradfield v. Cheltenham Guardians, (1906) 2 Ch. 371; 75 L. J. Ch. 618).

How obtained.]—Proceedings to obtain the order are commenced by filing a request and statement at any time before satisfaction of the judgment debt (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, s. 122, sub-s. 1, rule 2).

Conditions necessary.]—There appear to be three conditions precedent to the power to make the order—(1) judgment in a county court, (2) inability of the debtor to pay the amount forthwith, (3) an allegation by the debtor that his whole indebtedness does not exceed 50*l.*, including the debt (qu. and costs), for which judgment has been obtained (see sect. 122, sub-s. 1). Even if the allegation be found to be untrue, the order will not necessarily be invalid. The court may, however, set it aside (see sect. 122, sub-s. 2).

Section 122 Notes.

Request for Order.]—The first step towards obtaining the order must be taken by the debtor, by filing a request and statement (Form 1). If he is illiterate and unable to fill it up the registrar or his clerk may fill it up for him (Rule 2). See Bankruptcy (Administration) Orders and Forms, post, pp. 283—294.

Contents of Request.]—The debtor must state in his request whether he proposes to pay his creditors in full, or to pay a composition. He must also state the amount of the monthly or other instalments which he proposes to pay. If he proposes a composition he must also state the amount in the pound which he proposes to pay (Rule 3 (1); Form 1); but the court has power to make an order providing for the payment of the debts to a greater or less extent; or by greater or smaller instalments (Rule 3, 1A). He must also set out in a list attached to his request the names, addresses and descriptions of all his creditors, including all secured creditors, and all creditors having power to distrain, such as creditors for rent, rates and taxes. Where a creditor is secured or any person besides the debtor is liable for any debt, the particulars and estimated value of the security and the name and address of the other person liable shall be stated. Although other persons may be also liable the debt is still one of the judgment debtor's debts. Where judgment has been obtained or proceedings are pending in any county court or inferior court in respect of any debt scheduled, such fact shall be stated and the order or summons must be produced to the registrar (Rule 3 (2)). After the request is filed all proceedings on any judgment or order of the court or on any judgment or order of any other court sent for execution to the court in which the request is filed, may be stayed by the judge or registrar (Rule 6; Form 4A). Other courts in which a judgment or order has been obtained or sent for execution against the debtor may also stay all proceedings thereon. Rule 6A deals with the application of money received under execution, judgment summons or order of commitment where proceedings are stayed. The debtor must also attach an affidavit that to the best of his knowledge, information and belief, the names of all his creditors, and the true amounts of the debts due from him to them, are set out in the list, and that the statements made in his request and statement are true (Rule 3 (3)).

Second Request.]—If the court refuses the order, or if an order made be afterwards rescinded, no other request may be filed by the debtor in any court without leave of the court refusing the order (Rule 18).

Notice to Creditors.]—When the request is filed the registrar must send by post ten clear days' notice at least (Form 3) to all the creditors mentioned in the list, and also to the debtor (Form 2), stating the time for the hearing of the request (Rule 4; Form 2). Where from the request it appears that the debtor or a majority of the creditors reside in the district of another county court, the registrar may, before appointing a day for hearing the request, refer the matter to the judge; and the judge may either direct that the request proceed or may order the request and a certificate of the judgment to be forwarded to the county court of such above-mentioned district, and the latter court must proceed as if the request had originally been filed therein. Before making such an order the judge may direct the debtor to attend and show cause why the order should not be made; a copy of the order must be sent by post by the registrar to the debtor (Rule 4; Form 4). Creditors objecting to debts scheduled by the debtor, or to the amount of composition, or the instalments which the debtor proposes to pay, must give notice of objection not less than five clear days before the hearing, but the judge may hear an objection without (Rule 5). At any time between the filing and hearing of a request the court in which the request is filed may stay proceedings on any execution, judgment summons or commitment issued against the property or person of the debtor in respect of any scheduled debt, whether issued by that court or by any other county or inferior court, sent for execution to the court in which the request is filed. Costs of any such execution, judgment summons, or order of commitment incurred before the stay may be allowed (Rule 6; Form 4A).

Hearing.]—The debtor must attend in person unless the court otherwise directs. Any creditor whether he has received notice or not may attend the hearing and prove his debt, and subject to Rule 5, object to any debt or to the amount of the composition or to the instalments which the debtor proposes to pay. All debts set out in the list will be taken as proved unless objected to by a creditor (Rule 7, (1), (2), (3)).

Proof of Debts.]—All creditors whose debts are objected to either by the debtor or any creditor must prove their debts as on the hearing of an "ordinary summons," but the court may direct the proof of any debt to be adjourned, upon terms, and may either adjourn the further consideration of the application or proceed to determine it, in which latter case such debt, if and when proved, will be added to the schedule of proved debts (Rule 7 (4)).

The debtor must answer all questions put or allowed by the judge (Rule 7 (5)).

Landlord.]—The limited right of the landlord to distrain for rent accrued before or after the commencement of the bankruptcy now contained in sect. 35 (1) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, is still reserved to him (apparently to the same extent only) where an order for administration is asked for under sect. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (see sect. 42 (2) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and Schedule 6 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914), but he will be bound by the order when made.

Who may be Heard.]—Any creditor, and by leave any creditor the proof of whose debt has been adjourned, or any other person on behalf of any such creditor, will be entitled to be heard and to adduce evidence (Rule 7 (6)).

The judge may refuse to make an administration order when facts are proved, on proof of which a bankruptcy court would be required either to refuse, suspend, or attach conditions to the debtor's discharge were he adjudged bankrupt (Rule 7 (7)).

No administration order is to be made under which the payment of instalments would, without default, extend over more than six years (Rule 7 (8)). Where the judge is of opinion that it would be inconvenient that the court should administer the estate, he may order the request and a certificate of the judgment to be forwarded to the court of the district in which the debtor or a majority of his creditors reside (Rule 7 (9); Form 4).

Order.]—The administration order is in the form in the Appendix (Form 5; Rule 8). A copy shall be sent by post to the debtor, to each creditor whose debt has been admitted or proved, to every other county court or inferior court in which to the knowledge of the registrar judgment has been obtained or proceedings are pending in respect of any scheduled debt (Rule 8; Form 6), and to the registrar of county court judgments, and notice of the order must be posted up in the office of the county court of the district in which the debtor resides (sect. 122, sub-s. 9; Form 19).

Notice shall be printed on the order of the cases in which it may be set aside or rescinded (Rule 8A; Form 5A).

The court may order payment in full, or by such composition as appears practicable (sect. 122, sub-s. 1; Form 5).

Instalments.]—The amount of the debts or the composition may be ordered to be paid by instalments, the instalments being paid into court and distributed by the registrar (sect. 122, sub-s. 1; Form 5, Rule 22).

Objections to Order made.]—No creditor to whom notice has been duly sent under Rule 4 shall be entitled to object to any debt scheduled or to the manner in which payment is to be made unless within two months from the date of the order he satisfies the court that the notice did not reach him and that he has not otherwise received notice of the proceedings. The application to allow the objection must in the first instance be heard ex parte, the judge may dismiss the application or direct it to be renewed upon notice to such persons and on such terms as to security for costs as to the judge seems fit, and before the ex parte application notice of the objection and of the grounds thereof must be given to the registrar, who shall appoint a day for the hearing of the objection (Rule 9).

(2) The order shall not be invalid by reason only that the total amount of the debts is found at any time to exceed fifty pounds, but in such case the county court may, if it thinks fit, set aside the order.

(3) Where, in the opinion of the county court in which the judgment is obtained, it would be inconvenient that that court should administer the estate, it shall cause a certificate of the judgment to be forwarded to the county court in the district of which the debtor or the majority of the creditors resides or reside, and thereupon the latter county court shall have all the powers which it would have under this section, had the judgment been obtained in it.

(4) Where it appears to the registrar of the county court that property of the debtor exceeds in value ten pounds, he shall, at the request of any creditor, and without fee, issue execution against the debtor's goods, but the household goods, wearing apparel, and bedding of the debtor or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade to the value in the aggregate of twenty pounds, shall to that extent be protected from seizure.

(5) When the order is made no creditor shall have any remedy against the person or property of the debtor in respect of any debt which the debtor has notified to a county court, except with the leave of that county court, and on such terms as that court may impose; and any county court or inferior court in which proceedings are pending against the debtor in respect of any such debt shall, on receiving notice of the order, stay the proceedings, but may allow costs already incurred by the creditor, and such costs may, on application, be added to the debt notified.

Notified Debt.]—By "notified" in the section is probably meant a debt set out in the debtor's list, or such debts as have been proved under the proceedings.

An administration order debtor must at once give notice to the registrar of any change of address (Rule 27).

(6) If the debtor makes default in payment of any instalment payable in pursuance of any order under this section, he shall, unless the contrary is proved, be deemed to have had since the date of the order the means to pay the sum in respect of which he has made default and to have refused or neglected to pay the same.

Section 122.

(7) The order shall be carried into effect in such manner as may be prescribed by general rules.

See Rule 13.

(8) Money paid into the court under the order shall be appropriated first in satisfaction of the costs of the plaintiff in the action, next in satisfaction of the costs of administration (which shall not exceed two shillings in the pound on the total amount of the debts) and then in liquidation of debts in accordance with the order.

Rescission.]—The order may (but need not) be rescinded if it is found at any time that the debts exceed £50 (sect. 122 (2)). It may also be rescinded at any time for any of the reasons set out in Rule 15; Forms 13, 14, 15, 16, 16A.

On an application for rescission the court may make any such order as is provided for in Rule 17A; Form 16A.

The registrar is directed to keep accounts in such manner as may be directed by the Treasury (Rule 25).

The Treasury directions were issued in December, 1883, and are as follows:

1. All moneys received and payments made in pursuance of an order of administration made under sect. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, shall be passed through the cash book of the court, and shall from thence be posted into a ledger, the form of which is hereto annexed.

2. When a creditor is scheduled in respect of a debt incurred subsequent to the making of the order of administration under sub-s. 12 of the 122nd section of the Act, a note shall be made in the ledger of the fact in the column provided for that purpose.

3. When all the creditors scheduled in respect of debts incurred prior to the making of the order of administration shall have been paid, in accordance with the said order, all subsequent receipts and payments shall be entered in a fresh folio in the ledger and the names of the creditors scheduled under sub-s. 12, and the amounts of their proved debts shall be brought forward from the folio in which they have been noted, as previously directed.

4. As it is provided that the receipts are to be appropriated,—

1st. To the payment of the costs of the plaintiff;

2nd. In payment of the costs of the order of administration;

3rd. In payment of the debts in accordance with the order;

(a) Notice should be sent to the plaintiff that he may receive such costs so soon as the receipts shall be sufficient to pay them.

(b) Before a dividend is paid credit must be taken for the costs of administration calculated upon the debts of the creditors then scheduled in respect of debts incurred prior to the making of the order of administration.

(c) Where creditors in respect of any such debts are scheduled subsequent to the making of a dividend, credit must be taken for the costs of the administration calculated upon such further ascertained debts, and for payment of the dividend thereon, before any other dividend is made.

5. Credit must not be taken for the costs of the administration calculated upon the debts scheduled under sub-s. 12 until the creditors scheduled in respect of debts incurred previous to the order of administration shall have had dividends made in their favour equal to the amount ordered to be paid.

6. In order to simplify the accounts the dividend should always be an aliquot part of a pound, excluding such of those parts as when divided by four give a fraction of a penny; a dividend must not be calculated upon any fraction of five shillings of a debt, but such fraction must be added to and paid with the final dividend.

For example:—1*s.* 3*d.* is the 16th part of a pound, but is not to be taken for the purpose of calculating a dividend. Further, in examining debts for dividend, sums which are under 5*s.*, or are under 5*s.* beyond any multiple of 5s., are to be excluded until the final dividend comes to be paid. Thus, A. B.'s debt is 2l. 14s. 9d., a dividend is made of 1s. 4d. in the £; the dividend to be paid to A. B. on 2l. 14s. 9d. is 3s. 4d., being calculated on 2l. 10s. The balance due on the debt after payment of fourteen further dividends of 1s. 4d. in the £, will be 4s. 9d.; and no part of this balance must be paid until the instalments received admit of its discharge in full by a single payment.

Section 122 Notes.

7. A separate file must be kept for the requests, and another for the orders of administration, which latter should be numbered in consecutive order, and any subsequent documents relating to any order, which it is thought desirable to file, should bear the number of the order to which they relate.

8. The number of orders of administration upon which credit has been taken for any part of their costs in any quarter shall be entered in Form A., and the total amount of such sums brought to credit.

9. The sums so brought to credit in a quarter shall be entered, in detail, in a book according to the form annexed, for which sums the treasurer or examiner of accounts, as the case may be, shall, after audit thereof by reference to the ledger, give his receipt. The said sums shall also be entered in Form B.

10. The administration ledger itself is prepared in triplicate in the first part of each opening, for receipts, and in duplicate in the second part of each opening, for dividends, of which there will be fewer entries. The triple and double columns are to be filled up, one after the other, as if they were separate books.

(9) Notice of the order shall be sent to the registrar of county court judgments, and be posted in the office of the county court of the district in which the debtor resides, and sent to every creditor notified by the debtor, or who has proved.

See Form 19.

(10) Any creditor of the debtor, on proof of his debt before the registrar, shall be entitled to be scheduled as a creditor of the debtor for the amount of his proof.

This provision probably contemplates proof both at and after the hearing; but see Rule 7 (4).

(11) Any creditor may in the prescribed manner object to any debt scheduled, or to the manner in which payment is directed to be made by instalments.

(12) Any person who after the date of the order becomes a creditor of the debtor, shall, on proof of his debt before the registrar, be scheduled as a creditor of the debtor for the amount of his proof, but shall not be entitled to any dividend under the order until those creditors who are scheduled as having been creditors before the date of the order have been paid to the extent provided by the order.

See Rule 21.

(13) When the amount received under the order is sufficient to pay each creditor scheduled to the extent thereby provided, and the costs of the plaintiff and of the administration, the order shall be superseded, and the debtor shall be discharged from his debts to the scheduled creditors.

Section 122.

(14) In computing the salary of a registrar under the County Courts Acts every creditor scheduled, not being a judgment creditor, shall count as a plaint.

Sales under executions to be public.

145. Where the sheriff sells the goods of a debtor under an execution for a sum exceeding twenty pounds (including legal incidental expenses), the sale shall, unless the court from which the process issued otherwise orders, be made by public auction, and not by bill of sale or private contract, and shall be publicly advertised by the sheriff on and during three days next preceding the day of sale.

This section is preserved by the 6th Sched. of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914. The purchaser acquires a good title against the trustee in bankruptcy (see sect. 46, sub-s. 3, and sect. 168).

Private Sale.]—An application for a sale otherwise than by auction must be made to the court on notice (Form 170), stating the grounds of application. The high bailiff must deliver to any applicant a list of the names and addresses of every person at whose instance any warrant or writ of execution has been lodged with him. This list must be produced to the court on the hearing. The notice must be served on every person named in the list except the applicant four clear days at least before the return day of the notice (Order XXV. r. 24).

If the high bailiff has notice of another execution or executions the court may not consider an application to sell privately until notice has been given to the other execution creditors (53 & 54 Vict. c. 71, s. 12). Every person on whom notice is served may attend the hearing and be heard. The court may order all or any part of the costs to be paid by any of the persons who attend (Order XXV. r. 24).

Account of Sale.]—The high bailiff must, on the request of the execution debtor, furnish him with a detailed account in writing of the sale and of the application of the proceeds thereof (Order XXV. r. 23).

THE BANKRUPTCY ACT, 1890.

[53 & 54 Vict. c. 71. August 18, 1890.]

Sale of assets by sheriff.

12. Where any goods of a debtor are taken in execution, and the sheriff has notice of another execution or other executions, the court shall not consider an application for leave to sell privately until the notice directed by rules of court has been given to the other execution creditor or creditors, who may appear before the court and be heard upon the application.

Every person on whom notice is served may attend the hearing and be heard. The court may order all or any part of the costs to be paid by any of the persons who attend (Order XXV. r. 24).

The high bailiff must, on the request of the execution debtor, furnish him with a detailed account in writing of the sale, and of the application of the proceeds thereof (Order XXV. r. 23).

BANKRUPTCY AND DEEDS OF ARRANGEMENT ACT, 1913 (a).

[3 & 4 Geo. 5, c. 34.]

By sect. 12, sub-s. (1) of this Act, "Every married woman who carries on a trade or business, whether separately from her husband or not, shall be subject to the bankruptcy laws as if she were a feme sole."

Sub-s. (2). "Where a married woman carries on a trade or business, and a final judgment or order has been obtained against her, whether or not expressed to be payable out of her separate property, for any amount, that judgment or order shall be available for bankruptcy proceedings against her by a bankruptcy notice, as though she were personally bound to pay the judgment debt, or sum ordered to be paid."

Under this section bankruptcy proceedings can be taken upon a judgment obtained after the Act came into force in respect of a debt incurred before the Act came into force (Clark, In re, Pope, Ex parte, (1914) 3 K. B. 1095; 84 L. J. K. B. 89).

A married woman continues to carry on business so long as any business debt remains unpaid. A judgment against her in tort arising out of the negligence of her servant, is available for bankruptcy proceedings against her under the Bankruptcy and Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1913, s. 12 (Allen, In re, (1915) 1 K. B. 285; 84 L. J. K. B. 271).

Note.—(a) Repealed and re-enacted in Bankruptcy Act, 1914, s. 125, post, p. 280.

THE BANKRUPTCY ACT, 1914.

[4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59.]

Compositions and schemes of arrangement.

16.—(9) If the court is of opinion that the terms of the proposal are not reasonable, or are not calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, or in any case in which the court is required where the debtor is adjudged bankrupt to refuse his discharge, the court shall refuse to approve the proposal.

(10) If any facts are proved on proof of which the court would be required either to refuse, suspend, or attach conditions to the debtor's discharge were he adjudged bankrupt, the court shall refuse to approve the proposal, unless it provides reasonable security for payment of not less than five shillings in the pound on all the unsecured debts provable against the debtor's estate.

(11) In any other case the court may either approve or refuse to approve the proposal.

Restriction of rights of creditor under execution or attachment.

40.—(1) Where a creditor has issued execution against the goods or lands of a debtor, or has attached any debt due to him, he shall not be entitled to retain the benefit of the execution or attachment against the trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor, unless he has completed the execution or attachment before the date of the receiving order, and before notice of the presentation of any bankruptcy petition by or against the debtor, or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, an execution against goods is completed by seizure and sale; an attachment of a debt is completed by receipt of the debt; and an execution against land is completed by seizure, or, in the case of an equitable interest, by the appointment of a receiver.

Attachment of Debt.]—The actual receipt of the debt is essential, the undertaking of the garnishee to pay will not suffice (Re Trehearne (C. A.), (1890) 60 L. J. Q. B. 50).

Receiver.]—It has been held in the High Court that where a certificate of a decree of the Court of Session in Scotland has been registered in the High Court under the Judgments Extension Act, 1868, that court has the same jurisdiction to appoint a receiver by way of equitable execution as if the judgment had been originally obtained in the High Court (Thompson v. Gill (C. A.), (1903) 88 L. T. 714).

The receiver may be appointed in the action by order made after final judgment; no new action is necessary (Salt v. Cooper (C. A.), (1880) 16 Ch. D. 544; 50 L. J. Ch. 529). It has been decided that when the order is made as to land, it is equivalent to an actual delivery in execution (Hatton v. Haywood, (1874) L. R. 9 Ch. 229; 43 L. J. Ch. 372), and therefore equivalent to a writ or order under the Land Charges Act, 1900 (63 & 64 Vict. c. 26, s. 2 (1)), and gives the judgment creditor priority over a subsequent purchaser of the judgment debtor's interest (Re Pope, (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 743; 55 L. J. Q. B. 522), provided it be registered pursuant to 51 & 52 Vict. c. 51, s. 5. The order will, moreover, complete the execution, as regards an equitable interest in land, against the trustee in bankruptcy for the purposes of this section; but when the order is made as to goods, even if it is to be treated as an execution, the mere possession of the receiver under it will not complete the execution for the purposes of the same section (Re Dickinson (C. A.), (1888) 22 Q. B. D. 187; 58 L. J. Q. B. 1).

The judge, in determining whether it is just or convenient that a receiver should be appointed, should, amongst other things, have regard to the amount which could probably be obtained by a receiver, and to the probable costs of appointment, and if necessary may direct inquiries on these points before making the appointment (Order XLL. r. 13). Where the debt and costs exceed 50*l*., but do not exceed 100*l*., the total amount to be allowed for fees and costs, including the cost of receiver's appointment, completing his security, passing his accounts and obtaining his discharge, but exclusive of his salary, must not exceed 2½ per cent. of such debt and costs in respect of fees, and the like amount in respect of costs (Order XIII. r. 14 (1)); where debt and costs exceed 20*l.*, but do not exceed 50*l.*, the total amount allowed is not to exceed 1*l.* 5*s.* for fees and a like amount for costs (Order XIII. r. 14 (2)); where debt and costs exceed 5*l.*, but do not exceed 20*l.*, there may be allowed for fees and costs respectively in each case not less than 7*s.* 6*d.*, or more than 1*l.*, as the judge shall direct (Order XIII. r. 14 (3)).

When a receiver is appointed by way of equitable execution where the debt and costs do not exceed 50*l.*, the judge may direct that instead of the receiver giving security, the applicant shall be answerable for his acts and defaults, and that the receiver shall not receive more, without leave of the court, than the debt and costs, the allowance to the receiver and the costs of the receiver's appointment (Order XIII. r. 14 (4)).

Forms 300A and 300B in the Appendix, with necessary modifications, may be used for interim or final orders for the appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution (Order XIII. r. 15).

(3) An execution levied by seizure and sale on the goods of a debtor is not invalid by reason only of its being an act of bankruptcy, and a person who purchases the goods in good faith under a sale by the sheriff shall in all cases acquire a good title to them against the trustee in bankruptcy.

Duties of sheriff as to goods taken in execution.

41.—(1) Where any goods of a debtor are taken in execution and before the sale thereof, or the completion of the execution by the receipt or recovery of the full amount of the levy, notice is served on the sheriff that a receiving order has been made against the debtor, the sheriff shall, on request, deliver the goods and any money seized or received in part satisfaction of the execution to the official receiver, but the costs of the execution shall be a first charge on the goods or money so delivered, and the official receiver or trustee may sell the goods, or an adequate part thereof, for the purpose of satisfying the charge.

(2) Where under an execution in respect of a judgment for a sum exceeding twenty pounds, the goods of a debtor are sold or money is paid in order to avoid sale, the sheriff shall deduct his costs of the execution from the proceeds of sale or the money paid, and retain the balance for fourteen days, and if within that time notice is served on him of a bankruptcy petition having been presented against or by the debtor, and a receiving order is made against the debtor thereon or on any other petition of which the sheriff has notice, the sheriff shall pay the balance to the official receiver or, as the case may be, to the trustee, who shall be entitled to retain the same as against the execution creditor.

"Balance."]—This means the balance proper, i.e., the balance after the payment of the sheriff's costs, and where the execution creditor had paid 220*l.* for rent due to the landlord, and the sheriff then sold the debtor's goods and paid over the whole value (less his expenses) to the trustee in bankruptcy, held he had paid over 220*l.* which formed no part of the debtor's estate, and the trustee in bankruptcy must return such sum. Section 1 of the statute of 8 Anne, c. 14 (which requires the landlord's rent to a limited extent to be paid as a first charge on goods seized in execution), is not overridden by sect. 41 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (In re Craig & Sons, Ex parte Hinchcliffe, (1916) 2 K. B. 497; 85 L. J. K. B. 1537).

Execution being levied, the judgment debtor paid debt and costs to the execution creditors direct, and the sheriff withdrew. In less than fourteen days after the debtor had a receiving order made against him. Held, that the execution had not been completed, and the execution creditors must pay the money to the trustee in bankruptcy (In re Godding, (1914) 2 K. B. 70; 83 L. J. K. B. 1222). See Bankruptcy Act, 1883, sect. 45.

In ascertaining the 20*l.* in sub-sect. 2 (supra) the costs of the high bailiff to the time of sale must be included (Ex parte Sims, (1877) 5 Ch. D. 375; 46 L. J. Bk. 103); but not the expenses of possession money, appraisement and sale, unless they have been actually incurred (Willey v. Hucks, (1909) 1 K. B. 760; 78 L. J. K. B. 513).

This notice to be effective ought to be served on the high bailiff or at his office, and not on the bailiff in possession (see Ex parte Warren (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 48; 54 L. J. Q. B. 320; Bellyse v. McGinn, (1891) 2 Q. B. 227).

After completion of the levy, the high bailiff must within twenty-four hours send notice of the levy and of the amount realised to the registrar of the court out of which the warrant originally issued and to the execution creditor (Order II. r. 35; Form 171). If he has paid the money over to the registrar without notice of the receiving order, he is now protected, but must give notice to the registrar forthwith when such knowledge comes to him. The registrar, after deducting the costs of execution, must account to the official receiver (Bankruptcy Rule, 1916, dated September 15, 1916, may be cited amongst the Rules of 1915 as Rule 323A).

Purchaser acquires Good Title.]—An execution levied by seizure and sale is not invalid by reason only of its being an act of bankruptcy, and a person who purchases the goods in good faith under a sale by the high bailiff acquires a good title against the trustee (see 46 & 47 Vict. c. 52, ss. 46, 168).

Powers of county court.

103. A county court shall, for the purposes of its bankruptcy jurisdiction, in addition to the ordinary powers of the court, have all the powers and jurisdiction of the High Court, and the orders of the court may be enforced accordingly in manner prescribed.

See Savill v. Dalton, ante, pp. 32—43.

General power of bankruptcy courts.

105.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, every court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall have full power to decide all questions of priorities, and all other questions whatsoever, whether of law or fact, which may arise in any case of bankruptcy coming within the cognizance of the court, or which the court may deem it expedient or necessary to decide for the purpose of doing complete justice or making a complete distribution of property in any such case:

Provided that the jurisdiction hereby given shall not be exercised by the county court for the purpose of adjudicating upon any claim, not arising out of the bankruptcy, which might heretofore have been enforced by action in the High Court, unless all parties to the proceeding consent thereto, or the money, money's worth, or right in dispute does not, in the opinion of the judge, exceed in value two hundred pounds.

Section 107.

Judgment debtor's summons to be bankruptcy business

107.—(1) It shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor by order to direct that the jurisdiction and powers under section five of the Debtors Act, 1869, now vested in the High Court, shall be assigned to and exercised by the judge to whom bankruptcy business is assigned.

(2) It shall be lawful also for the Lord Chancellor in like manner to direct that the whole or any part of the said jurisdiction and powers shall be delegated to and exercised by the registrars in bankruptcy of the High Court.

(3) Any order made under this section may, at any time, in like manner, be rescinded or varied.

(4) Where, under section five of the Debtors Act, 1869, application is made by a judgment creditor to a court, having bankruptcy jurisdiction, for the committal of a judgment debtor, the court may, if it thinks fit, decline to commit, and in lieu thereof, with the consent of the judgment creditor, and on payment by him of the prescribed fee, make a receiving order against the debtor. In such case the judgment debtor shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time the order is made, and the provisions of this Act, except Part VII. thereof, shall apply as if for references to the presentation of a petition by or against a person there were substituted references to the making of such a receiving order.

Receiving Order.]—The creditor will have to pay the same fee and deposit as are required on a bankruptcy petition, and if he does not consent to pay them, the court may dismiss the application or adjourn it on such terms as may be just (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 376). The receiving order cannot be made if there is no evidence of means before the county court judge (In re a Debtor, Ex parte the Debtor, (1905) 1 K. B. 375; 74 L. J. K. B. 362; and see In re Clark (C. A.), (1898) 1 Q. B. 20; 66 L. J. Q. B. 875); though it has been held that the absence of means is immaterial in a case where the debtor had made an assignment of the whole of his property on the morning of the day when judgment was given against him (R. v. Sussex C. C., (1888) 59 L. T. 32).

Transfer to Another Court.]—If the court has bankruptcy jurisdiction, but still is not the court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor could be properly presented, the court may make the order, but must then transfer the proceedings to the court to which a petition would be properly presented. The registrar must then transmit the proceedings and a sealed copy of the order of transfer to the registrar of the other court (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 378).

Transfer to Court having Bankruptcy Jurisdiction.]—Where the application is made to a court not having bankruptcy jurisdiction, if the judge is of opinion that a receiving order should be made in lieu of a commitment, he may order the matter to be transferred to the court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor might be presented. The registrar must then transmit by post to the court to which the matter is transferred, the proceedings in the matter, together with a copy of the order of transfer (Bankruptcy Rules, 1914, r. 377).

Notice of the order and of the subsequent proceedings must be served on the judgment debtor. The court to which the proceedings are transferred does not appear to be bound by the opinion of the court which transfers, but must decide on the merits (Re Andrews, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 335; 54 L. J. Q. B. 572). The order of transfer suspends the operation of any commitment previously made (Re Ryley, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 329; 54 L. J. Q. B. 420).

The court may also make an administration order if the total liabilities of the debtor do not exceed 50*l.* and the court thinks that an order of commitment ought not to be made (Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 358).

(5) General rules under this Act may be made for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of the Debtors Act, 1869.

APPEALS.

Appeals in bankruptcy.

108.—(1) Every court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act may review, rescind or vary any order made by it under its bankruptcy jurisdiction.

See In re A Debtor; Ex parte Goldstein, (1917) 1 K. B. 558; 86 L. J. K. B. 705.

(2) Orders in bankruptcy matters shall, at the instance of any person aggrieved, be subject to appeal as follows:—

(a) Where the order is made by a county court, an appeal shall lie to a divisional court of the High Court, of which the judge to whom bankruptcy business is for the time being assigned shall, for the purpose of hearing any such appeal, be a member. The decision of the divisional court upon any such appeal shall be final and conclusive, unless in any case the divisional court or the Court of Appeal sees fit to give special leave to appeal therefrom to the court of appeal, whose decision in such case shall be final and conclusive;

Courts to be auxiliary to each other.

122. The High Court, the county courts, the courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy in Scotland and Ireland, and every British court elsewhere having jurisdiction in bankruptcy or insolvency, and the officers of those courts respectively, shall severally act in aid of and be auxiliary to each other on all matters of bankruptcy, and an order of the court seeking aid, with a request to another of the said courts, shall be deemed sufficient to enable the latter court to exercise, in regard to the matters directed by the order, such jurisdiction as either the court which made the request, or the court to which the request is made, could exercise in regard to similar matters within their respective jurisdictions.

Married women.

125.—(1) Every married woman who carries on a trade or business, whether separately from her husband or not, shall be subject to the bankruptcy laws as if she were a feme sole.

(2) Where a married woman carries on a trade or business, and a final judgment or order for any amount has been obtained against her, whether or not expressed to be payable out of her separate property, that judgment or order shall be available for bankruptcy proceedings against her by a bankruptcy notice as though she were personally bound to pay the judgment debt or sum ordered to be paid. See ante, p. 275. Section 125.

137.—(1) A copy of the London Gazette containing any notice inserted therein in pursuance of this Act shall be evidence of the facts stated in the notice. Gazette to be evidence.

(2) The production of a copy of the London Gazette containing any notice of a receiving order, or of an order adjudging a debtor bankrupt, shall be conclusive evidence in all legal proceedings of the order having been duly made, and of its date.

167. In this Act, "sheriff" includes any officer charged with the execution of a writ or other process. Interpretation of terms.

THE BANKRUPTCY RULES, 1886.

358. Where an application to commit is made to a county court, and it appears to the court that the total liabilities of the judgment debtor do not exceed fifty pounds, the court may, if it thinks that an order for committal ought not to be made, make an administration order under section 122 of the Act in lieu of making a receiving order. Administration order in lieu of receiving order.

THE BANKRUPTCY RULES, 1914.

376.—(1) When a receiving order is made under section 107 (4) of the Act, the creditor shall pay the like fee and deposit as are prescribed in the case of a bankruptcy petition. Fee on receiving order.

(2) Where the court is of opinion that a receiving order ought to be made in lieu of committal, and the judgment creditor does not consent to pay the required fee and deposit, the court may dismiss the application or adjourn it on such terms, as to costs and otherwise, as may be just.

The receiving order cannot be made if there is no evidence of means before the county court judge (In re a Debtor, Ex parte the Debtor, (1905) 1 K. B. 375; 74 L. J. K. B. 362; and see In re Clark (C. A.), (1898) 1 Q. B. 20; 66 L. J. Q. B. 875), though it has been held that the absence of means is immaterial in a case where the debtor had made an assignment of the whole of his property on the morning of the day when judgment was given against him (R. v. Sussex C. C., (1888) 59 L. T. 32).

Transfer in lieu of committal.

377.—(1) Where an application to commit is made to the judge of a court not having bankruptcy jurisdiction, and he is of opinion that a receiving order should be made in lieu of committal, he may order the matter to be transferred to the court to which, under the provisions of the Act and rules, a bankruptcy petition against the debtor in relation to the amount of the judgment debt would at the date of the transfer be properly presented.

(2) In such case the registrar of the court making the transfer shall transmit by post to the registrar of the court to which the matter is transferred the proceedings in the matter, together with a copy of the order of transfer.

Notice of the order and of the subsequent proceedings must be served on the judgment debtor. The court to which the proceedings are transferred does not appear to be bound by the opinion of the court which transfers, but must decide on the merits (Re Andrews, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 335; 54 L. J. Q. B. 572). The order of transfer suspends the operation of any commitment previously made (Re Ryley, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 329; 54 L. J. Q. B. 420).

Transfer of matter to proper court.

378.—(1) Where under section 107 of the Act a receiving order is made by a court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor could not properly be presented, the court making the order shall by the order transfer the matter to the court to which a bankruptcy petition against the debtor would properly be presented, and thereupon the official receiver of such latter court shall be constituted the official receiver of the debtor's estate, and all proceedings shall be taken as if the receiving order had been made by such latter court.

(2) Where any such order of transfer is made the registrar of the court making the transfer shall forthwith transmit by post to the registrar of the court to which the matter is transferred the proceedings in the matter, together with a sealed copy of the order of transfer, and the registrar of the latter court shall forthwith give notice of the transfer to the official receiver and the Board of Trade.

County court rules to apply.

379. The county court rules for the time being in force as to the committal of judgment debtors shall, with any necessary modifications, apply to all courts exercising jurisdiction under section 5 of the Debtors Act, 1869, provided that any reference therein to the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, shall be deemed to extend also to the corresponding provisions of the Act (Act of 1914).

THE BANKRUPTCY (ADMINISTRATION ORDER) RULES, 1902, DATED JULY 10, 1902, AS AMENDED BY RULES, DATED APRIL 4, 1914.

It is ordered as follows :—

Former rules annulled.

1. The rules made on 21st December, 1888, under the provisions of section 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (hereinafter called the Act), are hereby annulled as from the twenty-fourth day of October, 1902, and the following rules shall thereafter stand in lieu thereof, and shall apply, so far as may be practicable (unless otherwise expressly provided), to all proceedings taken under administration orders or requests for orders in force or pending on that day. They may be cited as the Bankruptcy (Administration Order) Rules, 1902. (Amended by Rules of 1914.)

Short title and application of rules.

Request for order.

Form 1.

2. A debtor against whom a judgment has been obtained in a county court, and who desires to obtain an administration order under section 122 of the Act, shall file with the registrar of the court a request and statement in writing in the form No. 1 in the Appendix.

When the debtor is illiterate and unable to fill up the request and statement, the registrar or his clerk shall fill them up from the information given by the debtor.

The judge may also make an administration order under a judgment summons instead of committing (Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 358).

Form of request for administration order. Form 1.

2A. Form No. 1 in the Appendix to the principal Rules is hereby annulled, and Form No. 1 in the Appendix shall stand in lieu thereof.

Contents of request.

Form 1.

3.—(1) The debtor shall state in his request whether he proposes to pay his creditors in full, or whether he proposes to pay a composition. In the latter case he shall further state the amount in the pound which he proposes to pay, and in either case he shall state the amount of the monthly or other instalments by which he proposes to pay.

See Form 1.

(1A) The debtor's proposal shall be without prejudice to the power of the court to make on the hearing of the request an order providing for the payment of his debts to a greater or less extent, or by greater or smaller instalments, as appears practicable to the court under the circumstances of the case.

(Rule 2 of 1914).

(2) The debtor shall set out in a list attached to his request the names, addresses, and descriptions of all his creditors, including all secured creditors, and all creditors having power to distrain, such as creditors for rent, rates and taxes. Where a creditor is secured, or any person in addition to the debtor is liable for any debt, the particulars and estimated value of the security, or the name and address of such other person, shall be stated. Where judgment has been obtained or proceedings are pending in any county court or inferior court in respect of any debt scheduled that fact shall be stated, and the order or summons in each case must be produced to the registrar.

(3) The debtor shall attach to his request and statement an affidavit deposing that, to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief, the names of all his creditors, and the true amounts of the debts due from him to them, are set out in the list attached to the request, and that the statements made by him in his request and statement are true.

Notice of request.

4. Upon a request being filed the registrar shall appoint a day for the hearing, and shall as soon as may be send in the form

Form 3.

No. 3 in the Appendix a notice to all the creditors mentioned in the list of the day and hour when the request will be heard. The notice shall be sent by post not less than ten clear days before the day appointed for hearing the request.

Form 2.

The registrar shall also in like manner send a notice to the debtor in the form No. 2 in the Appendix.

Provided, that where on the filing of a request it appears that the debtor or a majority of the creditors resides or reside in the district of another county court, the registrar may before appointing a day for the hearing refer the matter to the judge ; and thereupon the judge may either direct that the request shall proceed, or may, if he is of opinion that it would be inconvenient that the court should administer the estate, order the request and a certificate of the judgment to be forwarded to the county court in the district of which the debtor or a majority of the creditors resides or reside, and thereupon the latter court shall proceed as if the request had originally been filed therein. Before making such order as last mentioned the judge may, if he thinks fit, direct notice to be given to the debtor to attend at the court on a day to be named in the notice, and to show cause why such order should not be made. If such order is made, a copy thereof shall be sent by post by the registrar to the debtor.

See Form 4.

Rule 5.

Objection to debts scheduled by debtor, or to composition or instalments offered.

5. ORDER IN COUNCIL.

Published in the London Gazette of Friday, February 1, 1856.

At the Court of Buckingham Palace, the 30th day of January, 1856.

PRESENT:

The Queen's most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Order in Council extending provisions to the county courts.

WHEREAS by "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," it is enacted that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, from time to time, by an Order in Council, to direct that all or any part of the provisions of the said Act shall apply to all or any court or courts of record in England and Wales, and that within one month after such order shall have been made and published in the London Gazette, such provisions shall extend and apply in manner directed by such order, and that any such order may be, in like manner, from time to time altered and annulled; and that in and by such order Her Majesty may direct by whom any powers or duties incident to the provisions applied under the said Act shall and may be exercised with respect to matters in such court or courts, and may make any orders or regulations which may be deemed requisite for carrying into operation in such court or courts the provisions so applied:

See Order following excluding operation of the Act where amount claimed less than 10*l*.

And whereas it has seemed fit to Her Majesty, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, that all the provisions of the said Act should be extended and applied to all the courts of record established under the provisions of an Act passed in the session holden in the ninth and tenth years of her present Majesty, chapter ninety-five:

Order.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice aforesaid, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that all the provisions of "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," shall apply to the said courts of record established under the provisions of the Act passed in the session holden in the ninth and tenth years of her present Majesty, chapter ninety-five, in respect of actions upon bills of exchange and promissory notes, where the plaintiff claims a sum not exceeding fifty pounds:

And Her Majesty is further pleased, by and with the advice aforesaid, to direct that the powers and duties incident to the provisions of the said "Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," with respect to matters in the said courts of record, shall and may be exercised by the judges of the said courts respectively, or their respective deputies, for the time being, or in their absence by the respective clerks of the said courts for the time being; and that the enactments, Secretary of State's orders, practice and forms, in force and used in the said courts of record, shall be adopted with reference to proceedings had under the said last-recited Acts, so far as the same are applicable, mutatis mutandis.

WM. L. BATHURST.

THE SUMMARY PROCEDURE ON BILLS OF EXCHANGE ACT, 1855.

[18 & 19 VICT. c. 67. JULY 23, 1855.]

Jurisdiction of County Court.]—By "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855" (18 & 19 Vict. c. 67), a new and more speedy mode of proceeding for the recovery of bills of exchange and promissory notes in the superior courts of common law was created.

By an Order in Council, dated January 30th, 1856, the provisions were extended to the county courts, when the amount claimed did not exceed 50*l*.

By an order of July 27th, 1863, the preceding order was altered, and the provisions of the Act do not apply where a less sum than 10*l*. is claimed. In such cases the remedy is therefore by plaint and summons in the ordinary way; and in any case, when proceedings could be taken under the Act, the plaintiff may, if he thinks fit, avail himself of the ordinary process (Waters v. Handley, (1848) 6 D. & L. 88; Nind v. Rhodes, (1848) 5 D. & L. 621; 17 L. J. Q. B. 179). If the registrar refuses to issue a summons under the Act, where the plaintiff has a right to it, an order will lie to the registrar to compel him to issue it (R. v. Southampton C. C. (2), (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 706).

The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855, is repealed as regards the High Court by 46 & 47 Vict. c. 49. Sect. 7 of the latter Act preserves its operation in county courts.

From Oct. 24, 1855, all actions upon bills of exchange, etc., may be by writ of summons as form in schedule (A); plaintiff, on filing affidavit of personal service, may at once sign final judgment as form in schedule (B).

after the same shall have become due and payable may be by writ of summons in the special form contained in Schedule (A) to this Act annexed, and indorsed as therein mentioned; and it shall be lawful for the plaintiff, on filing an affidavit of personal service of such writ within the jurisdiction of the court, or an order for leave to proceed, as provided by the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, and a copy of the writ of summons and the indorsements thereon, in case the defendant shall not have obtained leave to appear and have appeared to such writ according to the exigency thereof, at once to sign final judgment in the form contained in Schedule (B) to this Act annexed (on which judgment no proceeding in error shall lie) for any sum not exceeding the sum indorsed on the writ, together with interest, at the rate specified (if any), to the date of the judgment, and a sum for costs to be fixed by the masters of the superior courts or any three of them, subject to the approval of the judges thereof or any eight of them (of whom the Lord Chief Justices and the Lord Chief Baron shall be three), unless the plaintiff claim more than such fixed sum, in which case the costs shall be taxed in the ordinary way, and the plaintiff may upon such judgment issue execution forthwith.

A note payable on demand is within the statute, and the six months run from the date of the note (Maltby v. Murrells, (1860) 5 H. & N. 813; 29 L. J. Ex. 377).

Material Part of Cause of Action.]—The general rules as to where the plaint must be entered apply to actions commenced under these provisions. Some decisions upon the question as to what is a material part of a cause of action specially affecting bills of exchange will now be noticed. Drawing and indorsing (Betteley v. Buck, (1849) 13 Jur. 368; Huth v. Long, (1850) 19 L. J. Q. B. 325; Trevor v. Wilkinson, (1875) 31 L. T. 731), and acceptance (Roff v. Miller, (1850) 19 L. J. C. P. 278), are material parts, so is notice of dishonour (Huth v. Long, supra); and it seems that presentment and dishonour at a place appointed for payment by the acceptor constitute a material part at the place of dishonour (Hawes v. Paveley (C. A.), (1876) 1 C. P. D. 418; 46 L. J. C P. 18). Where a plaintiff residing at N. drew a bill of exchange on the defendant, who resided at L., not within the jurisdiction of the N. court; and the defendant accepted the bill at L. and returned it to the plaintiff at N., it was held that the whole cause of action did not arise within the district of N. court (Wilde v. Sheridan, (1852) 21 L. J. Q. B. 260). So where a bill was drawn and accepted, and the indorser put his name on it within the city of London, but it was delivered to the indorsee elsewhere, it was held, in an action by the indorsee against the indorser, that the whole cause of action did not arise in London (Buckley v. Hann, (1851) 5 Ex. 43; 19 L. J. Ex. 151; 82 R. R. 553).

Procedure.]—Particulars of demand must be filed in all cases on the entry of the plaint; they must state that the instrument sued upon became due and payable within six months before the commencement of the action (Order XXXV. r. 1; Order VI. r. 1; see form of plaint-note, Form 21; of summons, Form 25; of particulars, Form 26; as to the district in which to enter plaint, see ante, p. 72. Form of judgment, Form 151).

Section 1 Notes.

Parties.]—The action may be commenced by one plaint against all or any of the parties to or indorsers of the bill (see sect. 6). The plaint may be entered under these provisions against partners in the name of their firm. Service may then be on any partner (Order VII. r. 31).

Service of Summons.]—The summons on the plaint must be served personally, but where the judge or registrar is satisfied by affidavit (Form 43) that reasonable efforts have been made to effect service, and that the summons has come to the defendant's knowledge, or that he wilfully evades service, the judge or registrar may order, on such terms as he may think just, that the plaintiff may proceed as if personal service had been effected (Order VII. r. 39; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86; Forms 44, 45, 46).

Defendant showing a defence upon the merits to have leave to appear.

2. A judge of any of the said courts shall, upon application within the period of twelve days from such service, give leave to appear to such writ, and to defend the action, on the defendant paying into court the sum indorsed on the writ, or upon affidavits satisfactory to the judge, which disclose a legal or equitable defence, or such facts as would make it incumbent on the holder to prove consideration, or such other facts as the judge may deem sufficient to support the application, and on such terms as to security or otherwise as to the judge may seem fit.

Judgment by Default.]—On filing an affidavit of personal service, or an order to proceed, the plaintiff may, twelve days after service of the summons, unless the defendant has obtained leave to defend, at once obtain judgment for the amount claimed, interest and costs (18 & 19 Vict. c. 67, ss. 1, 2). No order or judgment need be served on the defendant (Order XXIII. rr. 5, 8). Judgment will not be entered after two calendar months from the date of service of the summons, if no order to defend has been obtained (Order VII. r. 36; Order LV.).

Deposit of Bill.]—In any proceedings under the Bills of Exchange Act, the judge may order the bill or note sought to be proceeded upon to be forthwith deposited with an officer of the court, and further order all proceedings to be stayed until the plaintiff has given security for the costs (18 & 19 Vict. c. 67, s. 4). When the judge is absent this power may be exercised by the registrar (Order in Council, January 30th, 1856).

Leave to Defend.]—The defendant may not defend the action without first obtaining leave; in order to obtain leave to defend, the defendant must within twelve days after service of the summons, inclusive of the day of the service (Order VII. r. 2A), apply to the judge, or, in his absence, to the registrar (Order in Council, January 30th, 1856). The application is ex parte. Unless the defendant pays into court the amount claimed in the summons, the application for leave to defend must be made on affidavit, stating such facts as show that there are grounds for giving leave to defend; and the affidavit and a copy must be filed with the registrar (18 & 19 Vict. c. 67, s. 2; Order XXXV. r. 2). It is not necessary that the defendant should make an affidavit of merits. It is enough if he discloses a legal or equitable defence. Non-joinder of a defendant is a sufficient defence (Casella v. Darton, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 100; 42 L. J. C. P. 58). For form of affidavit, see Form 11, Appendix A. If the judge or registrar is satisfied that the defendant has a good defence, and it is sufficient that the affidavit should show reasonable and plausible grounds of defence (Clay v. Turley, (1858) 27 L. J. Ex. 2; Mathews v. Marsland, (1858) 27 L. J. Ex. 148); or if the defendant pays the amount into court, leave will be given to defend on such terms, as to security or otherwise, as the judge or registrar thinks fit. The court will not, however, require the amount to be paid into court, or impose any terms upon the defendant, unless the defence appears to be vexatious, or not to be set up bonâ fide (Agra and Masterman's Bank v. Leighton, (1866) L. R. 2 Ex. 56; 36 L. J. Ex. 33).

Where a defendant has obtained leave to defend, the judge may set aside the order if it has been obtained fraudulently, or it is shown clearly that there can be no defence (Pollock v. Turnock, (1857) 1 H. & N. 741; 3 Jur. N. S. 92; 108 R. R. 802; Agra and Masterman's Bank v. Leighton, supra).

Security when required must be given in the form of a bond (Form 42), or by deposit of money. For the provisions as to security, see ante, p. 116.

Lost Bill.]—At common law no action lay on a negotiable bill, note, or cheque, or on the consideration, when the instrument had been lost. To relieve against the rigour of this rule various provisions were made, but now the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882, itself provides a sufficient remedy. It provides that in any action on a bill the court or judge may order that the loss of the instrument shall not be set up provided an indemnity be given to the satisfaction of the judge against the claims of any other person (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, s. 70).

The application for this order may be made to the court at any time before the hearing, on notice in writing, supported by affidavit, a copy of which must be served with the notice; by leave of the judge the application may also be made at the hearing. The application may be granted on such terms as to payment of costs by the applicant and postponement of the trial as may be just; any offer of indemnity made by the applicant is to be taken into consideration (Order XII. r. 10). Such offer should be made before action, otherwise the applicant may be made to pay the costs as a term of the order under the above provisions (King v. Zimmerman, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 466; 40 L. J. C. P. 278). The fact of the loss should be shown to be a defence in the affidavit for leave to defend (see Charnley v. Grundy, (1854) 14 C. B. 608; 23 L. J. C. P. 121; 98 R. R. 782). If the plaintiff does not after notice of such defence obtain relief under the section, the loss of the instrument may be set up and the claim defeated. As to the practice, see Order XV. rr. 1, 4, and Order XII. r. 11.

Hearing.]—Where leave is given to defend, the registrar must appoint the cause to be heard at the first convenient sitting to be held after leave is granted. No order will be drawn up (Order XXIII. r. 5), but the registrar must send to the plaintiff notice (Form 40) thereof, together with a copy of the affidavits made by the defendant. He must also send to the defendant, by post, notice of the day fixed for the trial (Order XXXV. r. 3; Form 41).

The defendant is not, at the hearing, limited to the grounds of defence disclosed by the affidavit upon which he obtained leave to defend (Saul v. Jones, (1859) 1 El. & El. 59; 28 L. J. Q. B. 37; 117 R. R. 137).

Evidence and Rights of Parties.]—In an action on a bill or promissory note, if it be by payee against acceptor or maker the handwriting must be proved; the acceptance of a bill admits the drawing (Smith v. Marsack, (1848) 6 C. B. 486; 12 Jur. 1050; Hallifax v. Lyle, (1849) 3 Ex. 446; 18 L. J. Ex. 197; 77 R. R. 691).

If the action is by indorsee, the handwriting of the indorsement must be proved in addition.

In an action by indorsee against a drawer or previous indorser, the indorser's signature, which admits the signature and ability of all previous parties, must be proved; secondly, presentment for payment or acceptance, and dishonour; thirdly, notice of dishonour, or a sufficient excuse for not giving it.

The effect of sect. 25 of the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61) which says that a signature "per pro" is notice that the authority of the agent so signing is limited, is that if the authority has been exceeded the principal may refuse payment of the bill, and persons take it subject to this risk, but where the bill has once been paid the transaction is complete, and the section does not give a right to recover the proceeds (Morison v. London County and Westminster Bank, (1914) 3 K. B. 356; 83 L. J. K. B. 1202).

Section 2 Notes.

Right of Holder.]—A transfer by indorsement of a bill of exchange vests in the indorsee a right of action against all the parties whose names are on the bill in case of default of acceptance or payment (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, ss. 54, 55).

Presentment.]—In order to preserve his right of action against the drawer or any prior indorsers, it is necessary that the holder should duly present the bill, or cause it to be presented, on the day on which by custom it is payable, and that if payment is refused, notice of dishonour should be given. The same rule does not, however, apply to acceptors, who still remain liable, notwithstanding non-presentment or the omission to give notice (Maliby v. Murrells, (1860) 5 H. & N. 813; 29 L. J. Ex. 377; 45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, ss. 45, 48). And presentment does not appear to be indispensable even where the bill is made payable by the acceptor at a banker's (Turner v. Harden, (1825) 4 B. & C. 1; Sebag v. Abitbol, (1816) 4 M. & S. 462), unless payable there, "and not otherwise or elsewhere" (see Rhodes v. Gent, (1821) 5 B. & Ald. 244).

Notice of Dishonour.]—The notice of dishonour, where all the parties live in London, should be given so as to be received on the day after actual dishonour of the bill (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, s. 49; Bateman v. Joseph, (1810) 12 East, 433; 11 R. R. 443); but if the person to whom notice is necessary lives in another town, a reasonable time is allowed beyond this; and if reasonable diligence is shown, whether in town or country, notice on a later day is sufficient (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, ss. 49, 50; Gladwell v. Turner, (1870) L. R. 5 Ex. 59; 39 L. J. Ex. 31).

Cheques.]—Cheques on bankers are within the Bills of Exchange Act (Eyre v. Waller, (1860) 5 H. & N. 460; 29 L. J. Ex. 246; 120 R. R. 686), and are subject to many of the rules which regulate the rights and liabilities of parties to bills of exchange (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, s. 73; see per Maule, J., Webb v. Inwards, (1848) 5 C. B. 483, 485). The holder should present promptly and give notice of non-payment, in order to preserve his rights against the drawer and prior transferors, as if presentment be not made in a reasonable time, and the bank fail in the meantime, he will have to bear the loss himself (see Camidge v. Allenby, (1827) 6 B. & C. 373; 5 L. J. K. B. 95; 30 R. R. 358). Presentment through the post-office is a reasonable mode of presentment (see Hare v. Henty, (1861) 30 L. J. C. P. 302; Prideaux v. Criddle, (1869) L. R. 4 Q. B. 455; 38 L. J. Q. B. 232). "If the drawer dishonours the cheque, and the holder sends a notice of dishonour to the person from whom he received the cheque on the day following that on which the cheque was dishonoured, each previous transferor has one day in which to give notice of dishonour" (per Lush, J., Prideaux v. Criddle, (1869) L. R. 4 Q. B. at p. 469)—i.e., apparently, from the time when he is in a position to give notice (see Gladwell v. Turner, supra). Notice of dishonour by the holder to the drawer is excused if the latter is aware of the want of effects sufficient to meet the cheque (Carew v. Duckworth, (1869) L. R. 4 Ex. 313; 38 L. J. Ex. 149).

By sect. 82 of the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882, a banker who has collected a crossed cheque for a customer whose title was defective is relieved from liability provided he acted in good faith and without negligence. Therefore where a cheque is signed "per pro" without authority but is honoured by the bank, sect. 25 of the Act does not deprive the collecting banker of the protection given by sect. 82, nor is such protection affected by the addition of the words "not negotiable" or "not negotiable a/c payee," Morison v. London County and Westminster Bank, (1914) 3 K. B. 356; 83 L. J. K. B. 1202.

Section 2 Notes.

Defence.]—In defence the defendant may show that the bill or note is not properly stamped. That the three days of grace did not expire before action (Kennedy v. Thomas (C. A.), (1894) 2 Q. B. 759; 63 L. J. Q. B. 761). That the signature is a forgery. That a material alteration has been made in the bill without the consent of defendant (Master v. Miller, (1791) 4 T. R. 320; 2 R. R. 399; 1 Smith's L. C. 803 (12th edit.); Aldoue v. Cornwell, (1868) L. R. 3 Q. B. 573; 37 L. J. Q. B. 201). (As to suing on the original consideration see Payana Reena Saminathan v. Pana Lana Palaniappa (1914), A. C. 618; 83 L. J. P. C. 131.) That defendant when he accepted or indorsed the bill was insane, or too intoxicated to understand the effect of the contract, within the knowledge of plaintiff, but not otherwise (Gore v. Gibson, (1845) 13 M. & W. 623; 14 L. J. Ex. 151; 67 R. R. 762; Molton v. Camroux, (1848) 2 Ex. 487; 18 L. J. Ex. 68; 76 R. R. 669; Dixon v. Birch, (1873) L. R. 8 Ex. 135; 42 L. J. Ex. 135). He may also show that his signature was obtained by fraud, or that the consideration was illegal. In this case, if the action be by indorsee, it lies upon the plaintiff to show that he is a holder for value. And if it appear that he and each of the prior holders through whom he claims took the bill with knowledge of the facts, or when overdue, or gave no consideration for it, this will be an answer to the action. The defendant may likewise prove that there was no consideration for the bill or note, or that the consideration has wholly failed, and that the plaintiff and each of the prior holders through whom he claims gave no consideration for it. He may also prove payment to the plaintiff or a previous holder, unless the payment was made to the plaintiff by a previous holder upon the understanding that the plaintiff should sue for his benefit (Williams v. James, (1850) 15 Q. B. 498; 19 L. J. Q. B. 445); and if the action be against an indorser, he may show that the plaintiff has discharged him by giving time to the acceptor or previous indorser (Duncan v. N. Wales Bk., (1880) 6 App. Cas. 1; 50 L. J. Ch. 355; Overend & Co. v. Oriental Corporation, (1874) L. R. 7 H. L. 348). He cannot set up a verbal agreement in defeasance of the contract created by the bill. Hitchens and Coulthurst Co. v. Northern Leather Co. of America and Donshkess, (1914) 3 K. B. 907; 83 L. J. K. B. 1819.

Judgment.]—Final judgment is to be in the same form as when judgment is entered up under sect. 86, sub-ss. 1, 2, of the County Courts Act, 1888 (Order XXXV. r. 1A; Form 151).

Setting aside Judgment.]—The judge may, under special circumstances, set aside the judgment, and, if necessary, stay or set aside execution, and give the defendant leave to appear and defend if it seems to him reasonable, and on such terms as he thinks just (see sect. 3). The application to set aside a judgment must be made to the judge, but until he can hear it execution will be stayed, upon the defendant giving security to abide the decision of the judge (Order XXXV. r. 4; see ante, p. 116, as to security).

Execution.]—Execution will issue in the same manner, and the same provisions at and after the trial will apply to these proceedings as have been already described (see ante, p. 172).

Appeal.]—It has always been assumed that there is an appeal in these cases.

Judge may, under special circumstances, set aside judgment.

3. After judgment, the court or a judge may, under special circumstances, set aside the judgment, and, if necessary, stay or set aside execution, and may give leave to appear to the writ, and to defend the action, if it shall appear to be reasonable to the court or judge so to do, and on such terms as to the court or judge may seem just.

The application to set aside a judgment must be made to the judge, but until he can hear it, execution will be stayed, upon the defendant giving security to abide the decision of the judge (Order XXXV. r. 4).

Section 4.

Judge may order bill to be deposited with officer of court in certain cases.

4. In any proceedings under this Act it shall be competent to the court or a judge to order the bill or note sought to be proceeded upon to be forthwith deposited with an officer of the court, and further to order that all proceedings shall be stayed until the plaintiff shall have given security for the costs thereof.

When the judge is absent, this power may be exercised by the registrar (Order in Council, January 30th, 1856).

Remedy for the recovery of expenses of noting non-acceptance of dishonoured bill.

5. The holder of every dishonoured bill of exchange or promissory note shall have the same remedies for the recovery of the expenses incurred in noting the same for non-acceptance or non-payment, or otherwise, by reason of such dishonour, as he has under this Act for the recovery of the amount of such bill or note.

Holder of bill of exchange may issue one summons against all or any of the parties to the bill.

6. The holder of any bill of exchange or promissory note may, if he think fit, issue one writ of summons, according to this Act, against all or any number of the parties to such bill or note, and such writ of summons shall be the commencement of an action or actions against the parties therein named respectively, and all subsequent proceedings against such respective parties shall be in like manner, so far as may be, as if separate writs of summons had been issued.

The plaint may be entered under these provisions against partners in the name of their firm. Service may then be on any partner (Order VII. r. 31).

Common Law Procedure Acts and rules incorporated with this Act.

7. The provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, and the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, and all rules made under or by virtue of either of the said Acts, shall, so far as the same are or may be made applicable, extend and apply to all proceedings to be had or taken under this Act.

Her Majesty may direct Act to apply to courts of record in England and Wales.

See Order in Council, infra.

9. It shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time, by an Order in Council, to direct that all or any part of the provisions of this Act shall apply to all or any court or courts of record in England and Wales, and within one month after such order shall have been made and published in the London Gazette such provisions shall extend and apply in manner directed by such order, and any such order may be, in like manner, from time to time altered and annulled; and in and by any such order Her Majesty may direct by whom any powers or duties incident to the provisions applied under this Act shall and may be exercised with respect to matters in such court or courts, and may make any orders or regulations which may be deemed requisite for carrying into operation in such court or courts the provisions so applied.

11. In citing this Act in any instrument, document or proceeding it shall be sufficient to use the expression, "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855." Section 11. Short title.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 27th day of July, 1863.

PRESENT:

The Queen's most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," it is enacted that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time, by an Order in Council, to direct that all or any part of the provisions of the said Act shall apply to all or any court or courts of record in England and Wales, and that within one month after such order shall have been made and published in the London Gazette, such provisions shall extend and apply in manner directed by such order, and that any such order may be, in like manner, from time to time altered and annulled; and that in and by such order Her Majesty may direct by whom any powers or duties incident to the provisions applied under the said Act shall and may be exercised with respect to matters in such court or courts, and may make any orders or regulations which may be deemed requisite for carrying into operation in such court or courts the provisions so applied:

And whereas, on the thirtieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, an order was made by Her Majesty, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, ordering that all the provisions of "The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," should apply to the courts of record established under the provisions of the Act passed in the session holden in the ninth and tenth years of her present Majesty, chapter ninety-five, in respect of actions upon bills of exchange and promissory notes, where the plaintiff claims a sum not exceeding fifty pounds; and directing that the powers and duties incident to the provisions of the said "Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," with respect to matters in the said courts of record, should and might be exercised by the judges of the said courts respectively, or their respective deputies for the time being, or, in their absence, by the respective clerks of the said courts for the time being; and that the enactments, Secretary of State's orders, practice and forms, in force, and used in the said courts of record, should be adopted with reference to proceedings had under the said last-recited Act, so far as the same were applicable, mutatis mutandis :

And whereas it hath been represented that it is desirable that the provisions of " The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," should not apply in respect of actions brought in the county courts upon bills of exchange or promissory notes, where the plaintiff claims a sum less than ten pounds :

Her Majesty, having taken the premises into consideration, is thereupon pleased, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said order of the thirtieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, shall be altered, and that the provisions of " The Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855," shall not apply to the courts of record established under the provisions of the Act passed in the session holden in the ninth and tenth years of her present Majesty, chapter ninety-five, in respect of actions upon bills of exchange and promissory notes where the plaintiff claims a sum less than ten pounds.

SALE OF GOODS ACT, 1893.

[56 & 57 Vict. c. 71. 20th February, 1894.]

PART I.

Formation of the Contract.

Contract of Sale.

Sale and agreement to sell.

1.—(1) A contract of sale of goods is a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a money consideration, called the price. There may be a contract of sale between one part owner and another.

(2) A contract of sale may be absolute or conditional.

(3) Where under a contract of sale the property in the goods is transferred from the seller to the buyer the contract is called a sale ; but where the transfer of the property in the goods is to take place at a future time or subject to some condition thereafter to be fulfilled the contract is called an agreement to sell.

(4) An agreement to sell becomes a sale when the time elapses or the conditions are fulfilled subject to which the property in the goods is to be transferred.

As to goods obtained under agreement to purchase—"hire purchase agreements"—and when the person in possession of such goods under such an agreement, can or cannot give a title to the same, see Lee v. Butler, (1893) 2 Q. B. 318; McEntire v. Crossley Bros., (1895) A. C. 457; Helby v. Matthews, (1895) A. C. 471. Section 1 Note.

2. Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract, and to transfer and acquire property. Capacity to buy and sell.

Provided that where necessaries are sold and delivered to an infant, or minor, or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract, he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

Necessaries in this section mean goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or minor or other person, and to his actual requirements at the time of the sale and delivery.

"Necessaries."]—Ryder v. Wombwell, (1868) 4 Ex. 32; Ex. Ch. 38; Nash v. Inman, (1908) 2 K. B. 1; Re Rhodes, (1890) 44 C. D. 94.

Formalities of the Contract.

3. Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any statute in that behalf, a contract of sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal), or by word of mouth, or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth, or may be implied from the conduct of the parties. Contract of sale, how made.

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the law relating to corporations.

"Implied."]—Brogden v. Metropolitan Rail. Co., (1877) 2 A. C. 666.

4.—(1) A contract for the sale of any goods of the value of ten pounds or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods so sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the contract, or in part payment, or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract be made and signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf. Contract of sale for ten pounds and upwards.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to every such contract, notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time, or may not at the time of such contract be actually made, procured, or provided, or fit or ready for delivery, or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof, or rendering the same fit for delivery.

(3) There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer does any act in relation to the goods which recognises a pre-existing contract of sale whether there be an acceptance in performance of the contract or not.

(4) The provisions of this section do not apply to Scotland.

Section 4 Note.

As to this section, which was formerly in substance sect. 17 (really sect. 16) of the Statute of Frauds (29 Chas. II., c. 3), see Chalmers, "Sale of Goods Act, 1893," 7th edit., pp. 18—25.

Subject matter of Contract.

Existing or future goods.

5.—(1) The goods which form the subject of a contract of sale may be either existing goods, owned or possessed by the seller, or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract of sale, in this Act called "future goods."

(2) There may be a contract for the sale of goods, the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen.

(3) Where by a contract of sale the seller purports to effect a present sale of future goods, the contract operates as an agreement to sell the goods.

"Future Goods."]—See Watts v. Friend, (1830) 10 B. & C. 446; Ajello v. Worsley, (1898) 1 Ch. 274; Holroyd v. Marshall, (1862) 10 H. L. C. 191; Collyer v. Isaacs, (1881) 50 L. J. Ch. 707.

Goods which have perished.

6. Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished at the time when the contract is made, the contract is void.

See Couturier v. Hastie, (1856) 5 H. L. C. 673; 25 L. J. Ex. 253; Smith v. Myers, (1870) L. R. 5 Q. B. 429; L. R. 7 Q. B. 139.

Goods perishing before sale but after agreement to sell.

7. Where there is an agreement to sell specific goods, and subsequently the goods, without any fault on the part of the seller or buyer, perish before the risk passes to the buyer, the agreement is thereby avoided.

See Howell v. Coupland, (1874) L. R. 9 Q. B. 462; (1876) 1 Q. B. D. 258; Elphick v. Burnes, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 821.

The Price.

Ascertainment of price.

8.—(1) The price in a contract of sale may be fixed by the contract, or may be left to be fixed in manner thereby agreed, or may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions the buyer must pay a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case.

Deposit.]—Money paid as a deposit in the absence of an agreement is forfeited if the sale goes off through the buyer's fault (Soper v. Arnold, (1889) 14 A. C. 435).

Section 9.

Agreement to sell at valuation.

9.—(1) Where there is an agreement to sell goods on the terms that the price is to be fixed by the valuation of a third party, and such third party cannot or does not make such valuation, the agreement is avoided; provided that if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

(2) Where such third party is prevented from making the valuation by the fault of the seller or buyer, the party not in fault may maintain an action for damages against the party in fault.

See Vickers v. Vickers, (1867) L. R. 4 Eq. 529; Clarke v. Westrope, (1856) 25 L. J. C. P. 287.

Conditions and Warranties.

Stipulations as to time.

10.—(1) Unless a different intention appears from the terms of the contract, stipulations as to time of payment are not deemed to be of the essence of a contract of sale. Whether any other stipulations as to time is of the essence of the contract or not depends on the terms of the contract.

(2) In a contract of sale "month" means primâ facie calendar month.

"Essence of Contract."]—See Martindale v. Smith, (1841) 1 Q. B. 389; Mersey Steel and Iron Co. v. Naylor, (1884) 9 A. C. 434.

When condition to be treated as warranty.

11.—(1) In England or Ireland—

(a) Where a contract of sale is subject to any condition to be fulfilled by the seller, the buyer may waive the condition, or may elect to treat the breach of such condition as a breach of warranty, and not as a ground for treating the contract as repudiated (a).

(b) Whether a stipulation in a contract of sale is a condition, the breach of which may give rise to a right to treat the contract as repudiated, or a warranty, the breach of which may give rise to a claim for damages but not to a right to reject the goods and treat the contract as repudiated, depends in each case on the construction of the contract. A stipulation may be a condition, though called a warranty in the contract (b):

(c) Where a contract of sale is not severable, and the buyer has accepted the goods, or part thereof, or where the contract is for specific goods, the property in which has passed to the buyer, the breach of any condition to be fulfilled by the seller can only be treated as a breach of warranty, and not as a ground for rejecting the goods and treating he contract as repudiated (c), unless there be a term of the contract, express or implied, to that effect.

Section 11.

(2) In Scotland, failure by the seller to perform any material part of a contract of sale is a breach of contract, which entitles the buyer either within a reasonable time after delivery to reject the goods and treat the contract as repudiated, or to retain the goods and treat the failure to perform such material part as a breach which may give rise to a claim for compensation or damages.

(3) Nothing in this section shall affect the case of any condition or warranty, fulfilment of which is excused by law by reason of impossibility or otherwise.

Implied undertaking as to title, &c.

12. In a contract of sale, unless the circumstances of the contract are such as to show a different intention, there is—

(1) An implied condition on the part of the seller that in the case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods, and that in the case of an agreement to sell he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass :

(2) An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods :

(3) An implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any charge or encumbrance in favour of any third party, not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract is made.

See Eichholz v. Bannister, (1864) 34 L. J. C. P. 105.

Sale by description.

13. Where there is a contract for the sale of goods by description, there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description ; and if the sale be by sample, as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods corresponds with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description (a).

NOTE.—(a) "Description."]—See Randall v. Newson, (1877) 2 Q. B. D. 109 ; Bowes v. Shand, (1877) 2 A. C. 455 ; Varley v. Whipp, (1900) 1 Q. B. 513 ; Re North Western Rubber Co., (1908) 2 K. B. 907.
In buying from a firm of good reputation a customer is justified in trusting to the label as to quantity in a package, and is not guilty of contributory negligence in not discovering that a mistake has been made in this respect (British South African Co. v. Lennon, Ltd., (1916) 85 L. J P. C. 111).

Implied conditions as to quality or fitness.

14. Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any statute in that behalf (a), there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale, except as follows (b) :—

(1) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment, and the goods are of a description which it is in the course of the seller's business to supply (whether he be the manufacturer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose (c), provided that in the case of a contract for the sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied condition as to its fitness for any particular purpose (d) :

(2) Where goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the manufacturer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality (e) ; provided that if the buyer has examined the goods, there shall be no implied condition as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed :

(3) An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade.

(4) An express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied by this Act unless inconsistent therewith.

Sale by Sample.

Sale by sample.

15.—(1) A contract of sale is a contract for sale by sample where there is a term in the contract, express or implied, to that effect.

(2) In the case of a contract for sale by sample—

(a) There is an implied condition that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality (a) :

(b) There is an implied condition that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample (b) :

(c) There is an implied condition that the goods shall be free from any defect, rendering them unmerchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample.

PART II.

EFFECTS OF THE CONTRACT.

Transfer of Property as between Seller and Buyer.

Goods must be ascertained.

16. Where there is a contract for the sale of unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained.

See Dixon v. Yates, (1833) 5 B. & Ad. 340; Campbell v. Mersey Docks, (1863) 14 C. B. N. S. 412; Jenner v. Smith, (1869) L. R. 4 C. P. 276; Badische Anilin Fabrik v. Hickson, (1906) A. C. 419.

Property passes when intended to pass.

17.—(1) Where there is a contract for the sale of specific or ascertained goods the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties regard shall be had to the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties, and the circumstances of the case.

See Seath v. Moore, (1886) 11 A. C. 350; Reid v. Macbeth, (1904) A. C. 223; Sir J. Laing v. Barclay & Co., (1908) A. C. 35.

Rules for ascertaining intention.

18. Unless a different intention appears, the following are rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer.

Rule 1.—Where there is an unconditional contract for the sale of specific goods, in a deliverable state, the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made, and it is immaterial whether the time of payment or the time of delivery, or both, be postponed (a).

Rule 2.—Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods, for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing be done (b), and the buyer has notice thereof.

Rule 3.—Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods in a deliverable state, but the seller is bound to weigh, measure, test, or do some other act or thing with reference to the goods for the purpose of ascertaining the price, the property does not pass until such act or thing be done, and the buyer has notice thereof (c).

Rule 4.—When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or "on sale or return" or other similar terms the property therein passes to the buyer :— Section 18.

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction :

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection, then, if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods, on the expiration of such time, and, if no time has been fixed, on the expiration of a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Rule 5.—(1) Where there is a contract for the sale of unascertained or future goods by description, and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract (d), either by the seller with the assent of the buyer, or by the buyer with the assent of the seller, the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer. Such assent may be express or implied, and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made (e) :

(2) Where, in pursuance of the contract, the seller delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee or custodier (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, and does not reserve the right of disposal, he is deemed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract.

(a) "Postponed."]—See Tarling v. Baxter, (1827) 6 B. & C. 360 ; Barr v. Gibson, (1838) 3 M. & W. 390 ; Seath v. Moore, ante, p. 324.

(b) See Anderson v. Morice, (1875) A. C. 713 ; Leath v. Moore (supra).

19.—(1) Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract, the seller may, by the terms of the contract or appropriation, reserve the right of disposal of the goods until certain conditions are fulfilled. In such case, notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer, or to a carrier or other bailee or custodier for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, the property in the goods does not pass to the buyer until the conditions imposed by the seller are fulfilled. Reservation of right of disposal.

(2) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the seller or his agent, the seller is primâ fa ce deemed to reserve the right of disposal.

(3) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price, and transmits the bill of exchange and bill of lading to the buyer together to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange, the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honour the bill of exchange, and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading the property in the goods does not pass to him.

See Mirabita v. Imperial Ottoman Bank, (1878) 3 Ex. Div. 164; Shepherd v. Harrison, (1871) L. R. 5 H. L. 116.

Risk primâ facie passes with property.

20. Unless otherwise agreed, the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer, but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer, the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not.

Provided that where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault.

Provided also that nothing in this section shall affect the duties or liabilities of either seller or buyer as a bailee or custodier of the goods of the other party.

Transfer of Title.

Sale by person not the owner.

21.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof, and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell (a).

(2) Provided also that nothing in this Act shall affect—

(a) The provisions of the Factors Acts, or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof;

(b) The validity of any contract of sale under any special common law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

Market overt.

22.—(1) Where goods are sold in market overt, according to the usage of the market, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of any defect or want of title on the part of the seller.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the law relating to the sale of horses. Section 22.

(3) The provisions of this section do not apply to Scotland.

23. When the seller of goods has a voidable title thereto, but his title has not been avoided at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defect of title. Sale under voidable title.

See Cundy v. Lindsay, (1878) 3 A. C. 459; Croft v. Lumley, (1856) 6 H. L. 705; 27 L. J. Q. B. 321.

24.—(1) Where goods have been stolen and the offender is prosecuted to conviction, the property in the goods so stolen revests in the person who was the owner of the goods, or his personal representative, notwithstanding any intermediate dealing with them, whether by sale in market overt or otherwise (a). Revesting of property in stolen goods on conviction of offender.

(2) Notwithstanding any enactment to the contrary, where goods have been obtained by fraud or other wrongful means not amounting to larceny, the property in such goods shall not revest in the person who was the owner of the goods, or his personal representative, by reason only of the conviction of the offender (b).

(3) The provisions of this section do not apply to Scotland.

25.—(1) Where a person having sold goods continues or is in possession of the goods, or of the documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person, or by a mercantile agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorised by the owner of the goods to make the same. Seller or buyer in possession after sale.

(2) Where a person having bought or agreed to buy goods obtains, with the consent of the seller, possession of the goods or the documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person, or by a mercantile agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title, under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving the same in good faith and without notice of any lien or other right of the original seller in respect of the goods, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were a mercantile agent in possession of the goods or documents of title with the consent of the owner.

(3) In this section the term "mercantile agent" has the same meaning as in the Factors Acts.

See Lee v. Butler, (1893) 2 Q. B. 318; Helby v. Matthews, (1895) A. C. 471. "Agreed to buy," see Martin v. Whale, (1917) 1 K. B. 544; 86 L. J. K. B. 544; C. A. (1917), 2 K. B. 480.

Effect of writs of execution.

26.—(1) A writ of fieri facias or other writ of execution against goods shall bind the property in the goods of the execution debtor as from the time when the writ is delivered to the sheriff to be executed; and, for the better manifestation of such time, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, without fee, upon the receipt of any such writ to endorse upon the back thereof the hour, day, month, and year when he received the same.

Provided that no such writ shall prejudice the title to such goods acquired by any person in good faith and for valuable consideration, unless such person had at the time when he acquired his title notice that such writ or any other writ by virtue of which the goods of the execution debtor might be seized or attached had been delivered to and remained unexecuted in the hands of the sheriff.

(2) In this section the term "sheriff" includes any officer charged with the enforcement of a writ of execution.

(3) The provisions of this section do not apply to Scotland.

PART III.

Performance of the Contract.

Duties of seller and buyer.

27. It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods, and of the buyer to accept and pay for them, in accordance with the terms of the contract of sale.

See Buddle v. Green, (1857) 27 L. J. Ex. 33; Woolfe v. Horne, (1877) 2 Q. B. D. 355; Dunlop v. Lambert, (1839) 6 Cl. & Fin. 603; Calcutta Co. v. De Mattos, (1863) 32 L. J. Q. B. 322.

Payment and delivery are concurrent conditions.

28. Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions, that is to say, the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price, and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods.

See Bloxam v. Sanders, (1825) 4 B. & C. 941; Chinery v. Viall, (1860) 29 L. J. Ex. 183; Pickford v. Grand Junction Rail. Co., (1841) 8 M. & W. 378; Paynter v. James, (1867) L. R. 2 C. P. 348; Baker v. Firminger, (1859) 28 L. J. Ex. 130.

Section 29.

Rules as to delivery.

29.—(1) Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract, express or implied, between the parties. Apart from any such contract, express or implied, the place of delivery is the seller's place of business, if he have one, and if not, his residence: Provided that, if the contract be for the sale of specific goods, which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract is made are in some other place, then that place is the place of delivery.

(2) Where under the contract of sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer, but no time for sending them is fixed, the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time (a).

(3) Where the goods at the time of sale are in the possession of a third person, there is no delivery by seller to buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on his behalf (b); provided that nothing in this section shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document of title to goods.

(4) Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact.

(5) Unless otherwise agreed, the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller.

NOTE.—(a) "Reasonable time."]—Ellis v. Thompson, (1838) 3 M. & W. 445; Jones v. Gibbons, (1853) 8 Ex. 920.

Delivery of wrong quantity.

30.—(1) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell, the buyer may reject them, but if the buyer accepts the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate.

(2) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell, the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole. If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate (c).

NOTE.—(c) Where the contract was for the "remainder" of a cargo of goods, and an estimate given as to the amount, the whole of the remainder of the cargo passed under the contract, though it turned out to be considerably in excess of the estimate. (Harrison v. Micks, Lambert & Co., (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 573.

(3) Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract, the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade, special agreement, or course of dealing between the parties.

See Oxendale v. Wetherell, (1829) 4 M. & Ry. 429; Colonial Ins. Co. v. Adelaide Jus Co., (1886) 12 A. C. 138.

Instalment deliveries.

31.—(1) Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by instalments.

(2) Where there is a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered by stated instalments, which are to be separately paid for, and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more instalments, or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more instalments, it is a question in each case depending on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case, whether the breach of contract is a repudiation of the whole contract or whether it is a severable breach giving rise to a claim for compensation but not to a right to treat the whole contract as repudiated.

See Reuter v. Sala, (1879) 4 C. P. D. 239; Mersey Steel and Iron Co. v. Naylor, (1884) 9 A. C. 434; Dominion Coal Co. v. Dominion Iron and Steel Co., (1909) A. C. (P. C.) 293; Ebbw Vale Steel Co. v. Blaina Iron Co., (1901) 6 C. C. 33; Braithwaite v. Foreign Hardware Co., (1905) 2 K. B. 543.

Delivery to carrier.

32.—(1) Where, in pursuance of a contract of sale, the seller is authorised or required to send the goods to the buyer, delivery of the goods to a carrier, whether named by the buyer or not, for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is primâ facie deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer (a).

(2) Unless otherwise authorised by the buyer, the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case. If the seller omit so to do, and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit, the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself (b), or may hold the seller responsible in damages.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer by a route involving sea transit, under circumstances in which it is usual to insure, the seller must give such notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their sea transit, and, if the seller fails to do so, the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such sea transit (c).

Section 33.

33. Where the seller of goods agrees to deliver them at his own risk at a place other than that where they are when sold, the buyer must, nevertheless, unless otherwise agreed, take any risk of deterioration in the goods necessarily incident to the course of transit.

Risk where goods are delivered at distant place.

See Bull v. Robinson, (1854) 10 Ex. 342; Beer v. Walker, (1877) 46 L. J. C. P. 677.

Buyer's right of examining the goods.

34.—(1) Where goods are delivered to the buyer, which he has not previously examined, he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract (a).

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer, he is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

NOTE.—(a) "In conformity with the contract."—See Lorymer v. Smith, (1822) 1 B. & C. 1; Heilbutt v. Hickson, (1872) L. R. 7 C. P. 438; Khan v Duchè, (1905) 10 Com. Ca. 87.

Acceptance.

35. The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them, or when the goods have been delivered to him, and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, or when after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them.

See Parker v. Palmer, (1821) 4 B. & A. 387; Chapman v. Morton, (1843) 11 M. & W. 534; Taylor v. Great Eastern Rail. Co., (1911) 1 K. B. 774; Heilbutt v. Hickson (supra).

Buyer not bound to return rejected goods.

36. Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are delivered to the buyer, and he refuses to accept them, having the right so to do, he is not bound to return them to the seller, but it is sufficient if he intimates to the seller that he refuses to accept them.

See Grimoldby v. Wells, (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 391.

Liability of buyer for neglecting or refusing delivery of goods.

37. When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods, and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery, and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of the seller where the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation of the contract.

See Bloxam v. Sanders, (1825) 4 B. & C. 941; Mersey Steel Co. v. Naylor, (1884) 9 A. C. 434; Braithwaite v. Foreign Hardware Co., (1905) 2 K. B. 543.

Section 38.

PART IV.

Rights of Unpaid Seller against the Goods.

Unpaid seller defined.

38.—(1) The seller of goods is deemed to be an "unpaid seller" within the meaning of this Act—

(a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered ;

(b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment, and the condition on which it was received has not been fulfilled by reason of the dishonour of the instrument or otherwise (a).

(2) In this part of this Act the term "seller" includes any person who is in the position of a seller, as, for instance, an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading has been endorsed, or a consignor or agent who has himself paid, or is directly responsible for, the price.

Note.—(a) "Dishonour of the instrument or otherwise."]—See Griffiths v. Perry, (1859) 28 L. J. Q. B. 204; Gunn v. Bolckow, Vaughan & Co., (1875) L. R. 10 Ch. App. 491; Goldshede v. Cottrell, (1836) 2 M. & W. 20; Imperial Bank v. London and St. Katherine Docks Co., (1877) 5 Ch. D. 195.

Unpaid seller's rights.

39.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, and of any statute in that behalf, notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller of goods, as such, has by implication of law—

(a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them ;

(b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer, a right of stopping the goods in transitu after he has parted with the possession of them ;

(c) A right of re-sale as limited by this Act.

(2) Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller has, in addition to his other remedies, a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transitu where the property has passed to the buyer.

See Kendal v. Marshall, Stevens & Co., (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 368; Cassaboglou v. Gibb, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. at p. 804; Kemp v. Falk, (1882) 7 A. C. 590; Merchant Banking Co. v. Phœnix Co., (1877) 5 C. D. 205.

Attachment by seller in Scotland.

40. In Scotland a seller of goods may attach the same while in his own hands or possession by arrestment or poinding ; and such arrestment or poinding shall have the same operation and effect in a competition or otherwise as an arrestment or poinding by a third party.

Unpaid Seller's Lien. Section 41.

Seller's lien.

41.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until payment or tender of the price in the following cases, namely:—

(a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit;

(b) Where the goods have been sold on credit, but the term of credit has expired (a);

(c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent (b).

(2) The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee or custodier for the buyer (c).

NOTE.—(a) "Credit has expired."]—See Martindale v. Smith, (1841) 8 Q. B. 395.

NOTE.—(b) "Insolvent."]—Bloxam v. Thorley, (1825) 4 B. & C. 951; Gunn v. Bolckow, Vaughan & Co., (1875) L. R. 10 Ch. App. 501.

NOTE.—(c) "Custodier for the buyer."]—Grice v. Richardson, (1877) 3 A. C. 319, comp. Cusack v. Robinson, (1861) 30 L. J. Q. B. 264.

"Lien."]—Is for the unpaid price of goods, not for custody of same, see Somes v. British Empire Shipping Co., (1859) 30 L. J. Q. B. 229.

Part delivery.

42. Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien or retention on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement to waive the lien or right of retention.

See Kemp v. Falk, (1882) 7 A. C. 573; Ex parte Chalmers, (1873) L. R. 8 Ch. App. 289; Merchant Banking Co. v. Phœnix Co., (1877) 5 C. D. 205.

Termination of lien.

43.—(1) The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien or right of retention thereon—

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee or custodier for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the right of disposal of the goods (a);

(b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods (b);

(c) By waiver thereof.

(2) The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien or right of retention thereon, does not lose his lien or right of retention by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods.

Section 44. Stoppage in transitu.

Right of stoppage in transitu.

44. Subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transitu, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit, and may retain them until payment or tender of the price.

See Lickbarrow v. Mason, (1793) 6 East, 21, and notes thereto in 1 Smith's L. C., 12th edit., 772 et seq. ; Bethell v. Clarke, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 615; Berndtson v. Strang, (1868) L. R. 3 Ch. App. 588; Lyons v. Hoffnung, (1890) 15 A. C. 391; Kendall v. Marshall, Stevens & Co., (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 356; Ex parte Miles, In re Isaacs, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 39; Reddall v. Union Castle Mail Steamship Co., (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 360.

Duration of transit.

45.—(1) Goods are deemed to be in course of transit from the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water, or other bailee or custodier for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, until the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee or custodier.

(2) If the buyer or his agent in that behalf obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination, the transit is at an end.

(3) If, after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination, the carrier or other bailee or custodier acknowledges to the buyer, or his agent, that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee or custodier for the buyer, or his agent, the transit is at an end, and it is immaterial that a further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer.

(4) If the goods are rejected by the buyer, and the carrier or other bailee or custodier continues in possession of them, the transit is not deemed to be at an end, even if the seller has refused to receive them back.

(5) When goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case, whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier, or as agent to the buyer.

(6) Where the carrier or other bailee or custodier wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, the transit is deemed to be at an end.

(7) Where part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transitu, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement to give up possession of the whole of the goods.

See Valpy v. Gibson, (1847) 4 C. B. 887; Schotsman v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Rail. Co., ante, p. 333; Ex parte Barrow, (1877) 6 C. D. 783; Lyons

v. Hoffnung (supra); Kendall v. Marshall, Stevens & Co. (supra); Ex parte Miles (supra); Bolton v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Rail. Co., (1866) L. R. 1 C. P. 431; Ex parte Rosevear China Clay Co., (1879) 11 C. D. 560; Kemp v. Falk, (1882) 7 A. C. 588. Section 45 Note.

46.—(1) The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transitu either by taking actual possession of the goods, or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee or custodier in whose possession the goods are. Such notice may be given either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal. In the latter case the notice, to be effectual, must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, may communicate it to his servant or agent in time to prevent a delivery to the buyer. How stoppage in transitu is effected.

(2) When notice of stoppage in transitu is given by the seller to the carrier, or other bailee or custodier in possession of the goods, he must re-deliver the goods to, or according to the directions of, the seller. The expenses of such re-delivery must be borne by the seller.

See Whitehead v. Anderson, (1842) 9 M. & W. 518; McTigress, (1863) 32 L. J. Adm. 97; Booth Steamship Co. v. Cargo Fleet Iron Co., (1916) 2 K. B. 570; 85 L. J. K. B. 1577.

Re-sale by Buyer or Seller.

47. Subject to the provisions of this Act, the unpaid seller's right of lien or retention or stoppage in transitu is not affected by any sale, or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made, unless the seller has assented thereto (a). Effect of sub-sale or pledge by buyer.

Provided that where a document of title to goods has been lawfully transferred to any person as buyer or owner of the goods, and that person transfers the document to a person who takes the document in good faith and for valuable consideration, then, if such last-mentioned transfer was by way of sale the unpaid seller's right of lien or retention or stoppage in transitu is defeated, and if such last-mentioned transfer was by way of pledge or other disposition for value, the unpaid seller's right of lien or retention or stoppage in transitu can only be exercised subject to the rights of the transferee (b).

NOTE.—(a) "Seller has assented thereto."]—Stoveld v. Hughes, (1811) 14 East, 308; Woodley v. Coventry, (1863) 32 L. J. Ex. 185; Merchant Banking Co. v. Phœnix Steel Co., (1877) 5 C. D. 205.

NOTE.—(b) See notes to Lickbarrow v. Mason, (1793) 6 East, 21, in Smith's L. C., 12th edit., 772; Leask v. Scott, (1877) 2 Q. B. D. 376; Kemp v. Falk (supra); Sewell v. Bardick, (1884) 10 A. C. 74.

48.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, a contract of sale is not rescinded by the mere exercise by an unpaid seller of his right of lien or retention or stoppage in transitu. Sale not generally rescinded by lien or stoppage in transitu.

Section 48.

(2) Where an unpaid seller who has exercised his right of lien or retention or stoppage in transitu re-sells the goods, the buyer acquires a good title thereto as against the original buyer.

(3) Where the goods are of a perishable nature, or where the unpaid seller gives notice to the buyer of his intention to re-sell, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time pay or tender the price, the unpaid seller may re-sell the goods and recover from the original buyer damages for any loss occasioned by his breach of contract.

(4) Where the seller expressly reserves a right of re-sale in case the buyer should make default, and on the buyer making default, re-sells the goods, the original contract of sale is thereby rescinded, but without prejudice to any claim the seller may have for damages.

See Kemp v. Falk, ante, p. 335; notes to Lickbarrow v. Mason, ante, p. 334; Lord v. Price, (1874) L. R. 9 Ex. 55; Ex parte Stapleton, (1879) 10 C. D. 586; Lamond v. Davall, (1847) 9 Q. B. 1030; Johnson v. Credit Lyonnais, (1877) 3 C. P. D. 32.

PART V.

Actions for Breach of the Contract.

Remedies of the Seller.

Action for price.

49.—(1) Where, under a contract of sale, the property in the goods has passed to the buyer, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract, the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods.

(2) Where, under a contract of sale, the price is payable on a day certain irrespective of delivery (a), and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price, the seller may maintain an action for the price, although the property in the goods has not passed, and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prejudice the right of the seller in Scotland to recover interest on the price from the date of tender of the goods, or from the date on which the price was payable, as the case may be (b).

Note.—(a) As to the meaning of these words see Stein Forbes & Co. v. County Tailoring Co., (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 448.

Note.—(b) See Dunlop v. Grote, (1845) 2 C. & R. 153; Fessard v. Magnier, (1865) 34 L. J. C. P. 126; Calcutta Co. v. De Mattos, (1863) 32 L. J. Q. B. 328.

Damages for non-acceptance.

50.—(1) Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for non-acceptance (a).

(2) The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the buyer's breach of contract.

Section 50.

(3) Where there is an available market (b) for the goods in question the measure of damages is primâ facie to be ascertained by the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted, or, if no time was fixed for acceptance, then at the time of the refusal to accept (c).

NOTE.—(c) If on a breach of contract to accept shares the seller retains the shares, he is entitled to recover the difference in the value of the shares at the time of the breach, though the value of the shares may afterwards rise (A. K. A. S. Jamal v. Moolla Dawood, Sons & Co., (1916) L. R. P. C. 175).

Remedies of the Buyer.

Damages for non-delivery.

51.—(1) Where the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer, the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for non-delivery.

(2) The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the seller's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages is primâ facie to be ascertained by the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered, or, if no time was fixed, then at the time of the refusal to deliver.

Specific performance.

52. In any action for breach of contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods the court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the plaintiff, by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically, without giving the defendant the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages. The judgment or decree may be unconditional, or upon such terms and conditions as to damages, payment of the price, and otherwise, as to the court may seem just, and the application by the plaintiff may be made at any time before judgment or decree (a).

Section 52.

The provisions of this section shall be deemed to be supplementary to, and not in derogation of, the right of specific implement in Scotland.

NOTE.—(a) This section substantially reproduces sect. 2 of the Mercantile Law Amendment Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 97). See, as to specific delivery of goods in action in the county court, County Court Rules, Order XXV., r. 69.

Remedy for breach of warranty.

53.—(1) Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller, or where the buyer elects, or is compelled, to treat any breach of a condition on the part of the seller as a breach of warranty, the buyer is not by reason only of such breach of warranty entitled to reject the goods; but he may

(a) set up against the seller the breach of warranty in diminution or extinction of the price; or

(b) maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty.

(2) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the breach of warranty.

(3) In the case of breach of warranty of quality such loss is primâ facie the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty.

(4) The fact that the buyer has set up the breach of warranty in diminution or extinction of the price does not prevent him from maintaining an action for the same breach of warranty if he has suffered further damage.

(5) Nothing in this section shall prejudice or affect the buyer's right of rejection in Scotland as declared by this Act.

C. 317; Bright v. Rogers, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 804.

Interest and special damages.

54. Nothing in this Act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable, or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed.

See Hydraulic Engineering Co. v. McHaffie, (1878) 4 Q. B. D. 677; Grebert Borgnis v. Nugent, (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 85; Agius v. Great Western Colliery Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 413, and notes to Hadley v. Baxendale, 2 Smith's L. C., 12th edit., 547.

Exclusion of implied terms and conditions.

55. Where any right, duty, or liability would arise under a contract of sale by implication of law, it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties, or by usage (a), if the usage be such as to bind both parties to the contract.

Reasonable time a question of fact.

56. Where, by this Act, any reference is made to a reasonable time the question what is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Rights, &c., enforceable by action.

57. Where any right, duty, or liability is declared by this Act, it may, unless otherwise by this Act provided, be enforced by action.

Auction sales.

58. In the case of a sale by auction—

(1) Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots, each lot is primâ facie deemed to be the subject of a separate contract of sale:

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer, or in other customary manner. Until such announcement is made any bidder may retract his bid (a):

(3) Where a sale by auction is not notified to be subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ any person to bid at such sale, or for the auctioneer knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any such person (b): Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer:

(4) A sale by auction may be notified to be subject to a reserved or upset price, and a right to bid may also be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller (c).

Where a right to bid is expressly reserved, but not otherwise, the seller, or any one person on his behalf, may bid at the auction.

Section 59.

Payment into court in Scotland when breach of warranty alleged.

59. In Scotland where a buyer has elected to accept goods which he might have rejected, and to treat a breach of contract as only giving rise to a claim for damages, he may, in an action by the seller for the price, be required, in the discretion of the court before which the action depends, to consign or pay into court the price of the goods, or part thereof, or to give other reasonable security for the due payment thereof.

Repeal.

60. The enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act are hereby repealed as from the commencement of this Act to the extent in that schedule mentioned.

Provided that such repeal shall not affect anything done or suffered, or any right, title, or interest acquired or accrued before the commencement of this Act, or any legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any such thing, right, title, or interest.

Savings.

61.—(1) The rules in bankruptcy relating to contracts of sale shall continue to apply thereto, notwithstanding anything in this Act contained.

(2) The rules of the common law, including the law merchant, save in so far as they are inconsistent with the express provisions of this Act, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, or other invalidating cause, shall continue to apply to contracts for the sale of goods.

(3) Nothing in this Act or in any repeal effected thereby shall affect the enactments relating to bills of sale, or any enactment relating to the sale of goods which is not expressly repealed by this Act.

(4) The provisions of this Act relating to contracts of sale do not apply to any transaction in the form of a contract of sale which is intended to operate by way of mortgage, pledge, charge, or other security.

(5) Nothing in this Act shall prejudice or affect the landlord's right of hypothec or sequestration for rent in Scotland.

As regards Scotland a breach of warranty shall be deemed to be a failure to perform a material part of the contract.

(2) A thing is deemed to be done "in good faith" within the meaning of this Act when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not.

THE COUNTY COURT RULES, 1903 TO 1917.

Short title.

THE following orders and rules may be cited as "The County Court Rules, 1903," and shall apply, so far as may be practicable (unless otherwise expressly provided), to all proceedings taken in all actions and matters pending on the day on which these rules come into force.

Annulment of prior rules.

The County Court Rules, 1889, and all county court rules of subsequent date are hereby annulled, and the following orders and rules shall stand in lieu thereof.

In this reprint of the rules, a note appended thus (R. S. C., Order V. r. 9) signifies that the rule is based on the High Court rule so indicated.

The County Court Rules of 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, and 1913 are all annulled by the County Court Rules, 1914, by which the rules of those respective years are all consolidated.

The County Court Rules, 1914, are directed to be read and construed as if they were contained in the County Court Rules, 1903. The County Court Rules of 1917 are also incorporated. For the convenience of practitioners all the rules are here printed together, and it is believed are now complete.

ORDER I.

COURT AND OFFICES.

Appointment and notice of sittings of court.

1. Every judge shall appoint the days and hours for holding his courts; and a notice of the day and hour on which each court is to be held shall, three months before the holding thereof, be affixed in some conspicuous place in the court-house and in the registrar's office; and whenever any day or hour so appointed for holding a court is altered, notice of such alteration shall immediately be affixed in like manner; but any judge may from time to time hold additional and adjourned courts.

Additional or adjourned courts.

The court must be held within each district at such times as the judge appoints, provided it is held once at least in every calendar month, or at such other interval as the Lord Chancellor may appoint (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 10).

Courts need not be held in the month of September, unless the Lord Chancellor otherwise orders, and with his sanction, the judge, if he holds courts in September, need not hold them during some other month in the year. The office must, however, always be open for the receipt and payment of money in and out of court pursuant to the rules, or for any proceedings before the registrar (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 11).

No two courts to be held on same day.

Form 171.

See note (supra).

An execution levied by seizure or sale is not invalid by reason only of its being an act of bankruptcy, and a person who purchases the goods in good faith under a sale by the high bailiff acquires a good title against the trustee (s. 40 (3), Bankruptcy Act, 1914).

Notice of withdrawal, or of payment over of money received, on notice of

36. Where the high bailiff withdraws from possession of goods taken in execution, or pays over to the official receiver or trustee in bankruptcy the proceeds of sale of goods sold under an execution, or money paid in order to avoid sale or received in part satisfaction of the execution, in consequence of having received notice that a receiving order in bankruptcy has been made against the debtor, he shall within twenty-four hours after such withdrawal or payment send to the registrar of the court out of which the warrant of execution originally issued, and to the execution creditor, notice thereof according to the form in the Appendix. O. II. r. 36. receiving order. Form 172.

36A. When any process has been executed, satisfied, withdrawn, or stopped, the high bailiff shall file such process and retain the same in his custody, unless, in the case of a warrant of execution, he is required to lodge the same in court pursuant to Order XXV. Rule 38, or, in the case of an order of commitment, the same has been delivered to the gaoler. Filing and custody of process when executed, etc.

NOTE.—Rules 34, 34A, 35, 36, and 36A are either new or amended by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

37. Whenever a warrant, order of commitment, or other order of the court required to be executed in a foreign district has not been executed within one month from the day of delivery, the high bailiff of the foreign court shall, on the day after the termination of such month, make a return to the registrar of the home court according to the form in the Appendix, and shall send a copy thereof to the execution creditor, and when any such warrant or order has not been executed during the time it is in force, such high bailiff shall return the same to the registrar of the home court within twenty-four hours from the expiration of such time, and shall indorse on such warrant or order the reason why the same could not be executed, and he shall sign such indorsement; but the high bailiff shall return such warrant or order, although unexecuted, to the home court at any time if he shall be directed so to do by the registrar of the home court, and he shall at all times give such information as such registrar may require respecting such warrant or order. Non-execution of warrant in foreign district. Form 174. Return of warrant, if so directed.

38. Where any personal property is directed to be sold by public auction, detained, or preserved, the high bailiff shall, if the court so directs, superintend such sale, detention, or preservation; and where any such property is directed to be sold by private contract, it shall be his duty, if the court so directs, to see that the directions of the court are duly carried out. This rule shall not apply to an execution issued under section one hundred and forty-six of the Act. Duties of high bailiff as to sale, &c., of personal property. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 146.

39. Where a warrant directs the high bailiff to detain and preserve any goods or chattels, he shall take and retain possession thereof until further order be made by the court thereon. Taking possession of goods.

O. II. r. 40.

Where possession ordered to be taken until security given.

40. Where a warrant directs the high bailiff to take possession of any goods or chattels until security be given by some party for the safe keeping of the same, or for the payment of the value of the same in default of such safe keeping, but does not specify the amount of such security, the high bailiff shall make or cause to be made an inventory and appraisement of the goods or chattels which he may take into his possession; and, upon receiving as a deposit the amount of such appraisement, or sufficient security, to be approved by the registrar, for the safe custody of such goods and chattels, and for the delivery up of possession thereof upon request, the high bailiff shall relinquish the possession thereof on condition that the same shall be re-delivered to him on request, or held to abide the order of the court. If the warrant specifies the amount of security, no less deposit or security shall be sufficient.

Notices where party acts by solicitor.

41. Where the plaintiff or execution creditor acts by a solicitor, the notices and copies referred to in Rules 5, 6, 24, 25, 26, 31, 35, 36 and 37 of this Order shall be sent to such solicitor.

ORDER III.

Parties.

Generally.

Persons may be joined as plaintiffs who claim relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative in respect of the same transaction, when common question of law or fact arises.

1. All persons may be joined as plaintiffs in one action in whom any right to any relief in respect of or arising out of the same transaction or series of transactions is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, where, if such persons brought separate actions, any common question of law or fact would arise: Provided that if upon the application of any defendant it appears that such joinder may embarrass or delay the trial, the judge may order separate trials, or make such other order as may be expedient. And judgment may be given for such one or more of the plaintiffs as may be found to be entitled to relief, for such relief as he or they may be entitled to, without any amendment. But the defendant, though unsuccessful, shall be entitled to any extra costs occasioned by so joining any person who is not found entitled to relief, unless the court in disposing of the costs of the action otherwise directs.

This rule was passed in consequence of the decision in Carter v. Rigby & Co. (C. A.), (1896) 2 Q. B. 113; 65 L. J. Q. B. 537.

Transactions between the same persons are not to be confused with the same transactions. Thus where the causes of action do not arise out of the same transactions, a plaintiff cannot join personal claims with claims in a representative character, though against the same defendant (Stroud v. Lawson, (1898) 2 Q. B. 44; 67 L. J. Q. B. 718). The defendant may then set up counterclaims against each plaintiff (M. S. & L. Rail. Co. v. Brooks, (1877) 2 Ex. D. 243 ; 46 L. J. Ex. 244). Misjoinder of a plaintiff will not prevent a defendant from having the benefit of a set-off or counterclaim against him (Order X. r. 8).

O. III. r. 1 Notes.

2. All persons may be joined as defendants against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative. And judgment may be given against such one or more of the defendants as may be found to be liable, according to their respective liabilities, without any amendment.

Persons may be joined as defendants against whom relief claimed jointly, severally, or in the alternative.

3. It shall not be necessary that every defendant shall be interested as to all the relief prayed for, or as to every cause of action included in any proceeding against him ; but the court may make such order as may appear just to prevent any defendant from being embarrassed or put to expense by being required to attend any proceedings in which he may have no interest.

All defendants joined need not be interested in all the relief prayed for.

4. The plaintiff may, at his option, join as parties to the same action all or any of the persons severally, or jointly and severally, liable on any one contract, including parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes.

All or any of the persons liable under any one contract may be joined.

5. Where the plaintiff is in doubt as to the person from whom he is entitled to redress, he may join two or more defendants, to the intent that the question as to which, if any, of the defendants is liable, and to what extent, may be determined as between all parties.

Where plaintiff in doubt from whom he is entitled to redress.

See Honduras Co. v. Tucker, (1877) 2 Ex. D. 301 ; 46 L. J. Ex. 391.

6. Trustees, executors and administrators, may sue and be sued on behalf of or as representing the property or estate of which they are trustees or representatives, without joining any of the persons beneficially interested in the trust or estate, and shall be considered as representing such persons ; but the court may, at any stage of the proceedings, order any of such persons to be made parties to the action, either in addition to or in lieu of the previously existing parties thereto.

Trustees, executors, and others may sue or be sued without joining parties beneficially interested.

This rule shall apply to trustees, executors, and administrators sued in proceedings to enforce a security by foreclosure or otherwise.

In county courts, executors and administrators may sue and be sued in their own names, as if the action were brought by or against them in their own right (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 95 ; but see Order V. r. 6). Trustees, executors, or administrators so suing will, it is conceived, let in a set-off or counterclaim, available against them in their private capacity. At law, the rule as to joinder was that all the executors named in the will should be joined as plaintiffs, though one only had proved (1 Wms. Saund. 291, k, l), except in case of renunciation (20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 79); but the rule in equity was much more elastic (see Williams on Executors, 1904, 9th edit.). Assuming that the provisions of the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 97, extend to actions against executors, the plaintiff will only require to select as defendant an executor who has administered; if not, all who have administered should be joined (Bul. & L. 18, note b; Dicey on Parties, 322).

O. III. r. 6 Notes.

Where parties numerous, one or more may sue or be sued or defend for the benefit of all.

7. Where there are numerous persons having the same interest in one action or matter, one or more of such persons may sue or be sued, or may be authorized by the court, before or at the trial, to defend in such action or matter, on behalf or for the benefit of all parties so interested.

The provisions of this rule and of Rule 8 apply to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, and Rules, whether by way of arbitration or not (Workmen's Compensation Rules, rr. 7, 78A).

This rule does not authorise an action for debt against selected members of an unincorporated religious society on their own behalf and on behalf of all other members of the society, and asking that the defendants be directed to defend the action on behalf of, or for the benefit of all persons so interested, where the plaintiff does not by writ claim any declaration of right as between himself and all the members of the Society (Walker v. Suer and Others, (1914) 2 K. B. 930; 83 L. J. K. B. 1188, Comp.; Taff Vale Rail. Co. v. Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, (1901) A. C. 426; 70 L. J. K. B. 905; and Bedford (Duke) v. Ellis, (1901) A. C. 8; 70 L. J. Ch. 102. Quære, whether this rule applies at all to an action of tort. See Mercantile Marine Service Association v. Toms, (1916) 2 K. B. 243; 85 L. J. K. B. 311. Decided on Order XVI. r. 9, of Rules of Supreme Court, substantially identical in terms.

Where defendant desires to defend on behalf of others.

Form 98.

Form 97.

8. When a defendant desires to defend on behalf or for the benefit of others having the same interest, he shall within two clear days of the date of service of the summons on him give notice to the plaintiff of his intention to apply, upon a day and hour to be named in such notice, to the court for leave so to defend, and shall file an affidavit of the facts upon which he relies to obtain such leave, together with the names, addresses, and occupations of such persons; and the court may thereupon make an order for the defendant so to defend, and the names of the persons as to whom such order is made shall be added to that of the defendant in the plaint and minute-book; and a copy of such order, with a copy of the summons and particulars in the action, and a notice according to the form in the Appendix, shall be personally served on each of such persons, and notice shall be sent to the plaintiff according to the form in the Appendix: Provided that the plaintiff or any of the persons whose names have been so added may at the trial object to the defendant defending on behalf of all or any of the persons as to whom such order has been made, and the judge may thereupon, if he thinks fit, strike the names of all or any of such persons out of the proceedings, and order the defendant to pay such costs as he may think fit.

O. III. r. 9.

Power to approve compromise in absence of some of the persons interested.

9. Where in proceedings concerning a trust a compromise is proposed, and some of the persons interested in the compromise are not parties to the proceedings, but there are other persons in the same interest before the court and assenting to the compromise, the judge, if satisfied that the compromise will be for the benefit of the absent persons, and that to require service on such persons would cause unreasonable expense or delay, may approve the compromise and order that the same shall be binding on the absent persons, and they shall be bound accordingly, except where the order has been obtained by fraud or non-disclosure of material facts.

Persons under Disability.

Infants.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 96.

10. Infants may sue as plaintiffs by their next friends, and may defend by their guardians appointed for that purpose; but nothing herein contained shall affect the right of any infant to sue as if he were of full age in the cases enumerated in section ninety-six of the Act.

An infant when suing for any sum not exceeding 100*l.* for wages or piece-work, or for work done as a servant, may prosecute such action in the same manner as if he were of full age (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 96; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). As to procedure generally see Order V. r. 16.

Next Friend.]—A married woman cannot, during coverture, act as next friend (Thynne v. St. Maur, (1887) 34 Ch. D. 465; 56 L. J. Ch. 733).

Married women.

45 & 46 Vict. c. 75.

11. Married women may sue and be sued as provided by the Married Women's Property Act, 1882.

By 45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, s. 1 (2): "A married woman shall be capable of entering into and rendering herself liable in respect of and to the extent of her separate property on any contract, and of suing and being sued either in contract, or in tort, or otherwise, in all respects as if she were a feme sole, and her husband need not be joined with her as plaintiff or defendant, or be made a party to any action or other legal proceeding brought by or taken against her; and any damages or costs recovered by her in any such action or proceeding shall be her separate property; and any damages or costs recovered against her in any such action or proceeding shall be payable out of her separate property, and not otherwise."

By sect. 12: "Every woman, whether married before or after this Act, shall have in her own name against all persons whomsoever, including her husband, the same civil remedies, for the protection and security of her own separate property, as if such property belonged to her as a feme sole, but except as aforesaid no husband or wife shall be entitled to sue the other for a tort."

Effect of Act.]—The effect of the Act is to render a wife's property, as described in the Act, her separate property for all purposes. She may sue alone for damage to it (Weldon v. De Bathe (C. A.), (1884) 14 Q. B. D. 339; 54 L. J. Q. B. 113); or for libel, affecting any separate trade carried on by her (see Moore v. Robinson, (1878) 48 L. J. Q. B. 156; Ramsden v. Brearley, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 147; 44 L. J. Q. B. 46). She may also sue alone for damages for personal injuries, even though the cause of action arise, and the marriage take place before the Act; damages so recovered will be her separate property (Weldon v. Winslow (C. A.), (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 784; 53 L. J. Q. B. 528). She cannot sue her husband for damages for fraud, though she may claim rescission of a deed entered into with him, which she has improperly been induced to sign (Hulton v. Hulton, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 51; on appeal (1917) 1 K. B. 813; 86 L. J. K. B. 633. She may sue her husband in detinue (Larner v. Larner, (1905) 2 K. B. 539; 4 L. J. K. B. 797).

Liability of Property subject to Restraint.]—Property which at the time of the making of a contract or thereafter a married woman is restrained from anticipating cannot be made available to satisfy any liability arising from such contract (56 & 57 Vict. c. 63, s. 1; Barnett v. Howard, (1900) 2 Q. B. 784; 69 L. J. Q. B. 955; Brown v. Dimbleby (C. A.), (1904) 1 K. B. 28; 73 L. J. K. B. 35), and the restraint on anticipation applies even to arrears which accrue due after the date of the judgment (Bolitho & Co. v. Gidley, (1905) A. C. 98; 74 L. J. K. B. 430; approving Whiteley v. Edwardes, (1896) 2 Q. B. 48; 65 L. J. Q. B. 457). But property subject to a restraint on anticipation may be made liable for the costs of the opposite party in any "proceeding instituted" by a married woman or her next friend; and this liability may be enforced by the appointment of a receiver and sale of the property or otherwise, as may be just (56 & 57 Vict. c. 63, s. 2; Order XXIII. r. 3); a counterclaim is such a proceeding instituted (Hood-Barrs v. Cathcart, (1895) 1 Q. B. 873; 64 L. J. Q. B. 520); and so is a written notice of claim to goods taken in execution (Nunn v. Tyson, (1901) 2 K. B. 487; 70 L. J. K. B. 854). An appeal from a judgment in an action against a married woman is not a proceeding instituted by her (Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, (1897) A. C. 177; 66 L. J. Q. B. 356); but an appeal by a married woman plaintiff is an appeal in an action commenced or instituted by her, and in that case costs are payable out of her separate estate subject to a restraint on anticipation (Dresel v. Ellis, (1905) 1 K. B. 574; 74 L. J. K. B. 401).

Judgment for costs against Married Woman Plaintiff.]—Where judgment is given, or an order made, for costs against a married woman in an action or proceeding instituted by her the judgment or order will be according to the form applicable in the circumstances of the case to a judgment against a married woman defendant; and, unless the judge otherwise orders, the judgment or order will reserve to the opposite party liberty to apply for payment of the costs out of her property subject to a restraint on anticipation (Order XXIII. r. 3, and see 56 & 57 Vict. c. 63, s. 2).

Liability on Contracts.]—Every contract entered into by a married woman otherwise than as agent, since December 5th, 1893, will be deemed to be entered into with reference to her separate property, whether or not possessed of or entitled to any separate estate when she makes the contract; such contract binds all separate property which she may then or thereafter be possessed of or entitled to; and is enforceable against all property which she may thereafter while discovert be possessed of or entitled to (56 & 57 Vict. c. 63, s. 1). She may be sued alone upon such contracts (Robinson v. Lynes, (1894) 2 Q. B. 577; 63 L. J. Q. B. 759; Bursill v. Tanner, (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 691); she may be sued by her husband to recover out of her separate estate money lent to her after marriage (Butler v. Butler (C. A.), (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 374; 55 L. J. Q. B. 55).

Liability to Bankruptcy Proceedings.]—A married woman who carries on a trade or business, whether separately from her husband or not, may be made bankrupt. See Bankruptcy and Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1913, now Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 125), ante, p. 280.

Liability for Contracts, etc., before Marriage.]—A married woman is liable, to the extent of her separate property (but not liable to be made bankrupt (In re A Debtor, (1898) 2 Q. B. 576; 67 L. J. Q. B. 820, but see supra, "Liability to bankruptcy proceedings")), for debts contracted, contracts entered into, and wrongs committed before the then existing (Jay v. Robinson (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 467; 59 L. J. Q. B. 367) marriage (see Axford v. Reid (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 548; 58 L. J. Q. B. 230); and her husband is secondarily liable, but only to the extent of property acquired from or through his wife (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, ss. 13, 14). She may now be made a bankrupt if she carries on a trade whether separately from her husband or not (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, s. 125, supra), although her husband manages it on her behalf (In re Simon, (1909) 1 K. B. 201; 78 L. J. K. B. 392). Husband and wife may be sued together or separately for the wife's antenuptial debts, though the husband is only liable to the extent of property acquired from or through her (Williams v. Mercier (C. A.), (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 337; 51 L. J. Q. B. 594; Beck v. Pierce (C. A.), (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 16; 58 L. J. Q. B. 516). If sued together, the husband will be entitled to his costs if found not liable (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, s. 15). Even if an action has been brought against the wife, and judgment recovered, the husband may still be sued if the wife's separate estate is insufficient to satisfy the judgment, if he admits that he received assets with his wife (Beck v. Pierce, supra). But it has been held in the High Court that where husband and wife are sued as alternatively liable and judgment under Order XIV. is signed against the wife, this amounts to a conclusive election to rely on the liability of the wife, and the plaintiff cannot afterwards insist on the liability of the husband (Morel v. E. of Westmorland (H. L.), (1904) A. C. 11; 73 L. J. K. B. 93; and see French v. Howie, (1905) 2 K. B. 580; 74 L. J. K. B. 853; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 674; 75 L. J. K. B. 980; Paquin v. Beauclerk (H. L.), (1906) A. C. 148; 75 L. J. K. B. 395). A judgment against the wife must always be as to her separate property and not personal (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, s. 15; see Form of Judgment, Form 151A). If the judgment is in respect of an antenuptial debt, it cannot be enforced by way of equitable execution against her separate property subject to a restraint against anticipation, unless the restraint is contained in a settlement made by herself of her own property (Birmingham Excelsior Money Society v. Lane, (1904) 1 K. B. 35; 73 L. J. K. B. 28). In any action in which the husband is sought to be made liable, an inquiry may be directed to ascertain the nature, amount, or value of property acquired by him from or through his wife (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, s. 14).

Executrix or Trustee.]—By sect. 18 a married woman who is sole or joint executrix or administratrix, or trustee, may sue or be sued without her husband, as if she were a feme sole.

When can sue alone apart from Act.]—Irrespective of the Married Women's Property Acts, a married woman can sue alone only where the husband is civilly dead, or legally presumed to be dead, and where she has a judicial separation or protection order (Dicey on Parties, 171; Daniell, Chan. Prac., 6th edit., pp. 119—135; Order V. r. 17). Where she enters a plaint without joining her husband, she must state his name, and, as far as she can, his address and description (Order V. r. 17).

When can be sued alone apart from Act.]—Irrespective of these Acts, a married woman can be sued alone only where her husband is civilly dead, or legally presumed to be dead, or where she has a judicial separation or protection order, and perhaps in some minor cases (Daniell, Chan. Prac., 6th edit., p. 185; Dicey on Parties, p. 296).

When Husband to be joined as Defendant.]—A husband is not a necessary co-defendant in actions for wrongs independent of contract committed by the wife after marriage, but the plaintiff may join both if he pleases (Seroka v. Kattenburg, (1886) 17 Q. B. D. 177; 55 L. J. Q. B. 375; Earle v. Kingscote, (1900) 2 Ch. 585; 69 L. J. Ch. 725); if he does, the husband cannot pay into court and the wife deny liability (Beaumont v. Kaye, (1904) 1 K. B. 292; 73 L. J. K. B. 213). He is liable for torts committed by his wife during marriage, but not for such torts as arise out of a contract made with the wife (Cole v. De Trafford, (1917) 1 K. B. 911; 86 L. J. K. B. 764), or where she has obtained a judicial separation in the course of the action, but before judgment (Cuenod v. Leslie, (1909) 1 K. B. 880; 78 L. J. K. B. 695). He is a necessary defendant in actions to charge his wife's separate estate, where she has a settlement (see 45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, s. 19; and see Roberts v. Evans, (1878) 7 Ch. D. 830; 47 L. J. Ch. 469), or where her property is made separate otherwise than by the Married Women's Property Acts. Where she has a settlement the trustees should be made defendants also (Atwood v. Chichester (C. A.), (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 722; 47 L. J. Q. B. 300).

Before the Act of 1882, the High Court, under a similar rule, held that a married woman who had no visible means ought not to be allowed to sue alone without giving security; otherwise, if she had separate property available for costs (Brown v. North (C. A.), (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 52; 51 L. J. Q. B. 365).

Where the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, applies, a married woman may sue alone without leave, and without giving security (Threlfall v. Wilson, (1883) 8 P. D. 18; Jacob v. Isaac (C. A.), (1885) 30 Ch. D. 418; 54 L. J. Ch. 1136); in other cases the question of security depends on whether the wife has or has not separate estate available for costs (see as to plaintiffs, Martano v. Mann (C. A.), (1880) 14 Ch. D. 419; 49 L. J. Ch. 510; Kingsman v. Kingsman (C. A.), (1880) 6 Q. B. D. 122; 50 L. J. Q. B. 81; Brown v. North, supra; as to defendants, Noel v. Noel, (1880) 13 Ch. D. 510).

The application for leave may be ex parte or on notice (Order XII. r. 11). Should the action be commenced without leave, an application for security should be made promptly ex parte or on notice in accordance with Order XII. r. 11.

If an order be made, the married woman cannot escape it by discontinuing and then bringing an action by a next friend (In re Payne, (1883) 23 Ch. D. 288; 52 L. J. Ch. 544).

As to the joinder of claims by husband and wife, see Order IV. r. 4.

As to entry of the plaint, Order V. r. 17.

Form of Judgment.]—The form of judgment against a married woman, as well as against a widow or divorced woman, in respect of a contract or tort before or during coverture, is given by Order XXIII. r. 2, and is to be according to Form 151, with the addition of such one of the paragraphs in Form 151A as is applicable to the circumstances of the case.

If a woman during coverture, whose estate is subject to restraint against anticipation, incurs a liability, and is sued after her husband's death, the judgment will be in the form of Scott v. Morley (Softlaw v. Welch, (1899) 2 Q. B. 419; 68 L. J. Q. B. 940).

Enforcing Judgment for Costs.]—As to enforcing judgment for costs when, being sued alone, she obtains judgment on the ground of coverture, see Order XXV. r. 4.

Where a married woman is liable for costs, to be paid out of her separate estate, the court has jurisdiction by injunction or by the appointment of a receiver to protect the fund out of which the costs are payable (Cummins v. Perkins, (1899) 1 Ch. 16; 68 L. J. Q. B. 57); the onus is upon her to show why a receiver should not be appointed (Pawley v. Pawley, (1905) 1 Ch. 93; 74 L. J. Ch. 344). The appointment of a receiver is not necessary when a married woman, who is an unsuccessful plaintiff, is ordered, under sect. 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, to pay costs out of property settled to her separate use without power of anticipation (Huntley (Marchioness of) v. Gaskell, (1905) 2 Ch. 656; 75 L. J. Ch. 66).

If the object of an order made against a married woman is to secure a fund or to compel payment into court of money belonging to the estate in her hands, the order should be in the common form and may be enforced by attachment; semble, if to make good her devastavit the order should be as in Scott v. Morley (In re Turnbull, (1900) 1 Ch. 180; 69 L. J. Ch. 187). A married woman against whom judgment has been obtained in respect of her separate estate may have an order made against her under Order XXV. r. 71 (1) for attendance and oral examination as to debts owing to her and for production of books and documents (Order XXV. r. 71 (4)).

A husband cannot sue his wife in tort (see sect. 12 of Married Women's Property Act, 1882), and, consequently, a husband cannot obtain an injunction against his wife to restrain her from pledging his credit, as such an unauthorised act is a tort (Webster v. Webster, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 691).

Lunatics and persons of unsound mind.

12. In cases in which before the first day of November, 1875, lunatics or persons of unsound mind not so found by inquisition might respectively have sued as plaintiffs or would have been liable to be sued as defendants in any action, they may respectively sue as plaintiffs in any action by their committees or next friends according to the practice of the Chancery Division of the High Court, and may in like manner defend any action by their committees or guardians appointed for that purpose.

Lunatics and other Insane Persons.]—In all cases in which lunatics and persons of unsound mind not so found by inquisition might respectively before November 1st, 1875, have sued as plaintiffs or would have been liable to be sued as defendants in any action, they may respectively sue as plaintiffs in any action by their committee or next friend according to the practice of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice; when suing by a next friend the provisions of Order V. r. 16 as to an infant suing by a next friend apply (Order V. r. 18); and they may in like manner defend any action by their committees or guardians appointed, as presently mentioned, for that purpose (Order III. r. 12).

When necessaries suitable to his condition are provided for a lunatic, under circumstances which negative the idea that they were provided gratuitously, there is an implied obligation on the part of the lunatic to pay for them (Re Rhodes (C. A.), (1890) 44 Ch. D. 94; 59 L. J. Ch. 298).

The rule as to the consent of infants (Order III. r. 13) applies also to actions in which persons of unsound mind, whether so found by inquisition or not, are parties; but no consent by the committee of a lunatic will be valid as between him and the lunatic without the consent of the Lord Chancellor or lords justices sitting in lunacy.

As to service of notice of a judgment or order on a lunatic not so found by inquisition, see Order III. r. 29; and as to service of summons generally, see Order VII. r. 14.

As to payment into court and investment of moneys awarded to or recovered by persons of unsound mind, see Order IX. rr. 24, 25.

Appointment of Guardians ad litem to Defendants who are Infants or Persons of unsound mind.—When fact of Infancy, etc., appears on Proceedings.]—Where on the face of the proceedings it appears that any defendant is an infant or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, at any time after service of the summons, and not less than six clear days before the return day (twelve clear days before that day in cases under the Act of 1903), the registrar, on application made on behalf of the infant or person of unsound mind on an affidavit (Form 50) accompanied by a written consent of the proposed guardian to act as such (Form 51), may appoint a guardian ad litem (Order VII. r. 50 (1); Order XXIIA. r. 7); where such appointment is made, the registrar must forthwith send notice of the appointment to the plaintiff (Order VII. r. 50 (2); Form 52). Where no application for the appointment of a guardian ad litem is made on behalf of the infant or person of unsound mind within the time before mentioned, the registrar must on the sixth day (the twelfth day in cases under the Act of 1903) before the return day send notice by post to the plaintiff or his solicitor that no such application has been made (Order VII. r. 50 (3); Order XXIIA. r. 7; Form 53). The plaintiff is thereupon, before taking further proceedings, to apply to the judge for an order that some proper person be assigned as guardian ad litem, by whom the defendant may appear and defend, and for a postponement of the trial if necessary (Order VII. r. 50 (4)). Such application (Form 54) is to be made on affidavit (Form 55), and notice thereof, together with a copy of such affidavit, must, three clear days at least before the day named for hearing the same, be served upon or left at the dwelling-house of the person with whom or under whose care such defendant was when the summons was served, and must also (in the case of an infant not residing with or under the care of his father or guardian) be served upon or left at the dwelling-house of the father or guardian of such infant, provided that the registrar may, on the application of the plaintiff, dispense with such last-mentioned service (Order VII. r. 50 (5)). The judge, if satisfied with the proposed guardian, may make the appointment (Form 56), but if not, may appoint any other person willing to act, or in default of such person, the registrar; and the action or matter proceeds as if a guardian had been appointed on behalf of the defendant. If necessary, the judge on the hearing of the application may postpone the trial (Order VII. r. 50 (6)). In the case of an infant sued for a debt or liquidated demand, pars. 4, 5, and 6 of Order VII. r. 50 do not apply, nor is the notice required by par. 3 to be sent unless directed by the judge or registrar (Order VII. r. 50 (7)).

When the fact of Infancy, etc., does not appear on Proceedings.]—Where it does not appear on the face of the proceedings that the defendant is an infant or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, when on such defendant appearing at the trial it is apparent that he is an infant, and he names a guardian who assents to act, such person is to be appointed guardian accordingly; but if the defendant does not name a guardian, the judge may appoint as guardian anyone in court willing to act, or in default of any such person he may appoint the registrar, and the action or matter proceeds as if the infant had named a guardian, and the name of the guardian appointed is to be entered accordingly (Order VII. r. 51 (1); Forms 57, 58). In any other case, on its being made to appear that any defendant is an infant or a person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, the action or matter is not to proceed against such defendant until a guardian ad litem has been appointed (Order VII. r. 51 (2)). Such appointment may be made any time within six days of its being made to appear that such defendant is an infant or person of unsound mind on application made on behalf of such defendant, in accordance with Order VII. r. 50 (1), (2), and after six days in accordance with (3), (4), (5) and (6) of the same rule as already explained in the last paragraph. The provisions of par. 7 of Order VII. r. 50 apply to cases falling within this rule (Order VII. r. 51 (3)).

Entry of appointment of Guardian.]—Where a guardian has been so appointed such appointment must be entered on the summons, in the minute book, and on all subsequent proceedings (Order VII. r. 52).

Liability of Guardian for Costs.]—A guardian ad litem to an infant or person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, is not personally liable to any costs not occasioned by his personal negligence or misconduct (Order VII. r. 53).

Power to set aside Judgment where no Guardian appointed.]—Where judgment has been obtained or an order made against an infant defendant or a person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, without a guardian ad litem having been appointed, the judge may set aside such judgment or order, and order a new trial or make such other order as may be just (Order VII. r. 54). O. III. r. 12. Notes.

The provisions of Order VII. rr. 50—54 include petitions (Order VII. r. 55). During the proceedings under a judgment or order the judge may at any time require the appointment of a guardian ad litem for an infant or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, who has been served with notice of the judgment or order (Order VII. r. 56).

13. In any action or matter to which any infant or person of unsound mind, whether so found by inquisition or not, or person under any other disability, is a party, any consent as to the mode of taking evidence or as to any other procedure given by the next friend, guardian, committee, or other person acting on behalf of the person under disability shall, with the consent of the court, have the same force and effect as if such party were under no disability and had given such consent. Provided that no such consent by any committee of a lunatic shall be valid as between him and the lunatic unless given with the sanction of the Lord Chancellor or lords justices sitting in lunacy. Persons under disability, how consents for can be given.

Agreement not to Appeal.]—A next friend cannot bind an infant by an agreement not to appeal (Rhodes v. Swithenbank (C. A.), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 577; 58 L. J. Q. B. 287).

Partners.

14. (1) Any two or more persons claiming or being liable as co-partners, and carrying on business within England and Wales, may sue or may be sued in the names of the respective firms, if any, in which such persons were co-partners at the time of the accruing of the cause of action. Co-partners may sue and be sued in the name of their firm.

(2) Where the plaintiffs sue or the defendants are sued in the name of their firm in accordance with this rule, the affidavit (if any) required before the entry of the plaint, and the præcipe, summons, and all subsequent proceedings, shall state that the plaintiffs are suing or the defendants are sued as a firm.

(3) In any such case, on application by any party to the action, the court may order a statement of the names and places of residence of the persons who were at the time of the accruing of the cause of action co-partners in any such firm to be furnished in such manner, and verified on oath or otherwise, as the court may direct.

15. Where an action is brought by partners in the name of their firm, the plaintiffs shall, on demand made in writing by or on behalf of any defendant, forthwith send by post to the defendant so applying and to the registrar the names and places of residence of all the persons constituting the firm on whose behalf the action is brought. And if the plaintiffs shall fail to comply with such demand, all proceedings in the action may, upon an application for that purpose, be stayed upon such terms as the judge may Application for names of firm in action by firm.

O. III. r. 15.

direct, or the judge at the trial may adjourn the hearing on such terms as he may think fit. And when the names of the partners are so declared, the action shall proceed in the same manner, and the same consequences in all respects shall follow as if they had been named as the plaintiffs in the summons. But all the proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm.

Where co-partners sue or are sued otherwise than in the name of their firm.

15A. (1) Where an action is brought by or against any two or more named persons claiming or being liable as co-partners, and carrying on business in England or Wales, such action shall not be deemed to be an action in the name of the firm within the meaning of these Rules unless the plaintiffs sue or the defendants are sued in the name of their firm, and are stated to be suing or to be sued as a firm, but shall be deemed to be an action by or against the individuals named as plaintiffs or defendants; and service shall be effected, judgment entered, and execution issued accordingly.

Application of rules to actions between firm and any of its members.

16. The provisions of these rules as to actions by or against firms shall apply to actions between a firm and one or more of its members, and to actions between firms having one or more members in common, provided such firm or firms carry on business within England or Wales; but no execution shall be issued in any such action without leave of the judge, and on an application for leave to issue such execution all such accounts and inquiries may be directed to be taken and made, and directions given, as may be just.

Where one person carries on business in name other than his own.

17. Any person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own name may be sued in such name or style as if it were a firm name; and so far as the nature of the case will permit, all the provisions of these rules relating to proceedings against firms shall apply.

When partners are sued under the above provisions, the judgment can only be entered in the name of the firm (Jackson v. Litchfield (C. A.), (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 474; 51 L. J. Q. B. 327). When so entered, an action apparently still lies against the individual partners on the judgment (Clark v. Cullen, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 355), or the judgment creditor may apply for leave to issue execution pursuant to Order XXV. r. 11 (see Davis v. Morris, (1883) 10 Q. B. D. 436; 52 L. J. Q. B. 401; Munster v. Railton (C. A.), (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 435; 52 L. J. Q. B. 409; see further Annual Practice, notes to Order XLVIIIA. R. S. C.).

Under sect. 97 of the Act as already shown the plaintiff may sue one or more partners in their own names for a joint debt, and is not obliged to join all.

As to service on firms, see Order VII. r. 15. As to execution, Order XXV. r. 11; judgment summons, Order XXV. r. 27; and as to charging orders on partnership property for the separate debt of a partner, Order XXV. rr. 12, 13.

17A. To facilitate the issue of process in the proper form against persons carrying on business as co-partners, or against a person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own name, a notice according to the form in the Appendix shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the office of the registrar. O. III. r. 17a. Notice to be posted in office as to issue of process against partners, &c. Form 7A.

Administration and Execution of Trusts.

18. In any case in which the rights of an heir-at-law or customary heir or the next of kin or a class depend upon the construction which the judge may put upon an instrument, and it is not known or is difficult to ascertain who is or are such heir-at-law or customary heir or next of kin or class, and the judge considers that in order to save expense or for some other reason it will be convenient to have the questions of construction determined before such heir-at-law, customary heir, next of kin, or class have been ascertained by means of inquiry or otherwise, the judge may appoint some one or more proper person or persons appearing to him on such evidence as he thinks sufficient to have a presumptive or primâ facie claim to be regarded as heir-at-law, customary heir, or one of the next of kin or other class in question, to represent such heir-at-law, customary heir, next of kin, or class ; and the judgment or order of the judge in the presence of such person or persons shall be binding upon the heir-at-law, customary heir, next of kin, or class so represented. Heir-at-law, next of kin, or a class, when unknown, how represented.

19. In any case in which an heir-at-law or customary heir or any next of kin or a class is or are interested in any proceedings, the judge may, if, having regard to the nature and extent of the interest of such persons or any of them, it appears expedient on account of the difficulty of ascertaining such persons, or in order to save expense, appoint one or more person or persons to represent such heir, or to represent all or any of such next of kin or class ; and the judgment or order of the judge in the presence of the person or persons so appointed shall be binding upon the persons so represented. (R. S. C. Ord. XVI. r. 32 (6).) Power to appoint person to represent absent parties.

20. Any residuary legatee or next of kin entitled to a judgment or order for the administration of the personal estate of a deceased person, may have the same without serving the remaining residuary legatees or next of kin. When residuary legatees or next of kin need not be served.

21. Any legatee interested in a legacy charged upon real estate, and any person interested in the proceeds of real estate directed to be sold, who may be entitled to a judgment or order for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, may have the same without serving any other legatee or person interested in the proceeds of the estate. Legatee entitled to judgment need not serve other legatees.

O. III. r. 22.

Co-residuary need not be served.

22. Any residuary devisee or heir entitled to the like judgment or order may have the same without serving any co-residuary devisee or co-heir.

Other cestuis que trust need not be served.

23. Any one of several cestuis que trust under any deed or instrument entitled to a judgment or order for the execution of the trusts of the deed or instrument, may have the same without serving any other cestui que trust.

Waste or protection of property.

24. In all cases of actions for the prevention of waste or otherwise for the protection of property, one person may sue on behalf of himself and all persons having the same interest. (R. S. C., Ord. XVI. r. 37.)

Judgment for administration by executor against one legatee, etc.

25. Any executor, administrator, or trustee entitled thereto may have a judgment or order against any one legatee, next of kin, or cestui que trust for the administration of the estate or the execution of the trusts.

See Re Peppitt, (1877) 4 Ch. D. 230; 46 L. J. Ch. 95.

Judge may order parties to be added, and give directions as to conduct of action.

26. The judge may require any person to be made a party to any action or matter, and may give the conduct of the action or matter to such person as he may think fit, and may make such order in any particular case as he may think just for placing the defendant on the record on the same footing in regard to costs as other parties having a common interest with him in the matters in question.

Notice of judgment when to be served. [Rule 24.]

27. Wherever, in any action for the administration of the estate of a deceased person or the execution of the trusts of any deed or instrument, or for the partition or sale of any hereditaments, a judgment or an order has been pronounced or made, the judge may direct that any persons interested in the estate or under the trust or in the hereditaments shall be served with notice of the judgment or order; and after such notice such persons shall be bound by the proceedings in the same manner as if they had originally been made parties, and shall be at liberty to attend the proceedings under the judgment or order. Any person so served may at the next sitting of the court after such service, or by leave of the judge at any subsequent sitting, apply to the judge to discharge, vary, or add to the judgment or order.

Preparation of notice.

Form 317.

28. Where the judge directs that any person shall be served with the notice mentioned in the last preceding rule, the notice shall be prepared by the registrar, who shall annex thereto a copy of the judgment or order, and issue the same to the bailiff for service, and shall also make and deliver to the bailiff a copy of the notice.

O. III. r. 29.

Service of notice.

29. Notice of a judgment or order under the two last preceding rules shall, whether the person to be served is or is not an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, be served in the same manner as a summons in an action is required to be served on such person; and the bailiff shall make an indorsement on the copy of the notice delivered to him, showing the fact, mode, and place of service, in the same manner as on the service of a summons in an action.

Where service of notice of judgment or order may be dispensed with.

30. Where it appears to the judge that by reason of absence or for any other sufficient cause the service of the notice of the judgment or order mentioned in the last preceding rules upon any person cannot be made or ought to be dispensed with, the judge may, if he thinks fit, wholly dispense with such service, or may at his discretion order any substituted service or notice by advertisement or otherwise in lieu of such notice. (R. S. C., Ord. LV. r. 35.)

Power to bind persons service on whom is dispensed with.

31. Where service of notice of a judgment or order for accounts and inquiries is dispensed with, the judge may, if he thinks fit, order that the persons as to whom service is dispensed with shall be bound as if served, and they shall be bound accordingly, except where the judgment or order has been obtained by fraud or non-disclosure of material facts. (R. S. C., Ord. LV. r. 35A.)

The court has complete discretion over the costs in these as in other actions (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 113; Plumb v. Craker, (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 40; 55 L. J. Q. B. 116).

When heir-at-law need not be a party.

32. In any action or matter to execute the trusts of a will, it shall not be necessary to make the heir-at-law a party.

Where no legal representative.

33. If in any action or matter it appears to the judge that any deceased person who was interested in the matter in question has no legal personal representative, the judge may proceed in the absence of any person representing the estate of the deceased person, or may appoint some proper person to represent his estate for all the purposes of the action or matter, on such notice to such persons, if any, as the judge may think fit, either specially or generally by public advertisement; and the order so made, and any order consequent thereon, shall bind the estate of the deceased person in the same manner in every respect as if a duly constituted legal personal representative of the deceased had been a party to the action or matter.

Except by leave, only executor or administrator to appear

34. In any action or matter for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no party other than the executor or administrator shall, unless by leave of the court, be entitled to appear either in court or in chambers on the claim of any person not a party to the action or matter against the estate of the deceased person in respect of any debt or liability. The court may direct or give liberty to any other party to the action or matter to appear, either in addition to or in the place of the executor or administrator, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as the court may think fit.

O. III. r. 34. on claim of person not a party.

ORDER IV.

Joinder of Causes of Action.

What claims may be joined with action of ejectment.

1. No cause of action shall, unless by leave of the court, be joined with an action of ejectment, except claims in respect of mesne profits or arrears of rent or double value in respect of the premises claimed or any part thereof, or damages for breach of any contract under which the same or any part thereof are held, or for any wrong or injury to the premises claimed.

Joinder of claim for possession in action for foreclosure or redemption.

Provided that nothing in this order contained shall prevent any plaintiff in an action for foreclosure or redemption from asking for or obtaining an order against the defendant for delivery of the possession of the mortgaged property to the plaintiff on or after the order absolute for foreclosure or redemption, as the case may be, and such an action for foreclosure or redemption and for such delivery of possession shall not be deemed an action of ejectment within the meaning of these rules.

Provided also, that in case any mortgage security shall be foreclosed by reason of the default to redeem by any plaintiff in a redemption action, the defendant in whose favour such foreclosure has taken place may apply to the judge for an order for delivery to him of possession of the mortgaged property, and such order may be made thereupon as the justice of the case may require. (R. S. C., Ord. XVIII. r. 1.)

As to joinder of claims by trustee in bankruptcy.

2. Claims by a trustee in bankruptcy as such shall not, unless by leave of the court, be joined with any claim by him in any other capacity.

Joinder of causes of action generally.

3. Subject to the two preceding rules a plaintiff may unite in the same action several causes of action without leave of the court.

Claims by or against husband and wife.

4. Claims by or against husband and wife may be joined with claims by or against either of them separately.

By Married Woman.]—Where a married woman enters a plaint in an action to which her husband is not a party, she must state the name, and, so far as she can, the address and description of her husband (Order V. r. 17).

In an action for damages for personal injuries to a wife, her husband may join a separate claim in his own right for consequential damage to himself.

O. IV. r. 5.

5. Claims by or against an executor or administrator as such may be joined with claims by or against him personally, provided the last-mentioned claims are alleged to arise with reference to the estate in respect of which the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued as executor or administrator. Claims by or against executor or administrator.

It was held in the High Court that a plaintiff cannot under a rule in the same words join a purely personal claim with a claim as executor, and if he does so he will not be assisted by rule 5 of this order (Tredegar (Lord) v. Roberts and Another, (1914) 1 K. B. 283; 83 L. J. K. B. 159).

A plaintiff who is administrator, although shown to be insolvent, will not be ordered to give security for the defendant's costs of the action (Rainbow v. Kittoe, (1916) 1 Ch. 313).

6. Claims by plaintiffs jointly may be joined with claims by them or any of them separately against the same defendant. Joint and separate claims by plaintiffs.

7. If at any time it appears or is made to appear to the judge that any causes of action united or claims joined in any action cannot be conveniently tried and disposed of together, he may order separate trials, or may exclude any such cause of action or claim, and may order the proceedings to be amended accordingly, and may make such order as to costs as may be just. Separate trials may be ordered.

ORDER V.

Commencement of Action.

1. All proceedings authorised to be commenced in a county court by or under the Act shall, except when otherwise provided by the Act or these rules, be commenced by the entry of a plaint, and shall be called actions. Actions to be commenced by plaint.

2. Where the parties, in pursuance of section sixty-four of the Act, agree to try any action in a county court, a plaint shall be entered, and a summons shall be issued thereon as in other cases, and all the rules and practice of the court shall apply in such cases, so far as the same are applicable. The plaintiff on entering the plaint shall file with the registrar the memorandum of consent required by the Act. Trials by agreement under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64. Form 13.

If both plaintiff and defendant in any action assigned to the King's Bench Division of the High Court (i.e., such as might have been brought at common law (see 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 34, and note to that section in Annual Practice)) agree, by a memorandum signed by them or their solicitors (Form 13), that the court shall have power to try any action, the court will have jurisdiction (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 64).

3. Actions brought to recover possession of tenements under the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine of the Act shall be distinguished as actions for the recovery of possession, and actions brought under section fifty-nine of the Act shall be distinguished as actions of ejectment. Where an action of ejectment is brought in a case in which, in the opinion of the judge, an action should have been Actions to recover possession of tenements, and actions of ejectment, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 138, 139, 59.

brought for the recovery of possession, the plaintiff shall not be entitled to any further relief or to any further costs than he would have been entitled to in an action for the recovery of possession.

Nature of Action of Ejectment and Jurisdiction of Court.]—The action of ejectment, before the passing of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, was a mere fiction of law, by means of which the right to the specific recovery of real property was tried in an action carried on between a nominal plaintiff and a nominal defendant (see Cole on Ejectment). By that Act, however, all fiction was abolished and provision was made for a simple writ, so framed as to raise the question at issue in a true and concise form (15 & 16 Vict. c. 76, ss. 168, 169).

Jurisdiction of Court.]—Before the County Courts Act, 1867, the county courts had no jurisdiction in ejectment except by agreement, although a landlord could in certain cases recover possession of a tenement which was wrongfully withheld by his tenant. They have now jurisdiction over all actions of ejectment, where neither the value of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments, nor the rent payable in respect thereof, exceeds the sum of 100*l.* by the year (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 59; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3). The action is now called "an action of ejectment."

Præcipe on entry of plaint.

Forms 6, 7.

4. No plaint shall be entered without the party desiring to enter the same filing at the office of the registrar a præcipe for that purpose.

Such præcipe shall contain—

(a) the full names, occupation or description, and residence or place of business of the plaintiff, and, if the plaintiff is an infant required to sue by a next friend, the particulars required by Rule 16 of this Order;

(b) the surname of the defendant, his general occupation or description, and, subject to the provisions of Rule 13 of this Order, his residence or place of business, and (where known) his full names, the name of the street in which his residence or place of business is situate, and the number of the house;

(c) a statement whether the defendant is a male or a female, and, if known, whether of full age or not, and if a female, whether she is married, single, or a widow; provided that if these facts are not known, the plaint may be issued and the summons served without their being stated;

(d) a short statement of the cause of action, or remedy or relief sought, and the amount of the debt or damages claimed.

See Form 6.

Where the intended plaintiff is illiterate and unable to furnish the required information in writing, the præcipe shall be filled up by the registrar's clerk.

If the plaint is entered by a solicitor, he shall state in the præcipe his name and place of business.

O. V. r. 4a.

Where partners sue or partners or person carrying on business, etc., are sued in firm name.

4A. Where co-partners sue or are sued in the name of their firm, or a person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own name is sued in such name or style, pursuant to Ord. III. r. 14 or r. 17, it shall be stated in the præcipe that the plaintiffs are suing or the defendants are sued as a firm.

Præcipe where registered company is defendant. 8 Edw. VII., c. 69, s. 116.

5. Where a company registered under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, is a defendant, the præcipe shall give an address for service, described as "being the registered office of the company."

Capacity in which plaintiff sues or defendant is sued to be stated in præcipe.

6. If the plaintiff sues, or the defendant or any of the defendants is sued, in a representative capacity, it shall be stated in the præcipe and particulars in what capacity the plaintiff sues or the defendant is sued.

Particulars to be stated in præcipe, etc., where assignee sues.

7. Where an assignee of a debt or other legal chose in action sues, the fact that he is such assignee, and the name, address, and description of the assignor, shall be stated in the præcipe and summons, and in the particulars (if any).

Assignee not entitled to issue default summons. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86.

8. An assignee of a debt or other legal chose in action shall not be entitled to issue a default summons under section eighty-six of the Act.

See Reg. v. Pontypool C. C. Judge, (1894) 63 L. J. Q. B. 702.

Default summons. Præcipe to state how service to be made.

9. Where the issue of a default summons is desired, and the plaintiff wishes the same to be served otherwise than by a bailiff, he shall so request in the præcipe required to be filed before the entry of the plaint.

Security for or undertaking as to costs, where plaintiff not resident in England or Wales. Form 16. Form 17.

10. Where it appears, on an application for the entry of a plaint, that the plaintiff does not reside in England or Wales, the summons shall not be issued until security for costs, by deposit of money or otherwise, has been given to the satisfaction of the registrar: Provided that where the plaint is entered through a solicitor, an undertaking by him, according to the form in the Appendix, to be responsible for the costs shall be sufficient. If the plaintiff fails in or discontinues his action or proceeding, and does not pay the amount of costs ordered to be paid by him to the defendant, proceedings may be taken for the recovery of such amount from him or from his solicitor, if he has given the undertaking, as for the recovery of a judgment debt.

When the plaint is entered by a solicitor, it is sufficient if he gives an undertaking to pay the costs of the defendant.

Security by person temporarily

11. A person ordinarily resident out of England and Wales may be ordered to give such security or undertaking as in the preceding rule mentioned, though he may be temporarily resident in England or Wales. (R. S. C., Ord. LXV. r. 6*a*.)

O. V. r. 11.

resident in England.

Entry of plaint by letter.

12.—(1) Where a plaintiff desires to enter a plaint in a court within the district of which he does not reside or carry on business, he or his solicitor (if the solicitor has no office within the district) may, instead of attending at the office of the court, transmit, by prepaid post, to the registrar—

(a) A præcipe containing the information required to be given under Rules 4, 4A, and 5 of this Order;

(b) Where the summons is to be served by a solicitor, the summons and all necessary copies thereof;

(c) Where particulars are required under Ord. VI. r. 1, as many copies of the particulars of demand or cause of action as are required by that rule:

(d) Where an affidavit is required by the Act or these rules before the entry of the plaint, such affidavit, and where a copy of the affidavit is to be annexed to the summons and served therewith, a copy for each defendant to be served:

(e) Where a plaintiff desiring a default summons does not desire the order upon the judgment to be for payment forthwith, the notice and copies required by Rule 19 of this Order:

(f) A money order for the fees payable upon the entry of the plaint, including the fees payable on any affidavit required before the entry of the plaint, payable to the registrar at the post office of the town or place in which the court is held: and—

(g) An envelope addressed to himself, with sufficient postage stamps thereon:

And upon receipt of the above the registrar shall examine the documents transmitted to him, and shall (subject, where leave to enter the plaint is required, to the provisions of these rules as to such leave being granted) enter the plaint, and issue the summons, and forward in the addressed envelope—

(i.) if the summons is to be served by a bailiff, the plaint note; or

(ii.) if the summons is to be served otherwise than by a bailiff, the plaint note, and the summons and all necessary copies thereof, completed and sealed, with the documents annexed thereto respectively which are required to be so annexed under Ord. II. r. 4A.

(2) For the purposes of this rule the several districts of the metropolitan courts shall be considered inter se as one district only.

It follows from the last-mentioned provision that a plaintiff living in one district of the metropolis cannot of right enter a plaint through the post against a defendant living in another district of the metropolis; but it is believed that where so applied for the plaint is generally entered. O. V. r. 12. Notes.

This rule was amended by Rule 12, 1914.

13.—(1) Where leave to enter a plaint under section seventy-four of the Act is required, an application shall be made upon the affidavit of the proposed plaintiff or of some person on his behalf who has knowledge of the facts, setting forth the facts on which the application is grounded, according to such one of the forms in the Appendix as shall be applicable to the case. How leave under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74, may be obtained.

(2) The affidavit on an application for leave to enter a plaint and issue an ordinary summons shall be according to the form 8 (1) in the Appendix. Ordinary summons. Form 8 (1).

(3) The affidavit on an application on behalf of an assignee of a debt for leave to enter a plaint and issue an ordinary summons shall be according to the form 8 (1) in the Appendix, with the addition of a paragraph according to the form 8 (2) in the Appendix, stating the name, address, and description of the person with whom the debt was originally contracted, and that such debt has been absolutely assigned to the proposed plaintiff, and that express notice in writing of such assignment has been given to the debtor. Where proposed plaintiff is an assignee. Forms 8 (1), 8 (2).

(4) The affidavit on an application for leave to enter a plaint and issue a default summons under section eighty-six of the Act shall, where the amount claimed exceeds five pounds, be according to the form 9 in the Appendix, and shall, where such amount does not exceed five pounds, be according to the form 10 in the Appendix. Default summons. Forms 9, 10.

(5) The affidavit shall be lodged with the registrar, together with a copy of the same for each defendant.

(6) The judge or registrar shall duly consider the facts disclosed by the affidavit, and shall exercise his discretion in each case as to the grant or refusal of leave in accordance with the circumstances.

(7) Where the proposed plaintiff is the assignee of a debt, the judge or registrar shall in particular consider whether the proposed place of trial will be less convenient to the proposed defendant than the place at which he might have been sued if the debt had not been assigned, and if he shall be of opinion that it will, he shall refuse leave.

(7A) Where the receipt of an order or a letter within the district is relied on as the cause of action or a part thereof, the receipt of such order or letter shall not be considered a sufficient ground for granting leave unless it appears in the affidavit that such order or letter was Where receipt of order or letter relied on.

O. V. r. 13.

addressed to the proposed plaintiff, and purported to be signed by the proposed defendant, or on his behalf by some member of his household or some person in his employ; and the receipt of a letter from an agent of the proposed plaintiff purporting to transmit an order given to him by or on behalf of the proposed defendant shall not be considered as a sufficient ground for granting leave.

(8) Every order granting leave under this rule shall be signed by the judge or registrar in his own handwriting at the foot of the affidavit.

Where address of proposed defendant not known.

(9) Subject to the provisions of this rule, leave may be granted, and the summons may be issued, although the proposed plaintiff cannot give the present place of residence or of business of the proposed defendant; but in that case the proposed defendant shall be served personally, wherever in England or Wales he may be met with. Service of an ordinary summons in such case may, if so requested in the præcipe, be effected by any person by whom a default summons may be served under Ord. VII. r. 33. Where service is effected otherwise than by a bailiff, an affidavit of service according to the form in the Appendix must be lodged with the registrar seven clear days before the return day.

Form 37.

Where proposed defendant is a domestic servant, labourer, etc.

(10) Where the proposed defendant is a domestic or menial servant, a labourer, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour, leave shall not be granted unless—

(a) it appears by the affidavit that the proposed defendant was residing in the district when the debt or part thereof was contracted, or the cause of action wholly or in part arose; or

(b) it appears by the affidavit that the proposed defendant or some person on his behalf was personally present in the district when the debt or part thereof was contracted, or that the proposed defendant or some person for whose acts or defaults he is alleged to be responsible was personally present in the district when the cause of action wholly or in part arose; or

(c) the judge or registrar is satisfied that the proposed place of trial will not be less convenient to the proposed defendant than the court in which he could be sued without leave;

(d) or it appears by the affidavit that the proposed plaintiff has reason to believe that the proposed defendant admits the claim, and that the proposed plaintiff has not more than 20 and not less than 10 clear days before the filing of the affidavit given or caused to be given to the proposed defendant notice in writing of his intention to apply for leave, and has by such notice required the proposed defendant to state whether he disputes the claim, and that the proposed defendant has either admitted the claim or failed to give notice that he disputes it; O. V. r. 13.

and in such cases the forms of affidavit numbered 8A and 10A in the Appendix shall be used in lieu of the forms numbered 8 (1), 9, and 10, such paragraphs only of the said forms being used as are applicable to the circumstances. Forms 8A, 10A.

(11) Subject to paragraph 9 of this Rule, no leave shall be granted under this Rule unless the occupation or description of the proposed defendant is fully set out in the affidavit filed for the issue of the summons. Occupation of proposed defendant to be stated.

14. The affidavit to be filed for the issue of a default summons under section eighty-six of the Act for service in the district shall, where the amount claimed exceeds five pounds, be according to the form 11 in the Appendix, and shall where such amount does not exceed five pounds, be according to the form 12 in the Appendix; and such affidavit shall contain the particulars as to the name, residence, or place of business, and occupation or description of the proposed defendant required by paragraphs (b) and (c) of Rule 4 of this Order. Affidavit under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86. Default summons in district. Forms 11, 12.

See Forms 9, 10, 11, 12; see Form 20 for plaint note.

15. Where pursuant to the proviso in section eighty-six of the Act, the leave of the judge or registrar is required for the issue of a default summons, no such leave shall be given unless the occupation or description of the proposed defendant is fully set out in the affidavit filed for the issue of the summons; and no such leave shall be given in cases where in the affidavit it appears that the defendant is a domestic or menial servant, a labourer, a servant in husbandry, a journeyman, an artificer, a handicraftsman, a miner, or any person engaged in manual labour. Summons under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86, not to issue in certain cases. Form 12.

As to the meaning of the expression "any person engaged in manual labour," see Part IV., notes to sect. 8 of the Employers' Liability Act, 1880. See Gordon v. Evans (C. A.), (1894) 1 Q. B. 248; 63 L. J. Q. B. 329.

Leave must be obtained in every case where the defendant does not dwell or carry on business within the district in which the plaintiff proposes to enter the plaint (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74). The affidavit, and a copy for each defendant, must be lodged; and the judge or registrar must exercise his discretion as to the grant of leave as in ordinary cases (Reg. v. Turner, (1897) 1 Q. B. 445; 66 L. J. Q. B. 417).

O. V. r. 16.

claimant in an interpleader proceeding, he shall sue by a next friend, and the full names, occupation or description, and residence or place of business of the next friend shall be stated in the præcipe; and such next friend shall, at the time of entering the plaint or delivering the particulars of the goods and chattels alleged to be the property of the infant, either attend at the office of the registrar and give an undertaking, according to the form in the Appendix, to be responsible for costs, or transmit such an undertaking to the registrar: and if such undertaking is not given at the office of the registrar, it shall be attested by a solicitor, or by a clerk to a registrar nominated to take affidavits.

Form 15.

Liability of next friend for costs.

(2) The plaint shall not be entered or the particulars received until such undertaking has been given. On its being given it shall be filed with the registrar, and the action or interpleader proceeding shall proceed in the name of the infant by such next friend, but no order of the court shall be necessary for the appointment of the next friend. On entering into the undertaking the next friend shall be liable for costs in the same manner and to the same extent as if he were himself the plaintiff; and if the infant fails in or discontinues his action or proceeding, an order for payment of costs may be made against the next friend, whether any order for costs is or is not made against the infant; and proceedings may be taken on the order for the recovery of such costs as for the recovery of a judgment debt.

Where action, etc., remitted from High Court.

(3) Where any action or matter in which an infant is suing by a next friend is remitted or transferred from the High Court to a county court, the plaintiff shall lodge with the registrar, pursuant to Order XXXIII. Rule 1, the written authority for the use of the name of the next friend filed in the High Court, or a duplicate or copy thereof, and such authority shall be deemed to be an undertaking within the meaning of this rule.

(4) Where an infant commences as an adult without a next friend an action in which a next friend is required, the court may, on the application of either party, and on such terms as the court shall think just, appoint a next friend; or it may order the action to be struck out.

NOTE.—Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

Married women suing. 45 & 46 Vict. c. 75.

17. Where a plaint is entered by a married woman in which her husband is not joined, she shall state the name, and, so far as she can, the address and description of her husband.

Person of unsound mind suing.

18. Where a plaint is entered or a claim in an interpleader proceeding is made by or on behalf of a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, he shall sue by a next friend; and the provisions of Rule 16 as to an infant suing by a next friend shall apply to a person of unsound mind so suing. O. V. r. 18.

19. Where a plaintiff requiring a default summons does not desire the order upon the judgment to be for payment forthwith, he may at the time of the entry of the plaint file a notice of the time or times, and of the instalments, if any, at or by which he consents to accept payment, together with as many copies of such notice as there are defendants; and a copy of such notice shall be annexed to the summons and served therewith; and if he neglects to file such notice he may nevertheless give notice to the registrar to the like effect at the time of entering up judgment. Practice where plaintiff by default summons does not require payment forthwith. Form 24.

ORDER VI.

Particulars and Statement of Claim.

1. Subject to the provisions of these rules, the plaintiff shall at the time of the entry of the plaint in every action file particulars of his claim or demand, in which he shall specify the cause of action in respect of which the action is brought, as well as the pecuniary or other claim which he seeks to establish; but this rule shall not apply where the action is brought by ordinary summons for debt or damages only, and the amount claimed does not exceed forty shillings. Where the claim or demand exceeds one hundred pounds, and the plaintiff desires to abandon the excess, the abandonment of the excess shall be entered at the end of the particulars. O. VI. r. 1. Particulars when to be filed. Abandonment of excess of claim over 100*l.*

Where a claim is made against a married woman or a widow, the particulars shall state whether the claim is in respect of a contract or tort before coverture or during coverture, or (in the case of a widow) in respect of a contract or tort since the determination of the coverture. Where defendant is a female.

The plaintiff shall, when filing particulars, file a copy to be annexed to the summons to be served on the defendant; and where there are more defendants than one, he shall file two copies for each additional defendant. He shall also, where so required by any of these rules, file an additional copy for the use of the judge. Copies of particulars to be filed.

Abandonment of Excess.]—The abandonment of the excess whenever made must appear on the particulars (Order 14, r. 13).

Formerly there was no rule that the abandonment of excess should appear on the particulars, and the case of Isaac v. Wyld, (1852) 7 Ex. 163, decided that it was sufficient if abandoned at the trial. Now it can be abandoned at any time before the case is called on or during the opening, but this abandonment must be entered on the particulars (Order 14, r. 13).

O. VI. r. 1. Notes.

The general rule is, that a defendant is entitled to such particulars of the plaintiff's demand as will give him that information which a reasonable man would require respecting the matters against which he has to defend himself (per Alderson, B., Rennie v. Beresford, (1846) 15 M. & W. 78, 83; 15 L. J. Ex. 78; Richardson v. Silvester, (1873) L. R. 9 Q. B. 34; 43 L. J. Q. B. 1); the question in each case being, not whether every statement contained in the particulars is accurate, but whether the inaccuracy in them is such that the defendant could have been misled by it (see per Parke, B., in Stancliffe v. Clarke, (1853) 7 Ex. 439; 21 L. J. Ex. 129). In an action by an engineer who had employed other persons, the court held that the particulars of demand must be as specific as it was possible for the plaintiff to make them, and that a mere statement of aggregate sums claimed in respect of tavern bills, finding surveyors, meeting and arranging with solicitors, etc., would not suffice (Prichard v. Nelson, (1847) 16 M. & W. 772; 16 L. J. Ex. 207; 4 D. & L. 693). Although it was not formerly the case, it is believed that a plaintiff who gives credit for any amount in his particulars may be ordered to furnish particulars of it. In an action for a building account, the plaintiff gave credit for two sums, one for work not done, the other for building materials; he was ordered to give particulars (Godden v. Corsten, (1879) 5 C. P. D. 17; 49 L. J. C. P. 112). Particulars should give the information required with as little technicality as is consistent with brevity and precision (Forms of particulars are now prescribed in a few cases only, viz., actions and interpleaders sent for trial from High Court (Forms 280, 282, 284), actions in which title is in question (Form 279), interpleaders (Forms 211, 212), certain equity actions (Forms 311, 313, 324), and under the Bills of Exchange Act, 1855 (Form 26). A number of forms, including forms under the Employers' Liability Act, have been prepared by the late editor, and will be found in Appendix A. at p. 869.

If the particulars do not disclose a cause of action within the jurisdiction, the defendant may obtain a prohibition.

Particulars in cases of account.

2. Where the plaintiff in the first instance desires to have an account taken, the particulars shall contain a claim that such account be taken, and shall state the amount which the plaintiff claims subject to such account; and if such amount exceeds one hundred pounds, and the plaintiff desires to abandon the excess, the abandonment of the excess shall be entered at the end of the particulars. If no amount is stated in the particulars, the plaintiff shall be deemed to claim one hundred pounds.

Particulars in actions of ejectment.

3. In actions of ejectment the particulars shall contain a full description of the property sought to be recovered and of the annual value thereof, and of the rent, if there be any, fixed or paid in respect thereof.

As many copies of the particulars must be filed as there are defendants (Order LIV. r. 13).

Particulars in actions under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 60.

4. Where an action is brought under section sixty of the Act, whatever the amount of damages claimed may be, the plaintiff shall, at the time of the entry of the plaint, file a concise statement in writing of his cause of action, and of the particulars thereof.

Form 279.

A copy of the statement, sealed with the seal of the court, must be annexed to the summons, and the statement will be deemed part of the summons Order II. r. 8).

O. VI. r. 5.

In action for administration plaintiff may ask that only certain questions may be decided and renounce right to general order for administration.

5. Where any person entitled to bring or maintain an action for the administration of the estate of any deceased person or the execution of any trust desires to submit for the determination of the court any of the following questions or matters :—

(a) any question affecting the rights or interests of any person claiming to be creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin, or heir-at-law, or cestui que trust :

(b) the ascertainment of any class of creditors, legatees, devisees, next of kin, or others :

(c) the furnishing of any particular accounts by the executors or administrators or trustees, and the vouching (when necessary) of such accounts :

(d) the payment into court of any money in the hands of the executors or administrators or trustees :

(e) directing the executors or administrators or trustees to do or abstain from doing any particular act in their character as such executors or administrators or trustees :

(f) the approval of any sale, purchase, compromise, or other transaction :

(g) the determination of any question arising in the administration of the estate or trust :

he shall in his particulars specify concisely the question or matter upon which the decision of the court is required ; and that he is willing to renounce his right to an order for a general administration of the estate or trust.

It is believed that, under Order X. r. 19, there is an obligation to state concisely the facts on which the defendant relies by way of defence in these, as in all equity actions, and that, in the event of his not doing so, he might be prevented from relying on such facts by way of defence, or an adjournment ordered to enable it to be done.

Particulars where more than one cause of action.

6. Where the plaintiff seeks to obtain payment or satisfaction, or relief, redress, or remedy upon more than one cause of action or claim, he shall in his particulars state the grounds of each claim separately, and shall also state separately the payment or satisfaction, relief, redress, or remedy he claims in respect of each.

Notice by defendant for further particulars.

7. In any action the defendant may, at any time not later than five clear days before the return-day, give notice to the plaintiff that he requires further particulars, and the plaintiff shall, within two clear days of the service of such notice, file full particulars of his claim, and of the relief or remedy to which he claims to be entitled, and shall within the same time deliver to the defendant a copy thereof. If the plaintiff fails to comply with such notice, or complies therewith insufficiently, the court, before or at the trial, if satisfied that the defendant is thereby prejudiced in his defence, may order the plaintiff to file and deliver full particulars, and may adjourn the action, and stay all proceedings therein until such order has been complied with, and may make such order as to costs as the court may think fit.

O. VI. r. 7.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction given by the Act of 1903, the notice must be given not less than fifteen clear days before the return day (Order XXIIA. r. 6).

Fraction of a penny.

8. Where the amount claimed in any case includes a fraction of a penny, such fraction shall not be entered in the books of the court, and judgment shall not be given for any fraction of a penny.

Signature of particulars by solicitor or authorised clerk.

9. Where a plaintiff sues by solicitor, the particulars must be signed by the solicitor in his own name or that of his firm, and he shall state thereon his place of business and where he will accept service of proceedings in the action or matter on behalf of the plaintiff, otherwise the costs of entering the plaint by solicitor shall not be allowed. Provided that the clerk of a solicitor, if duly authorised, may sign the particulars on behalf of and in the name of his master.

If in the opinion of the court the particulars are insufficient, the costs of entering the plaint by solicitor shall not be allowed unless the court otherwise orders.

A lithographed signature will not suffice (R. v. Cowper (C. A.), (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 533; 59 L. J. Q. B. 265).

ORDER VII.

PLAINT NOTE AND SUMMONS. SERVICE. GUARDIANS AD LITEM.

Plaint Note.

Plaint note. Forms 18, 19, 20, 21.

1. At the time of entering a plaint the registrar shall give to the plaintiff a note under the seal of the court, according to such one of the forms in the Appendix as shall be applicable to the case, with a memorandum thereon according to the form in the Appendix. In the event of such note being lost or destroyed, a duplicate thereof may be given from time to time, upon proof by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the registrar, that the person applying is the plaintiff, or his agent authorised in that behalf, and that the plaintiff is entitled to the money (if any) paid into court to his credit.

As to payment of money out of court on production of the plaint note, see Order IX. r. 21; see also Order LIV. r. 26.

Alteration of Form 18.

1A. The words "eight shillings" shall be substituted for the words "five shillings" in Form 18 in the Appendix.

This is the present fee payable for a jury, if required. It is payable in the first instance by the party requiring the jury.

Summons on Plaint. O. VII. r. 2.

2. A summons to appear to a plaint shall be according to one or other of the forms in the Appendix, and shall be dated of the day on which the plaint was entered, and the date thereof shall be the commencement of the action. Form and date of summons. Forms 22, 23, 25.

2A. The words "eight shillings" shall be substituted for the words "five shillings" in the indorsements on the back of Forms 22 and 23 in the Appendix. Alteration of Forms 22, 23.

This is for the fee for a jury, if required (supra).

2A. The words "ten clear days" (or, in actions under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, "fifteen clear days") shall be substituted for the words "five clear days" in the paragraphs relating to juries in the prescribed form of plaint notes and summonses to appear to plaints.

There is apparently a mistake in the numbering of this rule.

Ordinary Summons and Service.

5. An ordinary summons may be made returnable either at the court for which plaints are then being entered, or at the request of the plaintiff at any subsequent court. Ordinary summons when returnable.

The day appointed for the appearance of the defendant, or any other day fixed for the trial, is called the return-day (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 186).

5A.—(1) Where an ordinary summons has not been served by reason of the plaintiff having mis-stated or insufficiently stated any of the particulars as to the name, residence, or place of business, and occupation or description of the defendant required by paragraphs (b) and (c) of Ord. V. r. 4, or of the defendant having before the entry of the plaint removed from the address given on the entry thereof, the summons may be amended as to such particulars at any time which will allow the summons to be served in sufficient time before the return day, on the plaintiff correcting and re-swearing the affidavit (if any) required by these rules before the entry of the plaint, or swearing a further affidavit, and on payment of such additional fee for service as may be prescribed. Amendment of summons as to name, etc., of defendant.

(2) Provided nevertheless that if the bailiff ascertains in sufficient time before the return day, and before notice of non-service has been sent, that the defendant has removed from the address given on the summons to some other address within the district of the court, it shall be his duty to effect service in accordance with Ord. II. r. 22, without such amendment as is provided for by the preceding paragraph; and the new address endorsed Service where defendant has removed to another address within the district.

on the copy of the summons retained by the bailiff shall be entered in the books of the court.

Service where defendant has removed to address outside the district.

(3) Provided also, that if the address of the defendant given on the entry of the plaint was within the district of the court, and the defendant has before the entry of the plaint removed to some other address outside the district of the court, an amendment of the summons as to such address shall only be allowed on the plaintiff swearing an affidavit and obtaining leave for the service of the summons outside the district in accordance with section 74 of the Act and Order V., Rule 13; and in any such case the words "to serve the summons in this action on the above named outside the district of this court" shall be substituted for the words "to enter a plaint against the above named" in the order giving leave to serve the summons outside the district.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74.

For the purposes of this paragraph the words "the district of the court" shall in the case of a summons issued under section eighty-four of the Act mean the district of any court mentioned in that section.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 84.

Successive summonses.

6.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this rule, where an ordinary summons has not been served in sufficient time before the return day, successive summonses may be issued without entering a new plaint.

(2) A successive summons shall not be issued in any case in which the non-service has been caused by the fact of the plaintiff having mis-stated or insufficiently stated any of the particulars as to the name, residence, or place of business, and occupation or description of the defendant required by paragraphs (b) and (c) of Ord. V. r. 4, or of the defendant having, before the entry of the plaint, removed from the address given on the entry thereof, unless the plaintiff satisfies the court that the mis-statement or insufficient statement was made or given in good faith, and without any want of reasonable care on his part, or that he could not by the exercise of reasonable care have discovered the fact of such removal before the entry of the plaint, in either of which cases a successive summons, amended in accordance with the last preceding rule may, subject to paragraph 3 of that rule, be issued without entering a new plaint.

(3) Successive summonses shall bear the same date and number as the summons first issued, which date and number shall be written in red ink in the plaint book, and such summonses shall be a continuance of the first summons.

(4) No successive summons shall be issued on a plaint after three months from the date of entry.

Where by the indorsement on the copy of an ordinary summons it appears that service was effected by delivering the summons to some person apparently not less than sixteen years old at the house or place of dwelling or place of business of the defendant, and the defendant does not appear on the return day, the action shall not proceed if the court is satisfied, on the evidence before it, that the service of such summons did not come to the knowledge of the defendant before the return day.

In such case the court may either order the action to be struck out, or order a successive summons to issue, as to it may seem just; or, if the court is in doubt whether the service of the summons has come to the knowledge of the defendant before the return day, it may order the action to be struck out, or order a successive summons to issue, or may adjourn the action to a future day for further evidence; and may in that case direct notice of such adjournment, with a copy of the summons and particulars to be served on the defendant; and such notice and copy may be served by the high bailiff by post in accordance with the provisions of Ord. Steps to be taken by bailiff to enable plaintiff to apply for leave to proceed. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86 (5)

33A.—(1) Where service of a default summons is to be effected by a bailiff, and personal service cannot be effected, it shall be the duty of the high bailiff, if so requested by the plaintiff or his solicitor, and on payment of a sum for his expenses as hereinafter provided, to take such steps as may be necessary to enable the plaintiff to apply under sub-section 5 of section 86 of the Act for liberty to proceed as if personal service had been effected, and to carry out any order made on such application.

34A. Where a default summons has been entered by post pursuant to Order V. r. 12, and the defendant does not give notice of his intention to defend, the plaintiff or his solicitor (if the solicitor has no office within the district) may, instead of attending at the office of the court, transmit, by prepaid post, to the registrar— O. Notice in lieu of summons.

Form 49.

47. When the defendant is neither a British subject nor in British dominions, notice of the summons according to the form in the Appendix, and not the summons itself, shall be served on him; and such notice shall be served in the manner in which default summonses are required to be served.

48. Where leave is given under these rules to serve a summons or notice of a summons on a defendant out of England and Wales, and such defendant does not appear on the day fixed for proceeding with the action, the plaintiff shall before proceeding file an affidavit of service of the summons or notice, as the case may be. (R. S. C., Ord. XIII. r. 2.) O. VII. r. 48. Proof of service.

48A. The powers of the court under Rules 41 to 48 of this Order shall be exercised only by the judge, or deputy judge, or by one judge acting for another under section nineteen of the Act. Powers to be exercised by judge or deputy only.

The words "or deputy judge" added by Rules of 1914, r. 43.

49. A defendant served with a summons or notice of a summons under this Order may apply, on notice, to the judge to set aside the service of such summons or notice upon him, or to discharge the order authorising such service. (R. S. C., Ord. XII. r. 30.) Application to set aside service.

Appointment of Guardians ad litem to Infants or Persons of Unsound Mind.

50. Where it appears on the face of the proceedings that any defendant to an action or matter is an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, the following provisions shall apply :— Appointment of guardian ad litem to defendant appearing on face of proceedings to be an infant or a person of unsound mind.

(1) At any time after the service of the summons, and not less than six clear days before the return day, a guardian ad litem to such infant or person of unsound mind may be appointed by the registrar, on application made to him on behalf of such infant or person of unsound mind, on affidavit according to the form in the Appendix, accompanied by a written consent of the proposed guardian to act as such guardian. Forms 50, 51

By Order XXIIA. r. 7, in actions under the extended jurisdiction "twelve clear days" are substituted for "six clear days."

(2) Where such appointment is made, the registrar shall forthwith send notice by post of such appointment to the plaintiff, according to the form in the Appendix. Form 52.

(3) Where no application for the appointment of a guardian ad litem is made on behalf of the infant or person of unsound mind within the time hereinbefore limited, the registrar shall on the sixth day before the return day send notice by post to the plaintiff that no such application has been made, according to the form in the Appendix. Form 53.

By Order XXIIA. r. 7, in actions under the extended jurisdiction the words "twelfth day before the return day" are substituted for the words "sixth day before the return day."

O. VII. r. 50.

(4) The plaintiff shall thereupon, before proceeding further with the action or matter against such infant or person of unsound mind, apply to the judge for an order that some proper person be assigned guardian ad litem of such defendant, by whom he may appear and defend, and, if necessary, for a postponement of the trial.

(5) Such application shall be made on affidavit according to the form in the Appendix ; and notice of such application, together with a copy of such affidavit, shall three clear days at least before the day in such notice named for hearing the application be served upon or left at the dwelling-house of the person with whom or under whose care such defendant was at the time of service of the summons, and shall also (in the case of such defendant being an infant not residing with or under the care of his father or guardian) be served upon or left at the dwelling-house of the father or guardian (if any) of such infant : Provided that the registrar may, on the application of the plaintiff, dispense with such last-mentioned service.

Forms 54, 55.

(6) On the hearing of the application the judge, if satisfied with the proposed guardian, may appoint him to act as such guardian ; but if not so satisfied, the judge may appoint any other person willing to act as guardian ; or in default of such person, the judge may appoint the registrar to act as guardian ; and the action or matter shall thenceforth proceed as if a guardian had been appointed on behalf of the defendant. The judge may, if necessary, on the hearing of such application, postpone the trial.

Form 56.

(7) Provided, that where an infant is sued for a debt or other liquidated demand, the notice required by paragraph (3) of this rule need not be sent, nor shall paragraphs (4) to (6) of this rule apply, unless in any case the registrar thinks it necessary for the protection of such infant that such notice should be sent, or the judge directs such notice to be sent.

Appointment of guardian ad litem to defendant ascertained to be an infant or a person of unsound mind.

51. Where it does not appear on the face of the proceedings, but is made to appear in the course of the proceedings, that any defendant to an action or matter is an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, the following provisions shall apply :—

(1) If on any defendant appearing at the trial it appears that such defendant is an infant, and such defendant names a person as his guardian who then assents so to act, such person shall be appointed guardian accordingly: but if the defendant does not name a guardian, the judge may appoint as guardian any person in court who is willing to act as such guardian; or in default of any such person the judge may appoint the registrar to act as guardian; and the action or matter shall thenceforth proceed as if the infant had named a guardian, and the name of the guardian appointed shall be entered according to one or other of the forms in the Appendix. O. VII. r. 51.

(2) In any other case, on its being made to appear that any defendant is an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, a guardian ad litem to such defendant may be appointed at any time within six days of its being made to appear that such defendant is an infant or a person of unsound mind, on application made on behalf of such defendant in accordance with paragraphs (1) and (2) of the last preceding rule; and if no such application is made within such period of six days, the registrar shall send notice to the plaintiff in accordance with paragraph (3) of the same rule; and thereupon the plaintiff shall, before proceeding further with the action or matter against such defendant, apply for such appointment in accordance with paragraphs (4) to (6) of the same rule. And the trial shall, if necessary, be postponed to allow an application for the appointment of a guardian to be made.

(3) Provided, that paragraph (7) of the last preceding rule shall apply to cases falling within this rule.

52. Where a guardian is appointed under either of the two preceding rules, such appointment shall be entered on the summons and in the minute book, and on all subsequent proceedings. Entry of appointment on summons, etc.

53. A guardian ad litem to an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition shall not be personally liable to any costs not occasioned by his personal negligence or misconduct. Limitation of liability of guardian for costs.

54. Where judgment has been obtained or an order made against a defendant who was at the time an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, without a guardian ad litem having been appointed to such defendant, the judge may set aside such judgment or order and order a new trial, or make such other order as may be just. Power to set aside judgment against infant or person of unsound mind where no guardian appointed.

O. VII. r. 55.

Application of preceding rules to petition.

55. In the five preceding rules "summons" includes "petition," "plaintiff" includes "petitioner," "defendant" includes "respondent," and "trial" includes "hearing."

Guardians ad litem with reference to proceedings under judgment or order.

56. At any time during the proceedings under any judgment or order, the judge may, if he thinks fit, require a guardian ad litem to be appointed for any infant or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition who has been served with notice of such judgment or order. (R. S. C., Ord. LV. r. 27.)

ORDER VIII.

Consolidation of Actions or Stay of Proceedings. Transfer.

O. VIII. r. 1.

Consolidation of separate actions which might have been joined in one.

Form 59.

1. Where several actions are brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant in the same court for or in respect of different causes of action which might in accordance with the provisions of Order IV. have been joined in one action, the defendant may apply to the judge that the said actions may be consolidated.

A plaintiff may not divide a cause of action for the purpose of bringing two or more actions (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 81). But he may bring different actions in respect of different causes of action. An order to consolidate such actions might cause the jurisdiction to be exceeded as to amount, and it is therefore doubtful whether, if the effect of consolidation would be to make the consolidated action one which could not have been commenced in a county court, any order could be made.

It should be noticed that an application under this rule must be made to the judge.

Stay of proceedings in actions brought in respect of same matter, till judgment given in selected action.

Form 60.

Form 61.

2. Where several actions are brought by different plaintiffs against the same defendant in the same court for or in respect of causes of action arising out of the same breach of contract, wrong or other circumstances, the defendant may, on filing an undertaking to be bound so far as his liability in the said several actions is concerned by the decision in such one of the said actions as may be selected by the judge, apply to the judge for an order to stay the proceedings in the actions other than the one so selected, until judgment is given in such selected action.

Note that the application must be made to the judge. For application of rules 2 - 6 to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act, see Workmen's Compensation Rules, r. 16.

Applications under preceding rules.

3. Applications under the two preceding rules shall be made upon notice to the plaintiffs to be affected by any order made thereon.

These applications cannot be made ex parte.

O. VIII. r. 4.

Judge may impose terms.

4. Upon the hearing of any application for consolidation of actions or for stay of proceedings the judge may impose such terms and conditions and make such order in the matter as may be just.

Where judgment in favour of defendant in selected action.

Form 62

5. If judgment in a selected action under Rule 2 of this Order is given in favour of the defendant, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs up to the date of the order staying proceedings against every other plaintiff whose action is stayed, unless such plaintiff gives the registrar within one month from such judgment notice in writing to set down his action for trial. On such judgment being given, the registrar shall send to every other plaintiff a notice according to the form in the Appendix, and if any such plaintiff gives notice to the registrar to set down his action for trial, the registrar shall appoint a day for the trial, and send by post to both plaintiff and defendant notice of the day so appointed at least eight clear days before such day.

See Doyle v. Anderson, (1834) 1 A. & E. 635; 40 R. R. 381; Doyle v. Douglas, (1833) 4 B. & Ad. 544; Amos v. Chadwick, (1877) 4 Ch. D. 869; 47 L. J. Ch. 871.

Where judgment given against defendant in selected action.

Form 62.

6. If judgment in a selected action is given against the defendant, the plaintiffs in the actions stayed shall be at liberty to proceed for the purpose of ascertaining and recovering their debts or damages and costs. On such judgment being given the registrar shall send to each such plaintiff a notice according to the form in the Appendix, and a plaintiff desiring to proceed shall within one month from the date of such notice give to the registrar notice in writing to set down his action for trial, and on receipt of such notice the registrar shall appoint a day for the trial, and send by post to both plaintiff and defendant notice of the day so appointed at least eight clear days before such day.

Stay of actions for same cause against several defendants, till judgment given in selected action.

7. Where several actions of contract are brought by the same plaintiff against several defendants in the same court, and the event of the said actions depends on the finding of the judge or jury on some question common to all the said actions, the judge may at any time select one of such actions for trial, and stay the proceedings in all the other actions until the judgment in the action so selected is given; but after judgment in such selected action, unless the plaintiff and the defendants in the other actions, or any of them, submit to have judgment passed and entered therein in accordance with the judgment in the action so selected, such other actions shall proceed in the same manner as if they had not been stayed; and on receipt of notice from the plaintiff or defendant in any such action to set down the action for trial the

O. V. III. r. 7. registrar shall appoint a day for the trial, and shall send by post to both plaintiff and defendant notice of the day so appointed at least eight clear days before such day.

Transfer of actions commenced in different courts.

8. Where actions are commenced in different courts by parties in the same interest, upon application by any of the parties they shall be transferred to the court in which the first plaint was entered, and shall there be proceeded with in the same way in all respects as if they had been commenced in that court.

For the practice, see Rule 9, infra.

Application for transfer under last rule or 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 85, or Order XXXIII. r. 19.

Forms 120, 121.

Costs before or occasioned by transfer.

Transmission of certified copy of proceedings.

9. Where application is intended to be made for the transfer of any action, matter, or proceeding under section eighty-five of the Act, or under the last preceding rule, or under Order XXXIII. Rule 19, three clear days' notice in writing of such intended application shall be given by the applicant to the registrar of the court in which such action, matter, or proceeding is pending, and to all parties who may be affected by such application; but the judge may at any time, by consent of all parties, or without such consent if he thinks fit, order a transfer, although this rule has not been complied with. When a transfer is ordered the judge may make such order as to the costs incurred before or occasioned by such transfer as he may think fit; and a certified copy of the proceedings shall be transmitted in accordance with section eighty-five of the Act, and the provisions of that section shall apply. The costs of such copy and the costs of transmission shall be paid for in the first instance by the party on whose application the transfer has been made, or, if the transfer is made by the judge without any application to transfer being made to him, such costs shall be paid for in the first instance by the plaintiff in the action, matter, or proceeding: but such payment shall be without prejudice to any question as to the party by whom such costs are ultimately to be borne.

ORDER IX.

Discontinuance, Confession, Admission, and Payment into or out of Court.

Discontinuance of action or withdrawal of part of claim.

Forms 63, 253.

Costs.

1.—(1) If the plaintiff desires to discontinue any action or matter against all or any of the parties thereto, or to withdraw any part of his alleged cause of complaint, he shall give notice in writing thereof to the registrar, and to every party as to whom he so desires to discontinue or withdraw; and after the receipt of such notice any such party may, unless the judge on the application of the plaintiff otherwise orders, tax his costs incurred before the receipt of the notice, or if the action or matter be not wholly discontinued, his costs incurred before the receipt of the notice in relation to the matter so withdrawn, and may enter judgment for such costs in case the same are not paid within fourteen days after taxation, and on entering up judgment item 62 in the scale of costs may be allowed. Provided that if the action is not wholly discontinued as against the party entering up judgment, execution shall not issue on the judgment before the action is disposed of except by leave of the court. O. IX. r. 1.

A discontinuance or withdrawal is not a defence to a subsequent action; but if a subsequent action is brought for substantially the same cause of action, it may be stayed by the judge until payment of the costs of the discontinued action (Order IX. r. 1 (2)).

In the High Court it has now been held that the only way a plaintiff can without leave withdraw his action is by means of the rules provided for discontinuance (Fox v. Star Newspaper, (1898) 1 Q. B. 636 (C. A.); 67 L. J. Q. B. 454; affirmed, House of Lords, (1900) A. C. 19; 69 L. J. Q. B. 117).

(2) Discontinuance or withdrawal under this rule shall not be a defence to any subsequent action; but if after such discontinuance or withdrawal a subsequent action is brought for the same or substantially the same cause of action before the payment of the costs in this rule mentioned, the judge may, if he thinks fit, order a stay of such subsequent action until such costs have been paid. Stay of subsequent action till costs of action discontinued or claim withdrawn are paid.

2. Confessions under section ninety-eight of the Act shall be delivered to the registrar five clear days at least before the return day: Provided that at any time before an action is called on the defendant may confess and admit the claim according to the form in the Appendix subject, however, to an order by the court to pay such costs as the plaintiff has incurred in consequence of the defendant not having delivered such confession as herein before required. Confessions under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 98. Forms 65—68.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "ten clear days" is substituted for "five clear days" (see Order XXIIIA. r. 8).

3. Where a defendant does not appear on the return day, and has not signed a confession under section ninety-eight of the Act, the court may accept as an admission of the claim or any part thereof any letter addressed to the court containing such an admission, and purporting to be written by or on behalf of the defendant, if the court is satisfied that such letter was in fact written by or by the authority of the defendant; and a note of such letter having been accepted as an admission shall be entered in the minute book. Admission by letter addressed to court.

O. IX. r. 4.

Consents under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 99.

Forms 69, 70.

4. In cases of consent under section ninety-nine of the Act, the defendant may confess the amount of the plaintiff's costs besides the court fees, and judgment may be entered accordingly, and the amount of the plaintiff's costs shall be stated separately.

Admission of truth of plaintiff's statement.

Form 71.

Form 72.

5. Where a defendant desires to admit the truth of the statements in the plaintiff's particulars, and to submit to the judgment of the court thereon, he may in the presence of any registrar, or of a clerk to a registrar, or of a solicitor, sign an admission according to the form in the Appendix; and the signature of the defendant thereto shall be verified by affidavit, unless the admission is signed in the presence of a registrar, or of a clerk to a registrar. Such admission shall be filed five clear days at least before the return day, and the registrar shall transmit a notice thereof by post to the plaintiff; and the plaintiff shall not, unless the judge otherwise orders, be allowed any costs incurred after the service upon him of notice of such admission in relation to the proof of the matter so admitted: Provided that the plaintiff shall be entitled, notwithstanding such admission, to his costs of attending on the day of trial to enter up judgment and tax his costs.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "ten clear days" is substituted for "five clear days" (see Order XXIIA. r. 8).

Admission by any party.

Form 71.

6. Any party to an action or matter may give notice in writing to any other party that he admits the truth of the whole or of any part of the case or claim of such other party, and no costs incurred after the receipt of such notice in respect of the proof of any matters admitted therein shall be allowed; but the costs of any steps taken prior to the receipt of such notice may be allowed if the registrar on taxation is of opinion that they were not taken unnecessarily or prematurely.

The admission must be specific and clear, and such a one as dispenses with any proof whatsoever (Pincott v. Letts, (1897) 77 L. T. 160).

Confession by defendant in action of ejectment or for recovery of possession.

Forms 256, 274.

7. Any defendant in an action of ejectment or for the recovery of possession of a tenement may at any time before the return day confess the action as to the whole or any part of the land by signing in the presence of any registrar or of a clerk to a registrar, or of a solicitor, an admission of the title of the plaintiff to the land or such part thereof, and of his right to the possession thereof, which admission shall be attested by the person in whose presence it is signed; and the registrar shall upon the receipt of such admission forthwith give notice thereof by post to the plaintiff; and the court may on the return day, upon proof of the signature of the defendant to such admission, by affidavit or otherwise, in case the same is not attested by a registrar or a clerk to a registrar, and without any further proof of the plaintiff's title (if no defendant other than the defendant signing such admission defends for the said land or such part thereof), give judgment for the plaintiff for the recovery of possession and for costs. Provided that if the plaintiff receives notice of such admission before the return day, he shall not be entitled as against any defendant signing to any costs incurred subsequently to the receipt of such notice, except the costs of attending the court on the return day, unless the court otherwise orders. Provided also, that where the admission is not signed by all the defendants defending for the said lands or such part thereof, the action shall proceed against all the defendants who have not signed as if no admission had been signed.

O. IX. r. 7.

Form 275.

8. Any party may by notice in writing according to the form in the Appendix, at any time not later than six clear days before the return-day, call on any other party to admit, for the purposes of the action, matter, or issue only, any specific fact or facts mentioned in such notice. And in case of refusal or neglect to admit the same by the delivery of a written admission of the fact or facts as aforesaid not less than three clear days before the return-day, the costs of proving such fact or facts shall be paid by the party so neglecting or refusing, whatever the result of the action, matter, or issue may be, unless at the trial the court certifies that the refusal to admit was reasonable, or unless the court at any time otherwise orders. Provided that any admission made in pursuance of such notice shall be deemed to be made only for the purposes of the particular action, matter, or issue, and not as an admission to be used against the party on any other occasion or in favour of any person other than the party giving notice: Provided also, that the court may at any time allow any party to amend or withdraw any admission so made on such terms as may be just.

Notice to admit specific facts.

Form 113.

Form 114.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "twelve clear days" and "six clear days" are substituted for "six clear days" and "three clear days" respectively (Order XXIIA. r. 9).

9. An affidavit of the solicitor or his clerk, of the due signature of any admissions made in pursuance of this order, shall be sufficient evidence of such admissions, if evidence thereof be required.

Evidence of admissions.

O. IX. r. 12.

Payment into court.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 107.

12.—(1) A defendant who desires to pay money into court pursuant to section one hundred and seven of the Act shall pay the same five clear days at least before the return day. Every such payment shall be taken to admit pro tanto the claim or cause of action or complaint in respect of which the payment is made, unless the defendant at the time of paying the money into court files with the registrar a notice according to the form in the Appendix, stating his name and address, and further stating that notwithstanding such payment the defendant denies his liability ; but no such payment with a denial of liability shall be permitted in any action or counter-claim for libel or slander. The defendant must also pay into court, in respect of the court fees and solicitor's costs (if any) entered on the summons, a sum proportionate to the amount paid in in respect of the claim, unless the payment into court is made under a defence of tender, in which case he may make such payment without costs.

Form 75.

When without Denial of Liability.]—A payment without denial of liability admits pro tanto the claim or cause of action or complaint in respect of which it is made ; though if the claim is for a debt composed of several items, a general payment will not admit that something is due under each item (Hennell v. Davies, (1893) 1 Q. B. 367 ; 62 L. J. Q. B. 220). The payment ought to be made at least five clear days (ten clear days in cases under the Act of 1903) before the return-day (see Stevens v. Hounslow, (1889) 38 W. R. 236 ; 61 L. T. 839), with court fees proportionate to the amount paid in, and a proportionate amount of solicitor's costs, if any, unless the payment into court be made under a defence of tender, when the defendant may make the payment without costs. If the defendant claims to be entitled to a set-off or counterclaim, he may pay in the residue, but must pay into court court fees and solicitor's costs proportionate to the amount paid in (Order IX. r. 17). The money may be paid in any day when the office is open, during office hours (Order II. r. 9). An acknowledgment of the payment will be given in all cases (Order II. r. 11).

Within twenty-four hours from the time of such payment, the registrar must give notice of the payment to the plaintiff (see as to default of officer, Francis v. Dowdeswell, (1874) L. R. 9 C. P. 423, 432 ; 43 L. J. C. P. 248) by post, or by causing the notice to be delivered at his usual place of abode or business (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 107 ; Order IX. r. 12 (2) ; Forms 73, 74).

If the plaintiff elects to accept the sum paid into court in satisfaction of his claim, whether the same has been paid in in due time or not, or with or without costs, or with or without a notice of denial of liability, and sends to the registrar and to the defendant by post, or leaves at the registrar's office and at the defendant's dwelling or place of business, a written notice (Form 76), stating such acceptance, within such reasonable time before the return day as the time of payment by the defendant permits, the action will abate, and the plaintiff will not be liable for any costs incurred by the defendant after receiving the notice (Order IX. r. 13 (1) (2)). In default of acceptance the action may proceed, but the plaintiff may accept the money at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to the payment of any costs reasonably incurred by the defendant since payment into court, which may be allowed by the court (Order IX. r. 13 (5) (6)). If the plaintiff claims too small a sum, and the amount claimed is paid into court without denial of liability and taken out by the plaintiff, the latter cannot bring a fresh action for the larger amount, and give credit for the sum paid into and taken out of court; the matter is res judicata (Sanders v. Hamilton, (1907) 96 L. T. 679). O. IX. r. 12. Notes.

Where Costs Insufficient.]—The statute (sect. 107) gives the plaintiff the "costs incurred," and the court may in its discretion order the defendant to pay such fees and costs beyond the fees and costs (if any) paid into court, as the plaintiff may have properly incurred for work done, before the receipt of notice of payment into court, and in attending the court to obtain the order for the same, including, in the judge's discretion, any items which might have been allowed at the trial, but no hearing fee is to be charged (Order IX. r. 13 (3)).

Notice of Application for Costs.]—When the plaintiff intends to apply for such costs, he must give notice of his intention in his notice of acceptance of the sum paid in, unless the time of payment into court does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, in which case the plaintiff may apply for costs without giving the notice (Order IX. r. 13 (1) (4); Form 76).

Where Plaintiff Proceeds.]—If the plaintiff proceeds, and recovers no more than was paid into court, he must pay the costs incurred by the defendant after the payment into court; such costs to be settled by the court, and an order made for payment of them by the plaintiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 107).

The defendant may also, at any time less than five clear days (ten clear days in actions under the Act of 1903) before the return day, pay money into court, with costs, as above-mentioned, and notice will be given of the payment as above; but the defendant may not, except by leave of the court, give a notice denying liability at the time of such payment. If it is so paid, or in any case where it is paid in without costs, the plaintiff may elect to accept in satisfaction the sum paid in, and send the written notice (Form 76), and claim costs or further costs as above mentioned. If the plaintiff does not accept money so paid in in satisfaction, he may proceed as if there had been no such payment, and will be entitled to his costs on the amount recovered by him, unless the court otherwise orders (Order IX. r. 12 (3) (4); Order XXIIA. r. 10). If nothing is paid in for costs, and the judge finds the sum paid in sufficient and gives judgment for the defendant, he may give the plaintiff his costs up to the payment into court, and the subsequent costs to the defendant (Sykes v. Wesleyan and General Assurance Society, (1907) 76 L. J. K. B. 626).

Money may be taken out.]—When money is paid into court without a denial of liability the plaintiff may take it out at once whether he accepts it in satisfaction or not (sect. 107). It has been held that if a High Court action abates by reason of the death of the defendant after paying money into court without a denial of liability, the money should be paid out to the plaintiff and not to the executors of the defendant (Brown v. Feeney, (1906) 1 K. B. 563; 75 L. J. K. B. 494).

Payment with Denial of Liability.]—In order that payment shall not operate as an admission, the defendant, at the time of paying money into court, must file with the registrar (with the copies required by Order LIV. r. 13) a notice (Form 75) stating his name and address, and that notwithstanding such payment he denies his liability. Payment into court with a denial of liability cannot be made in any action or counterclaim for libel or slander. A proportionate part of the court fees and solicitor's costs, if any, must be paid in, as in other cases, unless the payment into court is made under a defence of tender (Order IX. r. 12 (1)). The registrar, with the notice of payment above-mentioned, must send to the plaintiff a copy of the notice denying liability (Order IX. r. 12 (2); Forms 74, 75).

In an action of negligence a defendant may under this rule file a notice that he admits negligence but denies the alleged damage, and pay into court a sum of money in satisfaction of the claim. This is a denial of liability, as a denial of damage is a denial of liability. If plaintiff only recovers the amount so paid into court, the defendant is entitled to his costs (J. R. Munday, Ltd. v. London County Council, (1916) 2 K. B. 331; 85 L. J. K. B. 325; on appeal, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1509. Comp. Critchell v. London and South Western Rail. Co., (1907) 76 L. J. K. B. 422).

Time for Payment.]—The payment must be made five clear days (ten clear days in actions brought under the Act of 1903) at least before the return day (Order IX. r. 12 (1); Order XXIIA. r. 10); and, except by leave of the judge or registrar, cannot be made afterwards with a notice denying liability (Order IX. r. 12 (3); Order XXIIA. r. 10).

If the plaintiff then accept the money in satisfaction, he must give notice as provided and the action will abate (Order IX. r. 13 (1) (2); Form 76); and the money may be taken out of court at once (Wood v. Leetham, (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 215).

If not accepted in satisfaction, the money will be retained in court until after the trial, and if the plaintiff recovers less than the amount paid into court, the balance will be repaid to the defendant, unless the court otherwise orders. The court may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be set against the amount recovered by the plaintiff. If the defendant succeeds, the whole amount will be repaid to him, unless the court otherwise orders (Order IX. r. 19). In either case, judgment should be entered for the defendant, with, subject to the general discretion of the judge, costs (Wood v. Leetham, supra).

Where an executor or administrator is defendant, and he admits his representative character and the plaintiff's demand, and that he is chargeable with any sum in respect of assets, he must pay it into court under the above rules (Order XXX. r. 11).

The rules also apply to payment into court in actions of libel remitted from the High Court (Order IX. r. 14). A plaintiff may, in answer to a counterclaim, pay money into court under the same conditions (Order IX. r. 16). The above provisions do not apply to payments into court in equity actions or matters under order of the court (Order IX. r. 23).

Taxation: Costs of Issues.]—Where in an action for negligence the defendant paid money into court with a denial of liability, and the trial resulted in a verdict for an amount less than that so paid in, it was held that the judge's order giving the defendant the general costs of the action and the plaintiff the costs of the issues found in his favour was right (Wagstaffe v. Bentley, (1902) 1 K. B. 124; 71 L. J. K. B. 55), and it is immaterial that the issue on which the plaintiff succeeds is not an issue going to the whole cause of action (Hubback v. British North Borneo Co., (1904) 2 K. B. 473; 73 L. J. K. B. 654), but plaintiff, though perhaps he may not recover the costs of issues on which he succeeds, ought not to be made to pay the defendant's costs of such issues (Davies v. Edinburgh Life Assurance Co., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1662). Under similar circumstances, the plaintiff having been non-suited, a new trial was ordered, the costs of the first trial to abide the event. At the second trial the plaintiff obtained a verdict for the sum paid into court, and it was held that the defendants were entitled to the general costs of the action, but that the county court judge had a discretion as to giving the plaintiff the costs of the issue of negligence, on which he had succeeded (Dunn v. South Eastern Rail. Co., 1903) 1 K. B. 358; 72 L. J. K. B. 127).

Tender.]—If the money is paid into court with the defence of tender, no court fees or costs need be paid in (Order IX. r. 12 (1)). The plaintiff may accept the money in satisfaction, but is not entitled to take it out of court, or to any costs, without an order of the court, which may make such order as to the costs of either party as may be just, and may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be deducted from the amount paid into court and to be paid to the defendant (Order IX. r. 18).

Money is obtained out of court on production of the plaint note, just as when it has been paid in under a judgment.

As to payment into court by officers of court, as amends, see p. 26; under a default summons, p. 437; when assignment of chose in action disputed, p. 591; when defendant sets up lien on specific property, p. 458; when money found due to infant or person of unsound mind, p. 441; in replevin, p. 159; under Trustee Acts, p. 2332. O. IX. r. 12. Notes.

Neither the fact that money has been paid into court, nor the amount paid in, is to be communicated to a jury, who must find their verdict without reference to any payment into court (Order IX. r. 26).

When payment into court is made, and an apology tendered in actions for libel (see Jones v. Mackie, (1867) L. R. 3 Ex. 1; 37 L. J. Ex. 1), it is believed that the payment is only conditional, and does not admit the cause of action (Order IX. r. 26).

(2) The registrar shall, within twenty-four hours from the time of any payment made pursuant to the last preceding paragraph, send to the plaintiff notice thereof; and when such payment is made with a denial of liability, he shall also send therewith a copy of the notice prescribed by the last preceding paragraph. Forms 73, 74.

(3) The defendant may also at any time less than five clear days before the return-day pay money into court, and notice thereof shall be given by the registrar to the plaintiff in accordance with the last preceding paragraph; but the defendant shall not be permitted, except by leave of the court, to give a notice denying liability at the time of such payment.

(4) Where money is paid into court less than five clear days before the return-day, or where it is in any case paid in without costs, if the plaintiff does not elect to accept the money so paid in satisfaction, he may proceed as if no such payment had been made, and, unless the court otherwise orders, he shall be entitled to costs on such sum as he may recover, whether such sum be less than the sum paid into court or not.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "ten clear days" is substituted for "five clear days" in this and the preceding paragraph.

13.—(1) If the plaintiff elects to accept in satisfaction of his claim the money paid into court by the defendant, whether the same has been paid in in due time or not, or with or without costs, or with or without a notice of denial of liability, he shall send to the registrar and to the defendant by post, or leave at the registrar's office and at the defendant's dwelling or place of business, a written notice according to the form in the Appendix, stating such acceptance, within such reasonable time before the return day as the time of payment by the defendant has permitted. Acceptance of amount paid in in satisfaction of claim. Form 76.

(2) Thereupon the action shall abate, except as herein provided, and the plaintiff shall not be liable to any costs incurred by the defendant after receiving such notice.

If the plaintiff claims too small a sum, and the amount claimed is paid into court without denial of liability and taken out by the plaintiff, the latter cannot bring a fresh action for the larger amount and give credit for the

(3) In any such case the court may in its discretion order the defendant to pay such fees and costs, beyond the fees and costs (if any) paid into court by the defendant, as the plaintiff may have properly incurred for work done before the receipt of notice of payment into court, and in attending the court to obtain the order for the same (including, if the judge on consideration of the facts of the case so orders, any of the items which might have been allowed by order of the judge at the trial), but no hearing fee shall be charged.

Form 76.

(4) If the plaintiff intends to apply for such costs, he shall give notice of his intention in his notice of acceptance of the sum paid in, according to the form in the Appendix, or where the time of payment into court by the defendant does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, the plaintiff may apply for such costs without giving such notice.

(5) Where the plaintiff has not given notice of acceptance in accordance with paragraph 1 of this rule, he may nevertheless accept the money paid into court at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to the payment of any costs which may have been reasonably incurred by the defendant since the date of payment into court, and which may be allowed by the court.

(6) In default of acceptance by the plaintiff the action may proceed.

(7) Where money is paid into court without a denial of liability, or under a defence of tender, and the action proceeds, the sum paid into court shall be included for the purpose of calculating the amount on which the hearing fee and any costs allowed to the plaintiff are to be charged: but if the plaintiff recovers more than the sum so paid judgment shall be entered only for the additional amount recovered and the fees and costs so allowed; and in any such case the words "in addition to the sum of £ paid into court by the defendant" shall be added to the first paragraph of the form of judgment in the Appendix.

Payment into court by one or some of several defendants sued jointly.

ceedings in respect of the joint cause of action, except as to costs, shall be stayed, and the judge may upon application by any party make such order as may appear to be just as to the costs of the plaintiff and of the defendants (other than the defendant or defendants who has or have made the payment into court) incurred in respect of the cause of action satisfied by such payment. If the plaintiff does not accept the money so paid in by one or some but not all of several defendants in respect of a joint cause of action, but proceeds to trial and recovers no more than the amount paid into court, the judge may make such order as may appear to be just in respect of the costs of the joint cause of action as between the plaintiff and the defendants other than the defendant or defendants who has or have made the payment into court. O. IX. r. 13.

14. Where a defendant, in an action of libel remitted under section sixty-six of the Act, pays money into court under section two of the Libel Act, 1843, the rules of this Order shall apply to and be observed with reference to such payment into court, so far as they are applicable. Payment in remitted action of libel. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 66. 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 2. Form 87.

The transmission to the county court of money paid into the High Court or a district registry before the action was transferred or remitted, is provided for by Order XXXIII. r. 3A.

15. Where a notice of defence under section eighty-six of the Act, has been given, and the defendant, before notice of the day fixed by the registrar for the trial has been sent to the plaintiff, pays into court the amount or a portion of the amount claimed, together with a sum in respect of the court fees and solicitor's costs (if any) entered on the summons proportionate to the amount paid in in respect of the claim, he shall not be liable to any further costs if the plaintiff accepts the money paid in in satisfaction of his claim. Where payment into court is made after notice of trial has been so sent, the provisions of Rule 13 of this Order shall apply. Where payment made after notice of defence given under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 86.

16. A plaintiff may, in answer to a counter-claim, pay money into court in satisfaction thereof, subject to the like conditions as to costs and otherwise as upon payment into court by a defendant. Payment by plaintiff in answer to counter-claim.

It will be paid out, pursuant to Order II. r. 10, on proof to the registrar's satisfaction that the person applying is entitled or authorised to receive it (see Order IX. r. 21).

17. Where a defendant pays into court any sum admitted by him to be due, after deducting any amount claimed by him as a set-off or counter-claim, he must pay into court in respect of the court fees and solicitor's costs (if any) entered on the summons a Fees and costs on payment of amount admitted after Acceptance of money paid into court under defence of tender. Costs.

18. Where a defendant pays money into court under a defence of tender, the plaintiff may accept the same in satisfaction of his claim in accordance with Rule 13 ; but he shall not be entitled to take out of court the amount so accepted, nor to any costs, without the order of the court ; and the court may make such order as may be just as to the costs of either party, and may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be deducted from such amount and paid to the defendant.

19. Where a defendant pays into court a sum less than the sum claimed, with a notice of denial of liability, and the plaintiff does not accept the same in satisfaction of his claim, the money shall not be paid out until after the trial and judgment ; and if the plaintiff recovers less than the amount paid into court, the balance of such amount shall be repaid to the defendant, unless the court otherwise orders, and the court may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be set off against the amount recovered by the plaintiff ; and if the defendant succeeds, the whole amount paid into court shall be repaid to him, unless the court otherwise orders.

In either case, judgment should be entered for the defendant, with, subject to the general discretion of the judge, costs (Wood v. Leetham, (1892) 61 L. J. Q. B. 215).

20. Where money is paid to the plaintiff instead of being paid into court, the following provisions shall apply :—

(1) If the plaintiff accepts the money so paid in satisfaction of his claim, he shall send to the registrar and to the defendant notice of such acceptance in accordance with Rule 13 of this Order.

(2) Thereupon the action shall abate, except as herein provided, and the plaintiff shall not be liable to any costs incurred by the defendant after receiving such notice.

Form 77.

(3) In any such case the court may, in its discretion, order the defendant to pay such fees and costs, beyond the fees and costs (if any) paid to the plaintiff by the defendant, as the plaintiff may have properly incurred for work done before the receipt of the money so paid, and in attending the court to obtain the order for the same (including, if the judge on consideration of the facts of the case so orders, any of the items which might have been allowed by order of the judge at the trial), but no hearing fee shall be charged.

(4) If the plaintiff intends to apply for such costs, he shall give notice of his intention according to the form in the Appendix, in accordance with Rule 13 of this Order, or where the time of payment to the plaintiff by the defendant does not permit of notice of acceptance being given, the plaintiff may apply for such costs without giving such notice. O. IX. r. 20. Form 76.

(5) Where the plaintiff has not given notice of acceptance in accordance with paragraph 1 of this Rule, he may nevertheless accept the money paid to him at any time before the case is called on and opened, subject to the payment of any costs which may have been reasonably incurred by the defendant since the date of payment, and which may be allowed by the court.

(6) In default of acceptance the action may proceed.

(7) If the action proceeds, the sum paid to the plaintiff shall be included for the purpose of calculating the amount on which the hearing fee and any costs allowed to the plaintiff are to be charged; but if the plaintiff recovers more than the sum so paid, judgment shall be entered only for the additional amount recovered and for the fees and costs so allowed to the plaintiff: and if the plaintiff recovers no more than the sum so paid, the judge may order him to pay to the defendant the costs incurred by him after such payment. [Hughes v. Justin, 1894, 1 Q. B. 667.]

21. Money paid into court, whether under a judgment or order, or otherwise, shall be paid out to plaintiffs pursuant to Order II. Rule 10, on production of the plaint note or the duplicate mentioned in Order VII. Rule 1, and to defendants on production of the summons issued in the action, or the duplicate mentioned in Order LIV. Rule 26. Money paid into court by plaintiffs in replevin or under Rule 16 of this Order shall be paid out pursuant to Order II. Rule 10, on proof to the satisfaction of the registrar that the person applying for the same is entitled or authorised to receive the same. Payment of money out of court.

How obtained out of Court.]—Money is obtained by plaintiffs out of court, whether paid under a judgment or otherwise, upon production of the plaint-note, or duplicate, as provided below, and by defendants on production of the summons. In the event of the original being lost or destroyed, on proof, by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the registrar that the person applying is the plaintiff or his duly authorised agent, and that he is entitled to the moneys in court, the registrar may, from time to time, issue a duplicate (Order VII. r. 1). Money paid into court by plaintiffs in replevin, or in answer to a counterclaim, will be paid out on proof that the person applying is entitled or authorised to receive it.

Upon an application by the plaintiff for payment out of court, the defendant's trustee in bankruptcy cannot claim the money on behalf of the bankrupt's estate (London Fancy Box Co. v. Berkeley, (1906) 96 L. T. 727).

If the person entitled to the money does not reside or carry on business in the district of the court in which the money has been paid, he may send by prepaid post to the registrar of the court in which the money has been paid, the proof of title required by the last preceding rule and a receipt signed by the party (duly stamped where necessary), with a request that the money may be transmitted to him by post; and a stamped envelope addressed to himself. The registrar must examine the documents sent, and when satisfied that the applicant is entitled or authorised to receive the money, shall return the documents, and send to such person a crossed cheque or crossed post-office order in the addressed envelope. The remittance will be at the risk of the person to whom, and at whose request, it is made. The registrar on a written request from any such party or his solicitor (if his solicitor has no office within the district) enclosing stamped and addressed envelope for reply, shall give information as to the money (if any) paid into court. If information in more than twenty actions is called for the solicitor may be required to attend at the court. The several districts of the metropolitan courts are to be considered inter se as one district only for the purposes of this rule (Order IX. r. 22). Hence a person residing or carrying on business in one district of the metropolis cannot obtain payment through the post of money paid to his credit in the court of another district of the metropolis (Order IX. r. 22, infra).

If money be paid out of court by mistake to the wrong person, the judge may order him to refund, and in default execution may issue (Aspey v. Jones, (1884) 54 L. J. Q. B. 98).

Money due to suitors must be paid out of court in cash, if required, on three days, at least, in each week, the days being fixed by the registrar from time to time, with the approbation of the judge, and being printed or written on the plaint-note. During one week in the year, of which due notice must be fixed a month beforehand in some conspicuous place in the office of the registrar, no payments will be made out of court (Order II. r. 10).

The above rules do not apply to payment out of court in equity actions or matters (Order IX. r. 23).

See, as to money unclaimed for six years, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 173, ante, p. 206.

Payment to parties out of the district by cheque or money order.

22. (1) Where money has been paid into court to the credit of any party to any proceeding who neither resides nor carries on business within the district of the court, such party may transmit by prepaid post to the registrar the proof of title required by the last preceding rule, with a request for the transmission of the money by post, and a receipt for the same (duly stamped where necessary) signed by such party, and an envelope addressed to himself, with sufficient postage thereon; and the registrar shall examine the documents transmitted to him, and when satisfied that the applicant is entitled or authorised to receive the money shall return the documents and forward the amount, less the cost of remittance, by crossed cheque or crossed money order, in the addressed envelope, payment by post being in all cases at the risk of the party requesting the same.

Information as to money in Court.

(2) For the purposes of this Rule the registrar shall on receipt of a written request from any such party or his solicitor (if the solicitor has no office within the district), together with a stamped and addressed envelope for reply, forward to the party or his solicitor in the addressed envelope information as to the amount (if any) paid into court. Provided that if a party or his solicitor requests such information in more than twenty actions at the same time, the registrar may require him to attend at the office of the court. O. IX. r. 22.

(3) For the purposes of this Rule the several districts of the Metropolitan Courts shall be considered inter se as one district only.

NOTE.—Revised by Rules of 1917, dated February 19th, 1917.

23. The rules of this Order as to payment into or out of court shall not apply to any payment into or out of court in pursuance of any order or direction made under the provisions of sections sixty-seven to seventy-one of the Act, or the Partition Acts, 1868 and 1876, or otherwise under the equitable jurisdiction of the court. When rules of this order not to apply. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 67—71. 31 & 32 Vict. c. 40. 39 & 40 Vict. c. 17.

24. In any action or matter in which money or damages is or are claimed by or on behalf of an infant, or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, no settlement or compromise or acceptance of money paid into court, whether before or at or after the trial, shall be valid without the sanction of the judge, and no money or damages recovered or awarded in any such action or matter, whether by settlement, compromise, payment into court, or otherwise, before or at or after the trial, shall be paid to the next friend of the plaintiff or to the plaintiff's solicitor unless the judge shall so direct. All money or damages so recovered or awarded shall, unless the judge shall otherwise direct, be paid into court to the credit of an account intituled in the action or matter; and any sum so paid into court may either be invested (a) or be paid from time to time out of court to such person as the judge may direct, to be held and applied for the maintenance and education or otherwise for the benefit of such infant or person of unsound mind in such manner as the judge may from time to time direct. Settlement of claims on behalf of infants or persons of unsound mind. Payment into court and application of moneys recovered or awarded.

The provisions of this rule shall apply to all actions in which damages are claimed or awarded or recovered by, to, or on behalf of an infant or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition under the Fatal Accidents Act, 1846 (9 & 10 Vict. c. 93). 9 & 10 Vict. c. 93.

Nothing in this rule shall prejudice the lien of a solicitor for costs.

Orders as to moneys in court or invested under last rule.

25. When any moneys have been paid into court or invested pursuant to the order of the judge under the last preceding rule, it shall not be necessary that applications in regard to them shall be made by petition. Any person interested may apply in person to the judge, and he, on such evidence of right and identity as he may think necessary, may make such order as he may think fit.

Payment into court not to be communicated to jury.

26. Where an action or matter is tried with a jury, no communication to the jury shall be made until after the verdict is given, either of the fact that money has been paid into court, or of the amount paid in. The jury shall be required to find the amount of the debt or damages, as the case may be, without reference to any payment into court.

ORDER X.

SPECIAL DEFENCES.

Where plaintiff sues on behalf of others.

1. Where a plaintiff sues on behalf of or for the benefit of others having the same interest, the defendant may avail himself of any defence in respect of each of the persons in whose behalf or for whose benefit the plaintiff so sues which he would have had against such person if he had been plaintiff.

See Forms 96, 97, 98.

Set-off and counter-claim.

2. A defendant in an action may set-off, or set up by way of counter-claim against the claims of the plaintiff, any right or claim whether such set-off or counter-claim sound in damages or not, and such set-off or counter-claim shall have the same effect as a cross action, so as to enable the court to pronounce a final judgment in the same action, both on the original and on the cross claim.

See Winterfield v. Bradnum (C. A.), (1878) 5 Q. B. D. 324, 326; 47 L. J. Q. B. 270, per Brett, L.J.; Sykes v. Sacerdoti (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 423; 54 L. J. Q. B. 561.

Objection by plaintiff under 47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18.

3. Where the plaintiff objects in writing under the powers given by section eighteen of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884, to the court giving any relief on any counter-claim exceeding that which the court would have jurisdiction to give independently of that section, he shall give notice in writing of his objection to the registrar and to the defendant, according to the form in the Appendix, within two clear days after the receipt of notice of the counter-claim. The plaintiff may at the time of giving notice of objection also give notice that he will on the day fixed for the trial apply to the judge to adjudicate upon the original claim (if not admitted), subject to such order as the judge may make for the stay of execution or otherwise in reference thereto. O. X. r. 3. Form 78.

The notice of objection will cut down the jurisdiction to the point at which it stood prior to the Act above cited, i.e., the judge will not be able to give effect to the counterclaim for any purpose other than that of defeating the plaintiff's claim (47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18; Davis v. Flagstaff Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. C. P. 503); and the defendant will be compelled to sue for the residue in the High Court, but the plaintiff will there be estopped from litigating the questions, except as to amount, over again (Webster v. Armstrong, (1885) 54 L. J. K. B. 236). At the time of giving notice of objection, the plaintiff may give notice that he will on the day fixed for the trial apply to the judge to adjudicate on the original claim (Order X. r. 3).

Removal into High Court.]—It appears that whether any such notices be given or not, the court may of its own motion or on the application of either party, at or before the trial, adjourn the trial to enable either party to apply for the removal of the whole proceedings into the High Court (under the provisions of sect. 126), or it may give judgment on the plaintiff's claim and stay execution for such time as may be necessary to enable the defendant to establish his counterclaim by action in a court of competent jurisdiction. If, however, after such adjournment, neither party applies to remove the proceedings, or if the defendant does not bring his action within the time named, the court will then have complete jurisdiction over the whole matter as if the parties had consented to the jurisdiction (47 & 48 Vict. c. 61, s. 18. The above paragraphs are submitted as the effect of the provisions just cited. They are open, however, to much discussion. It is not absolutely certain, for example, that the powers of the last paragraph can be exercised if the plaintiff has objected to the jurisdiction. Moreover, this singular result might happen. A plaintiff might object to the jurisdiction, and the judge might give judgment for him on his claim, but stay proceedings for three months to enable the defendant to bring an action. At the end of the three months, if defendant had not brought his action, the judge would have jurisdiction, although plaintiff objected and had no control over the defendant).

Prohibition will not lie before the trial merely because a defendant raises by counterclaim matters which would not be within the jurisdiction of the court if raised by original action (Davis v. Flagstaff Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228).

4. In an action of ejectment or for the recovery of possession of a tenement any person not named as a defendant in the summons may by leave of the court be allowed to appear and defend on filing, in an action of ejectment twelve clear days, and in an action for the recovery of possession five clear days at least before the return day an affidavit, together with as many copies thereof as there are plaintiffs and defendants, showing that he is in possession either by himself or his tenant of the property or some part thereof mentioned in the particulars (such part being described in the In action of ejectment or for recovery of possession, any person not named as a defendant may, by leave, appear.

affidavit with reasonable certainty); and upon such affidavit being filed and leave given, the registrar shall enter the name, address, and description of the person filing the affidavit in the plaint book as a defendant in addition to the name of every person originally made defendant, and shall in an action of ejectment ten clear days, and in an action for the recovery of possession three clear days at least before the return day give notice, according to the form in the Appendix, by post or otherwise, to the plaintiffs and the original defendants, that the person filing the affidavit has filed the same, and will appear and defend at the trial of the action, annexing to each notice a copy of the affidavit. In all subsequent proceedings in the action, the person filing the affidavit shall be named as a defendant.

In cases under the extended jurisdiction, "twenty clear days" is substituted for "twelve clear days," "ten clear days" for "five clear days," "eighteen clear days" for "ten clear days," and "eight clear days" for "three clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 11).

In action of ejectment or for recovery of possession, defendant may give notice that he will limit his defence to part of the property.
Form 255.

5. In an action of ejectment or for the recovery of possession of a tenement any defendant may, in an action of ejectment twelve clear days, and in an action for the recovery of possession five clear days at least before the return-day, file with the registrar a notice in writing, together with a copy for the plaintiff, according to the form in the Appendix, that he intends to limit his defence to a part only of the property mentioned in the particulars, describing that part in such notice with reasonable certainty; and the registrar shall in an action of ejectment ten clear days, and in an action for the recovery of possession three clear days at least before the return day send the copy of such notice by post to the plaintiff.

See Order LIV. rr. 13, 14.

In cases under the extended jurisdiction, "twenty clear days" is substituted for "twelve clear days," "ten clear days" for "five clear days," "eighteen clear days" for "ten clear days," and "eight clear days" for "three clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 11).

Objection to jurisdiction of court.
51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 62.
Form 79.
Form 82.

6. A defendant intending to avail himself of the power given by section sixty-two of the Act, to object to an action being tried in the court, shall give notice in writing to the registrar and to the plaintiff five clear days at least before the return-day, by post or otherwise, according to the form in the Appendix, and shall therein name the parties whom he proposes to be his sureties, or state therein his willingness to deposit money in lieu of giving security, and if he fails to give such security or make such deposit before the return day, or fails to give such notice of his intention to object as aforesaid, he shall not be entitled to object to the action being tried in the court. He shall also after giving such notice as aforesaid apply ex parte to the judge on affidavit for his certificate that in his opinion some important question of law or fact is likely to arise in the action, and if the certificate is granted notice thereof shall be sent by the registrar to the plaintiff by post or otherwise. The affidavit above referred to shall specify any important questions of law or fact which are likely to arise in the action; and in the case of a question of law, shall further specify the facts which are relied on as likely to raise such question. O. X. r. 6. Form 80 Form 81.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, the notice must be given ten clear days at least before the return day (Order XXIIA. r. 12).
For form of bond, see Form 82.

7. Where a plaintiff avails himself of the provisions of section ninety-seven of the Act, and does not proceed against all of several persons jointly answerable, every defendant sued may avail himself of any defence or counter-claim to which he would have been entitled if all the persons liable were made defendants. Where one of several persons jointly answerable is sued. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 97.

It should be remembered that it is a principle of law that a judgment against one of several joint contractors is a bar to an action against the others (King v. Hoare, (1844) 13 M. & W. 494; 14 L. J. Ex. 29; 67 R. R. 694; Kendall v. Hamilton, (1879) 4 App. Cas. 504); and that the provision of the County Courts Act above-mentioned does not prevent the principle from applying in the county courts, so as to estop the plaintiff from maintaining another action. In a remitted action two defendants were represented by the same solicitor, and, judgment with costs having been given for one and against the other, the successful defendant was held entitled to recover from the plaintiff half the costs of the defence (Beaumont v. Senior, (1903) 1 K. B. 282; 72 L. J. K. B. 141).

One defendant cannot counterclaim against another. If there be any right to enforce in the action any claim against a co-defendant, it must be under the provisions stated in the next section in reference to contribution (Furness v. Booth (M. R.), (1877) 4 Ch. D. 586; 46 L. J. Ch. 112). A third party brought in by a defendant under a claim for contribution or indemnity cannot counterclaim the plaintiff (Eden v. Weardale Co. (C. A.), (1885) 28 Ch. D. 333; 54 L. J. Ch. 384). A third party brought in as defendant to a counterclaim cannot counterclaim the defendant who brings him in, nor the plaintiff (Alcoy, etc., Co. v. Greenhill (C. A.), (1896) 1 Ch. 19; 65 L. J. Ch. 99; following Street v. Gover, (1877) 2 Q. B. D. 498; 46 L. J. Q. B. 582).

8. Where in an action any person has been improperly or unnecessarily joined as a co-plaintiff, and a defendant has set up a set-off or counter-claim, he may obtain the benefit thereof by establishing his set-off or counter-claim as against the parties other than the co-plaintiff so joined, notwithstanding the misjoinder of such plaintiff or any proceeding consequent thereon. Misjoinder of plaintiffs not to defeat counter-claim.

9. A defendant in any action or matter may file a statement disclaiming any interest in the subject matter thereof, or admitting Disclaimer, admission and other statements by defendant. Form 83.

or denying any of the statements in the plaintiff's particulars, or raising any question of law on such statements without admitting the truth thereof; or he may state concisely any new fact or document upon which he intends to rely as a defence, or which he intends to bring to the notice of the court; and a copy of such statement shall be filed therewith, and such copy shall be transmitted by the registrar to the plaintiff: Provided always, that in exercising his discretion as to costs the judge shall consider the fact of a defendant having or not having availed himself of the powers given by this rule. This rule shall apply to a plaintiff who is defendant by counter-claim.

As to confession of judgment, see Order IX. r. 5, and for notice of admission of facts, Order IX. r. 6.

Notice to be given of special defences. Forms 84, 85.

10. Where a defendant intends to rely on any of the grounds of defence mentioned in Rules 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 of this Order (a), or upon any set-off or counter-claim, he shall file in duplicate a notice stating thereon his name and address, together with a concise statement of his grounds of defence, or of his set-off or counter-claim, five clear days at least before the return day; and the registrar shall thereupon, within twenty-four hours after receiving the same, transmit by post one copy of such notice and statement to the plaintiff: Provided that in case of non-compliance with this and the above-mentioned rules, and of the plaintiff's not consenting at the trial to permit the defendant to avail himself of such defence, set-off, or counter-claim, the judge may, on such terms as he may think fit, adjourn the trial of the action to enable the defendant to give such notice.

In cases under the extended jurisdiction, and in remitted actions where the claim exceeds £50 or is for damages, the notice must be filed ten clear days at least before the return day instead of five clear days. (Order XXIIa, r. 13; Order XXXIII., r. 3b).

NOTE.—(a) And see now rr. 21 and 21A of this order.

Special Defences.]—The special defences are Infancy, Coverture, any Statute of Limitations, Bankruptcy, truth of a libel or slander, mitigating circumstances or character of the plaintiff in action of libel or slander, defence under any Act of Parliament, equitable defence, tender, fraud or misrepresentation (r. 21A). Similar notice, or notices, must be given where plaintiff relies on any such defence as an answer to a counterclaim set up by the defendant (see rr. 11, 21, 21A, 22). The Gaming Acts need not be specially pleaded (r. 18 (2)).

"Set-off."—To a claim for the price of goods sold, the defence that the goods were warranted and that there was a breach of such warranty is not a "set-off" or "statutory defence" within the meaning of this rule (Bright v. Rogers, [1917] 1 K. B. 917; 86 L. J. K. B. 804).

Set-off or counter-claim. Form 84

11. Where a defendant intends to rely on a set-off or counter-claim against any of the claims of the plaintiff, his statement shall contain particulars of such set-off or counter-claim, and mutatis mutandis the provisions of Order VI. shall apply to such particulars. O. X. r. 11.

If a defendant gives an imperfect notice, and is thereby precluded from proving his set-off at the trial, he may still enforce it by subsequent original action (Stanton v. Styles, (1850) 5 Ex. 578; 19 L. J. Ex. 336; and see Hindley v. Haslam, (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 481).

12. Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of infancy, he shall in his statement set forth, so far as he is able, the place and date of his birth. Infancy. Form 85.

An infant who has obtained loans by fraudulent misrepresentation that he was of full age cannot be made liable to repay them on attaining full age, either as damages for fraudulent misrepresentation, or as money had and received, or on equitable grounds (see R. Leslie, Ltd. v. Shiell, (1914) 3 K. B. 607; 83 L. J. K. B. 1145).

13. Where a female defendant intends to rely on the defence of coverture, she shall in her statement set forth, so far as she is able, the place and date of her marriage, together with the Christian name and surname of her husband, and his address and description so far as known. Coverture. Form 85.

14. Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of any statute of limitations, his statement shall be according to the form in the Appendix. Statute of limitations. Form 85.

The inclusion of a debt in an affidavit for probate is not a sufficient acknowledgment of the same to take it out of the statute (Lloyd v. Coote, (1915) 1 K. B. 242; 84 L. J. K. B. 567).

See Eaton v. Tapley, (1899) 1 Q. B. 953; 68 L. J. Q. B. 638.

The Public Authorities' Protection Act, 1893, s. 1, is a statute of limitations, and should be so pleaded (Gregory v. Torquay Corporation, (1912) 1 K. B. 442; 80 L. J. K. B. 981). See also Parson v. Nesbitt, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 654.

15. Where a defendant intends to rely on the defence of a release under any statute relating to bankrupts, he shall in his statement set forth the date of his discharge, and the court by which such discharge was granted. Bankruptcy. Form 85.

16. Where in any action for libel or slander the defendant relies as a defence on the fact that the libel or slander is true, he shall in his statement set forth that the libel or slander complained of is true in substance. Defence that libel or slander is true. Form 85.

If he relies upon an apology, or payment into court and apology under the provisions of sects. 1 and 2 of the Libel Act, 1843, he must give notice in writing (Forms 86, 87), signed by himself or his solicitor, five clear days at least before the day fixed for the trial (Order XXXIII. r. 4).

17. Where in any action for libel or slander the defendant does not rely as a defence on the fact that the libel or slander is true, Facts in mitigation of damages but relies in mitigation of damages on the circumstances under which the libel or slander was published, or on the character of the plaintiff, he shall in his statement give particulars of the matters relating thereto as to which he intends to give evidence.

O. X. r. 17. in libel or slander. Forms 86, 87.

These cases can only arise where the parties agree to give the court jurisdiction, or where an action is remitted by the High Court for trial.

Statutory defence. Form 85.

18. When in any action the defendant relies on any statutory defence, or on any defence of which he is required by the Act or any statute to give notice, he shall in his statement (except in the case provided for by Rule 14 of this Order) set forth the year, chapter, and section of the statute, or the short title thereof, and the particular matter on which he relies, or otherwise sufficiently indicate the nature of the defence on which he relies.

But this rule does not entitle a plaintiff to maintain an action contrary to the provisions of the Gaming Acts, 1845 or 1892, by reason of the Acts not having been pleaded as a defence (Order X. r. 18 (2)).

The defence afforded to county court bailiffs by sect. 54 of the County Courts Act, 1888, is such a defence (Denny v. Bennett, (1896) 44 W. R. 333).

The rule clearly covers those cases in which the general issue by statute can be pleaded. In an action against a local board it was held that the board could not, at the trial, object to the sufficiency of a notice of action given under the Public Health Act, 1875, no notice of such defence having been given under the rule (Kay v. Atherton Loc. Bd., (1878) 42 J. P. 792. Overruled in Graham v. Mayor of Newcastle, (1893) 1 Q. B. 643; 62 L. J. Q. B. 315, but on another point). So in an action against a police officer, where notice of action had not been given in time, but no notice of defence had been given, it was held that the judge was wrong in nonsuiting the plaintiff (Allwright v. Perks, (1893) 9 T. L. R. 235). So want or insufficiency of a notice of injury under the Employers' Liability Act (Conroy v. Peacock, (1897) 2 Q. B. 6; 66 L. J. Q. B. 425); no memorandum in writing under sect. 4 of the Sale of Goods Act (Brutton v. Branson, (1898) 2 Q. B. 219; 67 L. J. Q. B. 827); no signed bill of solicitor's costs (Lewis v. Burrell, (1898) 77 L. T. 626); a defence under the Gaming Act, 1892 (Willis v. Lovick, (1901) 2 K. B. 195; 70 L. J. K. B. 656; and see Renton v. King, (1905) 93 L. T. 10), are all statutory defences, though the plaintiff can no longer avail himself of the omission to plead the last-named Act as a defence (Order X. r. 18 (2)). The notice of objections to the plaintiff's title under the Copyright Act, 1842, s. 16 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 16), would, it is believed, be within the rule (Harris v. Sheldon, W. N. (1889) 92, 128, was decided before the new rule). The rule applies to actions of contract.

A defence of breach of warranty in an action for the price of goods is not a special statutory defence, for though the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, sects. 10—14, define and deal with contracts of warranty, such a defence does not owe its validity to the statute. Semble: A statutory defence is one which has its origin only in a statute (Bright v. Rogers, (1917) 1 K. B. 917).

Proviso as to Gaming Acts, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 109, s. 18; 55 & 56 Vict. c. 9.

(2) Nothing in this rule shall entitle a plaintiff to maintain an action contrary to the provisions of the Gaming Acts, 1845 or 1892, by reason of those Acts not having been pleaded as a defence.

A partner with a bookmaker may sue his partner for an account, though he cannot recover anything which represents the profits of the business (Keen v. Price, (1914) 2 Ch. 98; 83 L. J. Ch. 865). O. X. r. 18. Notes.

19. Where a defendant claims to be entitled as matter of defence to any equitable estate or right, or to relief on any equitable ground against the claim of the plaintiff, or any part thereof, he shall in his statement show concisely the circumstances which give rise to such defence, and set forth separately each of the grounds of equitable defence. Equitable relief. Form 85.

Equitable Defence.]—That is to say, where a defendant has to rely on facts which would formerly have entitled him to relief in equity against the plaintiff's claim, he must concisely state them (see Heap v. Marris, (1876) 2 Q. B. D. 630; 46 L. J. Q. B. 761).

A defence of this kind must not be confounded with counterclaim. Where the facts relied on go to defeat the claim of the plaintiff, whether by way of denial of the claim or by way of admission—that, e.g., something was due, the right to recover which has been avoided—then such facts constitute a proper matter of defence. But if they go to show a claim of a different nature, not merely denying or avoiding the plaintiff's claim, such facts constitute a ground for a counterclaim, and not a defence on equitable grounds. The defendant may, in the way of defence, rely on any equitable matter; and, so far as it goes to defeat the plaintiff's claim, the judge has power to entertain any defence whatsoever (see Davis v. Flaystaff Co. (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 228; 47 L. J. C. P. 503), whether he would or would not have jurisdiction if the matter came before him by way of original claim or counterclaim. A defendant might set up as a defence to an action upon a deed, that its terms had been, by mutual mistake of the parties, wrongly expressed. The court might then for the purposes of the action treat the deed as reformed, though it could not go further and actually reform it on a mere defence (see Breslauer v. Barwick, (1876) 36 L. T. 52; 24 W. R. 901; Mostyn v. West Mostyn Coal Co., (1875) 1 C. P. D. 145; 45 L. J. C. P. 401).

This provision apparently obliges a defendant to give notice of the facts relied on by way of defence in all equitable actions, as if the relief claimed by the plaintiff be equitable, the defence will probably also be so.

20. Where the defence is a tender, such defence shall not be available unless, at the time of filing the notice of such defence, the defendant makes payment into court (which may be without costs) of the amount alleged to have been tendered. Tender. Form 85

Tender.]—If the defendant has, at any time before the commencement of the action, tendered to the plaintiff the amount claimed, or what he considers to be due to the plaintiff, he may set it up as a defence; and if he succeeds in establishing it, and no further sum is awarded to the plaintiff, the defendant will generally obtain all the costs of the action. The defence is not available unless, with notice of defence, the defendant pays into court (the payment may be made without costs) the amount alleged to have been tendered. Notice of the defence and payment into court will be given by the registrar to the plaintiff in accordance with Order X. r. 10. The plaintiff may accept the money in satisfaction; he will not, however, be entitled to take it out of court or to any costs without an order of the court, which may make such order as to the costs of either party as may be just, and may order any costs awarded to the defendant to be deducted from the amount paid into court and to be paid to the defendant (Order IX. r. 18).

When available.]—The defence of tender cannot be raised to a claim for unliquidated damages (Dearle v. Barrett, (1834) 2 A. & E. 82; S. C., nom.

O. X. r. 20. Notes.

Searle v. Barrett, 4 N. & M. 200), except in some cases of wrong, as when by statute a tender of amends is permissible, and may be relied on at the trial. These cases, however, differ from tender in its ordinary sense.

A tender need not be made by the debtor in person, it may be made by a third person on his behalf (Bac. Abr., Tender A). Nor is it necessary to make it to the creditor personally; it may be made to an agent authorised to receive the money for him (per Parke, B., Kirton v. Braithwaite, (1836) 1 M. & W. 310, 313; 15 L. J. Ex. 165). A tender of part of an entire demand is bad (Dixon v. Clark, (1849) 5 C. B. 365; 16 L. J. C. P. 237; 75 R. R. 747). A tender of a larger amount than is due is good (Wade's Case, (1601) 5 Rep. 115a; Dean v. James, (1832) 4 B. & Ad. 546), unless objected to for want of change (Bevans v. Rees, (1839) 5 M. & W. 306, 308; 8 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 263; 52 R. R. 727, per Lord Abinger, C.B.; Betterbee v. Davis, (1811) 3 Camp. 70; 13 R. R. 755). So a tender of 2*l.* by a debtor who owed 1*l.* 13*s.* (Cadman v. Lubbock, (1824) 5 D. & R. 289; 3 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 41), and a tender of 20*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* in notes and silver by a debtor who owed 20*l.* (Dean v. James, supra), have been held good. Bank of England notes are a good legal tender for all sums above 5*l.* (3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 98, s. 6), and so for any amount now are Currency notes issued by the Treasury, "Currency and Bank Notes Act, 1914" (4 & 5 Geo. V., c. 14, s. 1). There must be an actual production of the money, or its production must be expressly or impliedly dispensed with (Thomas v. Evans, (1808) 10 East, 101; Finch v. Brook, (1834) 1 Scott, 70, 76, per Tindal, C.J.; 1 Bing. N. C. 253; 4 L. J. (N. S.) C. P. 1; 41 R. R. 595); and the tender must be made unconditionally (Laing v. Meader, (1824) 1 C. & P. 257; Ford v. Noll, (1842) 12 L. J. C. P. 2); but it is believed that merely demanding a stamped receipt for the amount offered to be paid would not now make a tender bad (Richardson v. Jackson, (1841) 8 M. & W. 298; 10 L. J. Ex. 303; 54 & 55 Vict. c. 39, s. 103). A cheque sent by post in a letter and objected to merely as to amount was held to be a good tender (Jones v. Arthur, (1840) 8 Dowl. 442; 59 R. R. 833, per Coleridge, J.).

Notice of defence to counter-claim.

21. Where in answer to a counter-claim the plaintiff intends to rely on any of the defences mentioned in Rules 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 of this Order, he shall file notice thereof in accordance with the said rules. All the provisions of Rule 10 of this Order, mutatis mutandis, shall apply to such notice, except that the provision as to the time for giving such notice shall not apply unless the plaintiff, after receipt of notice of counter-claim, might, if he had used reasonable expedition, have filed his notice five clear days before the return day.

In cases under the extended jurisdiction "ten clear days" is substituted for "five clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 13 (2)).

The provisions of this rule apply to a person made defendant to a counter-claim in the same manner as to a person made defendant to an action, or to a plaintiff made defendant to a counterclaim (Order X. r. 22).

Notice of fraud or misrepresentation as defence to claim or counterclaim.

21A. Where a defendant, or a plaintiff in answer to a counterclaim, intends to rely on alleged fraud or misrepresentation, he shall file a notice in accordance with Rule 10 or Rule 21 of this Order, and shall in his statement set forth concisely the particulars of the fraud or misrepresentation on which he intends to rely.

As to what constitutes fraud or misrepresentation, see Derry v. Peek, (1889) 14 A. C. 337; 58 L. J. Ch. 864, and Nocton v. Ashburton (Lord), (1914) A. C. 932; 83 L. J. Ch. 784. O. X. r. 21a. Notes.

Where counter-claim affects other persons.

22. Where a defendant by his defence sets up any counter-claim which raises questions between himself and the plaintiff along with any other person, he may apply to the court, under Order XIV. Rule 2, to add the name of such person as a party to the counter-claim; and that rule, and the other provisions of Order XIV., and Rule 21 of this Order, shall apply to a person made defendant to a counter-claim in the same manner as to a person made defendant to an action, or to a plaintiff made defendant to a counter-claim.

The cause of action must be joint, not alternative (Times Cold Storage Co. v. Lowther, (1911) 2 K. B. 100; 80 L. J. K. B. 901).

ORDER XI.

Claim for Contribution or Indemnity.

Notice of claim to contribution or indemnity. Filing and service. Form 88.

1.—(1) Where a defendant claims to be entitled to contribution or indemnity against any person not a party to the action, he shall, five clear days at least before the return day, file in duplicate a notice of his claim, according to the form in the Appendix, and the registrar shall seal such notices and deliver one of them to the defendant, who shall forthwith serve the same, together with a copy of the summons in the action and of the particulars annexed thereto, on the person against whom such claim is made, according to the rules relating to the service of default summonses.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction "ten clear days" is substituted for "five clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 14).

An alien enemy who is defendant in an action cannot bring in a third party for the purpose of claiming contribution or indemnity. See Halsey v. Lowenfeld (Leigh & Curzon third parties), (1916) 1 K. B. 143; 2 K. B. 707.

(2) Where the original action has been commenced by default summons, the defendant shall not be entitled to serve a notice under this rule before he gives notice of intention to defend, or, if the plaint is entered under the Summary Procedure on Bills of Exchange Act, 1855, before he obtains leave to defend; and where after notice of intention to defend or leave to defend has been given the defendant files a notice under this rule, the registrar shall on the filing of such notice seal and deliver to the defendant a duplicate of the notice of the day on which the action will be tried, and the defendant shall serve the same with the notice of his claim. 18 & 19 Vict. c. 67.

(3) Where, if the defendant desired to enter a plaint and issue a summons against the person against whom he claims to be en- Leave, when required. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 74.

O. XI. r. 1.

titled to contribution or indemnity, leave to enter such plaint would be required under section seventy-four of the Act, the defendant shall not be entitled to serve a notice under this rule without leave of the court, to be obtained in the manner in which leave to enter a plaint is obtained.

Appearance of third party.

2. If any person served with a notice under the last preceding rule (hereinafter called the third party) desires to dispute the plaintiff's claim in the action as against the defendant on whose behalf the notice has been given, or his own liability to the defendant, he must appear at the court on the return-day mentioned in the summons (or in case the original action is commenced by default summons on the day mentioned in the notice of trial), or on any day to which he may have received notice from the registrar that the trial has been adjourned or postponed; and in default of his so doing he shall be deemed to admit the validity of the judgment obtained against such defendant, whether obtained by consent or otherwise, and his own liability to contribute or indemnify, as the case may be, to the extent claimed in the said notice.

Default of appearance

Provided that if it appears to the court that the notice of claim has not been served on the third party in time to enable him to appear on the day hereinbefore mentioned, or that for any other sufficient cause the third party is unable to appear on such day, the court may adjourn the proceedings against the third party, or the original action and the proceedings against the third party, on such terms, as to costs and otherwise, as may be just.

Proceedings on default of appearance by third party.

3. Where a third party fails to appear on the day mentioned in Rule 2 of this Order, or, if the proceedings are adjourned under that rule, on the day to which the proceedings are adjourned, then

(a) if judgment in the original action is given in favour of the plaintiff on default of appearance by the defendant, the defendant may at any time after satisfaction of the judgment against himself, or before such satisfaction by leave of the court, apply to the judge to enter judgment against the third party to the extent of the contribution or indemnity claimed in the third party notice, and the judge may enter judgment accordingly: or

(b) if the original action is tried, and results in favour of the plaintiff, the judge may, on the application of the defendant, at or after the trial, enter such judgment as the nature of the case may require for the defendant giving the notice against the third party; provided that execution thereon shall not be issued without leave of the judge until after satisfaction by such defendant of the judgment against him . or O. XI. r. 3.

(c) if the original action is finally decided in favour of the plaintiff otherwise than by trial, the judge may, on application by the defendant, order such judgment as the nature of the case may require to be entered for the defendant giving the third party notice against the third party, at any time after satisfaction by the defendant of the amount recovered by the plaintiff against him.

Provided that the judge may set aside or vary any judgment entered against the third party under this rule upon such terms as may be just. (See R. S. C., Order XVI. rr. 50, 51.)

4. Any third party, or the defendant in the action, may apply at or before the trial to the judge for directions ; and the judge, upon the hearing of the application, may, if satisfied that there is a question proper to be tried as to the liability of the third party to make the contribution or indemnity claimed, in whole or in part, order the question of such liability as between the third party and the defendant giving the notice to be tried in such manner at or after the trial of the action as the judge may direct, and if not so satisfied may order such judgment as the nature of the case may require to be entered in favour of the defendant giving the notice against the third party; or the judge may, if it appears desirable so to do, give the third party leave to defend the action upon such terms as may be just, or to appear at the trial and take such part therein as may be just, or he may order such person to be substituted for, or to be joined with, the defendant in the action, upon such terms as to security or otherwise as may be just, and generally may direct such proceedings to be taken or amendments to be made and give such directions as he may think proper for having the question most conveniently determined, and as to the mode or extent in or to which the third party shall be bound or made liable by the judgment in the action.

Application for directions.

What directions may be given.

For the practice in an application for directions, see Order XII. r. 11.

Object of Provisions.]—The object of these provisions is to enable a party primarily liable to bring in a person against whom he has a remedy over, and so bind him as to prevent him from afterwards disputing the propriety of the result of the action. But they do not enable a defendant against whom a claim is made to give notice to a third party whom he alleges to be liable instead of himself. Thus in an action for personal injuries the defendants were not allowed to bring in a third party who was alleged to have done the act complained of (Horwell v. Lon. Gen. Omn. Co. (C. A.), (1877) 2 Ex. D. 365 ; 46 L. J. Ex. 700).

O. XI. r. 4. Notes.

When available.]—If there is a bonâ fide claim for indemnity, leave ought to be given without then trying the question whether the case is one for indemnity (Carshore v. N. E. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1885) 29 Ch. D. 344; 54 L. J. Ch. 760); but if it is plain that it is not a case for indemnity the leave should not be given (Speller v. Bristol Co. (C. A.), (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 96; 53 L. J. Q. B. 322); and in this case it appears to have been held that there could be no valid claim for indemnity without a contract, express or implied, between the defendant and the third party (see also Birmingham Land Co. v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1887) 34 Ch. D. 261; 56 L. J. Ch. 956).

Costs.

5. The judge may decide all questions of costs, as between a third party and the other parties to the action, and may order any one or more to pay the costs of any other or others, or give such direction as to costs as the justice of the case may require.

Taxation of Costs ordered to be paid by or to Third Party.]—Where an order for costs is made, any costs, fees to counsel, and allowances to witnesses reasonably incurred or paid in addition to the costs of the original action by reason of the third party being brought in, in respect of the trial of the question of the third party's liability, as in preparing for trial, may be allowed; these costs are to be taxed as if the third party were a defendant and the party to or by whom they are ordered to be paid were a plaintiff, and as if the third party notice were a summons with particulars attached (Order LIII. r. 18A).

Claim to contribution or indemnity against co-defendant.

6. Where a defendant claims to be entitled to contribution or indemnity against any other defendant to the action, a notice may be issued and the same procedure shall thereupon be adopted, for the determination of such questions between the defendants, as would be issued and taken against such other defendant, if such last-mentioned defendant were a third party: but nothing herein contained shall prejudice the rights of the plaintiff against any defendant in the action.

Provided that leave of the court shall not be required for the issue of a notice to be served on a person who is already a defendant to the action.

See Towse v. Loveridge, (1883) 25 Ch. D. 76; 53 L. J. Ch. 499; see further on the subject of contribution and indemnity, Annual Practice, notes to Order XVI. r. 55, R. S. C.

ORDER XII.

Interlocutory and Interim Orders and Proceedings.

Rule 1.

Where defence is an alleged right to be relieved of a primâ facie case of liability.

1. When by any contract a primâ facie case of liability is established, and there is alleged as matter of defence a right to be relieved wholly or partially from such liability, the court may make an order for the preservation or interim custody of the subject-matter of the litigation, or may order that the amount in dispute be brought into court or otherwise secured.

O. XII. r. 2.

Order for sale of perishable articles, etc.

2. The court may, upon the application of any party to any action or matter, make any order for the sale by any person named in such order, and in such manner and on such terms as the court may think desirable, of any goods, wares, or merchandise, which may be of a perishable nature or likely to injure from keeping, or which incur charges for food or keep, or which for any other just and sufficient reason it may be desirable to have sold at once.

See Lumb v. Beaumont, (1884) 27 Ch. D. 356; 53 L. J. Ch. 1111, where an order was made to enter on land and dig for purpose of inspection.

Shares in a company may be ordered to be sold under this rule (Evans v. Davies, (1893) 2 Ch. 216; 62 L. J. Ch. 661).

Order for detention, preservation, etc.

3. The court may upon the application of any party to an action or matter, and upon such terms as may be just, make any order for the detention, preservation, inspection, surveying, measuring, or weighing of any property or thing, being the subject of such action or matter, or as to which any question may arise therein, and may for all or any of the purposes aforesaid authorise any persons to enter upon or into any land or building in the possession of any party to such action or matter, and authorise any samples to be taken, or any observation, plan, or model to be made, or experiment to be tried, which may be necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence.

Inspection cannot be obtained under this rule by one defendant against another when no right is in question as between them (Shaw v. Smith (C. A.), (1887) 18 Q. B. D. 193; 56 L. J. Q. B. 174).

An order cannot be made under this rule to inspect the property of several tenants in common, some of whom are not before the court (Coomes and Son v. Hayward, (1913) 1 K. B. 150; 82 L. J. K. B. 117; and see Kearsley v. Phillips (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 465; 52 L. J. Q. B. 269).

Under rules similar to the above, in an action in the High Court for breach of warranty of a horse, the court ordered the horse to be sold without reserve (Bartholomew v. Freeman (C. A.), (1877) 3 C. P. D. 316); and in an action to recover possession of jewellery, ordered it to be deposited at a master's office (Velati v. Braham, (1877) 46 L. J. C. P. 415; see Annual Practice, notes to Order L. rr. 1, 3, R. S. C.).

Order for registrar to take deposition of person ordered to weigh, inspect, etc

4. Where an order is made for inspecting, surveying, measuring, weighing, or making any experiment, or for taking any sample, or making any plan or model, by any person to be named therein, such order may include an order for the registrar or some other person to be named therein, to examine upon oath and take the deposition of the person so named, as to such measure, weight, or inspection, or the correctness of such survey, or the result of such experiment, or the fairness of such samples, or the accuracy of such plan or model, and such order may also empower any or either party to give the deposition so taken in evidence upon any trial or proceeding.

Any deposition so ordered must be taken, it is believed, in the mode prescribed by Order XVIII. r. 18.

Any of the above orders may be obtained from the judge or registrar ex parte or on notice (Order XII. r. 11); or possibly under a notice for directions (Order XV. r. 1).

Order for inquiries or accounts. Form 304.

5. The judge may at any stage of the proceedings in an action or matter direct any necessary inquiries or accounts to be made or taken, notwithstanding that it may appear that there is some special or further relief sought or some special issue to be tried, as to which it may be proper that the action or matter should proceed in the ordinary manner.

Accounts and Inquiries.]—An order for taking accounts or making inquiries may be obtained in all actions to which it is an appropriate remedy (Rex v. Selfe, (1908) 2 K. B. 121; 77 L. J. Q. B. 697). The general power is derived from sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, although, as equity judges, county court judges had previously the same power in equity proceedings (Besides this equitable power, the judges have express power by 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 92, to refer mere matters of account to the registrars for inquiry and report). If on taking accounts or making inquiries in any action under the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 67, it appears that the subject-matter of the action exceeds the jurisdiction, the action will be transferred to the High Court, pursuant to sect. 68 of the Act and Order XXXIII. r. 6.

The claim to have accounts taken or inquiries made should generally be included in the particulars of demand, but the order may be made whether so claimed or not (Order XII. r. 6; Form 304).

An order for taking accounts or making inquiries may be made by the judge before the trial (Order XII. r. 6; Form 304). He may make it at any stage of the proceedings in any action or matter, notwithstanding that it may appear that there is some special or further relief sought, or some special issue to be tried, as to which it may be proper that the action or matter should proceed in the ordinary manner (Order XII. r. 5; Form 304).

The order may, as will be seen hereafter, be also made at the trial, and the judge may make such order or give such direction as he may consider necessary, to enable him to give final judgment upon a day to which the trial may be adjourned (Order XXII. r. 13).

Where a judgment or order directs any account to be taken or inquiry made, the account must be taken and inquiry made by the registrar, and he has for that purpose all the powers of a master of the Chancery Division of the High Court, and all parties have the same power of summoning witnesses, including as witnesses any parties in the action, and of examining them on the accounts or inquiries and compelling the production of documents, as they would have upon the trial of an action; and the rules as to the summoning, swearing, and examining of witnesses and the production of documents at the trial are applicable to taking accounts and prosecuting inquiries (Order XXIV. r. 1). The registrar is to issue a summons (Form 318), returnable not less than seven days from the date of the order, addressed to all parties entitled to attend, directing them to attend at his office or at the court, for the purpose of proceeding with the inquiries or accounts. In all cases in which advertisements are ordered, the return-day must not be less than twenty-one days after the date of the order, and the registrar must forthwith prepare and insert advertisements in conformity with the order, stating the time, place, and purpose of the proceedings, and insert them fourteen days previously to the day appointed (Order XXIV. r. 2). Upon the day appointed, or at any adjourned sitting, the registrar must sit at the time and place appointed, and hear all parties interested, their counsel or solicitors (Order XXIV. r. 3).

If at the hearing it appears that all necessary parties are not parties to the action or have not been served with notice of the judgment or order, directions may be given for leaving the accounts in chambers, but the adjudication on the claims and accounts will not be proceeded with, nor any other proceeding taken, except for ascertaining the parties to be served, until all necessary parties have been served and are bound, or service has been dispensed with (Order XXIV. r. 4). At any time during the proceedings the judge may, if he thinks that the interests of the parties can be classified, require the parties constituting each class to be represented by the same solicitor, and in default of agreement by the parties may nominate the solicitor; any party insisting upon being represented by a different solicitor must pay his own costs and also any further costs occasioned to any of the other parties by his being so represented (Order XXIV. r. 5). Where the same solicitor is employed for two or more parties, the judge may require any party to appear separately in person or to be represented by a distinct solicitor, and may adjourn the proceedings for the purpose (Order XXIV. r. 6). Claimants not coming in to prove their claims within the time fixed by advertisement will be excluded from the benefit of the judgment or order (Order XXIV. r. 7).

In taking accounts under an order, any books of account in which the accounts required to be taken have been kept will, unless the judge otherwise directs, be taken as primâ facie evidence, with liberty to the parties interested to take objections (Order XXIV. r. 8). Accounts, unless otherwise directed by the court, must be verified by the affidavit of the accounting party; the items on each side of the account are to be numbered consecutively, and the account is to be made an exhibit and left at the registrar's office (Order XXIV. r. 9). Notice of an intention to surcharge must be given to the accounting party, stating shortly and succinctly the amount sought to be charged and the particulars of it (Order XXIV. r. 10). A judgment or order for a general account of personal estate must, unless the court otherwise directs, contain a direction for an inquiry as to what parts of the estate are outstanding or undisposed of (Order XXIV. r. 11). Each direction to take accounts or make inquiries must be numbered, so that, as far as possible, each account and inquiry may be designated by a number (Order XXIV. r. 12). Every advertisement for creditors or other persons having any claim upon or interest in the distribution of any assets to be administered by the court, issued pursuant to an order, must direct every such creditor or other person, within a time thereby limited, to send to the registrar his name and address, and the full particulars of his claim or interest, and a statement of his account, and the nature of the security (if any) held by him; and at the time of directing such advertisement a time must be fixed for adjudicating on the claims (Order XXIV. r. 13). The court must order in what newspaper any advertisements are to be inserted; and the expense of them must be paid to the registrar by the party requiring them before they are inserted (Order LIV. r. 9). All advertisements in the London Gazette, except as to proceedings under Order XXXIX. or Order XLI. r. 12, must be transmitted by the registrar for insertion to the registrar of county court judgments in London (Order LIV. r. 10). No creditor or other person need make any affidavit, or attend in support of his claim, except to produce his security, unless he is served with notice requiring him to do so (Order XXIV. r. 14). Every creditor must produce or transmit to the registrar any security held by him, at such time as is specified in the advertisement for that purpose as being the time appointed for adjudicating on the claims; and every creditor must, if required, by notice in writing given by the registrar, produce or transmit to the registrar all other deeds and documents necessary to substantiate his claim before the registrar at his office at the time specified in the notice (Order XXIV. r. 15). Every person claiming as heir-at-law, devisee, next of kin, or legatee must, if required, by notice in writing to be given by the registrar, produce or transmit to the registrar any pedigree or proof mentioned in such notice within the time therein specified (Order XXIV. r. 16). If any creditor or other person neglects or refuses to produce any security, pedigree or proof when so required, he will not be allowed any costs of proving his claim, unless the registrar otherwise directs (Order XXIV. r. 17).

Allowance of Claims.]—At the time appointed for adjudication upon the debts or claims, the registrar must take the evidence of the executor, administrator, or other accounting party upon them, and may allow any of the debts or claims without further proof, and may direct such investigation of all or any of those not allowed, and require such further particulars, information, or evidence relating thereto as he thinks fit, and may, if he thinks fit, require any creditor or other person to attend and prove his claim, or any part thereof (Form 319); and the adjudication on such claims as are not then allowed may be adjourned to a time to be then fixed (Order XXIV. r. 18).

Application for interlocutory injunction or order.

Form 344.

Form 345.

6. Where any party desires, before the trial, an immediate order upon any of the matters following (that is to say), an order in the nature of an injunction, or for the appointment of a receiver, or for taking any accounts (whether the particulars pursuant to Order VI. Rule 2, claim such accounts, or the claim in the particulars involves taking such accounts), or for making any inquiries, he may file an application for such order, and apply to the judge, either in or out of court, upon affidavits setting forth the facts rendering such order immediately necessary; and the judge may upon such application make such order, and upon such terms, as he may think fit.

If the powers conferred by sect. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, are conferred on judge and registrar, this rule takes away the registrar's power to grant injunctions.

Where specific property other than land is sought to be recovered, but is claimed to be retained under lien or as security.

7. Where an action is brought to recover, or a defendant in his defence seeks, by way of counter-claim, to recover, specific property other than land, and the party from whom such recovery is sought does not dispute the title of the party seeking to recover the same, but claims to retain the property by virtue of a lien or otherwise as security for any sum of money, the judge, upon being satisfied by affidavit or otherwise of the existence of such lien or security, may order that the party seeking to recover the property be at liberty to pay into court, to abide the event of the action, the amount of money in respect of which the lien or security is claimed, and such further sum (if any) for interest and costs as the judge may direct, and that upon such payment into court being made the property be given up to the party seeking to recover it.

Generally, as to the circumstances where a lien, in respect of work done on goods, exists, see Cassils (Charles W.) & Co. and Sassoon & Co. v. Holden Wood Bleaching Co., Ltd., (1915) 112 L. T. 373.

The sum for which the lien is claimed must be ordered to be brought into court, even though it exceeds the value of the property (Gebruder Naf v. Ploton (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 13; 59 L. J. Q. B. 371). O. XII. r. 7 Notes.

The draft order must be prepared, sealed and filed as prescribed by the following rule.

8. The draft of any order applied for under any of the preceding rules of this Order shall be prepared beforehand by the party making the application, and shall be settled by the registrar. Where the application is made to and heard by the registrar, he shall sign the draft order settled by him, and shall seal and file the same, and shall issue a copy thereof under the seal of the court to the bailiff or the applicant's solicitor for service; and, where the application is made to the judge, the applicant shall present the draft order settled by the registrar to the judge for his approval, and the judge shall sign the same if he approves thereof, or shall make such alterations as he may deem necessary, and sign the draft as so altered; and the draft so signed shall be transmitted by the applicant to the registrar, who shall seal and file the same, and issue a copy thereof under the seal of the court to the bailiff or the applicant's solicitor for service. Settlement, signing, sealing, filing, and service of orders under preceding rules.

9.—(1) Where the residence or place of business of a defendant is more than twenty miles distant from the court in which the plaint is entered, he may file with the registrar an affidavit disclosing a good defence upon the merits of the action. Deposit by plaintiff may be ordered where defendant resident more than twenty miles from court shows defence on merits.

(2) The affidavit may be given or sent to the office of the registrar by hand on behalf of the defendant, or may be forwarded to the office by registered post; but in either case it shall (unless in the case of a default summons it is sent with the notice of the defendant's intention to defend the action) be sent so as to be delivered within office hours seven clear days at least before the return day of the summons.

(3) The registrar shall duly consider the facts disclosed by the affidavit, and

(a) if he is satisfied that the affidavit does not disclose a good defence, he shall send notice to the defendant according to the form in the Appendix; but Form 89.

(b) if he is satisfied that the affidavit does disclose a good defence, he shall forthwith send notice to the plaintiff by post according to the form in the Appendix, calling upon him to deposit in court within three clear days from the date of the notice such a sum as the registrar may, having reference to all the circumstances of the case, direct. Form 90.

(4) Where a deposit is ordered, then

O. XII. r. 9.

(a) if the deposit is duly made, the registrar shall send notice to the defendant according to the first paragraph in the form in the Appendix ;

(b) if the deposit is not duly made, the registrar shall send notice to the defendant according to the second paragraph of the form in the Appendix, and in that case the action shall be struck out.

Form 91.

The judge has no power to review the registrar's act, which is not an order within the meaning of Order XII. r. 11 (8) ; the registrar is there acting as a persona designata (Porter v. London and Manchester Insurance Co., (1909) 2 K. B. 30 ; 78 L. J. K. B. 673).

Application for order that loss of bill shall not be set up.

45 & 46 Vict. c. 61, s. 70.

10. An application under section seventy of the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882, in an action or proceeding upon a bill, for an order that the loss of an instrument shall not be set up, may be made to the court at any time before the hearing of the action, on notice in writing in accordance with the next following rule, supported by affidavit, a copy of which shall be served with the notice. If not so made, it may, by leave of the judge, be made at the hearing. In dealing with any such application, the court shall take into consideration any offer of indemnity proved to have been made on behalf of the applicant, and may grant the application upon such terms as to payment of costs by the applicant, postponement of the trial, and otherwise, as may be just.

The offer of indemnity should be made before action, otherwise the applicant may be made to pay the costs as a term of the order under the above provisions (King v. Zimmerman, (1871) L. R. 6 C. P. 466 ; 40 L. J. C. P. 278).

The fact of the loss should be shown to be a defence in the affidavit for leave to defend (see Charnley v. Grundy, (1854) 14 C. B. 608 ; 23 L. J. C. P. 121 ; 98 R. R. 782).

If the plaintiff does not, after notice of such defence, obtain relief under the section, the loss of the instrument may be set up and the claim defeated.

Practice on interlocutory applications.

11. Where by any statute or by these rules any interlocutory application is expressly or by reasonable intendment directed to be made to the court, or to the judge, or to the judge or registrar, or to the registrar, then, subject to the provisions of the particular statute or of the particular rule applicable thereto, and so far as the same shall not be inconsistent therewith, the following provisions shall apply :—

(1) The application may be made either in or out of court, and either ex parte or on notice in writing ; when made on notice, the notice shall be served on the opposite party two days at least before the hearing of the application, unless the judge or registrar gives leave for shorter notice.

(2) No affidavit in support shall be necessary, but the judge or registrar, as the case may be, may, if he thinks fit, adjourn the hearing of the application and order affidavits in support to be filed. O. XII. r. 11.

(3) The judge or registrar upon the hearing or adjourned hearing of the application may make an order absolute in the first instance, or to be absolute at any time to be ordered by him, unless cause be shown to the contrary, or may make such other order or give such directions as may be just.

(4) The allowance of the costs of and incident to the application shall be in the discretion of the judge or registrar; and no such costs shall be allowed on taxation without special order.

(5) The taxation of costs, when allowed, shall not take place until the general taxation of the costs of the action or matter in which the application is made, or the action or matter is determined, unless the judge or registrar on the hearing of the application for good cause otherwise orders.

(6) When an earlier taxation is ordered, the word "recovered," wherever it occurs in the scales, shall be deemed for the purposes of taxation to mean "claimed," and column B shall apply to all cases exceeding twenty pounds to the exclusion of column C.

When the application may, under the particular statute or rule, be made to the registrar, and is so made, the following additional provisions shall apply:—

(7) The registrar may, if in doubt as to the proper order to be made, refer the matter to the judge forthwith or at the next court day or at the trial.

(8) The judge may vary or rescind any order made by the registrar, and may make such order as may be just, and if necessary adjourn the trial.

General Practice.]—The general practice on interlocutory applications is governed by sect. 9 of the County Courts Act, 1888, by Order XII. r. 11, and by Order XV. Sect. 9 enables the judge, whether within his district or not, to make any order, or to exercise on an ex parte application any jurisdiction which, if the action or proceeding had been in the High Court, could have been exercised by a judge at chambers. This practically enables the judge to make any interlocutory order ex parte, and it is believed that no rule of practice can take away his power.

The practice to be followed in an ex parte application, whether the power of the judge or the registrar to make the order be derived from the County Courts Act, or from any other statute, or from any other rule, is now prescribed by Order XII. r. 11. The rule also supplements the practice when a statute or another rule has only partially prescribed it. In such a case, the statute and the rule or the two rules must be read together, and those parts (if any) of Order XII. r. 11, which are inconsistent with the statute or the particular rule, must give way before it. The result is that nearly every interlocutory order may be obtained ex parte, and that very few cases exist in which Order XII. r. 11 is so entirely inconsistent with the prescribed practice as to be inapplicable.

Orders on Notice.]—There are many cases, however, in which no judge, even though he have the power to do it, will make the order without hearing the other side; and parties have therefore the option, under Order XII. r. 11, of applying on notice to the other party. Discretion should be used; trivial and pressing matters should be dealt with ex parte, but where the other side ought fairly to be heard, the application should be on notice if possible.

The right of appeal to the High Court against interlocutory orders generally, for error of law, is now fully established, and appeals have been granted against some of the minor interlocutory orders made during the progress of an action (Gilson v. Kilner, (1894) 69 L. T. 310; see Jonas v. Long, (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 564; 57 L. J. Q. B. 298, as to interlocutory appeals in equity under the Act of 1865). Hence an appeal lies against an order granting a new trial (Murtagh v. Barry, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 632; 59 L. J. Q. B. 388; Bryant v. North Met. Trams Co., (1890) 6 T. L. R. 396; How v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1892) 1 Q. B. 391; 61 L. J. Q. B. 368; or refusing one (Dingor v. Matthews, (1889) 65 L. T. 748, n.; Pole v. Bright, (1892) 1 Q. B. 603; 61 L. J. Q. B. 139); an order refusing to review a taxation of costs (Wilson v. Statham, (1891) 2 Q. B. 261; 60 L. J. Q. B. 725; and see Goodman v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 77; 56 L. J. Q. B. 441, under repealed Acts); an order refusing to order a better answer to interrogatories (Meek v. Witherington, (1892) 67 L. T. 122); and an order refusing attachment of the person (Vallentin v. Woodley, (1889) 5 T. L. R. 462). Assuming that the appeal will lie generally, it will clearly be subject to the same rules and limitations which affect appeals against final judgments. It will lie, therefore, in those actions or matters only in which an appeal could have been brought had the decision complained of been a final judgment, and doubtless on the same grounds only. Thus, in an action to recover a debt of 10*l.*, there could be no appeal against any interlocutory order made in it, without leave, and no appeal under any circumstances, in any case, except for error of law (see Smith v. Baker (H. L.), (1891) A. C. 325; 60 L. J. Q. B. 683).

There is no appeal against an order fining a person for assaulting an officer in the execution of his duty, such proceeding being of a criminal nature (Lewis v. Owen, (1894) 1 Q. B. 102; 63 L. J. Q. B. 233).

Every interlocutory application must be made to the court, or to the judge, or to the judge or registrar, or to the registrar, as provided by the particular statute or rule applicable to it; and subject to any provisions of the statute or rule inconsistent with them, the following provisions will apply to the application.

The application may be made either in or out of court, ex parte, or on notice in writing. If on notice, it must be served on the opposite party or his solicitor two days at least before the day of hearing, unless the judge or registrar gives leave for shorter notice.

No affidavit in support will be necessary, unless it is otherwise provided; but the hearing may be adjourned and affidavits in support ordered to be filed.

The order may be absolute in the first instance, or it may be ordered to be absolute at any time to be ordered, unless cause be shown to the contrary; or such other order may be made, or such directions given as may be just. Costs will be in the discretion of the judge or registrar, as the case may be; but no costs will be allowed on taxation without a special order, which must be obtained at the time unless the judge for good cause otherwise orders (Order LIII. r. 7).

No order need be drawn up or served unless the judge or registrar, as the case may be, so orders (Order XXIII. r. 5).

Where the application can be and is made to the registrar, he, if in doubt as to the proper order to be made, may refer the matter to the judge forthwith, or at the next court day, or at the trial. And if the registrar makes an order, the judge may vary or rescind it, and make such order as may be just, and, if necessary, adjourn the trial. O. XII. r. 11. Notes.

The taxation of costs, when costs are allowed, may not take place until the general taxation of the costs of the action or matter, or the action or matter is determined, unless the judge or registrar, on the hearing of the application, for good cause, otherwise orders.

When an earlier taxation is ordered, the word "recovered," wherever it occurs in the scales, will be deemed, for the purpose of taxation, to mean "claimed," and column B will apply to all cases exceeding 20*l.*, to the exclusion of column C. It is believed that there is no power for either judge or registrar, on a mere interlocutory application, to certify under sect. 119 of the Act for costs on a higher scale than that applicable as above.

No counsel's fee can be allowed on any application without the order of the judge (item 91).

12. The court may at any time postpone the trial of any action or matter upon the joint application of the parties. Postponement of trial on joint application of parties.

No adjournment by the parties is operative (Morgan v. Rees (C. A.), (1881) 6 Q. B. D. 508).

13. Where in any action or matter interlocutory proceedings are contemplated or pending which cannot be concluded in time to enable the parties to prepare for the trial of such action or matter on the day fixed for the same, the court may, upon the application of any party, and upon being satisfied that such interlocutory proceedings are necessary and proper, make an order postponing such trial upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just; and such order, if made in the absence of the other party, shall be served upon him. Postponement of trial pending interlocutory proceedings. Form 92.

14. Where it appears that from the course of proceedings in any action or matter the trial cannot be held on the return-day, the court may postpone the trial until such other day as the state of the proceedings may require, and notice of such postponement shall be given by the registrar to all parties and persons interested who are not present when the order is made. Postponement of trial by court. Form 93.

15. When anything required by the practice of the court to be done by either party, before or during the trial, has not been done, the court may, in its discretion, and on such terms as it shall think fit, adjourn the trial to enable such party to comply with the practice. Adjournment to enable party to comply with rules.

16. In any case not coming within the four preceding rules of this order, the court may, in its discretion, on the application of any party made on notice in accordance with Rule 11 of this Order, make an order postponing or adjourning for good cause the trial of any action or matter upon such terms, as to costs or otherwise, as may be just; and such order, if made in the absence of the other party, shall be served on him. Adjournment in other cases.

O. XII. r. 16. Note. —

Good Cause.]—The pendency in the High Court of an action involving practically the same issue as that raised in the county court action may be good cause entitling the county court judge, in the exercise of his discretion, to postpone the trial of the action in his court till after the hearing of the High Court action, even though such action may not be between the same parties (Hammond Bros. and Champness v. Jackson, (1914) 1 K. B. 241; 83 L. J. K. B. 380).

ORDER XIII.

RECEIVER.

Receiver may be appointed though not asked for.

1. Where before, at, or after the trial of any action it appears to the judge expedient that a receiver be appointed, such appointment may be made whether the same be asked as part of the relief in the plaint or not.

Forms 299, 300.

Receiver.]—County court judges, by virtue of the Judicature Acts, possess in all actions over which they have jurisdiction the same powers of appointing receivers which are possessed by the judges of the High Court (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 25 (8), and s. 89). The jurisdiction extends to the appointment of a receiver by way of execution against equitable interests in land (Rex v. Selfe, (1908) 2 K. B. 121; 77 L. J. K. B. 697). These powers enable them to make the appointment either at the trial or on an interlocutory application, and the appointment may be made whether asked for as part of the relief in the plaint or not.

It is better, however, to add a claim for a receiver, if it is a substantial object of the action (Colebourne v. Colebourne, (1876) 1 Ch. D. 690; 45 L. J. Ch. 749).

A court cannot appoint a receiver by way of equitable execution except where, by reason of the nature of the property, execution cannot be levied in the ordinary way (Morgan v. Hart, (1914) 2 K. B. 183; 83 L. J. K. B. 782).

Receiver to give security. Form 303.

2. Every receiver appointed by the judge, other than the high bailiff, shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, give such security to the registrar for the faithful discharge of his duties, and the payment over of money, as the judge shall direct.

For conditions as to security, see Form 303. But where a receiver is appointed by way of equitable execution, and the debt and costs do not exceed 50*l*., the judge may, instead of directing the receiver to give security, direct that the applicant for his appointment shall be answerable for his acts and defaults, and that the receiver shall not, without leave of the judge, receive more than the amount of the debt and costs, the allowance to the receiver, and the allowed fees and costs of obtaining the appointment of the receiver (Order XIII. r. 14 (4)).

Remuneration of receiver.

3. Every receiver appointed by the judge shall, unless otherwise ordered, be allowed a proper salary or allowance.

As to the audit of the receiver's accounts, see Rules 4, 6, 7, 8, and 9 of this order.

Audit of receiver's accounts at close of proceedings.

4. The receiver shall submit his accounts to the registrar, and the registrar shall audit the same, as soon as conveniently may be after the realisation of the assets, and immediately after such audit the receiver shall pay over to the registrar the balance found thereby to be in his hands. The account shall be written on foolscap paper bookwise, and the items shall be numbered consecutively, and the account shall be verified by affidavit and be therein referred to as an exhibit. O. XIII. r. 4.

5. The registrar may require any receiver to produce any receipt, accounts, and vouchers necessary for verifying the account, and may disallow any item not proved to his satisfaction. Receiver to produce vouchers.

6. The receiver shall, at any time before the complete realisation of the assets, produce his accounts to be audited upon receiving seven days' notice in writing from the registrar so to do, and such notice may be sent by post or otherwise to the address of the receiver. Accounts may be ordered to be audited at any time. Form 301.

7. Where the duties of a receiver are continuous, no longer period than one year shall in any case be allowed to intervene between each audit. Interval between audits.

8. The registrar shall after each audit of a receiver's accounts make and sign a certificate stating the result of such audit. Certificate of result of audit.

9. In no case shall it be necessary for any party to attend at the audit of a receiver's account, but where a party is dissatisfied with a receiver's account he may apply to the judge for a revision of the registrar's allowances. Attendance of party not required at audit. Revision of allowances.

10. The judge may order the receiver to pay over, at such time or from time to time as he may think fit, to the party entitled to the beneficial interest therein, or to the guardian of any infant, any yearly or other accruing rents or interest, instead of paying the same into court, and to take credit for such payments in his accounts when audited. Judge may direct receiver to pay moneys received to party entitled. Form 302.

11. With respect to any receiver who neglects to submit his accounts to be audited or to pay over any balance in his hands, the judge may from time to time, when his subsequent accounts are produced to be audited, disallow the salary or allowance therein claimed by such receiver, and may also, if he thinks fit, charge him with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum upon any balance so neglected to be paid by him during the time such balance shall appear to have remained in the hands of such receiver. Neglect of receiver.

12. In case of any receiver failing to leave any account or affidavit, or to pass any account, or to make any payment or otherwise, the receiver or the parties, or any of them, may be required to attend before the judge to show cause why such Consequence of default by receiver.

O. XIII. r. 12.

account or affidavit has not been left, or such account passed or such payment made, or any other proper proceeding taken; and thereupon the judge may give such directions and make such orders as may be proper, including directions for the discharge of any receiver and the appointment of another, and any order as to costs.

As to appointment of receiver by way of equitable execution.

13. In every case in which an application is made for the appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution, the judge in determining whether it is just or convenient that such appointment should be made shall have regard to the amount of the debt and costs claimed by the applicant, to the amount which may probably be obtained by the receiver, and to the probable costs of his appointment, and may, if he thinks fit, direct any inquiries on these or other matters before making the appointment.

Fees and costs on appointment of receiver by way of equitable execution.

14. Where a receiver is appointed by way of equitable execution, fees may be charged and costs may be allowed as on an interlocutory application in an equitable action or matter.

Provided that—

(1) Where the amount of debt and costs due to the applicant exceeds fifty pounds (a), but does not exceed one hundred pounds, the total amount to be allowed for fees and costs (exclusive of the allowance to the receiver, but including the costs of obtaining his appointment, completing his security, passing his accounts, and obtaining his discharge) shall not exceed two and a half per cent. of the amount of such debt and costs in respect of fees, or the like amount in respect of costs;

(a) In determining the amount of debt and costs due to the applicant for the purpose of ascertaining the proper costs, the expenses of obtaining an interim injunction to prevent the property, as to which a receiver is asked for, being parted with ought not to be included (Carrington v. Deane, (1917) 1 K. B. 717; 86 L. J. K. B. 743.

(2) Where the amount of such debt and costs exceeds twenty pounds, but does not exceed fifty pounds, the total amount to be allowed for fees and costs shall not exceed one pound five shillings in respect of fees, or the like amount in respect of costs;

(3) Where the amount of such debt and costs exceeds five pounds, but does not exceed twenty pounds, there may be allowed for fees and costs respectively such sums, not less than seven shillings and sixpence and not exceeding one pound in each case, as the judge may direct; and

(4) Where the amount of debt and costs does not exceed fifty pounds, the judge may, instead of directing the receiver to give security, direct that the applicant shall be answerable for the acts and defaults of the receiver, and that the receiver shall not receive more than the amount of the debt and costs due to the applicant, and the allowance to the receiver and the allowed fees and costs of obtaining the order appointing the receiver, without the leave of the judge. O. XIII. r. 14.

15. The forms in the Appendix, with such modifications as may be necessary, may be used for interim or final orders for the appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution. Forms of orders for appointment of receivers.

ORDER XIV.

AMENDMENT.

1. Where an action or matter has been commenced in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff or otherwise, or where it is doubtful whether it has been commenced in the name of the right person, the court, if satisfied that it has been so commenced through a bonâ fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, may order any other person to be substituted or added as plaintiff or otherwise upon such terms, as to notice and otherwise, as may be just. Change or addition of plaintiff.

A mistake of law will entitle a plaintiff to relief under this rule (Duckett v. Gover, (1877) 6 Ch. D. 82; 46 L. J. Ch. 407); but whether the mistake be of law or fact, it must be bonâ fide (Clowes v. Hilliard, (1877) 4 Ch. D. 413; 46 L. J. Ch. 271). Where the effect of the introduction of new plaintiffs would have been to make an entirely new case, leave to amend at the trial was refused (New Brewery Co. v. Hannah (C. A.), W. N. (1877) 35).

2. No action or matter shall be defeated by reason of the misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties, and the judge may in every action or matter deal with the matter in controversy so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before him. The court may, at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may be just, order that the names of any parties improperly joined, whether as plaintiffs or as defendants, be struck out, and that the names of any parties be added, whether as plaintiffs or defendants, who ought to have been joined, or whose presence before the judge may be necessary in order to enable him effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the action or matter. No person shall be added as a plaintiff suing without a next friend, or as the next friend of a plaintiff under any disability without his own consent in writing Action not to be defeated by misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties.

O. XIV. r. 2. Form 95.

thereto. Every person whose name is so added as defendant shall be served with a notice in manner hereinafter mentioned, and the proceedings as against such party shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of such notice.

See Tryon v. National Institution, (1886) 16 Q. B. D. 678; 55 L. J. Q. B. 236.

If the plaintiff has altogether mistaken the defendant, and sued the wrong person, or has omitted to join a material defendant, he will be in peril at the trial of being left to commence a new action; but the judge has power to amend under the above provisions, and might do so, and adjourn the trial on payment of costs (see Hancocks v. Lablache, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 197; 47 L. J. C. P. 514).

Where too few persons made plaintiffs.

3. Where it appears at the trial that a less number of persons have been made plaintiffs than by law required, the name of any omitted person may, at the instance of either party, be added, by order of the judge, on such terms as he may think fit, and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the proper persons had been originally made parties; and if such person, either at the trial or at some adjournment thereof, personally or by writing, consents to become a plaintiff in manner aforesaid, the judge may then pronounce judgment as if such person had originally been made a plaintiff; but if such person does not consent to become a plaintiff in manner aforesaid, either at the trial or at the adjournment thereof, the action or matter shall be struck out.

Change of defendant.

4. Where a person other than the defendant appears at the trial, and admits that he is the person whom the plaintiff intended to charge, or ought to have charged, his name may be substituted for that of the defendant, if the plaintiff consents; and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if such person had been originally named in the summons; and the costs of the person originally named as the defendant shall be in the discretion of the court.

Where party wrongly sues or is sued in representative character.

5. Where a party sues or is sued in a representative character, but it appears that he ought to have sued or been sued in his own right, the court may, at the instance of either party, on such terms as may be just, amend the proceedings accordingly; and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the proper description of the party had been given in the summons.

Where party ought to have sued or been sued in representative character.

6. Where a party sues or is sued in his own right, but it appears that he ought to have sued or been sued in a representative character, the court may, at the instance of either party, on such terms as may be just, amend the proceedings accordingly; and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the proper description of the party had been given in the summons.

O. XIV. r. 7.

Amendment of name or description of plaintiff.

7. Where the name or description of a plaintiff in the summons is insufficient or incorrect, it may be amended at the instance of either party by order of the court, on such terms as may be just, and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the name or description had been originally such as it appears after the amendment has been made.

An action by a local authority, under the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, was brought in the name of J. M., who sued as, and was described in the summons as, "inspector appointed by the local authority," etc. The judge, at the trial, amended the summons by substituting "the local authority for," etc., as plaintiff, and this amendment was held to have been a proper amendment of the description of the plaintiff (Mills v. Scott, (1873) L. R. 8 Q. B. 496; 42 L. J. Q. B. 234).

Amendment of name or description of defendant.

8. Where the name or description of a defendant in the summons is insufficient or incorrect, it may be amended at the instance of either party by order of the court, on such terms as may be just; and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the name or description had been originally such as it appears after the amendment has been made; but if no objection is taken to the name or description the action may proceed, and in the judgment, and all subsequent proceedings founded thereon, the defendant may, subject to the provisions of Order XXV. Rules 7 and 25, be named and described in the same manner.

Where all defendants have not been served.

9. Where two or more persons are made defendants and some of them have not been served, the names of the defendants who have not been served may, at the instance of either party, be struck out by order of the court, on such terms as may be just; and thereupon the action shall proceed, in all respects, as if the parties whose names have not been struck out had alone been made defendants; or the action may be adjourned for service upon any defendant not served.

The right of a joint contractor to have all joint contractors joined as defendants still remains in the High Court (Kendall v. Hamilton, per Lord Blackburn, (1879) 4 App. Cas. 504, 544; 48 L. J. C. P. 705). As to county courts, see s. 97 of the Act of 1888.

Application to add or strike out parties.

10. Any application under any of the rules of this Order may be made before the trial to the court, or at the trial to the judge.

Notice to an added or substituted defendant.

Forms 94, 95.

11. Where a defendant is added or substituted, except where a defendant is substituted under Rule 4 of this Order, an order shall be drawn up; and such order shall be served on the defendant, together with a copy of the summons, and a notice according to the form in the Appendix as to the day upon which he is to attend at the court, according to the rules applicable to the service of the original summons in the action.

O. XIV. r. 12.

Amendment of particulars and notice of defence.

Increase of amount claimed or counter-claimed.

12. A plaintiff may file and deliver amended particulars of demand, and a defendant, whether by original action, counter-claim, or otherwise, may file and deliver an amended notice or particulars of any special defence set up or intended to be set up by him under Order X. Rule 10, at any time before the return day, without obtaining any order for the purpose; and either party may on such amended particulars increase the amount of his claim or counter-claim, as the case may be, on payment of the difference (if any) between the fees payable on the amount originally claimed and those payable on the larger amount claimed on such amendment; but the judge at the trial, if satisfied that the opposite party has not had a reasonable opportunity of preparing his case to meet any new matter introduced by such amendment, or for any sufficient cause, may disallow the amendment, or may adjourn the trial, and may make such order as to costs as he may think fit.

This does not take away the power of the judge to grant an amendment for some sufficient reason (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 87).

Abandonment of part of claim; amendment of particulars; costs.

13. The plaintiff may at any time before an action or matter is called on for trial, or in opening his case when called on, abandon any part of his claim, and such abandonment shall be entered on the particulars (if any), and in the minute book. Provided, that if the defendant succeeds the court may allow him costs on the scale which would have been applicable to the amount originally claimed; and in any case the court may allow the defendant any costs properly incurred by him in respect of that part of the plaintiff's claim which is abandoned.

See 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 81; 3 Edw. VII. c. 42, s. 3. The abandonment of the excess should always be entered at the end of the particulars attached to the summons (Order VI. r. 1).

The effect of the rules now in force seems to be that the excess may be abandoned at any time; by Rule 12 of this Order the plaintiff can amend his claim at any time before the return day, and now by the present rule he can, at any time before his case is called on, or in his opening, abandon any part of his claim. This alters the practice on this point laid down in Avards v. Rhodes, (1853) 8 Ex. 312; 22 L. J. Ex. 106; 91 R. R. 504, and In re Hill, (1855) 10 Ex. 726; 24 L. J. Ex. 137; 102 R. R. 793. It has long been held that, if the amount claimed in the particulars did not exceed 50*l.* [now 100*l.*], the plaintiff might abandon any excess which appeared on the trial (Isaac v. Wyld, (1852) 7 Ex. 163; 21 L. J. Ex. 46); acc. under the rule (Bodger v. Nicholls, (1873) 28 L. T. 441). A plaintiff may by amended particulars abandon any excess over 100*l.*, even after a summons for prohibition has been taken out (Haddon v. Morton, (1893) 37 S. J. 634).

On taking Accounts.]—Where upon taking an account it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to a larger amount than 100*l.*, and he has not abandoned the excess in his particulars, he may by leave of the court abandon the excess, and judgment may be thereupon entered for 100*l.*; if he does not abandon the excess the action will be struck out (Order XIV. r. 16).

Entering a plaint for a sum within the jurisdiction—part of a larger claim, the whole arising out of one cause of action—is not of itself an abandonment of the excess (Vines v. Arnold, (1851) 8 C. B. 632; 19 L. J. C. P. 98; 79 R. R. 653). O. XIV. r. 13. Notes.

The abandonment should be entered in the judgment; since, by the statute, "entry of the judgment" must "be made accordingly" (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 81).

14. The registrar when acting under the provisions of sections ninety and ninety-two of the Act shall have the same power as the judge has of amending the proceedings in any action or matter. Powers of registrar to amend when acting under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, ss. 90 and 92.

15. Where upon taking an account, or by the verdict of a jury, or otherwise, it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to recover an amount larger than that mentioned in the particulars, but not exceeding 100*l.*, he may, by leave of the court, and on payment of the difference (if any) between the fees payable on the amount so mentioned and those payable on the larger amount, amend his particulars so as to claim such larger amount, and thereupon judgment may be entered for the same. Amendment of particulars where plaintiff entitled to more than amount claimed.

16. Where upon taking an account it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to a larger amount than 100*l.*, and he has not by his particulars abandoned the excess over 100*l.*, he may, by leave of the court, abandon such excess, and thereupon judgment may be entered for 100*l.*: and if the plaintiff does not abandon such excess, the action shall be struck out. Where plaintiff in case of account found entitled to more than 100*l.*

ORDER XV.

Application for Directions.

1. In any action or matter any party may at any time apply to the court (a) for a postponement of the trial (if the day of trial has been fixed) and for general directions with respect to the following matters and proceedings, viz., particulars of claim or counterclaim, special defence, payment into court, discovery (including interrogatories), examination of witnesses before the trial, mode of trial and any other matter or proceeding in the action or matter previous to trial; and the court, if satisfied that from the nature of the action or matter the directions asked for, or some of them, are necessary, may make an order giving such directions as to all or any of such matters or proceedings as may be just, whether applied for or not, and may if necessary postpone the trial. The order shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. Any party may apply for directions. Form 100.

Note.—(a) It is questionable whether all the matters mentioned in this rule can be dealt with by the registrar. See ante, p. 8.

O. XV. r. 2.
Notice of—application.
Form 99.

2. An application under the last preceding rule shall be made upon giving at least threeclear days' notice in writing to every party to the action or matter who may be affected thereby; such notice shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require, and shall include, so far as is practicable, all the above-mentioned matters and proceedings, or as many thereof as, having regard to the nature of the action or matter, can conveniently be dealt with by the order of the court.

Application for directions by any party served with notice.

3. Upon the hearing of the application any party who has been served with notice thereof may apply for any order or directions as to any of the above-mentioned matters or proceedings which he may desire; and thereupon the court may either make such order and give such directions respecting the same as may be just, or may adjourn the consideration of the same, and direct any necessary notice to be given.

Costs on application for any matter which could have been asked for in application for directions.

4. If upon any other application as to any of the above-mentioned matters or proceedings it appears to the court that the application is one that could and ought to have been included in the general application for directions, such application shall be granted only at the costs of the party making the same.

Setting down action for trial after order for directions.

5. If the trial is adjourned generally by the order giving directions, any party may apply, on giving at least three clear days' notice in writing to the other party, to have the action or matter set down for trial; or, by consent of all parties, the same may be set down at any time and for any court which the state of business, in the opinion of the registrar, may allow.

Notice of day of trial.
Form 101.

6. Whenever an action or matter is set down for trial under the last preceding rule, the registrar shall issue to the party applying to set the same down a notice according to the form in the Appendix, and as many sealed copies thereof as there are parties to be served; and such party shall serve the same upon all other parties to the action or matter eight clear days at least before the day fixed for the trial, unless otherwise ordered.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction "ten clear days" is substituted for "eight clear days" (Order XXIIA. r. 16).

ORDER XVI.

Discovery and Inspection.

Interrogatories.

1. Any party to any action or matter may, without filing an affidavit, by leave of the court deliver interrogatories in writing for the examination of any one or more of the opposite parties, and such interrogatories when delivered shall have a note at the foot thereof, stating which of such interrogatories each of such parties is to answer: Provided that interrogatories which do not relate to any question in the action or matter shall be deemed irrelevant, notwithstanding that they might be admissible on the oral cross-examination of a witness. O. XVI. r. 1.

By the County Court Rules, the procedure with regard to interrogatories has been rendered substantially uniform with the procedure in the High Court, excepting that, in High Court actions, leave to deliver interrogatories is not required where relief is sought on the ground of fraud or breach of trust, and the deposit is 5*l*. The County Court Rules, moreover, do not provide for the setting aside or striking out of interrogatories.

In some cases a third party may interrogate the plaintiff (Eden v. Weardale Co. (C. A.), (1887) 35 Ch. D. 287; 56 L. J. Ch. 400).

The fee payable into court as security for the costs of discovery by interrogatories is twenty shillings, and two shillings for every additional folio beyond five, but the court may order either a less, or a greater sum to be deposited (Order XVI. r. 23).

2. If leave is granted, an order shall be drawn up by the registrar and served by the applicant on the party against whom the order is made. Such order shall be according to the form in the Appendix, and shall specify the number of days within which the interrogatories are to be delivered by the applicant, and also the time within which the affidavit in answer is to be filed. Order to be drawn by registrar and served. Form 102.

3. On an application for leave to deliver interrogatories the particular interrogatories proposed to be delivered shall be submitted to the court. In deciding upon such application, the court shall take into account any offer which may be made by the party sought to be interrogated, to deliver particulars, or to make admissions, or to produce documents relating to the subject in question, or any of them; and shall also consider whether the application has been made too early in the proceedings in the action or matter, or too late to allow of the answers being used at the hearing; and leave shall be given as to such only of the interrogatories submitted as the court considers necessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter, or for saving costs. (R. S. C., Order XXXI. r. 2.) Particular interrogatories to be submitted. Matters to be considered.

4. In adjusting the costs of the action or matter inquiry shall, at the instance of any party, be made into the propriety of exhibiting interrogatories, and if it is the opinion of the registrar on taxation, or of the judge, either with or without an application for inquiry, that such interrogatories have been exhibited unreasonably, vexatiously, or at improper length, the costs occasioned by the said interrogatories and the answers thereto shall be paid in any event by the party in fault. Costs of improper interrogatories.

O. XVI. r. 5.

Interrogatories, form of.

Form 103.

5. Interrogatories shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require.

Corporations and joint stock companies.

6. If any party to an action or matter be a body corporate or a joint stock company, whether incorporated or not, or any other body of persons empowered by law to sue or be sued, whether in its own name or in the name of any officer or other person, any opposite party may apply for an order allowing him to deliver interrogatories to any member or officer of such corporation, company, or body, and an order may be made accordingly.

Objection to answer.

7. Any objection to answer any one or more of several interrogatories, on the ground that it or they is or are scandalous or irrelevant, or not bonâ fide for the purpose of the action or matter, or that the matters inquired into are not sufficiently material at that stage, or on any other ground, may be taken in the affidavit in answer.

Affidavit in answer.

Form 104.

8. Interrogatories shall be answered by affidavit according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. Such affidavit shall be filed and a copy thereof delivered to the party interrogating within the time named in the order giving leave to interrogate.

Further answer.

9. If any person interrogated omits to answer, or answers insufficiently, the party interrogating, after giving to such person two clear days' notice of the time and place at which he intends to apply, may apply to the court for an order requiring him to answer, or to answer further, as the case may be. And an order may be made requiring him to answer, or to answer further, either by affidavit or by vivâ voce examination before the court, as the court may direct.

Form 105.

To found an application for attachment, the order to answer, or answer further, should be drawn up and served (Order XXV. r. 58).

Discovery of documents.

10. Any party to any action or matter may, without filing any affidavit, apply to the court for an order directing any other party to the action or matter to make discovery on oath of the documents which are or have been in his possession or power relating to any question therein. On the hearing of such application the court may either refuse or adjourn the same, if satisfied that such discovery is not necessary or not necessary at that stage of the action or matter, or make such order, either generally or limited to certain classes of documents, as the court may in its discretion think fit. Provided that discovery shall not be ordered when and so far as the court is of opinion that it is not necessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter, or for saving costs. If an order is made it shall be drawn up by the registrar and served by the applicant on the party against whom the order is made. Such order shall be according to the form in the Appendix, and shall specify the time within which the affidavit in answer is to be filed. O. XVI. r. 10. Form 106.

Application how made.]—The application may be made by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), or ex parte, or on notice, in or out of court (Order XII. r. 11). In general the application should be made to the registrar.

Appeal.]—There was, before the Act of 1888, no appeal if the judge refused the order; but there is now (see 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 120). If refused by the registrar, application may be made to the judge pursuant to Order XII. r. 11.

Order.]—An order for discovery must be drawn up and served with a copy of the receipt for the payment into court (if ordered) of the deposit for costs mentioned below; and it must state the amount ordered to be paid into court, or that payment into court is dispensed with (Order XVI. r. 23 (2); Form 106A). It must be drawn up by the registrar (Order XXIII. r. 7). If the party obtaining it acts by solicitor, he should serve it (Order XXIII. r. 6); if not, service must be by bailiff (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 35). If the party on whom the order is made acts by solicitor, service should be made on him (Order XXIII. r. 6). Service may be made by delivery at his office, or by sending the order to him by prepaid postal letter (Order LIV. rr. 3, 20).

Service.]—Service will count on the day of such delivery, or, if sent by post, on the day on which, in the ordinary course of post, delivery would be made (Order LIV. r. 3). If such party does not act by solicitor, service when by bailiff may be by prepaid postal letter or must be personal; and if by post, it will not be necessary to prove either posting or the receipt of the order (Order XXIII. r. 7; Order LIV. r. 20). When service is by solicitor on a party who does not act by solicitor, it seems that service should be personal. Probably in case of absence or for other sufficient cause, an order for substituted service may be made (Order VII. r. 40).

Deposit for Costs.]—There must be served with the order for discovery a copy of a receipt for the sum which, upon making the application, the party applying for discovery may be ordered to pay into court (Order XVI. rr. 22, 23 (2)). The fee prescribed is twenty shillings (Order XVI. r. 23 (1)), but the court has now a discretion as to requiring security for the costs of discovery (Order XVI. r. 23 (2)). This sum will be retained in court as security for the costs of discovery; and such costs will only be allowed, where there is a trial, if the judge thinks that discovery was reasonably asked for; when there is no trial, if the registrar on taxation is of that opinion (Order XVI. rr. 22, 24). In the absence of service of a copy of the above-mentioned receipt, discovery need not be made (Order XVI. r. 23 (2)). The amount of security is ordinarily 1*l.*, but it may be more or less as the judge or registrar directs.

If the party paying in afterwards gets the costs of the action or matter, he or his solicitor will, when the action or matter is finally disposed of, be entitled to have the sum deposited paid out to him; but if the judge should think the discovery unnecessary, he may, it is conceived, order the amount to be applied in payment of the costs incurred by the opposite party in obedience to the order for discovery. If the party paying in be ordered to pay the costs of the action or matter, the amount paid in will be subject to a lien for such costs (Order XVI. r. 24). If no taxation of costs is required, the registrar must, by consent, or on being satisfied that the party who made the payment is entitled to the amount, pay it out to the party, or to his solicitor on his written authority (Order XVI. r. 24).

O. XVI. r. 10. Notes.

Costs of Discovery in Actions under 10*l.*.]—Where the amount recovered (or in the case of a defendant the amount claimed) does not exceed 10*l.*, the amount of the deposit, or so much of it as may be directed by the court, may be allowed as costs to the party against whom discovery is ordered; but no further costs of discovery will be allowed, unless the judge certifies under sect. 119 of the Act of 1888 that the action involved some novel or difficult point of law, or that the question litigated was of importance to some class or body of persons, or of general or public interest, or unless the judge, upon consideration of the facts of the particular case, makes a special order, in either of which cases costs of discovery may be allowed on the scale specified in the certificate or order (Order XVI. r. 24A).

The party on whom an order for discovery is made is, in the absence of any order dispensing with the payment, not bound to comply with the order until the payment has been made, and a copy of the receipt for the payment into court served upon him (Order XVI. r. 23 (2)).

As a general rule in actions against several, one deposit suffices (Eder v. Attenborough, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 130; 58 L. J. Q. B. 311; Joyce v. Beall, (1891) 1 Q. B. 459; 60 L. J. Q. B. 242); but if there are several defendants who appear separately and have independent rights, it seems that a separate deposit should be made for the costs of each one against whom the order for discovery is made (Liverpool and Manchester Bread Co. v. Firth, (1891) 1 Ch. 367; 60 L. J. Ch. 153; Joyce v. Beall, supra). When money is paid in it must remain as security for the general costs of the action, and cannot be withdrawn, even if the order for discovery be abandoned (Jubb v. Bibbs, W. N. (1883) 208). The judge or registrar may in his discretion dispense with the deposit (Newman v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 454; 59 L. J. Q. B. 341); but the parties by agreement cannot do so (Aste v. Stumore (C. A.), (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 326; 53 L. J. Q. B. 82).

By and against whom Order made.]—An order for discovery may be made, not only against any real party, but also against a nominal party whose name has been used as plaintiff (Wilson v. Raffalovitch (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 553); also against a third party who defends (MacAllister v. Rochester, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 194; 49 L. J. C. P. 443; Eden v. Weardale Co. (2) (C. A.), (1887) 35 Ch. D. 287; 56 L. J. Ch. 400). Where the action is by or against a sheriff or high bailiff or other like officer in respect of matters connected with the execution of his office, the officer actually concerned may be ordered to make the affidavit in answer (Order XVI. r. 18). Formerly an order could not be made against an infant plaintiff or defendant (Mayor v. Collins, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 361; 59 L. J. Q. B. 199; Curtis v. Mundy, (1892) 2 Q. B. 178); nor against a next friend (In re Corsellis, (1883) 52 L. J. Ch. 399; Dyke v. Stephens, (1885) 30 Ch. D. 189; 55 L. J. Ch. 41; but see Higginson v. Hall, (1878) 10 Ch. D. 235; 48 L. J. Ch. 250), or guardian ad litem (Ingram v. Little, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 251); but now Order XVI. as to discovery and inspection applies to infant plaintiffs and defendants and their next friends and guardians ad litem (Order XVI. r. 25).

When not Made.]—The order cannot be made in a penal action; as in an action for treble damages under 2 W. & M., sess. 1, c. 5, s. 4 (Jones v. Jones (4), (1889) 22 Q. B. D. 425); or for double value of goods removed under 11 Geo. II. c. 19, s. 3 (Hobbs v. Hudson (C. A.), (1890) 25 Q. B. D. 232; 59 L. J. Q. B. 562); nor can it be obtained by one defendant against a co-defendant (Brown v. Watkins, (1886) 16 Q. B. D. 125; 55 L. J. Q. B. 126).

Objection to discover documents.

11. The affidavit to be made by a party against whom such order as is mentioned in the last preceding rule has been made shall specify which, if any, of the documents therein mentioned he objects to produce, and on what grounds and it shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. Such affidavit shall be filed and a copy thereof delivered to the party who obtains the order within the time named in the order. O. XVI. r. 11. Form 107.

It is believed that the party or his solicitor may serve the copy; but Order LIV. r. 13, apparently requires the delivery of two copies, and the original to the registrar. One of these copies is presumably intended for the opposite party.

Identification of Documents.]—The affidavit of documents should specify the documents with dates; but where they are numerous and of a particular class, such as letters, they ought to be numbered and tied up and marked and referred to as a bundle so marked and numbered (Walker v. Poole, (1882) 21 Ch. D. 835; 51 L. J. Ch. 840). All communications relevant to the matter in dispute, received in the ordinary course of business, must be disclosed (Woolley v. N. L. Rail. Co., (1869) L. R. 4 C. P. 602; 38 L. J. C. P. 317; Cossey v. L. & Br. Rail. Co., (1870) L. R. 5 C. P. 146; 39 L. J. C. P. 174; Skinner v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1874) L. R. 9 Ex. 298; 43 L. J. Ex. 150). Even if privilege be claimed, the documents must be set out or identified, and the ground of privilege stated (Gardner v. Irvin (C. A.), (1879) 4 Ex. D. 49; 48 L. J. Ex. 223). Certain documents and letters which have passed "between my legal advisers and myself, numbered 50 to 76 inclusive, and tied up in a bundle marked A, and initialled by me," has been held sufficient for the purpose of identity (Taylor v. Batten (C. A.), (1878) 4 Q. B. D. 85; 48 L. J. Q. B. 72; Budden v. Wilkinson (C. A.), (1893) 2 Q. B. 432; 63 L. J. Q. B. 32).

Grounds of Privilege.]—The following are instances of privilege:—Documents which in the opinion of the proper authority cannot be disclosed without prejudice to the public interest (Asiatic Petroleum Co., Ltd. v. Anglo-Persian Oil Co., Ltd., (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1075). Communications between solicitor and client of a professional and confidential character (Gardner v. Irvin, supra); documents prepared for the purpose of being submitted to a legal adviser relating to pending or impending litigation (Southwark Water Co. v. Quick (C. A.), (1878) 3 Q. B. D. 315; 47 L. J. Q. B. 258), or to a previous action (Pearce v. Foster (C. A.), (1885) 15 Q. B. D. 114; 54 L. J. Q. B. 432); reports procured by a solicitor for the purpose of an action (Friend v. L. C. D. Rail. Co. (C. A.), (1876) 2 Ex. D. 437; 46 L. J. Ex. 696), but it is not necessary that the affidavit should state that the information was obtained "solely" or "merely" or "primarily" for the solicitor if it was obtained for the solicitor in the sense of being procured as materials upon which professional advice should be taken in proceedings pending, or threatened, or anticipated (Birmingham and Midland Motor Omnibus Co. v. London and North Western Rail. Co., (1914) 3 K. B. 850; 83 L. J. K. B. 474, followed in Adam Steamship Co. v. London Assurance Corporation, (1914) 3 K. B. 1256; 83 L. J. K. B. 1861); documents in the joint possession of defendant and a person not a party (Kearsley v. Philips (C. A.), (1882) 10 Q. B. D. 465; 52 L. J. Q. B. 581); title deeds of defendant in an action for the recovery of land (New British, etc., Co. v. Peed, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 196); but even title deeds must be sufficiently described and identified (New British, etc., Co. v. Peed, supra; Lyell v. Kennedy, (1882) 8 App. Cas. 217; 52 L. J. Ch. 385); and generally a party will be entitled to see them if they support his case (Jenkins v. Bushby, (1866) 35 L. J. Ch. 400; Attorney-General v. Emerson (C. A.), (1883) 10 Q. B. D. 191; 52 L. J. Q. B. 67).

Reports procured by a solicitor before litigation was contemplated are not privileged (Wheeler v. Le Marchant (C. A.), (1881) 17 Ch. D. 675; 44 L. T. 632); nor are the letters of a mercantile agent to his principal relating to threatened litigation (Anderson v. Bk. of Columbia (C. A.), (1876) 2 Ch. D. 644; 45 L. J. Ch. 449).

O. XVI. r. 11. Notes.

Short-hand reports of proceedings in an action in a county court made for the purpose of a High Court action relating to the same matters are not protected (Lambert v. Home, (1914) 3 K. B. 86; 83 L. J. K B. 1091).

The affidavit of documents is conclusive, and a further affidavit cannot be ordered, unless it is insufficient on the face of it (Morris v. Edwards, (1890) 15 A. C. 309; 60 L. J. Q. B. 292). If, from the affidavit, the court infers that privilege has been erroneously claimed, or that other documents exist, inspection may, it seems, be ordered (Attorney-General v. Emerson (C. A.), (1883) 10 Q. B. D. 191; 52 L. J. Q. B. 67), or interrogatories permitted (Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co. (C. A.), (1880) 5 Q. B. D. 556; 49 L. J. Q. B. 627; Hall v. Truman (C. A.), (1885) 29 Ch. D. 307; 54 L. J. Ch. 717). Moreover, if on an application under Order XVI. r. 16, the judge be satisfied that the party making the affidavit of documents has admitted the possession of some other relevant document, he may make an order for its inspection (Wiedemann v. Walpole, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 537).

Enforcing Order for Discovery.]—Disobedience to an order for discovery is punishable by attachment, and the order must be indorsed with a notice according to Form 346 (Order XVI. r. 21; Richards v. Cullerne (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 623; Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491; S. C., R. v. Harrington, (1879) 48 L. J. Q. B. 677). In order to obtain an attachment it would probably be necessary that an order to answer or answer further should be obtained from the judge, and that it should be drawn up and served. A plaintiff is also liable to have his action stayed until the order is complied with, or to have it dismissed for want of prosecution, and a defendant is liable to be debarred from defending until compliance; an order to that effect may be made by the court (Order XVI. r. 21).

An additional power to order discovery of documents is conferred by Order XVI. r. 12.

Production of documents. Form 108.

12. The court may, at any time during the pendency of any action or matter, order the production upon oath, by any party thereto, of such of the documents in his possession or power relating to any question in such action or matter as the court may direct; and the court may deal with such documents, when produced, in such manner as may be just.

Inspection of documents referred to in particulars, notices, or affidavits. Form 109.

13. Any party to an action or matter may at any time give notice in writing to any other party in whose particulars, notices or affidavits reference is made to any document, to produce such document for the inspection of the party giving such notice, and to permit him to take copies thereof; and any party not complying with such notice shall not afterwards be at liberty to put any such document in evidence on his behalf in such action or matter, unless he satisfies the court that such document relates only to his own title, he being a defendant to the action or matter, or that he had some other cause or excuse which the court deems sufficient for not complying with such notice; in which case the court may allow the same to be put in evidence on such terms as to costs and otherwise as the court may think fit.

Inspection of Documents.]—The power of compelling production of documents for the purpose of inspection is now possessed by all judges of the High Court, and hence by all county court judges.

A party is entitled to inspection of all documents in the possession of his opponent, except such as are privileged; and a judge has no discretion to refuse inspection, except on a ground of privilege raised by the affidavit in answer (Bustros v. White (C. A.), (1875) 1 Q. B. D. 423; 45 L. J. Q. B. 642; Anderson v. Bk. of Columbia (C. A.), (1876) 2 Ch. D. 644; 45 L. J. Ch. 449; see also Webb v. East (C. A.), (1879) 5 Ex. D. 108; 49 L. J. Ex. 250).

Notice to Inspect.]—Any party may at any time give notice to any other party to produce for his inspection or that of his solicitor, and to permit him to take copies of any documents referred to in such other party's particulars, notices, affidavit of documents, or other affidavits. The notice must be in writing (Order XVI. rr. 13, 14; Form 109).

By Whom and to Whom given.]—If the party wishing to give the notice acts by solicitor, the notice may (Order LIV. r. 3), and if the solicitor has given written notice that he is so acting must (Order LIV. r. 4), be given and served by him; if not, the notice may be given by such party or his agent (Order LIV. r. 1). The same rule applies to the party to whom notice is to be given. Service may be by delivery at his office, or by sending the notice to him by prepaid postal letter (Order LIV. rr. 3, 20). Service will count on the day of such delivery, or, if sent by post, on the day on which, in the ordinary course of post, delivery would be made (Order LIV. r. 3). If the party does not act by solicitor, service should be personal, or under order for substituted service (Order VII. r. 40), if it would be of any use.

Appointment to Inspect.]—The party to whom such notice is given must by notice (Form 110), to be served in the same manner as the original notice, appoint a time and place for inspection in the manner and within the time named in Order XVI. r. 15, or must state which, if any, of the documents he objects to produce, and on what grounds (Order XVI. r. 15).

Order on Failure to give Inspection.]—In the event of the party served failing to comply with the notice, or objecting to give inspection, or offering inspection elsewhere than at the office of his solicitor, the court may make an order for inspection in such place and in such manner as it may think fit; the order is not to be made if unnecessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter, or for saving costs (Order XVI. r. 16; Form 108; see Wiedemann v. Walpole, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 537). The application may be by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), or ex parte, or on notice, pursuant to Order XII. r. 11.

An affidavit will be necessary in support only when the documents of which inspection is sought are not disclosed in any particulars, notices, affidavit of documents, or other affidavits. The affidavit must then show of what documents inspection is sought, that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and that they are in the possession or power of the other party. An order for inspection will not be made when and so far as the court is of opinion that it is not necessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter or for saving costs (Order XVI. r. 16). To make the order of use for the purpose of attachment it should be drawn up and served, but without order to that effect no order need be drawn up or served (Order XXIII. r. 5). When drawn up and served the practice as to orders for discovery of documents should be followed.

Non-compliance with the notice to produce for inspection also entails another penalty, viz., that the party not complying will not be allowed to put any document included in the notice in evidence, unless he satisfy the court that it relates only to his own title, he being a defendant, or that he had some other just cause or excuse for non-compliance; in which case the court may allow the document to be put in evidence on such terms as it may think fit (Order XVI. r. 13).

Order to Produce for Inspection.]—In addition to the above provisions for inspection, it is also provided that the court may at any time order the production, on oath, by any party of documents in his possession or power relating to any question in any action or matter (Order XVI. r. 12; Form 108; see Annual Practice, notes to Order XXXI. r. 14, R. S. C.). The application may be by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), or ex parte or on notice, pursuant to Order XII. r. 11.

The rule apparently contemplates inspection without the giving of the formal notice already mentioned; but the method should not be resorted to without some special reason. It appears to supplement the power given by 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 66.

Service of Order.]—Any order for inspection required to be drawn up and served may be drawn up and served in the manner already mentioned for orders of discovery.

Deposit for Costs.]—When the application for inspection does not follow an order for discovery, a deposit for costs pursuant to Order XVI. rr. 23A, 24, may be ordered, except when the document of which inspection is sought is one in which both parties have a common interest, e.g., the contract on which the cause of action arises (Brown v. Liell, (1885) 16 Q. B. D. 229; 55 L. J. Q. B. 73). Costs of inspection will not be allowed, unless the registrar is satisfie that there was need for it (see item 57).

Attachment for Disobedience.]—Disobedience to an order for inspection is also punishable by attachment, in the same manner as disobedience to an order for discovery (Order XVI. r. 21).

Court Rolls of Manor.]—As to inspection of the court rolls of a manor, see Order XVI. r. 17.

Bankers' Books.]—As to inspection and taking copies of entries in bankers' books, see 42 Vict. c. 11, ss. 7, 8, 10 (see, as to the effect of the Act, Harding v. Williams, (1880) 14 Ch. D. 197; 49 L. J. Ch. 661; Howard v. Beall, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 1; 58 L. J. Q. B. 384; and as to the banking accounts of third persons, Pollock v. Garle, (1898) 1 Ch. 1; 66 L. J. Ch. 788). The application may be to the judge by notice for directions (Order XV. rr. 1, 4), or ex parte or on notice under 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 9, and Order XII. r. 11.

Business Books.]—Instead of ordering the inspection of business books, the court may order a copy of any entries in them to be furnished, and verified by the affidavit of a person who has examined the copy with the original entries, stating whether there are any and what erasures, interlineations, or alterations in the original; inspection may be ordered notwithstanding that this copy has been supplied (Order XVI. r. 19 (1)). Where on an application for inspection privilege is claimed, the court may inspect the document for the purpose of deciding on the claim (Order XVI. r. 19 (2)). The court may, on application made on affidavit, order the other party to state whether any specific documents are or have been in his possession or power, when he parted with them, and what has become of them; the affidavit must state the deponent's belief that the other party has, or has had, the specified documents in his possession or power and that they relate to the matters in question in the action or matter (Order XVI. r. 19 (3)). If the court is satisfied that the right to discovery or inspection depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the action or matter, or that for any other reason it is desirable that any issue or question in dispute should be determined before deciding upon the right to discovery or inspection, it may make an order that the issue or question be tried first, reserving the question as to discovery or inspection (Order XVI. r. 20).

Notice under preceding rule. Form 109.

14. Notice to any party to produce any documents under the last preceding rule shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require.

Time within which inspection to be given.

15. The party to whom such notice is given shall, within two days from the receipt of such notice, if all the documents therein referred to have been set forth by him in such affidavit as is mentioned in Rule 11 of this Order, or if any of the documents referred to in such notice have not been set forth by him in any such affidavit, then within four days from the receipt of such notice, deliver to the party giving the same a notice stating a time within three days from the delivery thereof at which the documents, or such of them as he does not object to produce, may be inspected at the office of his solicitor, or in the case of bankers' books or other books of account, or books in constant use for the purposes of any trade or business, or in case the party is not acting by a solicitor, at their usual place of custody, and stating which (if any) of the documents he objects to produce, and on what grounds. Such notice shall be according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. O. XVI. r. 15. Place of inspection. Form 110.

16.—(1) If any party served with notice under Rule 13 of this Order omits to give such notice of a time for inspection or objects to give inspection, or offers inspection elsewhere than is provided by Rule 15, the court may, on the application of the party desiring it, make an order for inspection at such place and in such manner as the court may think fit: Provided that the order shall not be made when and so far as the court is of opinion that it is not necessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter, or for saving costs. Order for inspection. Form 108.

See Wiedemann v. Walpole, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 537.

(2) Any application to inspect documents, except such as are referred to in the particulars, notices, or affidavits of the party against whom the application is made, or disclosed in his affidavit of documents, shall be founded upon an affidavit showing of what documents inspection is sought, that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and that they are in the possession or power of the other party. The court shall not make an order for inspection of such documents when and so far as the court is of opinion that it is not necessary either for disposing fairly of the action or matter, or for saving costs. (R. S. C., Order XXXI. r. 18.)

17. In any pending action or matter an order upon the lord of a manor to allow limited inspection of the court rolls may be made on the application of a copyhold tenant supported by an affidavit that he has applied for inspection, and that the same has been refused. Inspection of court rolls.

18. In an action against or by a sheriff or high bailiff, or other officer discharging the like functions, in respect of any matters Actions against or by sheriff or high bailiff.

O. XVI. r. 18.

connected with the execution of his office, the court may, on the application of either party, order that the affidavit to be made in answer either to interrogatories or to an order for discovery shall be made by the officer actually concerned.

Verified copies.

19.—(1) Where inspection of any business books is applied for, the court may, if it thinks fit, instead of ordering inspection of the original books, order a copy of any entries therein to be furnished and verified by the affidavit of some person who has examined the copy with the original entries, and such affidavit shall state whether or not there are in the original book any and what erasures, interlineations, or alterations. Provided that, notwithstanding that such copy has been supplied, the court may order inspection of the book from which the copy was made.

Privilege.

(2) Where on an application for an order for inspection privilege is claimed for any document, the court may inspect the document for the purpose of deciding as to the validity of the claim of privilege.

Inquiry as to present or past possession of specified documents.

(3) The court may, on the application of any party to an action or matter at any time, and whether an affidavit of documents has or has not been already ordered or made, make an order requiring any other party to state by affidavit whether any specific documents, to be specified in the application, are or have at any time been in his possession or power; and if not then in his possession, when he parted with the same, and what has become thereof. Such application shall be made on affidavit stating that in the belief of the deponent the party against whom the application is made has or has at some time had in his possession or power the documents specified in the application, and that they relate to the matters in question in the action or matter, or to some of them. (R. S. C., Order XXXI. r. 19A.)

Premature discovery.

20. If a party from whom discovery of any kind or inspection is sought objects to the same or any part thereof, the court may, if satisfied that the right to the discovery or inspection sought depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the action or matter, or that for any other reason it is desirable that any issue or question in dispute in the action or matter should be determined before deciding upon the right to the discovery or inspection, order that such issue or question be determined first, and reserve the question as to the discovery or inspection. (R. S. C., Order XXXI. r. 20.)

Non-compliance with order.

21. If any party fails to comply with an order to answer interrogatories, or for discovery or inspection of documents, he shall be liable to attachment.

He shall also, if a plaintiff, be liable to have his action stayed until the order is complied with, or dismissed for want of prosecution, and, if a defendant, be debarred from defending until the order is complied with; and the party applying for discovery or inspection may apply to the court for an order to that effect, and an order may be made accordingly. O. XVI. r. 21. Form 346.

Where application is made for the issue of a warrant of attachment, the provisions of Order XXV., Rules 58 to 63, shall apply.

See Richards v. Cullerne (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 623; Martin v. Bannister (C. A.), (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 491; S. C., R. v. Harrington, (1879) 48 L. J. Q. B. 677.

The interrogating party has the option of proceeding at once for the contempt, in the event of insufficient answers being given, or of obtaining the order for oral examination.

22. In every action or matter, the costs of discovery, by interrogatories or otherwise, shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, be secured in the first instance as provided by Rule 23 of this Order, by the party seeking such discovery, and shall be allowed as part of his costs, where, and only where, such discovery appears to the judge at the trial, or, if there is no trial, to the registrar on taxation, to have been reasonably asked for. Security for costs.

As a general rule in actions against several, one deposit suffices (Eder v. Attenborough, (1889) 23 Q. B. D. 130; 58 L. J. Q. B. 311; Joyce v. Beall, (1891) 1 Q. B. 459; 60 L. J. Q. B. 242; but if there are several defendants who appear separately and have independent rights, it seems that a separate deposit should be made for the costs of each one against whom the order for discovery is made (Liverpool and Manchester Bread Co. v. Firth, (1891) 1 Ch. 367; 60 L. J. Ch. 153; Joyce v. Beall, supra). When money is paid in, it must remain as security for the general costs of the action, and cannot be withdrawn, even if the order for discovery be abandoned (Jubb v. Bibbs, (1883) W. N. 208).

The judge or registrar may in his discretion dispense with the deposit (Newman v. L. & S. W. Rail. Co., (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 454; 59 L. J. Q. B. 341); but the parties by agreement cannot do so (Aste v. Stumore (C. A.), (1884) 13 Q. B. D. 326; 53 L. J. Q. B. 82).

By and against whom Order made.]—An order for discovery may be made not only against any real party, but also against a nominal party whose name has been used as plaintiff (Wilson v. Raffalovitch (C. A.), (1881) 7 Q. B. D. 553); also against a third party who defends (MacAllister v. Rochester, (1880) 5 C. P. D. 194; 49 L. J. C. P. 443; Eden v. Weardale Co. (2) (C. A.), (1887) 35 Ch. D. 287; 56 L. J. Ch. 400). Formerly an order could not be made against an infant plaintiff or defendant (Mayor v. Collins, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 361; 59 L. J. Q. B. 199; Curtis v. Mundy, (1892) 2 Q. B. 178); nor against a next friend (In re Corsellis, (1883) 52 L. J. Ch. 399; Dyke v. Stephens, (1885) 30 Ch. D. 189; 55 L. J. Ch. 41; but see Higginson v. Hall, (1878) 10 Ch. D. 235; 48 L. J. Ch. 250), or guardian ad litem (Ingram v. Little, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 251); but now Order XVI. as to discovery and inspection applies to infant plaintiffs and defendants and their next friends and guardians ad litem (Order XVI. r. 25).

23.—(1) Any party seeking discovery by interrogatories or otherwise may be ordered upon making application for discovery Security for costs of discovery.

to pay into court, in the case of interrogatories, the sum of twenty shillings, and, if the number of folios exceeds five, the further sum of two shillings for each additional folio, or in the case of discovery otherwise than by interrogatories the sum of twenty shillings, or (in either case) any less sum, or such additional sum as the court shall direct.

(2) An order for discovery shall state the amount ordered to be paid into court, or that payment into court is dispensed with; and where payment into court is ordered the party seeking discovery shall, with his interrogatories or order for discovery, serve a copy of the receipt for the payment into court, and the party from whom discovery is sought shall not be bound to answer or make discovery unless and until the said copy has been served.

See ante, p. 475.

Payment out of amount paid in as security.

24. Unless the court otherwise orders, the amount paid in under the last preceding rule in any action or matter shall after the action or matter has been finally disposed of be paid out to the party by whom the same was paid in, on his request, or to his solicitor on such party's written authority, except in the event of his being ordered to pay costs, in which case the amount in court shall be subject to a lien for the costs ordered to be paid to any other party. Provided, that if after the action or matter has been finally disposed of, by consent or otherwise, no taxation of costs is required, the registrar shall, by consent of the parties, or on being satisfied that the party by whom the amount was paid in is entitled thereto, pay out the same to such party, or to his solicitor on such written authority as aforesaid.

Costs of discovery in actions under 10*l.* 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 119.

24A. Where the amount recovered, or in the case of a defendant the amount claimed, does not exceed 10*l.*, the amount paid in under Rule 23 of this Order, or so much thereof as the court may direct, may be allowed as costs to the party against whom discovery is ordered, by interrogatories or otherwise; but no further costs of discovery shall be allowed, unless the judge certifies under section 119 of the Act, or by a special order of the judge made upon consideration of the facts of the particular case, in either of which cases such costs may be allowed on the scale specified in the certificate or order.

See ante, p. 476.

Order to apply to infants.

25. This order shall apply to infant plaintiffs and defendants and their next friends and guardians ad litem.

ORDER XVII.

Change of Parties.

Rule 1.

When action not to abate.

1. An action or matter shall not become abated by reason of the marriage, death, or bankruptcy of any of the parties, if the cause of action survives or continues, and shall not become defective by the assignment, creation, or devolution of any estate or title pendente lite ; and whether the cause of action survives or not, there shall be no abatement by reason of the death of either party between the verdict or finding of the issues of fact and the judgment, but judgment may in such case be entered notwithstanding the death.

Death.]—"Actio personalis moritur cum persona." At common law a purely personal action dies with the person entitled to bring it, or against whom it is brought (Gillett v. Firbank (1887), 3 T. L. R. 618). In case of death, in order to ascertain whether the cause of action survives or continues, the true test appears to be: Could the executors or administrators of the deceased plaintiff or defendant have sued, or would they have been liable to have been sued if the deceased had not himself sued or been sued in his lifetime? If so, the action will not abate. The power and liability of executors and administrators to sue and be sued in actions of assumpsit was fully established at an early period (Pinchon's Case, (1612) 9 Co. Rep. 86 b, 89 a); but an action for breach of promise of marriage is, as regards all damage other than damage to property, a mere personal action, and executors and administrators can neither sue nor be sued in such an action for personal damages (Finlay v. Chirney (C. A.), (1888) 20 Q. B. D. 494; 57 L. J. Q. B. 247). There was no power to sue for the torts done to any of the property of a deceased until the 4 Edw. III. c. 7, which was followed by the 25 Edw. III. c. 5, and 31 Edw. III. c. 11.

Since those Acts, however, liberally interpreted as they have been, executors and administrators may sue for any damage to the personal property or estate of the deceased in respect of which he himself might have sued had he lived (1 Wms. Saund. 217 b; Sir W. Jones, 174; Smith v. Colgay, (1595) Cro. Eliz. 384; Twycross v. Grant (C. A.), (1879) 4 C. P. D. 40; Bradshaw v. L. & Y. Rail., (1875) L. R. 10 C. P. 189; Leggott v. G. N. Rail. Co., (1876) 1 Q. B. D. 599; 45 L. J. Q. B. 577); but they cannot sue for mere personal wrongs not within the above rule, e.g., assault and battery, libel, slander, false imprisonment, deceit (see the notes to Pinchon's Case, (1612) 9 Co. Rep. 89 a; 1 Wms. Saund. 217 b; and Phillips v. Homfray (C. A.), (1883) 24 Ch. D. 439; 52 L. J. Ch. 383, per Bowen, L.J.). They may also sue within a year for injuries to the real estate of the deceased, provided the injury took place within six months before the death, by virtue of the 3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 42, s. 2. And by the same Act the executors or administrators of a deceased wrong-doer may be sued for injuries done by the deceased to the real or personal property of another within six months of his decease. It seems, also, that executors may be sued in certain cases where the deceased has appropriated the property of another and added it to his own estate (Phillips v. Homfray, supra ; Powell v. Rees, (1837) 7 A. & E. 426; 8 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 47; 35 R. R. 747).

As to personal injuries by negligence causing death, see Fatal Accidents Acts, 9 & 10 Vict. c. 93, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 95, and 8 Edw. VII. c. 7, but the statutes give a new cause of action.

In the cases to which the 3 & 4 Will. IV. applies, if the deceased dies more than six months after the accruing of the cause of action, the action abates, for the executors or administrators could not have sued or been sued in respect of that cause of action (Kirk v. Todd (C. A.), (1882) 21 Ch. D. 484; 52 L. J. Ch. 224).

O. XVII. r. 1. Notes.

Where the action would otherwise abate, an interlocutory order or judgment will not preserve it (Phillips v. Homfray (C. A.), (1883) 24 Ch. D. 439; Smith v. Eyles, (1742) 2 Atk. 385). The last clause of Order XVII. r. 1, embodying the provisions of the 17 Car. II. c. 8, s. 1, now in R. S. C., Order XVII. r. 1, will prevent abatement if a verdict be obtained before the death, although judgment may not have been delivered, even in cases in which executors or administrators could not have sued or been sued for the cause of action (Palmer v. Cohen, (1831) 2 B. & Ad. 966; Kramer v. Waymark, (1866) L. R. 1 Ex. 241; 35 L. J. Ex. 148).

Death before Return-day.]—Where the plaintiff or defendant in an action or matter dies and the cause of action survives, but the person entitled to proceed fails to do so, the defendant (or the person against whom the action or matter is continued) may apply to the court for an order directing the plaintiff (or the person entitled to proceed) to proceed within such time as may be ordered; in default of such proceeding the action or matter may be struck out and costs awarded by the court as in other cases of striking out. In such case, if the plaintiff be dead, execution may issue as provided by Order XXV. r. 14 (Order XVII. r. 7).

Bankruptcy.]—The bankruptcy of the plaintiff in any action in the county court which the trustee might maintain for the benefit of the creditors does not cause the action to abate if the trustee elects to continue the action, and gives security for costs, within such reasonable time as the judge may order, but the hearing may be adjourned until such election is made. In default of such election and security, the bankruptcy may be relied on as a defence (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 94; Order XVII. r. 9); or an order to stay may be obtained if the bankrupt proceeds with it (Warder v. Saunders, (1882) 10 Q. B. D. 114). If the trustee refuses to continue the action the stay is absolute against all subsequent assignees of the cause of action (Selig v. Lion, (1891) 1 Q. B. 513; 60 L. J. Q. B. 403). When the trustee elects to continue the action, he should, it is believed, apply to be joined as plaintiff under the rules hereafter mentioned; where he has been so added (in a case commenced in the High Court, but ordered to be tried in the county court under sect. 65) before the original writ or order has been lodged with the registrar of the county court, the judge of the county court has no jurisdiction to order security for costs under sect. 94 (Hemming v. Davies, (1898) 1 Q. B. 660; 67 L. J. Q. B. 458).

The right to maintain actions for breaches of contract resulting in direct injury to the bankrupt's person or feelings does not pass to his trustee, e.g., for a breach of promise of marriage (Beckham v. Drake, (1849) 2 H. L. Cas. 579; 81 R. R. 301); nor for personal wrongs, e.g., libel, assault, personal injuries, etc. (Howard v. Crowther, (1841) 8 M. & W. 601; 10 L. J. Ex. 335; 58 R. R. 823). In such cases, there is no abatement, but security for costs will be ordered (Brocklebank v. King's Lynn, (1878) 3 C. P. D. 365; 47 L. J. C. P. 321).

Where bankruptcy takes place after judgment, the provisions of Order XXV. r. 14 presumably apply (see East End Building Society v. Slack, (1891) 60 L. J. Q. B. 359).

If a defendant becomes bankrupt, and the trustee continues the defence and fails, he may be ordered to pay costs personally, even if he has not been added as defendant (London School Board v. Wall (C. A.), (1891) 7 T. L. R. 566).

Marriage.]—At common law it might be pleaded in abatement that the plaintiff, or one of several plaintiffs, took husband pending the writ; aliter in the case of a defendant (King v. Jones, (1727) 2 Ld. Raym. 1525); but marriage after verdict or judgment did not cause an abatement (Com. Dig. "Abatement," H. 42).

The rule above mentioned preserves an action brought by a woman who marries pendente lite from abating, if the cause of action survives or continues. This is, it is believed, since the Married Women's Property Acts, and the decisions thereon, almost equivalent to stating that marriage simpliciter shall never cause abatement. Where a settlement is made in contemplation of marriage of property in respect of which an action is pending, it is not the marriage which affects the right of action, but the devolution of interest by the settlement.

Where marriage takes place after judgment the provisions of Order XXV. r. 14, post, p. 539, will presumably apply.

Practice Generally.]—Where by reason of any of the events above mentioned or any other event occurring after the commencement of any action or matter, there is any assignment, creation, change, transmission, or devolution of the interest, estate, or title of any plaintiff in any such action or matter before judgment, the person to or upon whom such interest, estate, or title has come or devolved may give notice thereof to the registrar (Form 115), with his name and address, together with an affidavit of the truth of the facts stated in such notice. And thereupon the registrar may adjourn the hearing to a day to be named by him, and must cause a copy of the notice to be served by post upon the defendant, and a further notice (Form 117) that unless upon the day named therein he appears and shows cause against the same, the person to or upon whom such interest, estate, or title has come or devolved will be substituted for, or made a joint plaintiff with, the plaintiff named in the original summons; unless cause is so shown, the person may be added or substituted as plaintiff (Order XVII. r. 2 (1)). Where the change of title affects more actions and matters than one, and is caused by the same event, one notice only need be given specifying in a schedule the actions and matters in respect of which the notice is given; the copy of such notice served on any defendant need only set forth the part affecting such defendant (Order XVII. r. 2 (2); Form 116). On notice to the registrar of a change in the defendant's title, accompanied by an affidavit of the truth of the facts stated, the registrar may take similar proceedings, and the successor to the interest, or liability of a defendant may be substituted or added in like manner (Order XVII. r. 3 (1)); but where the notice is given by any person other than the person proposed to be substituted or added as defendant, a copy of the summons must be affixed to the notice to be served on the proposed defendant, and the notice and summons must be served on him ten clear days at least before the hearing, and the hearing may be adjourned to enable service to be made (Order XVII. r. 3 (2)).

Adding New Parties.]—Where, in any case not provided for by Order XVII. rr. 1—3, by reason of any event occurring after the commencement of any action or matter, and causing a change or transmission of interest or liability, or by reason of any person interested coming into existence after the commencement of the action or matter, it becomes necessary or desirable that any person not already a party should be made a party, or that any person already a party should be made a party in another capacity, an order that the proceedings shall be carried on between the continuing parties and such new party may be obtained, before or at the trial, on application to the court, upon an allegation of such change or transmission of interest or liability, or of such person interested having come into existence (Order XVII. r. 4; Form 118; see notes to Order XVII. R. S. C. in Annual Practice).

Service of Order.]—The above rule seems to supplement the practice prescribed by the preceding rules, and to provide for cases of infants born pendente lite (see Peter v. Thomas Peter, (1884) 26 Ch. D. 181; 53 L. J. Ch. 514). An order obtained under this rule must, unless otherwise directed, be served on the continuing parties, and also on each new party, unless the person applying be the only one, according to the rules as to the service of ordinary summonses, ten clear days at least before any further proceedings are taken; and in the case of a person not already a party, a copy of the summons or petition and a notice (Form 119) of the order are to be served with the order; and the order subject to Rule 6 will be binding on the persons served. Every person served, not already a party, will be bound to appear at the trial, and in the same manner as if served with a summons or petition. An order for adjournment may be made in order to give effect to the rule (Order XVII. r. 5).

Variation of Order.]—Where any person not already a party to the action or matter is served with an order on change or transmission of interest, either under Rule 4 or Rule 5 of Order XVII., he may on or before the day fixed for proceeding with the action or matter apply to the court to vary the order (Order XVII. r. 6).

Alteration of Title.]—Where a plaintiff or defendant is substituted or added under any of the above rules, the minute-book must be altered, and subsequent proceedings carried on under the altered title (Order XVII. r. 8).

Bankruptcy.]—None of the above provisions apply to cases expressly provided for by s. 94 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43 (Order XVII. r. 9)).

Proceedings on change of plaintiff's title before judgment.

2.—(1) Where by reason of any event occurring after the commencement of any action or matter there shall be any assignment, creation, change, transmission, or devolution of the interest, estate, or title of any plaintiff in such action or matter before judgment, the person to or upon whom such interest, estate, or title has come or devolved may give notice thereof to the registrar according to the form in the Appendix, with his name and address, together with an affidavit of the truth of the facts stated in such notice. And thereupon the registrar may adjourn the hearing to a day to be named by him, and shall cause a copy of such notice to be served by post upon the defendant in the action or matter, and a further notice that unless upon the day named therein he appears and shows cause against the same, the person to or upon whom such interest, estate, or title has come or devolved will be substituted for or made a joint plaintiff with the plaintiff named in the original summons; and unless cause is so shown such person may be added or substituted as plaintiff accordingly.

(2) Where by reason of one and the same event, any person becomes entitled to give notice under the last preceding paragraph in more actions or matters than one, such person may give one notice only in respect of all or any of such actions or matters, specifying in a schedule to such notice all the actions or matters in respect of which such notice is given; and in serving a copy of such notice on any defendant in any such action or matter, it shall be sufficient to set forth such part only of such notice as affects such defendant, without setting forth the rest of such notice.

Proceedings on change of defendant's title.

3.—(1) Where by reason of any event occurring after the commencement of any action or matter there shall be any assignment, creation, change, transmission, or devolution of the liability, interest, estate, or title of any defendant in such action or matter before judgment, the plaintiff or the defendant or the person to or upon whom such liability, interest, estate, or title has come or devolved may in like manner give notice thereof to the registrar, in accordance with the last preceding rule, together with an affidavit of the truth of the facts stated in such notice; and the registrar shall take proceedings thereon similar to those prescribed by the last preceding rule; and a defendant may be substituted or added, as the case may be, in manner similar to that provided in such rule for the substitution or addition of a plaintiff. O. XVII. r. 3.

(2) Where the notice mentioned in the last preceding paragraph is given by any person other than the person proposed to be substituted or added as a defendant, a copy of the summons in the action shall be annexed to the notice to be served on the person proposed to be substituted or added as a defendant, and such notice and summons shall be served on such person, according to the rules applicable to the service of the original summons in the action, ten clear days at least before the day fixed for the hearing, and the hearing shall be adjourned for such time as may be necessary to enable such notice and summons to be so served.

Change or transmission of interest.

4. Where, in any case not provided for by the preceding rules of this Order, it becomes necessary or desirable, by reason of any event occurring after the commencement of any action or matter, and causing a change or transmission of interest or liability, or by reason of any person interested coming into existence after the commencement of any action or matter, that any person not already a party should be made a party, or that any person already a party should be made a party in another capacity, an order that the proceedings shall be carried on between the continuing parties and such new party may be obtained, before or at the trial, on application to the court, upon an allegation of such change or transmission of interest or liability, or of such person interested having come into existence. Service of order on change or transmission of interest.

5. An order obtained as in the last preceding rule mentioned shall, unless the court otherwise directs, be served upon the continuing parties, and also upon each new party, unless the person making the application be himself the only new party, according to the rules as to service of ordinary summonses, ten clear days at least before any further proceedings are taken in the action or matter; and in the case of a person who is not already a party, a copy of the summons or petition in the action or matter, and a notice according to the form in the Appendix shall be annexed to the order and served therewith. The order shall from the time of such service, subject nevertheless to the next following rule, be binding on the persons served therewith; and every person served therewith who is not already a party to the action or matter shall be bound to appear in the same manner as if he had been served with a summons or petition. Such order for adjournment shall be made as shall be necessary to give effect to this rule.

Application to discharge or vary order by person not already a party.

6. Where any person not already a party to the action or matter is served with such order as is mentioned in the two last preceding rules, such person may on or before the day fixed for proceeding with the action or matter apply to the court to discharge or vary such order.

Where person entitled to proceed on death of plaintiff or defendant fails to do so.

7. When the plaintiff or defendant in an action or matter dies, and the cause of action survives, but the person entitled to proceed fails to proceed, the defendant (or the person against whom the action or matter may be continued) may apply to the court for an order directing the plaintiff (or the person entitled to proceed) to proceed within such time as may be ordered; and in default of such proceeding the action or matter may be struck out, and the court may award costs to the defendant or (as the case may be) to the person against whom the action or matter might have been continued, in the same manner as in other cases of striking out; and in such case, if the plaintiff has died, execution may issue for such costs as provided by Order XXV. Rule 14. (R. S. C., Order XVII. r. 8.)

Alteration of records on change of parties.

8. Where a plaintiff or a defendant is substituted or added under any of the rules of this Order, the minute book shall be altered, and all subsequent proceedings shall be carried on under the altered title.

9. This Order shall not apply to any case expressly provided for by section ninety-four of the Act.

ORDER XVIII.

Evidence.

Evidence be taken orally.

1. Except where otherwise provided by these rules, the evidence of witnesses on the trial of any action or hearing of any matter shall be taken orally on oath; and where by these rules evidence is required or permitted to be taken by affidavit such evidence shall nevertheless be taken orally on oath if the court, on any application before or at the trial or hearing, so directs. O. XVIII. r. 1.

The judge may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any particular witness may be read at the trial or hearing, on such conditions as he thinks reasonable, or that any witness whose attendance in court ought for some sufficient cause to be dispensed with be examined by interrogatories or otherwise before an examiner; where, however, it appears to the judge that the other party bonâ fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, an order authorising his evidence to be given by affidavit is not to be made (Order XVIII. r. 2). The term affidavit, when used in the rules, includes statutory declarations, affirmations and attestations upon honour (Order LV.). Where a party desires to use at the trial an affidavit by any particular witness, or an affidavit as to particular facts, as to which no order has been made by the judge under Order XVIII. r. 2, he may, not less than four clear days (in actions under the extended jurisdiction eight clear days) before the trial, give notice, with a copy of the affidavit annexed, to the party against whom it is to be used; and unless he within two clear days (in actions under the extended jurisdiction four clear days) at least before the trial gives notice that he objects, he will be taken to have consented to its use, unless the judge otherwise orders; and the judge may make such order as to costs incident to the objection as he thinks fit (Order XVIII. r. 11; Order XXIIA. r. 18). Affidavits and depositions are read as the evidence of the person by whom they are used (Order XVIII. r. 17).

When the affidavit is in answer to interrogatories, one or more of the answers, or any part of an answer, may be used without the remainder; but the judge may look at the whole and may direct other answers to be put in, if of opinion that they are so connected with them that they ought not to be used without them (Order XVIII. r. 16).

Affidavits may be sworn before any judge or registrar, or any registrar's clerk nominated by the judge, without fee, or before a commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court or the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster (not being a registrar), or before a magistrate (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 83; 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, ss. 76, 82; 53 & 54 Vict. c. 7, s. 1).

Affidavits must be expressed in the first person, and drawn up in paragraphs and numbered (Order XIX. r. 1; for heading, see Form 3). All affidavits other than those for which forms are given must state the deponent's occupation, quality, and place of residence, and also what facts or circumstances deposed to are within his own knowledge, and his means of knowledge, and what facts or circumstances deposed to are known to or believed by him by reason of information derived from other sources than his own knowledge, and what those sources are (Order XIX. r. 2). The costs of an affidavit which unnecessarily sets forth matters of hearsay, or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, are to be paid by the party filing it (Order XIX. r. 2). Every affidavit must be intituled in the action or matter in which it is sworn; but if there are more plaintiffs or defendants than one the full name of the first only must be given, with a statement that there are others (Order XIX. r. 3). It must be stated in a note at the foot on whose behalf it is filed, and that note must appear in all copies (Order XIX. r. 4). The costs of affidavits not in conformity with the preceding rules will be disallowed on taxation, unless the court otherwise directs (Order XIX. r. 5). In an affidavit made by two or more deponents, the names of the several deponents are to be inserted in the jurat, except that if the affidavit of all the deponents is taken at one time by the same officer, it will be sufficient to state that it was sworn by both (or all) of the "above-named" deponents (Order XIX. r. 6).

All affidavits must be delivered to the registrar, and must be filed by him before use, and it is his duty to distinguish them by the number of the plaint

in respect of which they are filed, and from each other, by a distinctive letter of the alphabet (Order XIX. r. 7; Order II. r. 3). He is entitled to require also the delivery of copies to him pursuant to Order LIV. r. 13.

The rule as to filing does not hinder a judge from making an order in an urgent case upon the undertaking of the applicant to file an affidavit already sworn, provided that the order be not issued until the affidavit has been filed (Order XIX. r. 7).

An affidavit will not be filed which has been sworn before a commissioner who was at the time of the swearing of the same the solicitor acting for the party on whose behalf such affidavit is to be used, or the agent, correspondent, partner, or clerk of such solicitor, or who is the party himself (Order XIX. r. 8).

No affidavit which is blotted so as to obliterate any word, or which is illegibly written, or so altered as to cause it to be illegible, or in the body or jurat of which there is any interlineation, alteration, or erasure, unless the person before whom it is sworn has initialled the interlineation or alteration, and in case of an erasure, shall have re-written and signed in the margin the words or figures appearing to be written on the erasure, or which is so imperfect upon the face by reason of blanks or otherwise that it cannot easily be read or understood, is to be filed or used, unless the court otherwise orders (Order XIX. r. 9).

Where an affidavit is sworn by any person who appears to the officer taking the affidavit to be illiterate or blind, the officer must certify in the jurat that the affidavit was read in his presence to the deponent, and that the deponent made his signature in the presence of the officer. No such affidavit can be used in evidence in the absence of this certificate, unless the court is otherwise satisfied that the affidavit was read over to and appeared to be perfectly understood by the deponent (Order XIX. r. 10).

The court may receive an affidavit sworn for the purpose of being used in any action or matter, notwithstanding any defect by misdescription of parties or otherwise in the title or jurat, or any other irregularity in its form, and may direct a memorandum of its reception to be made upon it (Order XIX. r. 11).

Where a registrar rejects an affidavit, he must give notice (Form 133), by post or otherwise, to the party offering it for filing, of the rejection and the reasons, but no such notice is necessary if the party offering the same is present when the registrar rejects the affidavit (Order XIX. r. 14).

The above rules apply to all cases in which any evidence may be given, or matter proved, by affidavit; but, even in cases in which evidence is required or permitted to be taken by affidavit, such evidence may be taken orally on oath, if the judge or registrar shall, at or before the trial, so direct (Order XVIII. r. 1).

On taxation of costs instructions for special affidavits will not be allowed, unless in the opinion of the registrar the facts on which they were grounded had not become known to the solicitor or his clerks in the course of the business (item 23).

Affidavits of service, when required, must state when, where, how, and by whom service was effected (Order XIX. r. 12).

Witnesses.]—The attendance of witnesses for the purpose of giving evidence orally on oath is enforced by means of summonses, to be served either in the home or in any foreign district; they may be issued without leave, and are then served by bailiff. They may, also, by leave of the court, be issued in blank and served by the party applying for the same or some person in his permanent and exclusive employ or by his solicitor, or a solicitor acting as agent for such solicitor, or by some person in the employ of either of them, or some person employed by either of them to serve such summonses who might be so employed to serve a summons in an action in the High Court. In no case may more than one name be placed on any summons (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 110; Order XVIII. r. 3; Forms 123, 124, 24A). A summons to a witness may be issued by post. The plaintiff or his solicitor must transmit to the registrar (a) the plaint note, or summons, or a duplicate; (b) a request for the issue of summonses to witnesses, and (where the service is to be by bailiff) their names and addresses, or (if service is not to be by bailiff) a request to serve them in accordance with Order XVIII. r. 3; (c) a money order for the fees, and (where service is to be by bailiff) the amount to be tendered to each witness for expenses; (d) a stamped addressed envelope (Order XVIII. r. 3A). It is sufficient if a summons to a witness is served within a reasonable time; it may be served by delivering it to the witness personally, or to some person apparently not less than sixteen years old at the house or place of dwelling or place of business of the witness, or in the cases mentioned in Order VII. rr. 18, 19, 21, and 22, in the manner prescribed by those rules for the service of an ordinary summons (Order XVIII. r. 4; for affidavit of service, see Form 125). For the purposes of this rule a place of business is not deemed to be the place of business of a witness unless he is the master or one of the masters of it (Order XVIII. r. 4). The parties themselves and their wives are competent witnesses (14 & 15 Vict. c. 99, s. 2).

The summons may be issued with or without a clause requiring the production of books, deeds, papers, and writings, in the possession or control of the person summoned as a witness (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 110; Form 124).

Where a witness served with a summons containing such a clause does not produce the documents at the trial, the judge may, upon admission or proof that the summons was served within a reasonable time, and that such documents are in the possession or power or under the control of the witness, and that they relate to the matter then pending, make an order for their production by the witness, and may deal with them, when produced, and with all costs occasioned by their non-production, as may be just. This rule does not affect the rules as to the admission of secondary evidence of such documents (Order XVIII. r. 3; Form 126).

If a witness who is duly summoned, and to whom at the same time payment or a tender of payment of his "expenses" has been made according to the prescribed scale, refuses or neglects, without sufficient cause, to appear, or to produce any books and papers, or writings, required by the summons to be produced, or to be sworn, or give evidence, or if a person in court, who is required to give evidence, refuses to be sworn and give evidence, he is liable to forfeit and pay such fine, not exceeding 10*l.*, as the judge may direct. The whole or part of this fine, in the discretion of the judge, after deducting the costs, is applicable towards indemnifying the party injured by the refusal or neglect of the witness; the remainder is to be accounted for by the registrar to the treasurer (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 111; Order LII. r. 7; Form 126).

Expenses.]—Judges differ as to the meaning of "expenses"; some hold "expenses" to include an allowance according to scale for loss of time, others that "expenses" simply means travelling expenses, and that allowance for loss of time must be claimed in court before being sworn. The latter seems the better course, as a litigant could not reasonably be expected to determine what the allowance should be.

A fine on a witness for non-attendance may be remitted on cause shown. The practice is, under Order LII. r. 6, the same as in the case of a juror (Order LII. r. 7A). A judgment summons is to be deemed a summons to a witness for the purposes of the section (s. 111) of the Act (Order XXV. r. 31 (3)), but where a fine is inflicted on a judgment debtor for refusing or neglecting without reasonable cause to appear at the hearing of a judgment summons, the judge has no jurisdiction to apply the fine in reduction of the judgment debt, but only thereout to recoup the judgment creditor for any expense occasioned to him by the non-attendance (Rex v. Snagge, (1909) 1 K. B. 644; 78 L. J. K. B. 562). The payment of the fine may be enforced on the order of the judge as a summary judgment, or as money adjudged to be paid under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 167; see post, pp. 866—868: Forms, Warrant of Execution against Goods, 127; Commitment in Default of Distress, 128: Commitment in Lieu of Distress, 129).

O. XVIII. r. 1. Notes.

Power to order particular facts to be proved by affidavit, or witnesses to be examined before examiner.

2. The judge may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the trial or hearing, on such conditions as he may think reasonable, or that any witness whose attendance in court ought for some sufficient cause to be dispensed with be examined by interrogatories or otherwise before an examiner; provided that, where it appears to the judge that the other party bonâ fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, and that such witness can be produced, an order shall not be made authorising the evidence of such witness to be given by affidavit. (R. S. C., Order XXXVII. r. 1.)

Where a party desires to use at the trial an affidavit by any particular witness, or an affidavit as to particular facts, as to which no order has been made by the judge under Order XVIII. r. 2, he may, not less than four clear days (in actions under the extended jurisdiction eight clear days) before the trial, give notice, with a copy of the affidavit annexed, to the party against whom it is to be used; and unless he within two clear days (in actions under the extended jurisdiction four clear days) at least before the trial gives notice that he objects, he will be taken to have consented to its use, unless the judge otherwise orders; and the judge may make such order as to costs incident to the objection as he thinks fit (Order XVIII. r. 11; Order XXIIA. r. 18). Affidavits and depositions are read as the evidence of the person by whom they are used (Order XVIII. r. 17).

When the affidavit is in answer to interrogatories, one or more of the answers, or any part of an answer, may be used without the remainder; but the judge may look at the whole and may direct other answers to be put in, if of opinion that they are so connected with them that they ought not to be used without them (Order XVIII. r. 16).

Affidavits may be sworn before any judge or registrar, or any registrar's clerk nominated by the judge, without fee, or before a commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court or the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster (not being a registrar), or before a magistrate (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 83; 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, ss. 76, 82; 53 & 54 Vict. c. 7, s. 1).

Summonses to witnesses and service.

3.—(1) Summonses to witnesses, to be served either in the home or in any foreign district, may be issued without leave, and may also, by leave of the court, be issued in blank.

(2) Summonses to witnesses may be served—

(a) by a bailiff of a court;

or, when so requested on the issue of the summonses,

(b) by the party applying for the same, or some person in his permanent and exclusive employ; or

(c) by the solicitor of the party applying for the same, or a solicitor acting as agent for such solicitor, or some person in the employ of either of them, or some person employed by either of them to serve the summonses who might be so employed to serve a summons in an action in the High Court. O. XVIII. r. 3.

(3) In any case only one name shall be inserted in any such summons.

(4) Summonses to witnesses shall be according to the forms in the Appendix, and, where served by a bailiff, shall be indorsed according to the form in the Appendix. Forms 123, 124, 124A.

(5) Affidavits of service of summonses served otherwise than by a bailiff shall be according to the form in the Appendix. Form 125.

3A. A party to an action or his solicitor may, instead of attending at the office of the court, transmit, by prepaid post, to the registrar— Issue of summonses by letter.

(a) The plaint note or summons issued in the action, or a duplicate thereof:

(b) A request for the issue of summonses to witnesses, with, where the summonses are to be served by a bailiff, the names and addresses of the witnesses to be served, or if the summonses are to be served otherwise than by a bailiff, a request for leave to serve the same in accordance with the last preceding rule:

(c) A money order for the fees payable upon the issue of summonses to witnesses, and, where the summonses are to be served by a bailiff, the amount which the party requesting the issue of the summonses desires to be paid or tendered to each of the witnesses for his expenses, payable to the registrar at the post office of the town or place at which the court is held:

(d) An envelope addressed to himself, with a penny postage stamp thereon;

And upon receipt of the above the registrar shall issue the summonses, and shall forward in the addressed envelope—

(i.) If the summonses are to be served by a bailiff, the plaint note or summons or duplicate, with a note thereon that the summonses have been issued; or

(ii.) If the summonses are to be served otherwise than by a bailiff, the plaint note or summons or duplicate, and the summonses to witnesses for service.

4. It shall be sufficient if a summons to a witness is served within a reasonable time; and such summons may be served by delivering the same to the witness personally, or to some person apparently not less than sixteen years old at the house or place of dwelling or place of business of the witness, or in the cases mentioned in Rules 18, 19, 21, and 22 of Order VII. in the manner prescribed by those rules for the service of an ordinary summons. Time and mode of service.

O. XVIII. r. 4. Provided that for the purposes of this rule a place of business shall not be deemed to be the place of business of a witness unless he is the master or one of the masters thereof.

When witness does not produce documents, order for production may be made.

5. Where a witness served with a summons containing a direction for the production of any documents at the trial does not produce the same, the judge may, upon admission or proof that the summons was served within a reasonable time, and that such documents are in the possession or power or under the control of the party so served, and that they relate to the matter then pending before him, make an order for their production by the witness, and may deal with them, when produced, and with all costs occasioned by their non-production, as may be just: Provided that nothing herein shall prevent the receiving of secondary evidence where admissible.

Admission of documents.

6. Where a party desires to give in evidence any document, he may, not less than five clear days before the trial, give notice to any other party in the action or matter who is competent to make admissions requiring him to inspect and admit such document; and if such other party does not within three days after receiving such notice make such admission, any expense of proving the same at the trial shall be paid by him, whatever may be the result, unless the court otherwise orders; and no costs of proving any document shall be allowed unless such notice has been given, except in cases where, in the opinion of the judge at the trial, or of the registrar on taxation, the omission to give such notice has been a saving of expense.

Form 111.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction "ten clear days" and "five days" are substituted for "five clear days" and "three days" respectively (Order XXIIA. r. 17).

An affidavit by the party, his solicitor, or of some person in the permanent and exclusive employ of either of them, of service of the notice, and of the time when it was served, with a copy of the notice, will in all cases be sufficient evidence of service, and of the time of service (Order XVIII. r. 7).

If a notice to admit comprises documents which are not necessary, the costs occasioned thereby must be borne by the party giving the notice (Order XVIII. r. 8).

Notice to admit or produce. Forms 111, 112.

7. Notices to admit or to produce documents shall be according to the forms in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require.

An affidavit of the party, or his solicitor, or of some person in the permanent and exclusive employ of either of them, of the service of any notice to admit or to produce, and of the time when it was served, with a copy of the notice to admit or to produce, shall in all cases be sufficient evidence of the service of the notice, and of the time when it was served.

O. XVIII. r. 8.

Costs of notice to admit or produce.

8. If a notice to admit or produce comprises documents which are not necessary, the costs occasioned thereby shall be borne by the party giving such notice.

Documents produced from proper custody to be read without proof unless objected to.

9. Where any documents which would, if duly proved, be admissible in evidence are produced to the court from proper custody, they shall be read without further proof, if, in the opinion of the court, they appear genuine, and if no objection is taken thereto; and if the admission of any documents so produced is objected to, the court may adjourn the hearing for the proof of the documents, and the party objecting shall pay the costs caused by such objection, in case the documents shall afterwards be proved, unless the court otherwise orders.

An unstamped or insufficiently stamped instrument to be given in evidence only where receipt of registrar for unpaid duty and penalty is produced.

10. Where an instrument which may be legally stamped after its execution is produced as evidence, and the same is unstamped or insufficiently stamped, it shall not be received in evidence until the party desirous of giving the instrument in evidence produces to the court the receipt of the registrar for the amount of the unpaid duty, and the penalty payable by law on stamping the same, and the sum of one pound.

It should be noted that this rule only applies where the document is one which may be legally stamped after execution.

No appeal lies from the ruling of a county court judge holding that the stamp on a document is sufficient (Mander v. Ridgway, (1898) 1 Q. B. 501; 67 L. J. Q. B. 335); nor from the admission of an unstamped document without exacting a penalty (Lowe v. Dorling, (1905) 2 K. B. 501; 74 L. J. K. B. 794; (C. A.), (1906) 2 K. B. 772; 75 L. J. K. B. 1019).

Where it is desired to use an affidavit, notice may be given. Costs of objection.

11. Where a party desires to use at the trial an affidavit by any particular witness, or an affidavit as to particular facts as to which no order has been made under Rule 2 of this Order, he may, not less than four clear days before the trial, give a notice, with a copy of such affidavit annexed, to the party against whom such affidavit is to be used; and unless such last-mentioned party shall two clear days at least before the trial give notice to the other party that he objects to the use of such affidavit, he shall be taken to have consented to the use thereof, unless the judge otherwise orders; and the judge may make such order as he may think fit as to the costs of or incidental to any such objection.

In actions under the extended jurisdiction, "eight clear days" and "four clear days" are substituted for "four clear days" and "two clear days" respectively (Order XXIIA. r. 18).

Use of evidence taken at trial in subsequent proceedings.

12. All evidence taken at the trial of any action or matter may be used in any subsequent proceedings in the same action or matter.

Prior to the rules of 1904, the operation of this rule was confined to documentary evidence only.

O. XVIII. r. 13.

Evidence taken after trial.

13. Evidence taken subsequently to the trial or hearing of any action or matter shall be taken as nearly as may be in the same manner as evidence taken at or with a view to a trial or hearing. (R. S. C., Order XXXVII. r. 21.)

Practice as to taking evidence at any stage of action or matter.

14. The practice with reference to the examination, cross-examination, and re-examination of witnesses at a trial shall extend and be applicable to evidence taken in any action or matter at any stage. (R. S. C., Order XXXVII. r. 22.)

Special directions as to taking evidence after trial.

15. The practice of the court with respect to evidence at a trial, when applied to evidence to be taken before an officer of the court or other person in any action or matter after the trial or hearing, shall be subject to any special directions which may be given in any case. (R. S. C., Order XXXVII. r. 23.)

Use of answer to interrogatories at trial.

16. Any party may, at the trial of an action or matter, use in evidence any one or more of the answers, or any part of an answer, of the opposite party to interrogatories, without putting in the others, or the whole of such answer: Provided that in such case the judge may look at the whole of the answers, and if he is of opinion that any others of them are so connected with those put in that the last mentioned answers ought not to be used without them, he may direct them to be put in. (R. S. C., Order XXXI. r. 24.)

Affidavits, evidence of person using them.

17. Affidavits and depositions shall be read as the evidence of the person by whom they are used.

Examinations.

Examination of witnesses before trial.

Form 132.

18. The court may, in any action or matter where it appears necessary for the purposes of justice, make an order for the examination upon oath before the court or any officer of the court, or any other person and at any place in England or Wales, of any witness or person, and may empower any party to any such action or matter to give such deposition in evidence therein on such terms, if any, as the court may direct.

Oral Examinations.]—Judges of county courts have power in certain cases to order the examination of witnesses out of court, and that their depositions may be given in evidence instead of their attending the trial. Under the 36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 89, they appear to have the same power in this respect as a judge of the High Court, and the rules substantially adopt the High Court procedure.

The grounds upon which these examinations can be ordered appear to be —that a witness is upwards of seventy years old, or is dangerously ill, or about to go abroad, or is the only person who can prove a fact of great importance (see Warner v. Mosses (C. A.), (1881) 16 Ch. D. 100; 50 L. J. Ch. 28; Story, Equity Jurisprudence, sects. 1513, 1514). But the fact of being over seventy, although sufficient to raise a primâ facie case, is not conclusive; and where a number of witnesses to the same fact were just over seventy, the order was refused (Bidder v. Bridges (C. A.), (1885) 29 Ch. D. 29; 53 L. J. Ch. 479; Annual Practice, R. S. C., Order XXXVII. r. 5, and notes thereon). O. XVIII. r. 18. Notes.

Except where otherwise directed by the judge, no deposition may be given in evidence at the trial without the consent of the opposite party, unless the judge is satisfied that the deponent is dead, or out of England and Wales, or unable from sickness or other infirmity to attend (Order XVIII. r. 31).

19. Where any witness or person mentioned in the last preceding rule resides out of the district of the court, the judge may appoint the registrar of the court in the district of which such witness or person resides to take the examination. When registrar of foreign court may be appointed examiner.

It is extremely doubtful whether a judge could compel an examination to be made before any judge but himself, or any officer (except the registrar) of any other court than his own.

20. The court may in any action or matter, at any stage of the proceedings, order the attendance of any person for the purpose of being examined or of producing to or before any examiner any writings or other documents which the court may think fit to be produced, and any person served with any such order shall be bound to attend accordingly: Provided that no person shall be compelled to produce under any such order any writing or other document which he could not be compelled to produce at the trial. Any such order may be served in accordance with the provisions of section one hundred and eleven of the Act, and Rules 3 and 4 of this Order, with respect to the service of summonses to witnesses. Order for attendance of persons to be examined or produce documents. Form 132. Service of order.

21. Any person wilfully disobeying any order requiring his attendance for the purpose of being examined or producing any document to or before an examiner shall be deemed guilty of contempt of court, and may be dealt with accordingly. Disobedience to order for such attendance.

It seems doubtful whether the remedy is by fine or attachment.

22. Any person required to attend before an examiner for the purpose of being examined or of producing any document shall be entitled to the like conduct money and payment for expenses and loss of time as upon attendance at a trial in court. Expenses of persons attending before examiner.

23. Where any witness or person is ordered to be examined before any officer of a county court, or before any person appointed for the purpose, the person taking the examination shall be furnished by the party on whose application the order was made with a copy of the summons and particulars and of the defence (if any), and with a copy of the documents necessary to inform the person taking the examination of the questions at issue between the parties. Examiner to be furnished with certain documents.

The examiner has power to administer oaths, whether he be an officer of the court or not (Order XVIII. r. 32).

O. XVIII. r. 24.

Who entitled to be present on examination.

24. The examination shall take place in the presence of the parties, or their counsel or solicitors, or the agents of such solicitors, and the witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination and re-examination.

Depositions, how taken.

25. The depositions taken before an officer of a county court, or before any other person appointed to take the examination, shall be taken down in writing by or in the presence of the examiner not ordinarily by question and answer, but so as to represent as nearly as may be the statements of the witness, and when completed shall be read over to the witness and signed by him in the presence of the parties, or such of them as may think fit to attend. If the witness shall refuse to sign the depositions, the examiner shall sign the same. The examiner may put down any particular question or answer if there appears to be any special reason for doing so, and may put any question to the witness as to the meaning of any answer, or as to any matter arising in the course of the examination. Any questions which are objected to shall be taken down by the examiner in the depositions, and he shall state his opinion thereon to the counsel, solicitors, or parties, and shall refer to such statement in the depositions, but he shall not have power to decide upon the materiality or relevancy of any question.

Failure to comply with summons, or refusal to be sworn or answer.

26. If any person duly summoned to attend for examination or to produce any document refuses to attend, or, if having attended, he refuses to be sworn or to answer any lawful question or to produce any document, a certificate of such refusal, signed by the examiner, shall be filed with the registrar, and thereupon the party requiring the attendance of the witness may apply to the judge for an order directing the witness to attend, or to be sworn, or to answer any question, or to produce such document, as the case may be.

Objection to answer.

27. If any witness objects to any question which may be put to him before an examiner, the question so put, and the objection of the witness thereto, shall be taken down by the examiner, and transmitted by him to the registrar to be filed, and the validity of the objection shall be decided by the judge.

Witness may be ordered to pay costs.

28. In any case under the two last preceding rules, the judge may order the witness to pay any costs occasioned by his refusal or objection.

Filing of depositions.

29. When the examination of any witness before any examiner has been concluded, the original depositions, authenticated by the signature of the examiner, shall be transmitted by him to the registrar to be filed.

30. The person taking the examination of a witness under these rules may, and if need be shall, make a special report to the court touching such examination and the conduct or absence of any witness or other person thereon; and the judge may direct such proceedings and make such order as upon the report he may think just. O. XVIII. r. 30. Special report by examiner.
